Faculty Has 24 New Members At Start of New Quarter

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

Two weeks of the new college term have given life on campus time to become orderly and recognizable — students and faculty members are beginning to feel at home with the concentrated "term" schedules and credit hours; the year's social activities are in full swing; and the sports program is off to an encouraging start.

● In this first issue of CENT we realfirm our policy (see Editorial, page 2) publishing an objective, American, and collegiate newspaper. Following the two most important functions of any newspaper, we expect to (1) present all the news relatie to students and the college, accurately, briefly, and clearly and to (2) urge those improvements and changes which we believe vital to the welfare and progress of the college.

Miss Starry

● Among the 23 new courses in the college curricula this fall are two very important additions which round out the religious life division — The Theory and Practice of Judaism and Study in Scholastic Philosophy (background from the Catholic Church). (See col. 4). The former is taught by Rabbi Milton Greenwald of the Washington Avenue Temple and the latter by the Rev. Charles Schoettelkotte from the local chapter of Catholic Charities, Inc.

● Driers, pedistrans, and diners all received a pleasant shock when they discovered the completion of the front driveway, new sidewalks in front of the Administration Building, and face-lifting in the Cafeteria (see page 4).

● Drama is off to an early start with the announcement of the cast of the first Thespian production, "Three Men on a Horse," (see col 3). New impetus is promised in E. C. dramatics under the direction of former Hollywood teacher, Mrs. Mildred Taylor.

● Social actiities formally opened with the informal all-campus dance last night. T-Dances and Club TUB schedules are expected to be announced soon and coming up in a hurry is Homecoming Weekend, Oct. 23.

Everything considered this promises to be a fast moving term, with reports, tests, and dances crowding each other off the calendar. Pick up your hooks and let's go!

Student-Faculty Federation Committees For 1948-49 Named by Hale, Barnett

Members of the student-faculty federation committees have been appointed for this school year, Jim Barnett, Student Government Association president, and President Lincoln B. Hale announced.

In releasing this list to THE CRESCENT, Mr. Barnett explained that these committees will meet every other Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The administrative board, made up of the three student officers and three deans, will meet with the president of the college each Tuesday afternoon to discuss general administrative and disciplinary matters in the life and work of the college.

Those appointed to committes are:

Assembly committee: John Schneider, chairman, Ninabelle Hurt, Ramsey Bristow, Ralph Yates, Lois Huck, and Earl Harp, students; Harold See, Cyrus Gunn, and Miss Mary C. Wolfe, faculty.

Athletics committee: Bill Russler, chairman, Paul Schmidt, Angelo Howard, Owen Hamilton, Louise Kiely, and Joanne Engelhert, students; Ralph Coleman, Miss Ida Stieler, and Paul Beck, faculty.

Fine Arts committee: students to be named later; Mrs. Mildred Taylor, F. Woody Werking, and Miss Florence Keve, faculty.

Public Occasions committee: Pat Kaiser, chairman, Betty Marshall, Paul Carnes, Joan Henn, Ed Whitehead, and Gene Christian, students; Alvin Strickler, Guy Marchant, and Miss Gertrude Leich, faculty.

Public Speech committee: Bob Hahn, chairman, Jack Humphrey, John Schrodt, Jack Berning, Mary Lou Muth, and Mary Lou Plane, students; Arthur C. Spence, Miss Pearle LeCompte, and Lawrence Anderson, faculty.

Publications committee: Mike Parkinson, chairman, John Schofield, Harold Buck, John Heldt, George Campbell, and Norman Kniese, students; Ralph Olmsted, Wade David, and John Royd, faculty.

Religious Life committee: Martha Eskridge, chairman, Ann Wilson, Charles Ballard, Jack Pasternack, Nathan Lieberman, and Tommy Walker, students; Elton Barnum, Harris Erickson, and Miss Wahnita DeLong, faculty.

Social Life committee: Sam Humphrey, chairman, Helen Nunn, Jim Love, Beverly Gerard, Jim Cooper, and Rob Hevron, students; James Morlock, Miss Esther Brown, and Miss Doris Kirk, faculty.

Welfare committee: Gene Cebula, chairman, Shirley Olson, Earl Buechler, Jim Forbes, Tony Capritta, and Hobart Lutz, students; Donald Dunham, Arad McCutchan, and Miss Agnes Bahlert, faculty.

New Handbook Has Information, Art

Newest publication to hit the campus is "The New Student Handbook," compiled and published this summer by a student-faculty committee.

The new book serves as a guide to new and old students on the campus, giving pointers and advice on every phase of college life. Bob Carithers, Emily Combs, and Jon Gundling were the students on the committee, while John Boyd, Oliver Graebner and Doris Kirk were the faculty members. Bob Reaven did the artwork for the publication.

In addition to general campus information, the book contains pictures of the president and dean of the college. There are also photographs of the business manager, of the assistant to the president, and of the registrar.

The student handbook is to be an annual publication of the college and will be compiled by a committee of students and faculty members.

College Offers Eighteen New Day Courses

Twenty-three new courses have been added to the college curricula this fall, according to Dr. Edgar M. McKown, dean of the college.

Life Insurance is one of the four new courses in the economics and business department. This subject has been given before in the evening college, but this is the first time for several years that it has been offered during regular class hours. The study includes the general development of the life insurance business along with the kinds of life insurance companies, their organization, types, and insurance contracts.

The history department is extending its field to include a history of England, the South in American history, and the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations.

Four new two hundred courses are being given in the physics department. The courses are industrial electronics, advanced alternating current circuits, and alternating current circuits and electronics.

Education 268 is a study in the sources and methods of obtaining information about pupils and the techniques of helping students to make better choices in personal, educational and vocational adjustments. Another new course is called practicum which is a study of the educational program in the classroom.

World geography is a new geology course which gives a synoptic view of the climatic, physiographic, ethic and political divisions of the arth. Introductory economic geology is also being offered for the first time.

In the English department, special publications is for the students who comprise the staff which publishes "The LinC." Technical composition is a three-hour study which includes special training in the writing of technical reports.

The department of philosophy and religion has added two new courses — the theory and practice of Judaism and a Study in Scholastic Philosophy.

Other new courses in the various departments include poster design, plant ecology, physical chemistry, and special problems in home economics.

EnrollmentRemains High Despite Loss Of 184 Veterans

At the close of registration a total of 1493 students had enrolled in Evansville College for the fall quarter, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar and director of admissions.

In addition to this, 112 special nurses are enrolled from the Deaconess, St. Mary's, and Welborn Baptist Hospitals, swelling the number of students to 1605.

There are 315 freshmen attending Evansville College for the first time this quarter. Aptitude tests were given throughout the summer to these prospective students. September 14 was set aside as a date for aptitude tests but most of the freshmen had already taken the tests by that time.

Seventy-six students transferred to Evansville College from other colleges. This is the largest number of transfers in the history of the college.

The enrollment of 1493 students for the 1948 fall quarter is a decrease from the 1640 students enrolled for the 1947 fall semester. There were 82 nurses enrolled last year as compared to this year's 112.

By Friday, Sept. 24, 785 veterans were enrolled at Evansville College. Veterans with a disability attending college under Public Law 16 totaled 60 with the remaining 725 under Public Law 346. There were 969 veterans enrolled for the 1947 fall semester.

Taylor Announces First Play Cast

Members of the cast for the first Thespian production of the year has been announced by Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech and director of the show.

"Three Men on a Horse" is the title of the play to be presented on Monday and Tuesday nights, Nov. 15 and 16, in the college auditorimm.

The cast includes: Audrey Trowbridge, Sally Henn; the tailor, Ben Bockstege Jr.; Erwin Trowbridge, Bill Taylor; Clarence, Louis Ray; delivery boy, George Sabel; Harry, Jim Schmidt; Charlie, Jim Kaiser; Frankie, Roy Lane; Patsy, Chuck Palmisano; Mabel, Jo Ann Lex; Jim, Henry Swift; Gloria, Emmalouise Seegmueller; Al, Herman Litschgi; maid, Helen Delker; Mr. Carver, Frank Chandler.

Stage manager for the production will be Ren Bockstege Jr. Names of other crew heads and crew members will be announced later.

Late News Breaks

"Yell's-a-poppin' " is the title given the pep assembly program to be presented at 11 a.m. today in the auditorium. The Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity is in charge of arrangements. A dance band composed of Philos will play for the program which is to follow a carnival theme.

A get-together for students who made the New England and Canada bus trip this summer will be held tomorrow evening at 7 p.m. in the TUB. Pictures made on the trip will be shown.

The Theta Sigma sorority, in observance of their silver anniversary, will publish a booklet on organization activities. It will be released on the evening of December 7, the date the event is to be formally celebrated.

Chemical Club Schedules Meeting for Thursday

The Chemical Club will meet Thursday, 7:30 p.m. in E 233. Purpose and functions of the American Chemical Society will be discussed by the club sponsors. The club is open to juniors and seniors majoring in chemistry.

Dr. John Kronsbein Succeeds Needy as Engineering Head

Balyeat To Be Director of Coordination In Program of Industrial Technology

Evansville College started the fall quarter with twenty-four new faculty and staff members. Some of the new members replace instructors and professors who have left the college, others have been added to previously understaffed departments, and a number have taken over newly appointed positions.

Dr. John Kronsbein has succeeded John Needy as head of the department of engineering. He will teach courses in engineering and direct the bachelor of science in industrial technology program in machine design and refrigeration. Dr. Kronsbein has two doctor's degrees from universities in Europe, and has had several years experience in industry.

In connection with the co-op plan activated this year, Ralph Balyeat, a former engineer who has helped establish and direct two school-industry co-op plans in Florida, has been appointed director of coordination, and will act as the contact between the college and industry. Mr. Balyeat will teach courses relative to the co-op plan, and act as counseler to the students enrolled in this program.

Three Music Teachers Added

In the music department Miss Pearl Crabowsky has joined the faculty as an assistant professor of music, and Nicholas Cannici as an instructor in clarinet. Miss Mae Ruth Pietila is a new instructor in celle, piano, and music theory. Miss Crabowsky has bachelor and master degrees in music and education. Mr. Cannici has a bachelor of music education and master of music degree from Indiana University, and Miss Pietila received her bachelor of music degree from Northwestern University.

Eltnn Barnum is the newly appointed director of religious life and will teach courses in religion and philosophy. Mr. Barnum has been a professor of history and philosophy at Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky., and was a minister at Freedom Plains, N. Y. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Alleghany college, a bachelor of sacred theology degree from the Union Theological Seminary, N. Y., and master of arts from New York University.

Rabbi Milton Greenwald and The Reverend Charles Schnettelknte are part-time instructors in philosophy, and will teach Judaism and Scholastis Philosophy, respectively.

Harry M. Landis is a new professor of accounting, and Arthur J. Wardelman is an instructor in accounting. Mr. Landis has been in the accounting department of Wayne University in Detroit, and holds bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees in business administration from Wayne University. Mr. Wardelman received his bachelor of science degree in business administration here at Evansville College and completed his credit hours on a master's degree at Indiana University. He was an assistant in accounting at the college in 1943 and 1947. More recently he has been a checking clerk at George S. Olive & Co., local accounting firm, following a three year period in the army.

Three in English

Claude H. Slusher is an assistant professor of marketing who comes to Evansville college from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute where he taught while completing his work for a master's degree. Mr. Slusher also earned his bachelor of science degree at V. P. I.

Edward E. Potter is an associate professor of English, and Richard E. Fuson is an assistant professor of English. Mr. Potter has been instructor in English at the University of Toledo and Notre Dame, and Mr. Fuson has taught at Oregon State, Indiana University, and Tulsa University. Mr. Potter and Mr. Fuson are filling the vacancies left by Samuel P. Chew and Edwin M. Moseley.

Mrs. Mildred Kareh Taylor, new assistant professor of speech and drama, is taking the place of Verne Ahlberg and was formerly an instructor at Reitz High School of Evansville. Mrs. Taylor at one time operated a voice studio in Hollywood.

Miss Florence Keve, assistant professor of art and head of the art department, replaces Miss Emily Wilson. Miss Keve has painted in Europe and Mexico and has had several one-man shows of her work. She has had

Where's Halvin

Pro Tem President Temporarily Lost

With Bud Spence, temporary freshmen class sponsor, tearing madly at his little remaining hair, and Mrs. Anne Yenne, assistant public relations manager, running around in circles hunting for a name that was on none of the registrar's lists, and getting nowhere, the big question was, "Has anybody here seen Halvin?"

Halvin — the name no one knew. He was temporary president of the freshman class, but where was he?

Mr. Spence had seen him. Everyone who participated in the freshman election Sept. 16 had seen him. He had been nominated, his name had been added to the list of candidates — H-A-L-V-I-N — and he had been elected temporary president, but who and where was he?

No one know, until an astute CRESCENT reporter shrewdly stumbled upon the fact that Mr. Spence had made a typographical error which no one noticed. So, thanks to THE CRESCENT, Mr. Spence still has his little bit of hair, Mrs. Yenne has stopped circling and is recovering gradually from her dizziness, the girls in the registrar's office once more have a little peace, and the freshman class has a temprnary president.

Everette Walker Named Head Of New Personnel Services

Student personnel services this year are under the direction of a new officer. Assistant Dean Everette Walker was appointed this summer by President Lincoln B. Hale to fill the new position of student personnel manager.

The formation of this service is the direct result of the findings of a student-faculty committee which spent several months studying student personnel problems in a number of other colleges and universities.

Because of high enrollment and because of educators' feeling that human relationship is part of college as well as classroom study, it is felt that student activities need centralization out of the classrooms. Mr. Walker's job, centered around this theme, will deal with personal problems of orientation and welfare of students.

The purpose of the service, according to Mr. Walker, deals basically with student life on campus, other than strictly instructional. It will consider and deal with the student as a whole — his intellectual abilities and achievements, his emotional constitution, his physical condition, his social experiences, his vocational capacities and abilities, his religious orientation, his financial resources, and his aesthetic development. The office will also handle matters of absence, assembly attendance, student organizations and class activities.

A council of staff members whose work will be coordinated with that of the personnel service will aid Mr. Walker in carrying out his funtion. The dean of men, James E. Morlock, and dean of women, Miss Esther Brown, the student body president, Jim Barnett, the scholarship and loan committee chairman, and the directors of the department of admission, testing and counseling, social activities, placement bureau, health service, and the student religious life will comprise the staff.

Mr. Walker was graduated from Knox College in 1943 with a B.A. in psychology and sociology, and received his master's degree in religious education from the Chicago Theological Seminary, University of Chicago, in 1945. He has done a year's work toward a Ph.D in the School of Education while studying guidance and personnel work at the University of Chicago.

Work-Study Co-op Plan Begins In Local Plants

Work in Evansville industries has started for the first seven students to take advantage of Evansville College's cooperative plan in industrial technology.

Ralph E. Balyeat, coordinator of co-op training at the college, expects the number to be swelled to around forty in the work-study program before the year is completed.

Cooperative education has been generally accepted as an effective way of combining practical experience with theoretical training in college, since it was adopted at the University of Cincinnati more than 40 years ago.

While the co-op students are working in the plants, they will be paid for their work at the same rate of pay received by other workers in the same kinds of jobs. They must obey all company laws, and they are subject to all existing labor conditions, including those pertaining to accident liability.

The seven students now engaged in the co-op plan include: Lester Folz, Gilbert Spahn, George Sisk, John J. Schaus, Harry Roth, Werner Purtzer, and Raymond Kopychi. They, like any other employees, can be dismissed by the company for incompetence.

New Courses, New Instructors At Evansville Evening College

Evansville Evening College enrollment set a new record this week with a total of 700 students registered, according to Harold See, Evening College director.

In addition to this total, there are approximately 40 students enrolled in the Evening College extension program in Henderson, Boonville, and Mt. Vernon. Mr. See reported that he expects additional enrollments in both the regular and extension courses.

Three New Courses

Three courses and ten new instructors have been added to the Evening College program. Among the courses offered for the first time is Economics 111aE. This course deals in problems of production, marketing, the price system, wealth, wages and profits, business cycles, labor and transportation. It is taught twice weekly by William Affolder, assistant professor of economics.

Another new course is General Photography 111aE offered on Wednesday nights by Don Hendershot. Here a practical instruction in the fundamental principles of taking developing, and printing pictures is given.

Refrigeration is the third new course at the evening school. Walter Kuenzli conducts class studies with recent developments and trends of modern day refrigeration.

Extension Classes Offered

The Evening College extension program operates in Henderson, Mt. Vernon, and Boonville. In Henderson Miss Lucille Jones, head of the department of education, is teaching the language arts. Several other courses are to be added later.

In Boonville Dr. Robert Ruell, associate professor of education, is teaching history and a course in the philosophy of education. Mt. Vernon students are offered the language arts by Lowell Hopkins of the Evansville public schools.

New Instructors Named

New Instructors in the Evening College are: Mrs. Dora Louise Hess, home economics; Miss Florence Keve, art; Harry Landis, accounting; Simon Krueger, biology; Miss Alice Zimmerman, art; Miss Agnes L. Tompkins, secretarial science; Travis Phillips, chemistry; Arad McCutchan, officiating; Al Monteaux, psychology; Harold Bottrell, sociology. Mr. Krueger and Miss Zimmerman taught at Reitz High School last year. The others are regular day college instructors.

We Reafirm Our Policy

THE EVANSVILLE CRESCENT, in consistency with the Constitution of the United States, the charter of Evansville College, the rules of good journalism and the dictates of society, reaffirms the following stand on matters of policy:

1. To provide its readers with a clear, accurate, unbiased account of all activities that might be of interest to the students of the college. To furnish to its editorial public a record of coming events, a review of past occasions, and an interpretation of the news.

2. To support the duly elected officers of the Student Government Association in all matters constructive to the better interests of the student body and Evansville College. To aid and advise them whenever the need is evident; to work with them toward common objectives.

3. To promote the progress of Evansville College both physically and academically. To assist the administration in its drive for better educators and more facilities with which to work. To nurture the prestige of the college in the minds of the citizens of the community and the nation.

4. To fight racial, religious, and political discrimination wherever it may appear in the belief that it is morally and lawfully wrong. To devote all of its energy toward re-educating those persons and organizations who advocate, either actively or passively, discrimination.

5. To work for harmonious relationships between students, regardless of class, curriculum, or organization. To foster a better understanding between students and members of the faculty, for better educational opportunities, community service, and social responsibility.

By JIM BARNETT
S.G.A. President

"We wish to make the Evansville College student body one of the most active groups of students of any college or university in the country."

In making this statement I use the pronoun "we" and I wish it to include not only the other officers and myself but every student on the campus. This is our goal and as you can see it will be impossible for us to reach it unless we have your full cooperation. We intend to work hard and long in attempting to build school spirit, not only athletically but in every phase of campus life.

To Build School Spirit

We intend to give you as well a planned and as well rounded a social program as is possible. Steps have already been made toward the building of school spirit with the Pep Rally and Assembly. We plan many more, bigger and better! We hope to make this Homecoming Day the biggest in the history of Evansville College. We believe that the time has come to show Evansville that its College's student body is not a dormant group.

At the present time this building of school spirit is our main aim, but it is only one of many things we hope to accomplish during the coming year. We will strive at all times for more student recognition in all phases of college. We are going to attempt a revision of the selection of Campus Notables and Campus Leaders, as we believe there should be a more definite basis for their selection.

Interested in Sports

We are also putting into operation what we hope will be the best intramural athletic program ever carried on here at the college. I want to throw a bouquet Coach Arad McCutchan's way in regard to this program as he has given me more than adequate cooperation along this line.

As is the aim of most every student government, we want to improve the relationship between the faculty and the student body. We will be helped a great deal along this line by Mr. Gunn, who spent some time this summer in Student-Faculty Federation workshops.

Crescent To Tell

Our aims are many and varied and we have taken only the first step on a long journey but with a helping hand from the student body we hope to make this a banner year on the college campus. There are numerous projects which require considerable research and all the things that I promised you last spring will be given complete consideration.

You will be kept constantly informed of student government activities through THE CRESCENT and other means at our disposal. We would appreciate very much suggestions, gripes, or what have you, from any student on the campus, as that is the only way that we can possibly know what you want.

There's a traditional saying that a team that can't be beaten won't be beaten. We feel the same way about the Student Government Association and the student body. If everybody does just a little more than he is asked, then we won't be defeated in any project or activity we attempt.

Students Stumped When Confronted With Question

During the first week of a new term everyone is in a dither and slightly confused, including the inquiring reporter, so it is scarcely any wonder most students looked bewildered when asked, "What is it and where on the campus can one find an Embosograf?"

Ebner Gowen, senior — Might be in the home economics department.

Chuck Palmisano, senior — Sounds like a thing to measure Em's with.

Keren Warweg, senior — I haven't had Greek so I really couldn't help you.

Barbara McTaggart, junior — Is it a new course at the T-Hut?

Melvin McCosh, senior — Ask an undertaker, not me.

Ann Zimmerman, sophomore — Jos' a minute I will look it up in Webster's. (It isn't there, Miss Zimmerman.)

Paul Banner, senior, was almost right when he said, "It probably has something to do with embossing or graphing."

The inquiring reporter did not find many students who cared to make a guess as to what an Embosograf is. Books and studies took up their minds for the first week and they didn't seem to be interested in such a crazy sounding word.

Machine Makes Posters

A number of freshmen were questioned also, and they all seemed to know where it was. It appears that the freshmen were very well counseled during freshmen Orientation week and the usual so-called "dazed looked" of most freshmen seems to be gone this year.

The other students who seemed to know what it was must have been very observant when they were in the TUB as that is where the Embosograf resides. An Embosograf is a machine used to make posters. The college obtained one this past summer and it is located in the Poster Room on the left side of the snack bar.

Orders Taken in TUB

Now that every one knows what and where it is, anytime a poster is needed just ask for the services of the Embosograf. Orders may be placed in the secretary's office in the TUB three days before a poster is needed.

All posters must be paid for at the time of ordering. To avoid errors, orders must be placed, signed for, and paid for in person. There is no limit to the number of words desired on a poster. Samples of posters are on display in the TUB Poster Room.

He's Rusty---

Campus Wanderer Attends Assembly

While Dr. Shockley, head of the department of English, was mentioning the many aimless wanderers in the world at the upperclass assembly Tuesday, a big brown dog strolled up the steps of the stage and peered out at the audience with wandering eyes.

The students broke into a roar of embarrassed laughter as Dr. Shockley paused until Rusty left the stage.

For the benefit of the freshmen and new students who don't know Rusty, he is owned by Kenny Bryant, sophomore. Kenny got him as a pup three years ago from his next door neighbor when they thought him a vicious dog.

Rusty, an exceptional bird dog, has a very deep-seated love for his master.

This summer Kenny worked on a construction job at a dam, and Rusty went in work with him every day. When Kenny took a two-week vacation, Rusty kept going out to the dam and walking around by himself very sadly waiting for his master to return.

Don't be alarmed if you should see Rusty sitting at a table with Kenny and eating with him. The dog seems to understand everything that is said. He can mail letters, and even deliver meat from the store without eating any of it.

Students Given New Health Service

Faculty Members Travel and Study During Vacation

On June 1, 1948, the spring semester ended for the students and faculty of Evansville College. For most of the students the end of the semester coupled with summer meant a vacation was due. For most of the faculty the end of the spring semester meant only a lull before the storm of registration and the beginning of classes of the summer semester.

The explanation for this is that members of the faculty at Evansville College enjoy the privilege of a full summer vacation only once every third year. Since the summer semester ended August 14, most of the faculty had only four weeks before registration for the fall term began on Sept. 15.

Travel Through East

Several members of the faculty and their families traveled with a seminar in urban sociology on a trip through the eastern part of the United States immediately after the summer semester. This group started the trip Aug. 14 and returned Sept. 3. In this group was Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, and his wife, Katherine, assistant librarian; Harold W. See, director of the Evening College, and his wife, Helen; and Charlotte W. Stephens, instructor in English.

Other members of the faculty were enrolled in universities throughout the country acquiring advanced knowledge in their respective fields. William F. Altfelder, assistant professor of economics; Lawrence W. Anderson, associate professor of economics; Robert Artman, associate professor of physics; V. W. Maves, associate professor of psychology; Ida M. Stieler, associate professor of physical education; and James F. Sears, head of the department of physics, were in this group.

Attend Workshop

Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English, and Cyrus L. Gunn, assistant professor of history, represented Evansville College at the Workshop of North Central Association of Colleges at the University of Chicago.

Miss Gertrude Leich, assistant professor of Spanish, spent her vacation traveling through the southwestern part of the United States and visiting the republic of Guatemala. Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, visited her home in Bozeman, Mont.

On September 20 classes began for the fall quarter with vacations a part of the conversation, but books, speech problems,and term papers again became the important issue for the 1500 students and 108 faculty members.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

This week's column is a variety. Nuff said. No explanation. No apology. No nuthin! We, the authors, are under a one week contract and next week a regular columnist will assume this space.

Two weeks of school have passed and everyone has settled down to the regular grind of studying each night, every night, 'til midnight. With the new quarter system, brain production has been stepped up considerably and no longer do we find time for that campusology course in the TUB consisting of no-trump bridge hands and Camel smokes. (It sez here in fine print.)

Just How New Can The Look Get?

Some pleasant sights greeted us on our return to school. The new paint job and flooring in the T-Hut dresses us up muchos and new concrete walks are all over the place. The completion of the cement drive will abolish many bumps and save many a back axle. We say hallelujah!!!

Veterans' Subsistence Checks To Arrive After October 31

Veterans enrolled at Evansville College under the G.I. Bill of Rights can expect to receive their subsistence payments for both September and October during the first week in November, according to a recent release by the Regional Veterans Administration Office in Indianapolis.

The large majority of student-veterans will be paid for September and October in one check which should be received within a few days after October 31.

Payments Are Late

However, the VA pointed out that some veterans will be paid September and October subsistence by two checks: one to arrive early in October for September schooling and the second check to arrive early in November for October schooling.

Payments for most out-of-state veterans attending college in Indiana for the first time will be delayed. Veterans transferring from out of state necessitates a transfer of the veterans' records. The VA advised out-of-state students to notify the Regional Office, where their records have been kept in the past, of their new address. That office will then transfer their records to the Indianapolis Regional Office and subsistence payments will be made shortly thereafter.

Must Refund Tuition

In order that the VA knows of cases where checks failed to arrive on schedule, representatives of the VA will visit each college campus beginning about the middle of November for talks with those veterans whose checks failed to arrive.

Any veteran who drops out of school before the end of the period for which tuition has to be paid must refund the tuition that Veterans Administration must pay for the time he did not attend, or lose the training time covered by these payments.

Vet Is Responsible

Affected are all those veterans enrolling under he GI Bill in institutions that:

(1) Collect their tuition and other charges in advance, and

(2) Limit refunds of tuition charges that can be made to any student-veteran or non-veteran — discontinuing his work before the end of the term or semester.

VA's ruling holds the veteran legally responsible for tuition payments VA must make to these schools for the instruction periods the veterans do not attend.

New Health Center To Treat Campus Aches and Pains

Students who have headaches, colds, sore throats, cuts, bruises or abrasions will have a place to recover hereafter with the opening of the new Health Center.

The Health Center is located in the northeast corner of the Office Building, opposite the driveway and practice football field.

Dr. John H. Flinn, who is associated with Dr. Herman Baker in practice in Evansville, and Miss Louise Rumer, formerly on the staff at Deaconess Hospital, will be in charge of the Center.

Has Five Rooms

The center has five rooms — a waiting room, a doctor's office, an examining and treatment room, and two recovery rooms. Equipment used in these rooms came from the Evansville Shipyards.

Any student who does not feel well or who is injured around campus may go there and be treated. There are facilities for emergency accidents, illness, first aid, and consulting services.

Dr. Flinn will be in his office from 8 until 9 o'clock every morning, and although it is best to make an appointment to see him, it will not be absolutely necessary, according to Miss Rumer.

Enrolled in College

While located at the center, Miss Rumer is taking courses leading towards her B.S. degree in nursing. Her office hours will be from 8 until 5 o'clock on weekdays and from 8 until 12 o'clock on Saturdays, except those times when she will be in class. In case of emergency she can be called from class.

Miss Rumer graduated from Lincoln High School in Vincennes and from Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing. For the past year she was charge nurse on the medical and surgical floor at Deaconess.

Although the center is not classified as an infirmary, it is hoped that students, especially those from out of town whose family physician is not available, will take advantage of it, the nurse explained. There will be no charge to the student except in a case when medicine is prescribed, since this service is included in tuition.

Physical examinations for incoming freshmen, formerly connected with the department of health and physical education, will be transferred to the Health Center. Dr. Flinn is also consulting physician for college athletic teams.

With Medical Corps

Dr. Flinn received his B.S. degree from the University of Chicago and his M.D. from Northwestern University. He received a master of science degree in internal medicine from the University of Minnesota in cooperation with the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. For four years he was with the medical corps in the army.

The Medical Center is the result of a study made last year by the student-faculty welfare committee composed of Dr. D. W. Dunham, Arad McCutchan, Agnes Bahlert of the faculty; and Mike Parkinson, chairman, Charles Caniff, Earl Boechler, Arlene Starry, Marvin Hartig, and Arthur Walling.

Society Notes

Wedding bells and orange blossoms filled the thoughts of many students during the summer vacation. Joyce Van Winkle, Castalian, and Harold Lively, Phi Zeta, were married August 21, at the First Baptist Church. Mary Colleen Jewell, junior, was maid of honor. Bettye Brown, sorority sister of the bride, and Catherine Tieman, sophomore, provided the music.

Another August wedding was that of Mrs. Genevieve Hays Peck, of the department of music, to Dr. Harris Erickson, professor of philosophy.

Bill Gish, junior, and Esther Cox and Masou Working, sophomore, and Janie Walker have joined the ranks of Mr. and Mrs. Both weddings were recently announced.

September 4 was the date of the wedding of Lewis Oswald, Philo, and Mary Lou Rushe. Gene Klamer, senior, served as best man.

Jeanne Underwood, Castalian, has set October 16 as the date of her marriage to Ed Wiggers, Purdue graduate of '48. Evelyn Cameron, senior, Mrs. Bill Neal, and Jeannette Fidz, both former students, will be attendants.

Jack Schaeffer, sophomore, and Dorothy Jean Shanner will pledge their vows Sunday, Oct. 3 in the Central Methodist Church. Jack's brother, Jerry, will be best man and Jim Niehaus, senior, and cousin of the groom, will serve as an usher.

Diamonds are gracing the third finger, left hand of several campus belles. Bonnie Greubel, senior, has hers from Bill Stephens, senior. Carolyn Miller, junior, and Shirley Ray, senior, received rings from their respective steadies, Hank Dirsch and Harold Clark.

Pingmen Meet Favored Butler Squad Here Tomorrow

Evansville Athletes Participate In Summer Sports Activities

The Purple Aces wound up their spring baseball campaign, May 28, by trouncing the University of Louisville, 5-4. Andy Collins, big righthander with a lot of speed, went the route for the locals.

Several of the college athletes continued their sports activities during the summer. A few, holding full-time jobs, were unable to devote much time to the warm-weather games. Some, who play two or three sports at college, tried to take jobs that would enable them to keep in trim. Others attended summer school.

Collins Hurls for Legion

Andy Collins, veteran hurler with the Aces, pitched for the Boonville American Legion club. Collins, a junior, was center on the football team last season. Dick Conterman, punting specialist on the Purple and White grid squad, was recreational director at the State Hospital. Conterman, a junior, is also a letterman in golf.

Bob Gerhardt, who played second-base for the college nine, performed in the infield for the Boonville Legion team. Gerhardt, a twenty-three year old junior, is the newly-elected captain of the Purple gridders. Jack Crouch, a baseballer and gridder at college, also played with the Boonville Legion.

Kiefer Directs Playground

Joe Unfried, who roamed the outfield for the Aces, played with the Funkhouser Legion here. Richard "Richey" Bauer, another outfielder with the Aces last summer, likewise moved on to the Funkhouser team. Both Unfried, a sophomore, and Bauer, a junior, are members of the football squad. Unfried is a quarterback, and Bauer is a halfback.

Paul Kiefer, captain of last year's basketball team, worked at a playground at Ft. Branch, his home town. Webb Hahn, a 195-pound end on Coach Ping's football squad, worked at a playground in Columbia.

Officers Announce WAA Sport Heads

Sport heads for the coming year were named and future plans were discussed at a meeting of the Women's Athletic Association last Friday in the girl's gym.

Mary Jean Howton will head speedball; Ninabelle Hurt, archery; Joan Engelbert, volleyball; Louise Kiely, basketball; Wanda Dampier, badminton; Sue Dannetell, tennis; Ann Whitehead, bowling; Dorothy Kiefer, softball, and Joan Hallinan, swimming.

It was decided that there will be two meetings a week, Monday and Tuesday afternoons from 3:45 until 5:15 p.m.

Twenty-four Newcomers on Ace's Grid Squad; Thirteen Members Come From Local Schools

Coach Don Ping has twenty-four new members on his 1948 edition of Purple Aces. Thirteen of the newcomers formerly roamed the gridiron for local high schools.

R. C. Hunter, a twenty-one year old freshman, is an All-State fullback from Central of Evansville. He served two years in the Air Corps. Charles Lindauer, also from Central, is working out at an end position. This twenty-two year old freshman, an Army veteran, stands over six feet and crowds 200 pounds.

Martin Moves to End

Dick Martin hails from Bosse, where he was an All-State fullback in 1946. Martin, a sophomore, has been switched to an end spot by Coach Ping. Dick McKasson, another Bosse graduate, is a Navy veteran trying out for the quarterback slot. He is a freshman, standing five feet, seven inches and weighing 168 pounds.

Jerry David starred at Reitz High last season. He is eighteen years of age, weighes 183 pounds, and measures five feet, 11 inches. J. O. Jackson, a halfback from Reitz, has been shifted to center by Coach Ping. A 19 year old freshman, Jackson is five feet, 10 inches and weighs 193 pounds. Charles Ogg and Arthur Owen are two guard prospects from Reitz. Ogg, a freshman, was selected All-State in 1945. Owen, a sophomore, starred at Reitz in '45 and '46.

Gerald Schmitz is a seventeen-year old freshman from Reitz, where he worked as a reserve tackle for three years. Ed Wessel, a 210-pound tackle prospect from Reitz, earned All-State and All-City honors last year.

Illinois Men on Squad

Jim Seih, seventeen year old freshman from Memorial, was an All-State and All-City center last season. Joe Gossman and Bob Ossenberg, both from Memorial, are first-year hopefuls. Gossman is a 175-pound guard. Ossenberg is a 175-pound halfback.

Dick Callahan, freshman, is an All-Wabash Valley end from Casey, Ill. Pat Fitzgerald, also from Casey, earned All-Wabash Valley honors at center. Lee Ulrey performed as an end and tackle for the '42 and '43 Casey teams.

Jim Ensor and Lemois Wires are backfield candidates from Boonville, Ind. They both earned varsity letters at Boonville.

Aces Defeat Western With Last Half Drive

Hinkle's Team Fresh From Romp Over Central; Purple Linemen Outstanding Against Hill Toppers

By BILL WOODS

Coach Don Ping's Aces will attempt to stay on the victory trail tomorrow afternoon when they tangle with the powerful Bulldogs from Butler at 2 o'clock in Reitz Bowl.

The Pingmen surged back in the last half against Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers to gain a 12-6 victory in their opener last week at Reitz Bowl.

Both teams are riding the crest after opening their seasons with wins and will be out for blood tomorrow afternoon. Coach Tony Hinkle's Bulldogs rolled over a hapless Indiana Central squad last week to the tune of 68-7.

Evansville has never defeated the Bulldogs and in their last meeting came out on the short end of a 51-0 score. In past years the Bulldogs have made it a habit to roll over the Aces and pile up large scores in doing it.

Bulldogs Lose Three

Butler had a record last year of five wins, three losses and a tie. The three losses of the 1947 season came at the hands of Ohio University, Western Reserve, and the University of Cincinnati. The series with the Indianapolis team got underway with Butler winning 24-6. In the next meeting in 1935, Butler dropped the Aces by a 12-0 margin. The scores of the 1936 and '37 games were among those that Evansville fans try not to remember. The first game went to Butler by a 40-0 margin and the second to the tune of 51-0.

Sparkplug of the Butler team is Captain Francis Moriarty. During the past two seasons Moriarty has carried the ball 181 times for a total of 786 yards gained. This is an average of 4.3 yards every time he takes the leather into the line.

Probable Butler lineup will be: Farmer and Dohkins at ends, Kuntz and Murphy, tackles; McSemek and Kyvik, guards; and Hurrle at center. Sylvester will be at quarterback with Smock and Les Esarey at the halfback slots. Moriarty will play fullback for the Bulldogs.

Aces Come Back

After a rather slow start in the first half Evansville roared back last Saturday night to hand the Hilltoppers from Western Kentucky a 12-6 defeat in Reitz Bowl. It was the season opener for both teams.

Western drew first blood late in the first half, but Evansville came back after the intermission and, sparked by Gene Logel, soon drove over the tying points. The attempt for extra point was no good.

With time rapidly running out in the fourth quarter the Aces again drove down to tally and win the game. Western took to the air with a series of desperation passes, but they were unsuccessful. The only real threat in their last try was a long pass that was knocked down by Joe Unfried, deep in Evansville territory.

Aces' Schedule Includes Eight Tough Foes

Six home games highlight the Evansville College 1948 football schedule, which promises to be the toughest in the Purple and White gridiron history.

After the Western Kentucky game last Saturday night, the Aces meet Butler, tomorrow afternoon; Ottawa University, Oct. 16, Indiana State, Oct. 23; Chattanooga University, Oct. 30; Eastern Kentucky, Nov. 6; University of Louisville, Nov. 13; and Murray, Nov. 19. All but the Eastern Kentucky and Murray are home games.

Home Games on Saturday

All home games are on Saturdays, with Butler, Indiana State, and Louisville as afternoon opponents. The Indiana State game will be the main attraction of the Evansville Homecoming ceremonies.

On November 6, the Aces travel to Richmond, Ky., to meet Eastern Kentucky, and, on November 19, they close the season at Murray.

The Eastern Kentucky, Murray, Louisville, and Western games are all Ohio Valley Conference contests.

Of the eight foes on the schedule, Eastern Kentucky, Ottawa, and Chattanooga are newcomers. The other five teams have made previous appearances against the Aces with disasterous results to the Purple and White.

Louisville Holds Big Edge

Against Butler, in four games, the Aces have never emerged victorious. In fact, they have scored a total of six points. Louisville holds an 8-0 edge over the Purple and White.

Against Indiana State, Evansville has won two games, lost 11, and tied one. Only with Murray do the Aces hold an edge, winning two and losing only last year's contest to the Southerners.

BEAT BUTLER!

The war cry on the campus this week has been "Beat Butler"! Evansville College played it's first football game against Butler in 1933. EC was beaten by the Butler bulldogs in 1933, 1935, 1936, and 1937. Never before in the history of the school have we had such an opportunity to "Beat Butler" for we have a team and squad that is capable of doing just that. Once again, we'll be the underdogs to a powerful Butler team. But we've got the boys who can win if they just make up their minds that they won't be beaten! There is no sense waiting until we are in the favorite role for that time will probably never come! Now is the time! Let's do it, gang! BEAT BUTLER! BEAT 'EM, ACES, BEAT 'EM!

BE THERE!

What an awful lot of noise and enthusiasm 1600 students could make if they really got down to business. And don't think that enthusiasm isn't noticed by the team and reflected in their attitude on the playing field. Be there! And don't sit on your hands! Let the team know that the entire student body is behind them and pulling for them! There will be about four or five hundred Butler students in the Butler rooting section! Your actions Saturday afternoon will be discussed on the Butler campus next Monday — so act accordingly! BE THERE and do your share to help the Aces BEAT BUTLER!

Evansville College Gets Blue Ribbon For Letter Writing

Evansville College was awarded first place in the Direct Mail Advertising Association, Inc., contest for letter advertising, according to Harold Van Winkle, director of public relations for the college.

The award is given every year by the DMAA to the leading advertisers

in different fields of business and education. Last year no award was given to a college, however. The awards are presented to the advertisers who have the best continuity and overall excellence of material and for the way in which it was presented.

The winning Evansville entry included displays of the School of Science, the Evening College, the Industrial Technology course, the center for advance study, the business education course, the extensive music, art, and radio courses, and the placement bureau on the campus. Mr. Van Winkle was in Philadelphia Wednesday to receive the award in behalf of the college.

The award was based on the direct mail advertising of the college which Mr. Van Winkle directed. Direct mail advertising is never put on display, instead it is sent directly to the home, according to Mr. Van Winkle. In order to be recognized for the award, the entry had to have continuity, Mr. Van Winkle added.

The work judged by the DMAA began last September and was completed last summer.

Eight Foreign Students Here This Quarter

Eight foreign students are enrolled at the college for the fall quarter, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar. Two of the distant-born pupils are attending classes here for the first time. Six of the students are furthering their education through the aid of scholarships.

Colombian Starts Here

Miss Helena Barhon, a senior from Czechoslovakia, is here on a scholarship. Twenty-two years of age, she is a business administration major. Miss Barhon is specializing in marketing.

Hernando Cifuentes is studying at Evansville College this year for the first time. From Colombia, Mr. Cifuentes is here on a scholarship. Twenty-two years of age, he is a business administration major. Management is his field of specialization.

Claude Foronda hails from French Indo-China. Twenty-two years old, he is majoring in music. Ranked as a junior, Mr. Foronda is continuing his education on a scholarship.

Hawaiian Transfers

Miss Margaret Miki is in her first year at Evansville College, having transferred from the University of Hawaii this year. Miss Miki lists sociology as her major field of concentration. Classed as a junior, she is twenty-two years old.

Hernando Ospina, a sophomore from Colombia, is specializing in chemistry. He is twenty-five years old.

Greek in Second Year

Miss Nilza Santos is from Brazil. A sophomore, she is a liberal arts major. She is particularly interested in English and mathematics, her major fields of specialization. Miss Santos is twenty-four years old.

Miss Aphrodite Tsatnudi is an English major from Greece. Miss Tsatoudi is in her sophomore year. Attending college on a scholarship, Miss Tsatoudi is preparing for a degree in liberal arts.

Improvements Are Finished On Campus

Completion of the front driveway, redecoration of the Cafeteria, new sidewalks in front of the Administration Building, new lampposts around the Engineering-Science Building, and a painter are among the summer improvements and additions to the campus, college buildings, and maintenance staff.

"Construction of the driveway began last spring under a three-year plan; one-third to be built each year. This plan was revised and work on the remaining two-thirds of the roadway was scheduled for completion this fall because college officials felt it was better to complete the drive now," Ralph E. Olmsted, business manager and treasurer of the college, said.

Sidewalk Fixed

Charles Day of the Charles Day Engineering Company of Evansville was the contractor. Mr. Day is a graduate of Evansville College and is a former city engineer.

New sidewalks have been laid along the front of the Administration Building. The new pavement is expected to be a great improvement over last year's broken cement in which water gathered every time it rained.

The Cafeteria has been repainted inside and out, new floors have been laid in all of the rooms, and potted plants have been added to the decorative scheme. Under the sponsorship of the fine arts committee, newly acquired reproductions of famous paintings have been hung in the Cafeteria, TUB, and Women's Lounge.

Get New Lampposts

Hallie Moore, a painter, has been added to the full-time maintenance staff. Mr. Moore has had many years experience as a painter in Evansville. This appointment brings the full-time maintenance staff to a total of 23.

Lampposts have been placed along the walks around the Engineering-Science Building to bring the campus lighting system up to date. Aluminum paint for better visibility at night on the steps of the walks leading from the Office Building, and a new green carpet in the president's office complete the summer improvement program.

special study under Grant Wood at the University of Iowa, at the Art Institute in Chicago, and at the California College of Arts and Crafts, Oakland, Calif. Miss Keve received her bachelor of arts degree from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and her master of arts degree from Columbia University, New York.

Two in History

John L. Loos has joined the faculty as an assistant professor of history to replace Richard F. O'Dell, and William R. Brandon is a new instructor in history. Dr. Loos received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the University of Nebraska, and has completed his course work for his Ph. D. degree at Washington University, St. Louis. Mr. Brandon, who received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees in history from Pennsylvania State College, has been a history teacher at that school and at Pern, Ind., high school and junior high school.

Mrs. Dora Louise Hess, instructor in home economics, was formerly a teacher at Bosse High School. Mrs. Hess, who received her bachelor of science degree from Purdue University, replaces Miss Mary Jane Esebe.

One Added in Education

Miss Agnes Lynn Tompkins takes the place of Miss Opal DeLancy as an assistant professor in secretarial science. Miss Tompkins received her bachelor of science degree from the University of Pittsburgh, Pa. She has been an assistant professor at Lynchburg College, Va., and an instructor of secretarial science at Cleveland College and Western Reserve University.

Dr. Robert R. Buell, associate professor of education, teaches secondary education courses and directs student teachers majoring in science and mathematics. Dr. Buell received his bachelor of arts, master of science, and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Iowa.

Travis J. Phillips, former instructor at Iowa State Teachers College, is an instructor in physical and analytical chemistry. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Iowa State Teachers College and his master of science degree from the University of Iowa. Mr. Phillips succeeds Dr. Nelson T. Anderson, who accepted a position on the faculty of Suffolk University, Boston, Mass.

New Library Head

Joseph L. Ryerson joined the faculty this fall as an assistant professor of physics, coming from a similar position at Mohawk College, Utica, N. Y. He received his bachelor of electrical engineering degree from Clarkson College, Potsdam, N. Y., and was for a while a laboratory assistant and assistant laboratory supervisor at Ward Leonard Electric Company, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Thomas S. Harding has replaced Miss Beryl Galaway as the head librarian. He has been a librarian at the University of Chicago, Northwestern University, and Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo. Mr. Harding received his bachelor of arts and bachelor of library science from the University of Buffalo, N. Y., and his master of arts in library science from the University of Chicago.

Wednesday, Dec. 1 — Final examinations begin.

Former Student Wins Honors in Contest

Alma E. Oberst, student in Miss Walnita DeLong's creative writing class, received high honors in the 1947-48 essay division of the Atlantic Monthly College Contests for her essay, "Tomorrow's Statement."

Of more than 300 entries from colleges throughout America, Miss Oberst's paper was rated as one of the top 23. It was from these top papers that the prize essays were selected.

Miss Oberst is a member of the editorial staff of the Evansville Press.

New Manual in Use

A new manual is being used by second year chemistry students this fall.

The manual, prepared by Dr. Alvin Strickler and Dr. Martin Chanin, is a revision of an earlier edition prepared by Dr. Striekler.

The manual is being used in chemistry classes by students taking home economics, pre-dental, medical technology, pre-nursing, and pre-veterinarian courses.

Social Groups Make Plans, Name Heads

The Inter-Society of the women's sororities met last week with Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, to make preliminary plans for sorority activities during the school year.

The society is composed of the three sorority presidents: Emily Combs, Castalian; Doris Witt, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; Bernice Culley, Theta Sigma; and a representative from each of the sororities.

Dannetell Is Secretary

During the meeting Miss Brown was again voted chairman of the society and Sue Dannetell, Castalian, was elected secretary. Preliminary plans were made for the rushing season with many changes being made from last year.

The society has hopes of compiling all the rules, regulations, and customs of the organizations into written form.

Fraternities Elect

The Fraternity Brothers (Acacia Club), one of the newest organizations on the campus, met Monday with approximately 35 new members. Claude Bates, sophomore, is the elected president of this group.

The treasurer and chaplain of Pi Epsilon Phi did not return to the college this fall, according to Mike Parkinson, president of the fraternity. At a recent meeting, William Stephens, junior, and William Beckman, junior, were elected to fill these vacancies.

Fallace Is President

James H. Fallace, senior, is the newly elected president of the Pi Kappas. Plans were made at the last meeting for a date party after the Chattanooga-Evansville football game on October 30.

The Phi Zeta fraternity, with Sam Humphrey as president, is looking for a new sponsor. Professors Henke and Needy, former sponsors, are no longer on campus.

Going! Going! Gone!

Nickel Hat Remains Unclaimed in TUB

Bargain hunters were numerous at the auction in the TUB last Thursday when Dr. James Morlock sold the varied collection of unclaimed lost and found articles to the highest bidders.

One student purchased a man's hat for five cents and then walked off and left it at his table. The hat is once again gracing the lost and found box.

Coats, jackets, pens, pencils, notebooks, glasses, hats, and textbooks were all put up for sale. The textbooks, some selling for four dollars at the book store, went for as little as twenty-five cents.

A capacity crowd filled the TUB to participate in the auction but bidding was not as generous as was expected. Proceeds of the auction are to be used for TUB activities.

Giant Pep Rally Being Planned For Homecoming Football Game

Plans are being made for a "bigger and better rally before the Homecoming game," according to Jim Barnett, SGA president. Pre-opening game activities reached a climax last week with the bonfire, parade and dance held last Friday night.

The first rally was sponsored jointly by the SGA and the athletic departments. Jim Ritter was master of ceremonies and speakers at the rally included Bill Slyker, local attorney and former coach of the Aces, Coach Don Ping and Assistant Coach Paul Beck.

Members of the football squad were introduced and the yell leaders introduced some new yells to the fans and students present at the bonfire.

There will be no more pep rallies before the Homecoming game, but an assembly is scheduled for the auditorium at 11 o'clock this morning. It is under the sponsorship of Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity. Jim Ritter, Bob Hevron, and Norman Kniese are in charge of arrangements.

In his speech before the crowd last Friday, ex-coach Slyker wished the team luck for the coming year and said that he believed that they have the material to turn in a very successful season. Slyker also did a bit of reminiscing about his days as coach during the "lean years" here, when it was rather unusual to have enough men out to hold a real scrimmage session.

City Museum Sets Up Special Student Fees; Facilities Available

Charles G. Boggs, new director of the Evansville Public Museum, has announced that the museum has set up special membership rates for students. The student rate is $1 as compared with the regular active membership fee of $2.

Mr. Boggs stated that the museum hopes to attract more college age people to its activities.

Mr. Boggs added, "We invite students to make use of museum facilities in connection with research work in history, archeology, art, and natural sciences."

The museum is prepared to help students with inquiries in those fields. The archives, books and magazines related to college studies are available for student use.

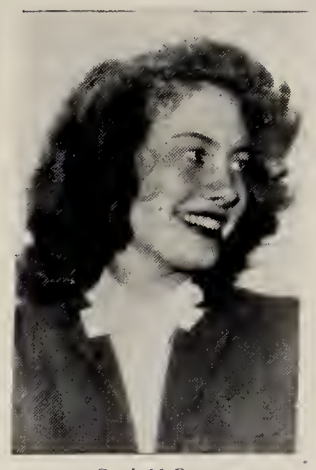
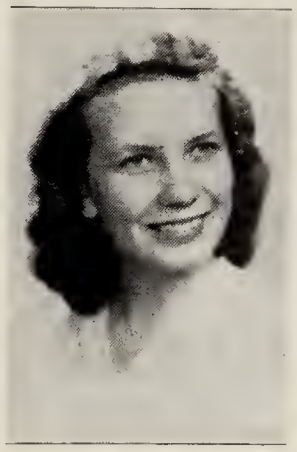
Sororities and Independents Choose Queen Candidates

Lucille Schmitt



Carole McCane



Lois Wiggers

Helen Merle

Coronation Set For Football Homecoming

Carole McCane, Castalian; Helen Merle, Independent; Lucille Schmitt, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, and Lois Wiggers, Theta Sigma, have been entered in the contest for football queen. The winner will be crowned between the halves of the Indiana State game on October 23, and also reign at the Homecoming Dance that evening.

Campaigning for election will begin October 18 and continue through October 22, election day. Voting will take place in the Women's lounge, third floor in the Administration Building, from nine in the morning until four in the afternoon.

In Assembly Today

Preceding the campaign period, the candidates will be introduced to the student body during assembly today at 11 a.m. in the Auditorium. This will be part of a program honoring the football team.

Miss McCane, sophomore, was graduated from Bosse High School in 1947. She is majoring in art, which is one of her hobbies. She also is interested in music.

Mrs. Merle, sophomore, is taking secondary education and majoring in physical education. A graduate of Central High School, she is second vice president of the women's council and student sponsor to Gamma Delta, freshman sorority. Mrs. Merle's nomination is sponsored by the independent students.

No Seniors Named

Miss Schmitt, junior, is a secondary education major and plans to teach home economics. A graduate of Central High School in 1946, she is vice president of her sorority, a student counselor, and a member of the girl's ensemble.

Miss Wiggers, sophomore, is a secondary education major. A Central High School graduate, she is a member of the Alpha Phi Mu, the freshman honorary society. Her hobby is music.

Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, has announced that a freshman girl will be selected to represent Gamma Delta, freshman sorority, as queen attendant.

Crowned at Hall

Jim Barnett, S.G.A. president, stated that the winner will not be announced until the homecoming football game, against Indiana State Teachers College, Oct. 23. The queen will come on the field during the half to be crowned by a member of the football squad. She will then be followed by her attendants to a special box for the remainder of the game.

Last year Janie Garrett, a senior from Owensville, Ind., was elected queen by the student body.

● We were almost interrupted before we got started — a group of girl scouts just passed through on a tour of the campus. Which reminds us, this well-known group is one of the many organizations which share in the funds collected through the annual Community Chest drive.

Most of you have at one time or another been connected with one of the youth organizations working to give every youngster a chance for wholesome recreation and craftsmanship. The boy scouts, the YW and YMCA, and Carver Community Center are part of the attempt to depopulate juvenile courts. These groups are indicative of the "American Way" and well deserve your support. Mark Tuesday as a red letter day and be on hand to help raise the temperature (see next col.)

Miss Starry

● Last week we carried a story about the unification of student affairs under the direction of a student personnel manager. This week we introduce the man in charge of coordinating religious life on campus. Mr. Barnum (see page 2) and the newly-organized Inter-Faith Planning Committee have a lot of fine ideas, including a new chapel, special vesper services, and a Religious Emphasis Week.

● Speaking of planning, whatever happened to the "Listening Hour" programs proposed by the Fine Arts Committee last spring? This is how we heard it (and THE CRESCENT printed it!) — the college and the music department were to purchase a phonograph, the music department and interested students were to provide record albums, and the women's lounge was to be used at certain hours each week for "listening hours," featuring classical and semi-classical music. We thought it was a good idea then, we still think so.

● Remember to attend the Football Appreciation Assembly today. Double value for your time is being offered — football heroes and queen candidates on the same program (see lead story).

Probation Changes Made by Faculty

New probation rules were made at the faculty meeting last Friday, according to Dean Edgar McKown. The rules now in effect are:

1. Probation is to based on a grade point average.

2. Freshmen are considered on probation when their grade point average falls below .50, and upperclass students will be placed on probation when their grade point average falls below .75.

3. Whenever G.E.D. students and students who are in the lower one-third of the high school graduating class are admitted as freshmen, they will be admitted on condition for that quarter and not as on probation.

On the old regulations, according to Dr. McKown, a student was placed on probation unless two-thirds or more of hours he was carrying was C or above during the previous semester. For first semester freshmen, it was one-half of his hours.

The new regulations take into consideration his standing on all of his work instead of only a little more than one-third work during a term.

These new rules were devised in keeping with the quarter plan probation needs, Dr. McKown reported.

Newspaper Receives All-American Rating

For the second successive semester, THE CRESCENT has received an "All-American" honor rating. It has been judged one of the country's best college newspapers by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The "All-American" rating is the highest honor conferred by the association upon a newspaper, and signifies excellence in news value, writing, editing, typography and makeup.

Chuck Palmisano, junior, was the editor last year and Arlene Starry, senior, associate editor. John A. Boyd is the faculty adviser.

Dean's List Announced; Assembly Honors 128

One hundred and twenty-eight students were honored at a special honors assembly Wednesday. These students, who had maintained a 2.5 average during the second semester of 1947-1948, were addressed by Dean E. M. McKown, who spoke on "The Dean's List and a Sociology Tour." Professor Everette Walker made the presentation of the Dean's List.

Lois Hyland and Dorothy Pirtle were named for the eighth consecutive semester. Shirley Olsen was named for the sixth straight time. Wilbur Childress and James F. Pablo Jr., were named for the fifth straight time. Honored for the fourth consecutive time were Mary Francis Clouse, Frank Erk, Constance Koch, Richard McWilliams, John R. Norris, Lester Norton, Charles Nachand, Robert Plane, and Roy Smith.

Mentioned for the third straight time were Harold Chessar, Lester Driggers, Elmer Duncan, Arthur Dwyer, Robert Eissler, James A. Fowler, James Moss, Cody Rust, Wetsel Waggoner, William Wallenmefer, William Whitledge, and Doris Witt.

Students Listed for Second Time

Those listed for the second time were Joanita Adcock, Jimmy Adye, Claude W. Baker, Louis Bergdolt, Carroll Boyle, Paul Butcher, Wilfred Caldwell, Robert Carithers, Henry Childs, Marion Culp, Bill Driggers, Marion Ehrhardt, Ruth Eilert, Glenn E. Elder, Robert A. Fink, Raymond W. Gray Jr., James Hambleton, Marvin Hartig, Carl Klingelhoefer, Kenneth Leimgruber, Harley Lichtenberger, Joseph E. Logsdon.

Walter Lutz, Marjorie Mason,

Servel Advertising Manager To Talk To Upperclassmen

Robert Caniff, advertising and sales promotion manager for Servel, Inc., will speak to the upperclassmen in the assembly Wednesday.

Mr. Caniff, who is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, will speak about the importance of advertising in business and how it helps sales production. Mr. Caniff is also a member of the national advertising committee of the American Gas Association.

Speaks to Freshmen

Dr. Edgar M. McKown, dean of the college, will be the speaker at the Tuesday assembly for freshmen. His topic will be "What Evansville College expects of its students."

In the assembly last Tuesday, James E. Morlock, dean of men, told the freshmen about the traditions of the college. He also went through the history of Evansville College, beginning with the school at Moores Hill, including its transfer to Evansville in 1913.

Life is Respect of Nature

In the upperclassmen's assembly Wednesday, Dean McKown explained the importance of the quality of thinking. He told of all the waste land he noticed while on the sociology tour last year. He emphasized the fact that life is an inherent aspect of nature, and that man is the force in creation that must protect nature from the evils of neglect.

Dr. McKown concluded with the importance in this world of the people who think. He praised those who made the dean's list and added that these people have benefitted from the real purpose of the college.

Patricia Bates Named Gamma Delta Head

Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, announced that the other officers were Mary Schenk, vice president; and Lois Ricketts, secretary-treasurer.

Ramsey, Matthews Win Courier Scholarships

Marilyn Jane Ramsey, senior, and Jack Matthews, junior were recently announced as the first winners of scholarships from the newly established "Evansville Courier Scholarship Fund," provided through Courier Charities, Inc.

This fund annually provides $1000 or more to students attending Evansville College.

The scholarship winners were chosen by college officials on the basis of scholarship, personality, leadership on th ecampus and character.

Miss Ramsey, a music major, is a member of the choir and the band. She is from Princeton. Mr. Matthews has appeared in several dramatic productions on campus and has been a member of the basketball team for several seasons.

College To Conduct One-Day Campaign For Evansville Community Chest Drive

In cooperation with the annual Community Chest campaign, Evansville College is sponsoring a one-day drive to raise funds among students for the "red feather" cause. Next Tuesday is the official date of the campus campaign.

Student speakers appointed by Miss Doris Kirk, social director, visited clubs and organizations during the past week to tell about purposes of the drive.

Competition among classes is to be the incentive for giving. A stand with four large glass tubes, representing thermometers, will be set up in the main hall of the Administration Building, with a class representative soliciting for each. As contributions are received in the tubes, the total will be shown by the rising thermometers. Each tube will hold $192 worth of quarters. It is estimated that at 25 cents per person the anticipated individual contribution, less than one half of the student body can fill the thermometers.

Shockley Takes Air With Great Books

Flying proves wonderful for those who like to fly around and look for adventure. The difference comes in just what one considers an adventure.

Last week Dr. Martin Shockley, head of the department of English, left his classes early in order to catch a plane to Shreveport, La., for a one night engagement spent in lecturing and hashing over old books. Scholars would say that he took over a discussion of the Great Books.

Most of Dr. Shockley's adventures are the result of his attempts to return to Evansville. On a return trip from New Orleans last year, his plane passed right over Evansville (ceiling zero) and landed at Indianapolis. Turning around, Dr. Shockley tried Evansville again. This time he landed in St. Louis. Third time in, he made home "port," but his faith in traveling by air was a little shaken; it took so long to get home!

Last week he decided to try again and also returned from Shreveport by plane. This time there was no grand tour of the Mid-West; the plane just played homing pigeon. Dr. Shockley had plenty of time to remember the reporter who exposed the Great Book Foundation as a Communist Front organization because a certain discussion came to the conclusion that the Declaration of Independence was correct in its statement that "all men are created equal."

The plane circled the Evansville field an hour and a half before it could land. Dr. Shockley didn't report his reactions, either to the Declaration of Independence or to the consistency of Evansville's weather.

Dr. Wehrli Is Guest Speaker At Vespers

Dr. Allen Wehrli, professor of Old Testament Literature at Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo., will speak on "Our Fateful Whims" at the vesper service in the Auditorium Sunday at 4 p.m.

This is the first in a series of four services to be held on campus this year. Others will be on October 24, April 3, and May 1.

These services are being planned by Elton Barnum, director of religious life, and the Inter-Faith Planning Committee, composed of students of various denominations.

Sunday's program will include the invocation by Armin Haeussler, minister of St. Lucas Church; scripture by Jim Barnett, S.G.A. president; prayer by assistant dean Everette Walker, and a musical number by the newly formed vesper choir, under the direction of Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department.

Dr. Wehrli is a graduate of Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill., and of Reed College, Portland, Oregon, where he received his A.B. degree. He was graduated from Eden Theological Seminary, where he has been on the faculty since 1922.

Boyd Speaks at Press Convention Tomorrow

John A. Boyd, CRESCENT adviser, is leaving tomorrow to attend the Wabash Valley Press Conference at Terre Haute.

While there he will serve on a panel to discuss "What We Do About the Columns." Two other publication directors will be on the panel.

Lively Heads Choir; New Unit Formed

Harold Lively, president of the college band, was elected president of the choir in its recent election. It is the first time for one student to hold the president's title in both the band and the choir at Evansville College.

Norman Heim was elected choir vice president and Marilyn Ramsey is the new secretary of the group. Mrs. Wesley Shepard, director, said that the officers are being elected on a yearly basis because of the college switch to the quarter system.

Mrs. Shepard has also announced the formation of a Vesper Choir from members of the larger choir. The new unit will be responsible for music numbers at the monthly services held on Sunday afternoons under the direction of Elton Barnum, director of religious life.

Crews Named for New Thespian Production

Crew heads and crew members for the initial Thespian production, "Three Men on a Horse," have been announced by Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, director of the play.

Ben Bockstege Jr. is stage manager, Bill Cobb and Bob Hevron will be co-business managers for the production.

Mona Lou Dugan and Helen Dekker will have charge of scene designing. Co-heads for the property crew are Gail Reid and Kathryn Starry. R. K. Chapman and J. H. Boster are co-heads for the light crew.

Herman Litsebgi is head of the stage crew. Members of this crew include Bill Collins, Roy Farley, Malcolm Stuart, and David Bridges. Jerri Steinmetz and Sarah Kessler are co-heads for the make-up crew. Also on this crew are M. J. Ellis, Helen Nunn, Joan Hayes, and Elizabeth Crimmsley.

Helen Nunn is head of the paint crew. Other members are Jerri Steinmetz, Sue Dannettell, Nancy Salm, Fred Creech, Forest Oliver, Joyce Holder, Dick Alexander, and Jona Howard.

Calendar

Tuesday — 8 p.m. Faculty recital — Mae Ruth Pietila — auditorium.

Wednesday — 7:30 p.m. Square dance in TUB.

See Finds Positions For 58 Graduates

The Placement Bureau has placed 58 members of last year's graduating class in jobs, according to Harold See, Placement Bureau Director.

Thirty-four teaching positions were filled, mostly in city and Tri-State schools. Two of the graduates, Herbert Northcut and Mrs. June Mertz, are now employed by Evansville College as instructors in the preparatory music school. Four now have jobs in Michigan.

Twenty-four graduates have been placed in business positions, nine of whom are employed locally at International Harvester and Servel.

Colombian Student Cifuentes Sees Americans as Informal

By DON SHOFSTALL

Hernando Cifuentes, of Bogotà, Colombia, is one of the foreign students new to the campus this year. He is here on a joint scholarship awarded by the college and the Evansville Jaycees.

Hernando, already christened Hank by some of his local friends, arrived in the states for the first time about three weeks ago. He came by ship from Barranquilla, a port city in Colombia, to New York City, and from there to Evansville. While in New York, he took a brief tour of the city and saw, among other objects of interest, the Empire State Building, Grand Central Station, and the subway.

Here in Evansville, Hernando is staying temporarily with the William C. Porter family of 2153 Mulberry St. In the classroom, he is amazed at the way in which the students jump from one subject to another. He says that in the schools in Colombia there are no such things as quarters or semesters, but that the schedules are arranged from year to year, and the students must stick rigorously to the subjects chosen.

Speaks Fluent English

In Bogotà, where the people are "how you say, 'triste'? — ah — melancholy," because of the constant low temperature, Hernando learned to speak rather fluent English in high school and college. He says that the city itself is much the same as modern large cities in the United States, but the people are very different. There are night clubs and theaters, but not much night life. Most of the Colombians attend sporting events, such as horse races, and soccer, called football there, basketball, and baseball games.

Hank himself is an ardent rooter, as exhibited at the Butler game last Saturday. He was unable to understand all that went on, but he knew a good play when he saw one, and was on his feet at the touchdowns before anyone else in the section. One of his comments on the game was, "It's a little rough, isn't it?"

Impressed by Informality

Hank has been very greatly impressed, with the informality of the American people. He says that in their manner of address, their eating habits, and their general living habits, the people he has met so far, have been much less formal than the people he knows in Bogotà.

Hernando is majoring in business administration, with management as a field of specialization. He expects to study at Evansville College for one year, after which he will return to Bogotà to enter business with his father.

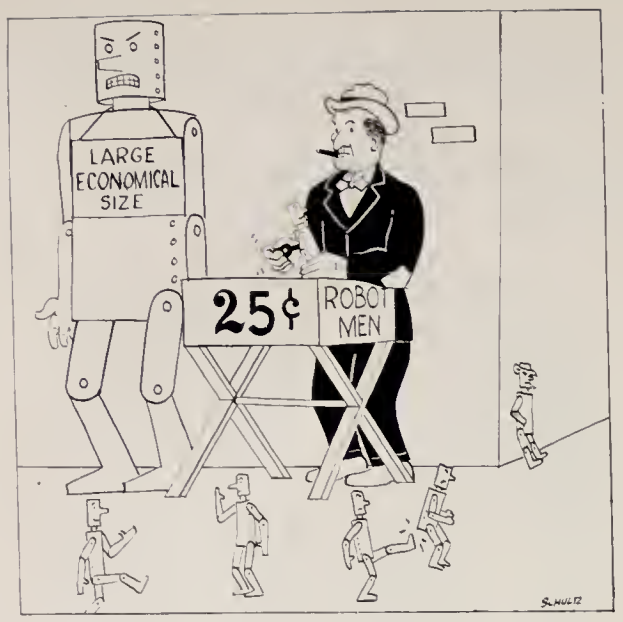
Late News Breaks

Independent students will hold an orgonization meeting Monday at 11 a.m. in the Auditorium.

Junior class nomination and election of officers will be Thursday at 11 a.m. in A303.

Coaches and members of the football team were honored at a fish-fry last night at the D.A.V. home by the college fraternities.

The Philos won the inter-organizational football ticket contest. They sold $174 worth of tickets to win the $25 first prize. The Theta Sigma Sorority, second place winner of $15, netted $102 on the sales.



Increased Length in Woman's Skirts Causes Disagreement

The inquiring reporter went roaming around the campus again this week seeking information and opinions of the students. The question for the week was, what do you think of the new look in women's clothes? In each case the answer was a little different but the trend was quite evident.

Paul Irey, junior—It all looks the same, once you get used to it.

Bnh Young, junior—The new look has its possibilities. As the lower lines grow lower, the top lines also continue to grow lower, causing one to focus his attention on higher planes or things.

Ann Wilson, sophomore—I like long skirts because they cover up the knees, and knees are the ugliest things in the world.

Dave Deuser, sophomore—I like them, but not to extremes. If they get any longer, they might as well not wear shoes.

Ramsey Bristow, freshman—The skirts are getting so tight that it is becoming a physical impossibility for women to run away from me.

Salli Henn, freshman—I think it's wonderful, it hides so many knobby knees and bow legs.

Archie Owen, sophomore—I don't like it. It covers up too much.

Jne Unfried, sophomore—I like the long skirts because when you do see a pair of legs you appreciate them.

Bill Lemcke, junior—My motto is "see more with the old look"

The more answers the inquiring reporter got on the subject the more confused he got. Every time he would asked a girl how she liked the longer skirts, she would say that she liked it because they helped cover up ugly features of her legs. Most of the boys, however, expressed their disapproval of the increased length because they couldn't see enough.

One thing that every one seemed to be agreed upon was Tiger Ritter's theory that the new look was just like prohibition. The joints are still there, but they are harder to find.

Castys Turn Keys In Sorority House

For the past two weeks members of the Castalian sorority have created a "new" new look around campus with their grimy hand paint spattered hair and proud happy faces.

On making inquiries about this new look, it is found that the girls are busy making preparations to open their sorority house, which is the first of its kind at Evansville College.

The "house" is really a three-room upstairs apartment located at 208 Southeast Riverside Drive. The girls have painted the walls and are ready to put in the furniture that they have borrowed from their own homes.

Homes Are Too Small

The idea developed from a chance remark about crowded and cramped quarters for meeting places. Usually meetings are held in homes of members, but with the increased membership this situation has not been considered very good. Some homes are much too small to accommodate twenty-six girls at one time.

Helen Nunn, vice-prsident of the group, suggested they speak to her mother, Mrs. Marie H. Nunn, and ask to use the vacant apartment at their home. Mrs. Nunn consented to the plan on condition that the cleaning up, remodeling, and upkeep would fall in the hands of the Castalians.

To Open Tuesday

The Castys plan to use the apartment for social functions as well as for meetings. At the meetings, refreshments will be provided by the hostess of the week. Each member will take her turn being hostess.

Emily Combs, Castalian president, has announced that the Riverside address will be ready to open Tuesday evening for the regular sorority meetiag.

On Other Campuses

University Student Gets Coke Jackpot

Added to the long list of registration requirements for students at Ball State Teacher's College this fall, was this new one—fingerprinting. "More and better records of people" was the answer given by the dean as to why the system had been instituted. Fingerprinting the students will aid in expedient identification in case of accident, fire, etc., and is expected to function in matters of theft on the campus.

An I.U. student reached a state of Utopia in student-coke machine relations one day last week. According to The Daily Student, someone dropped a nickel in one of the coke machines on campus, failing to notice the empty sign. When neither a coke nor the nickel was returned, the student indignaotly banged at the machine. To his surprise he got a response — not one coke, but a full 2 1-2 cases were discharged. A janitor finally restored order.

The greatly publicized "flying saucer" hit the Ball State campus full force last week. Closer examination of the disks showed them to be paper plates advertising a coming sorority-fraternity dance entitled "Planet Rendevous."

Map Shows Resources of State

Above is a map of the Hoosier state showing natural resources and products. The map is taken from the new Britannica Junior, the reference set for children of grade-school age. It is the result of combined research by the Encyclopedia Britannica and the University of Chicago to determine how to make learning easier for children. When it was found that children often have difficulty memorizing products from lists of words, "product maps," like the one above, were designed.

New Religious Life Director Has Little Time for Flying

Elton Barnum, the new director of religious life, is shown above looking over a model of the proposed new chapel. The chapel will be used by students of all denominations.

By Sue Dannettell

Elton Barnum is a young man with a purpose.

Like so many other departments that have been expanding and enlarging during the past few years, the religious life program at Evansville College is coming into its share of expansion.

In charge of activating this development program is a man who has a huge organizational task ahead of him—Elton Barnum, the new director of religious life.

He has been working the past month with the newly-organized Inter-faith Planning Committee, composed of students of all faiths. Participating thus far have been Jim Barnett, Dolores Shelton, Ruth Sansom, Denzil Reed, Martha Eskridge, Jim Kaiser, Pat Kaiser, John Hermann and Marilyn Smith.

Plan Emphasis Week

Together they have planned a series of vesper services to be held on campus. They have designated the week of October 24 as Religious Emphasis Week with special programs in the Tuesday and Wednesday assemblies.

Although Mr. Barnum has been busy with organization work, his pet project right now is the plan for a new chapel. This chapel is to be located in either one of two rooms in the Reserve Library Building. It will be completed as soon as possible. A full-scale model of the chapel, right down to the last candle is on Mr. Barnum's desk in his office.

The chapel will be used by students of all faiths.

"It is felt that there has been a definite need for such a place of worship," stated Mr. Barnum. "In carrying out our religious life program we hope to function effectively with in the total community program," he added.

Is Presbyterian Minister

Mr. Barnum is an ordained Presbyterian minister and has had churches at Freedom Plains, N. Y. and in the Bronx, N. Y. He came to Evansville College from Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky., where he was professor of history and philosophy.

While in college Mr. Barnum, who is an aviation enthusiast, earned his extra money by building model airplane. He has been working on his private pilot's license, but his new job has limited his time so much that he is back to building model airplanes.

Miss Kirk Reviews TUB Constitution For All Students

A review of the temporary constitution for the Temporary Union Building (TUB) was given this week by Miss Doris Kirk, social director of the college, for the benefit of the freshmen, transfer students, and as a refreshed for the student body.

Miss Kirk emphasized that this is subject to change at the wish of the student body. She expressed the opinion that she thought the students were fortunate in having the TUB for experimenting with the temporary constitution.

Gnvernment System

In the present constitution there is a proviso for the organization of two main levislative bodies, a board of directors and a board of managers.

The board of directors consists of the administrative officers of the college, the president of the student association, director of the union, president of the alumni association, chairman of the union management board, and the editor of the CRESCENT. This Board determines and oversees the legislation of the club.

The board of managers is made up of the chairmen of the seven departments, the union director, and her assistant. The heads of these departments were elected by the student body last spring, and the chairman of this board is selected by these departments.

Wonds Heads Departments

Bill Woods, junior, head of the public relations committe is the elected chairman of the board of managers for this year, and Barbara Blood, junior, is the secretary.

The other departments, heads, and duties are:

FINANCIAL: Earl Buechler is the chairman and his committee handles all ticket sales for dances, Club Tub, and any other activities sponsored by the TUB when ticket sales are necessary.

DANCE: Paul Carnes is the head of this committee. There are sub-committees for special dances, homecoming dances, Club Tub, and tea dances. There is a vice chairman for each sub committee who is responsible to the chairman of the dance department.

RECREATION: Karl Watson and his committee sponsor tournaments, plan picnics, and sport broadcasts.

DECORATION: Joan Henn's committee is responsible for the appearance of the interior of the TUB and for providing necessary plants, pictures, and holiday decorations.

SOCIAL: Barbara Blood and her committee is responsible for teas, coffee hours, music hours, art displays, and forums.

Views 'n' Interviews

Shofstall

Due to the lamentable fact (the preceding is not the best journalese, but we trust the copyreaders will pass it) that THE CRESCENT staff is sadly lacking in quantity if not quality, we (meaning me) have been elected to do a so-called column on page to to fill the horrible empty spaces left by Misters McCosh and Durham.

This column, hereafter referred to as space filler, will concern itself primarily with the little known people on and off campus, with an occasional fling at interviewing the famed and illfamed. The parenthetical phrases tossed in at random may not be necessary to the clarity of this guff, but they do fill space.

(My editor has just informed me that one does not throw slams and insults at the organization for which one works. So — orchids to THE CRESCENT staff. We (this time meaning the rest of said staff) are doing a wonderful job.

And now, children, our introduction dealt with, we proceed at once to the interview of the week, which will be with a composite prototype, whom we shall call Joe Shmoo, of that group of men one rarely sees except in early morning classes — and who sees anything in early morning classes? Joe is typical of those energetic young men at E.C. who attend classes until approximately noon and work in the afternoon and on into the long, long night. We find Joe, during a ten minute break between classes, leaning in a corner of the office building under a "No Smoking" sign, a lit cigarette dangling loosely from his lips.

With pencil and pad clutched eagerly in my hot little hands, I tap Mr. Shmoo gently in the lumbar region, saying in my most winning manner, "Mr. Shmoo, I'm from THE CRESCENT and I would like to get your opinions about the quarter system for my column."

Joe shifts his position slightly, exhales a draft of long-collected smoke, murmurs, "Huh?" and goes back to sleep.

I repeat my question, this time tapping him a little less gently in the lumbar region.

Joe comes to a full awakening with a burst of laughter which rasps like a file, and cries dramatically:

"Y'know, the funniest thing happened to me the other day. I was being introduced to a microscope in zoo lab, and started —"

"What are your opinions of the quarter system?"

"Don't interrupt! I had this microscope, see, so I pulled a hair from my head to see what it looked like under the lens. I pulled the hair along the slide, and I was concentrating very hard when all at once the root came into view. I said to myself, 'My God! It looks like an Irish potato,' and this chick in charge comes back and tells me to control my emotions. How was I to know I shouted out loud?"

"About the quarter system," I tried once more.

"Y'know," Joe said, "The natives of a small island in the South Pacific used to play a game with straws. They'd prop their eyes open with them and see who could stand it the longest. I could win hands down, without the straws."

I tried a new tack. "Have you learned anything these first three weeks at E.C., Joe?"

"It did look like an Irish potato!" Joe replied, laughing raucously.

I repeated my original question about the quarter system.

"Learned anything?" Joe said. "I've learned to sleep standing, leaning, and in a note-taking position." With that he threw away his cigarette, leaned back in his corner, and commenced to snore gently. I crept quietly away.

Butler Ekes Out Win Over Aces

Extra Point Gives Visitors Victory; Evansville Holds Edge in Statistics

By CHUCK PALMISANO

Those fighting Aces of Evansville College did everything but win last Saturday afternoon at Reitz Bowl when a point after touchdown gave Butler a 14-13 victory.

In a game marked with fisticuffs, numerous fumbles, and poor officiating, the Purple and White fought back from a 14-0 deficit in the second quarter but could not go ahead of the Bulldogs.

Aces Hold Edge

The Aces showed superiority over the Butler team in almost every department but the scoring column. The Purple and White racked up 12 first downs to their opponents' 10.

They were outrushed, 151 yards to 71, but led in total offense, 275 yards to Butler's 226. The Aces, unveiling a surprisingly potent air attack, completed 10 of 14 passes for 204 yards. The Bulldogs made 3 out of 11 good for 75 yards.

Interception Paves Way

The Bulldogs scored their first touchdown early in the second quarter. Kenneth Smock intercepted Joe Unfried's pass late in the first quarter and ran the ball back to the Evansville 40.

Tackle smashes and end sweeps carried the ball down to the three and Weidekamp carried it over on the first play in the second quarter. Tackle McSemek converted.

Butler Scores on Pass

The Aces seemed to fall apart after this and Butler took advantage of their relapse to score again. Again they intercepted a pass and two quick tosses from Smock to Harry Farmer resulted in their second touchdown. Again McSemek converted.

From then on, it was all Evansville. They drove down to the two-yard line on power plays and Gonterman passes. Then they got tricky, tried a double reverse, and lost the ball on a fumble.

Riley Goes Over

However, they marched right back. Ronald Watson, displaying excellent quarterbacking and passing, led the Aces down to the three and Riley carried it over. Karl Kleinknecht kicked the point.

The Aces' second touchdown came at the close of the third quarter when Watson faded back and hit Gene Logel with a 40-yard pass. Logel gathered it in behind the Butler secondary and romped the remaining 25 yards to a touchdown.

Butler Blocks Kick

Kleinknecht's try for the conversion was blocked and that was the end of the scoring.

The teams see-sawed back and forth in the fourth quarter until, with one minute to go, Tackle Frank Lutz connected on a 60-yard pass to End Jack Crouch on the Butler 15. Things looked rosey to the Evansville supporters, but on the next play McSemek intercepted Unfried's pass to stop the threat. The game ended on the next play.

Tempers flared throughout the game and slugging was evident on almost every play. The officials seemly ignored most of the violations except for the more obvious offenses.

Officials Waver

On one occasion, in the fourth quarter, the officials took the ball away from Evansville and gave it to Butler. Logel had carried for two yards and, after being tackled and the whistle having sounded, he layed it on the ground. A Butler man fell on it and claimed it.

The referee called the ball dead, changed his mind and gave it to Butler, changed his mind and gave it back to Evansville, and then changed his mind again. Butler got the ball back but did not keep it long.

Practice Starts For Netmen This Week

Coach Arad McCutchan called the first practice for prospective members of his cage squad last Monday in the Armory. The 1948-49 season will open on November 22.

"There wasn't much practice, mostly organizing and outfitting," Coach McCutchan stated when asked about his first turn out.

Among the lettermen of last year's squad on hand for practice were Bob Barnett, Bob Kohlmeyer, and Bob Sakel, forwards; Dude Holder and Jack Matthews, guards; and J. H. Barnett and Harry Axford, centers.

Norrick, Morrow Transfer

Morgan Jones, who played guard on the 1947-48 team, has graduated and will not be out this year. Wayne Norrick and Manford Morrow, both members of the strong second team, the Deuces, have transferred to Oakland City College.

Freshmen expected to bolster the lineup are Willie Sakel, Huntingburg; Ray Bawhel, Boonville; Jerry Canterbury, Reitz; Jim DeGroote, Bosse graduate and recently returned from the Navy; Clarence Ambrose, Mackey, and Walter Best, Owensboro.

Coach McCutchan expressed the hope that the freshman class may yield several other basketball hopefuls.

25 Games Set

There are 25 games scheduled for the Aces in the 1948-49 season. The first four games will be played at home in the Armory. A contest between Evansville College and Oakland City College will open the season.

The 25-game schedule includes two tourneys. The first tourney will be played on or about January 1. Evansville emerged the winner of this tourney last year when it was played at Vincennes. Southeastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Canterbury College, and Evansville were the four schools entered in the tourney. Evansville edged by Southern Illinois 62-60 and then came back and to hand Canterbury a 43-36 defeat.

The Aces will finish the season with a tourney at Louisville between schools of the Ohio Valley Conference.

More New Players Aid Grid Squad

This week we conclude our survey of new players on the Aces grid squad. These new additions are expected to bolster the Pinguen in their quest for a winning season. Some of these newcomers may work their way into starting assignments.

Navy Vet Plays End

Guthrie Croft is a 208-pound tryout at end. He comes from Marion, Ill. This twenty-three year old freshman is a Navy veteran.

Wayne Hoover is an eighteen-year old newcomer from Riley of South Bend. He stands five feet, nine inches and weighs 160 pounds.

Roger Moody is a six-foot, 261-pound freshman from Louisville, where he bulwarked the Male High team for three years.

All-Conference Back Out

Jimmy Roos, from Dale, Ind., is a freshman candidate for a halfback spot. He was an All-Conference performer last year.

Homer Scruggs, 172-pound freshman hopeful from Grayville, Ill., is a fullback prospect. Eighteen years old, he is five feet, eleven inches.

Larry Cutsinger is a six-foot, four-inch, 179-pound freshman, trying out for an end spot on the Purple squad. He attended Bosse High, but played on football there. H. R. Viereant, also from Bosse, is another end prospect without previous experience.

He Leads the Team

The Captain Works as Hard As a Rookie on This Team

The blond crew-cut hair and the quick grin of Bob Gerhardt, captain of the football team, have become a familiar sight to Evansville College students. Bob can usually be found between classes studying in his 1940 Ford coupe, sitting on the first row of the parking lot. He arrives before eight o'clock in the morning and leaves after football practice, which usually ends with the coming of darkness.

Bob is playing his third year on the Evansville College football team. Performing at right guard, Bob is a standout lineman, who is on the practice field early and works out as hard as a recruit trying to gain a regular starting berth.

Lives in Boonville

Boonville is the home of this veteran of the game with the pigskin. Earning four letters in football, three in baseball, and one in basketball, he graduated from Boonville High School in 1942, entered the Navy in 1943, and served three years with 14 months in the Asiatic-Pacific theatre.

Six feet, one inch in height and weighing 197 pounds, Bob is a junior. Still interested in baseball, he played third base on the Purple Ace squad last season and was a member of the Boonville Legion team during the past summer.

Does His Share

With six more tough teams on the schedule, Evansville College fans may rest assured that although linemen are not mentioned as frequently as the backfield in the press and on the radio, Bob Gerhardt will be in there doing his share.

Butler Tackle Released From Hospital Monday

Big John Murphy, first-team tackle for Butler University, was released from St. Mary's Hospital Monday and returned to his home at Logansport, Ind.

Murphy, a valuable member of the Bulldog line, suffered a slight concussion near the end of Saturday's game with Evansville and was taken to the hospital immediately after the game.

Captain Francis Moriarty, driving fullback for the Butler team, was discovered to be suffering from a shoulder seperation when examined after the game.

Moriarity, who carried a four-yard plus average into Saturday's game, saw action only in the first quarter. He was injured early in the contest and did not return to action.

With the exception of minor bruises, Evansville's Purple Aces came through the game unscathed.

Games Remaining

Aces' Future Foes Win Last Week

While Evansville was losing to Butler University last week, all of the Aces' future opponents, with the exception of Ottawa University, were winning.

Indiana State defeated Valparaiso Saturday, 14-0 for their second straight victory of the season. The University of Chattanonga, which held Georgia's powerful eleven to a 14-7 victory week before last, came back Friday night to win over Tennessee Poly 18-7.

Eastern Kentucky surprised many of the experts by walloping Marshall 20-7. The University of Louisville, losers to Memphis State week before last, got on the victory trail by defeating St. Joseph's of Indiana, 20-0.

Murray State, displaying plenty of power, got even for their Louisville cousins by beating Memphis State, 26-14.

Ottawa was the only one of the Aces' future opponents to lose. Missouri Valley was the villain and the score was 19-0.

Anyone ever see a better football team than those Aces? How great can you be?

The officials for the game last Saturday were H. L. Wheeler, of Purdue; George Ashworth and J. F. Conover, of Indiana State; and S. T. Prolfit, of Butler. Yes, that's right—Butler. If anyone is thinking of writing them a letter, their addresses are held by the athletic office.

Contributions for Seeing Eye dogs will be received at THE CRESCENT office.

A couple of weeks ago we received a letter from the sports editor of Collier's weekly asking us to serve on their All-America Board. It seems they are going to let the sports editors of the country, professional and otherwise, elect their All-America team by balloting each week on the players, home team and opponents, who look the best.

At first we were tempted to send them a copy of the Ace's starting lineup but reconsidered and sent them a card, saying, "O. K., send me my junior G-man's badge."

They practically did. We got a sack full of ballots, a basket of self-addressed envelopes, an identification card, and a leather card case with our name embossed in gold (no less). Everything but a tin whistle.

Now we are all set to name the All-America team. The first 11 applications to this office will make up the first team. Application fee will be reduced, if you have actually had some football experience.

This All-America business is getting to be a joke. Seriously, it doesn't mean a thing anymore. Everyone (Look, Satevepost) has already named his team and the national champs so we might as well call off the season and start basketball.

The Satevepost All-America is Hart (N.D.) and Poole(Ole Miss.), ends; O'Reilly (Purdue) and Harris (Texas), tackles; Fischer (N.D.) and Franz, (Calif.), guards; Bednarik (Penn.), center; and Walker (SMU), Derricote (Michigan), Justice (N. Carolina), and Van Brocklin (Oregon), backs.

The Post also says that Minnesota will defeat California in the Rose Bowl, Texas will beat Georgia Tech in the Sugar! SMU to take Penn State in the Cotton; and North Carolina to drop Missouri in the Orange Bowl.

There you are. Basketball starts next week.

Music Department Forms New Unit, 'Little Symphony'

The formation of a new musical organization, the Little Symphony orchestra, has been announced by the music department.

Dr. George Dasch, conductor of the Evansville Philharmonic orchestra, will be the director.

This new orchestra will not take the place of the college concert band, which is directed by Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department. It will, however, supplement the Philharmonic orchestra as an opportunity for players to participate in an orchestral group.

Although still in a formative stage, having met for the first time last month, the Little Symphony hopes to be utilized during the year for assembly programs, luncheon clubs, college theatre productions, concerts, and other functions. Because of its limited size, the membership currently totaling 33 players, it will be mobile and can be moved quickly and easily.

The first concert has not been scheduled, but will be announced as the repertoire is developed and the need arises.

Camera Club Members To Sponsor Students

Evansville College's Camera Club is sponsoring a membership campaign to interest students in amateur photography, according to Miss Wilma Pierce, secretary-treasurer of the club.

Membership in the organization limited to those that have had previous experience. A system has been planned through which a beginner will be sponsored by a member who has had some experience. In this way the beginner can see photography done on an actual assignment.

Meeting are every Friday at 11:00 a.m., in A 305. A special evening program is held monthly. The dark room in the Engineering-Science Building is available for developing pictures at certain hours.

Evansville Alumnus Heads Paraplegics

Charles Caniff, 1948 graduate, was elected first president of the newly formed Mid-West Paraplegic Veterans organization during a two-day conference held October 2-3 at the Hotel McCurdy.

The organization is composed of paraplegic war veterans from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky. This is the first organization of its type in the country.

While in college, Mr. Caniff was a member of the Phi Zeta fraternity and was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities during his senior year.

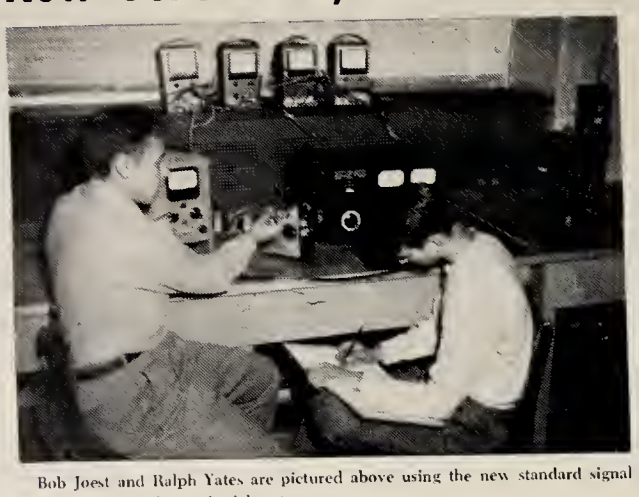
Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the home economics department, was recently made a member of the Woman's Rotary Club, Inc., of Evansville.

Miss Bahlert was sent a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the club by Miss Miskel Wolfinger, the president. In a note sent along with the constitution, Miss Wolfinger expressed her confidence that Miss Bahlert would enjoy her affiliation with the club, and said that the members are looking forward to seeing her at the regular meetings.

Electronics Laboratory Receives New Generators, Volt Meters



Bob Joest and Ralph Yates are pictured above using the new standard signal generator in the electronics laboratory.

Shown at the left is a vacuum-tube volt meter, rated the best of its kind, which is used in measuring radio frequencies up to and beyond any frequencies now in commercial use. In the background are four more new vacuum-tube volt meters for laboratory use.

By BILL COBB

Six electronics laboratory instruments, valued at $1,350, were donated to Evansville College by Electronics Research, Inc., according to James F. Sears, head of the physics department.

One of these instruments is a standard signal generator. It is used in laboratories for making measurements in the radio frequency spectrum. It will be used at Evansville College as a laboratory standard for senior level classes.

Students Demonstrate Equipment

In the picture above, two electronics majors, one in physics and the other in Industrial Technology, are using the new generator to feed a signal into a thirty megacycle I. F. (Intermediate Frequency) strip. A strip consists of a six tube transformer coupled amplifier that is used in an ultra-high frequency receiver. The students are inserting a signal of known frequency and amplitude, and are measuring the voltage gain of the strip. From this data they will construct the band pass curve and determine the selectivity of the I.F. strip.

Another of the instruments is a vacuum tube volt meter, which is rated the best of its kind, and is used in measuring radio frequencies up to and beyond any frequencies now in commercial use. It too will be used as a laboratory standard.

Sears Praises Equipment

This vacuum-tube volt meter, on the left, is measuring output voltages. In the background are four additional vacuum-tube volt meters that are gifts of Electronics Research.

This new equipment will be of great value to electronics students at the college. Mr. Sears reported that Evansville College now has equipped its electronics laboratories in a fashion that is unusual for a small school. Many larger schools would find it difficult to match such laboratory equipment.

Instructor To Open Faculty Program Series With Cello Recital October 12

Miss Mae Ruth Pietila, instructor in piano, cello and string bass, is scheduled to present the first in a series of music school faculty recitals.

The program featuring cello selections, will be given on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Auditorium.

The recital, to be presented in three sections, will open with Sonata in G Major by Sammartini. The second group will include "Elgie" by Faure; "Chant du Menestrel." Gleazmov; "Prayer" from Jewish Life, Block; and "Melodie" by Bridge.

The third and final selection will be the Sontata in A Minor for Cello and Piano by Grieg.

Miss Allene Herron of the music school faculty will accompany Miss Pietila throughout the program.

Degree from Northwestern

Miss Pietila, who joined the college staff this fall, received her degree of Bachelor of Music Education from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. Prior to coming to Evansville she taught cello in the Northwestern School of Music. She also instructed cello in the Lincoln Wood Grade School, and assisted with the orchestra at Haver Junior High in Evanston. She also has had private pupils in cello at Evanston and Winnetka.

Miss Pietila gradnated from high school in Chrisholm, Minn., and attended Hibbing Junior College in Minnesota.

Teaches Theory Classes

At present, in addition to her private lessons in piano, cello and string bass, she is also teaching classes in theory, sight singing, ear training and keyboard harmony.

Miss Mae Ruth Pietila

This recital is one of a series presented by the college music department and is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

TUB Presents Weekly Square Dance Sessions

Square dancing is being held in the main lounge of the TUB for the second consecutive year, according to Doris Kirk, college social director. The dances are from 7:30 until 10 o'clock every Wednesday night.

Ray Bauer calls the dances and furnishes the records for the dancing. Mr. Bauer has had a great deal of experience and is well known as a caller.

Miss Kirk said, "We are joining a lot of other organizations in sponsoring these dances. The Country Club, Elks and many other organizations have taken up square dancing this year."

Jim Cooper is in charge of the dances along with his duties of handling all the evening programs in the TUB.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

● Next week, Oct. 17-24, has been proclaimed United Nations Week by President Truman and the State Department. Education and information agencies throughout the country will concentrate on selling the United Nations to Mr. U. S. Public.

The United Nations is one organization which needs, but which shouldn't need, selling. That may sound ambiguous, but it isn't. At present, the only hope for real peace is through the UN and every citizen should be so vitally interested in its functions and organization that he is as familiar with them as his own name, but he isn't. So, we need a UN Week to introduce Mr. Public to the UN, or vice versa.

Miss Starry

What has already been accomplished by the UN is often belittled, while in reality it has been surprisingly successful and will continue to succeed, providing it is given the chance and isn't by-passed. When U.S.-U.S.S.R. differences are not involved, the Security Council has been quite effective, as in Indonesia for example. Where there has been an East-West split, the General Assembly often has been able to act, as in sending a Commission to the Balkans. Now, also, the "Little Assembly" is working out other methods of circumventing the veto obstacle.

However, only an understood and supported UN can ever be fully effective. Learn to know the UN and find out how you can make it an active, instead of a passive, force in international affairs. Begin by visiting the IRC United Nations display and research desk in the Reserve Library next week.

● Parking conditions on campus are once more becoming a major problem. Each year the same old situation develops — more cars, more parking space results in too many cars, too little parking space. Now we have reached the saturation point; there just isn't any more space to alloeate for parking. Mr. Olmsted is asking for suggestions about solving the problem (see next col.) Right now it is up to the students. On most campuses, cars aren't even allowed. Admittedly, everyone prefers to ride to the front door on the way to class; but if comes to a choice between the regulations proposed by the Administrative Board and parking on Lincoln, Weinbach, etc., — first come, first serve in either case. Maybe we had better all take a bus.

● Last week we were curious about what happened to the "Listening Hours," proposed by the Fine Arts Committee. This week we found out. (see next col.). Congratulations to the committee.

● Correction: The Camera Club story last week which said, "Membership in the organization limited to those that have had previous experience," should have said: "Membership in the organization IS NOT limited to those that have had previous experience." Apologies to the Camera Club. We'd fire the printer and proof reader, but everyone knows the labor situation.

Fine Arts Committee Initiates Music Listening Hour in TUB

Tuesday marked the first in a series of "Listening Hours," devoted to classical and semi-classical records, under the auspices of the Fine Arts Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation.

There will be two "Listening Hours" each day at 9:50 a.m. and 1:50 p.m. in the Cafeteria porch. Various students and faculty members will act as disc jockeys

Schedule for Next Week

Next week's schedule includes: Monday, "Schubert's Unfinished Symphony," featuring Von Schillin conducting the Berlin Philharmonic; Tuesday, "Beethoven's Ninth Symphony," with Stowkowski and the Philadelphia Symphony; Wednesday and Thursday continues with parts two and three; and Friday is "Kreisler's Favorites."

These records were loaned by Dr. F. Woody Werking.

Each week along with the program notice for "The Listening Hour" a musical quiz question will be printed. The tentative plan is that the student handing in the first correct answer to Miss Florence Keve, head of the department of art, each week for the greatest number of weeks, will receive a picture or album of records presented by the Fine Arts Committee.

Winner To Be Announced

The first question is:: What two European musical geninses were born the same year? . . . The winner's name will be announced each week in THE CRESCENT.

Members of the fine arts committee are Juna Howard, chairman, Carelton Long, Ed Parsonage, E. L. Whitmer, Betty Wood, and Sue Dannettell, students; Miss Keve, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, and Dr. Werking, faculty.

Student-Professor Bridge Enthusiasts To Meet Monday

A Student-Faculty Duplicate Bridge Club will have its first meeting at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the Men's Lounge.

Any student or faculty member who can play bridge is invited to attend this meeting. Ralph Balyeat, director of co-ordination of industrial technology, will explain the rules for playing duplicate bridge to the entire group.

Students To Play Faculty

Student teams of two will play against two faculty members. The same bridge hands will pass to each team to bid and play. The object is to see how different players will bid and play the same hand.

Mr. Balyeat is planning the tournament and Karl Watson, chairman of the TUB recreation committee, is making the duplicate bridge boards necessary for the tournament.

To Play in Tournaments

After the group gets organized Franklin MacKnight, professor of geology, will select several student teams to play in the Inter-Collegiate duplicate bridge tournaments.

Teams may sign up in the TUR office. Those without partners can sign up also and their partners will be selected at the meeting Monday night.

Kang To Talk In Assemblies

Younghill Kang, widely known author, lecturer, and teacher, will be another of the outstanding speakers to appear at college assemblies this year, according to Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president. Mr. Kang will speak to the freshman assembly on Oct. 19 and to the upperclassmen on Oct. 20.

Mr. Kang, a Korean by birth, comes to the campus highly recommended and is internationally known as one of the most brilliant minds of the East, Dr. Hale stated. He was born in an isolated grass-roofed village in Korea and was educated in the Orient, America and Europe.

In 1919 Mr. Kang participated in the peaceful revolution against Japanese domination. Until Pearl Harbor, he served as a professor in the department of English at New York University and as a staff member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. During the last war he worked for the United States Military services as a lecturer, and as economic and political advisor.

He is also the author of "The Crass Roof," "The Happy Grove," and "East Goes West," as well as many articles in periodicals and newspapers.

New Vesper Choir Sings in Service

The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, made its first appearance last Sunday at the Vesper service in the auditorium.

Members of the choir include Bettye Ann Brown, Mary Colleen Jewell, Carol Jean McIntire, Margaret Scholz, and Jerri Steinmetz, sopranos; Creta Elmgren, Dorothy Erk, Aileen Hofman, Mary Martino, Catherine Tiemann, Mary Etta Van Horn, and Eulalie Wilson, altos.

Debate Group Visits Purdue Convention

Nine students and one faculty member are attending the seventh annual Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic society, regional congress at Purdue University this weekend.

Included in the group are Arthur C. Spence, college debate coach, Hobart Lutz, Roy Lane, Clarence A. Clayton, Herman Litschgi, Garnett Dezember, Percy O'Loughlin, Kathryn Starry, Helen Delker, and Roger Ingle.

The Evansville representatives attended subcommittee meetings and joint hearings yesterday at which discussion included federal guaranty of civil rights, and the topic of debate this year, federal aid to education.

Make Broadcast

Yesterday evening they joined chapter members and sponsors from nine other colleges at the annual banquet, from which the Purdue Forum Program was broadcast over the university radio station, WBAA. Students from Indiana University, Alma College, Wabash College, and Purdue University participated.

Today the legislative session of the congress will convene to discuss the two topics, federal guaranty of civil rights and federal aid to education. A group picture of the congress is to be made, and there will be an informal luncheon in the Purdue Union.

Awards To Be Given

The final session of the congress will convene at 1:30 this afternoon, at which Miss Anna Lindhlom, district governor of the Indiana-Michigan district, will present awards.

The Evansville group has been housed in the Purdue Memorial Union building. They will leave Purdue after the final session and expect to arrive in Evansville this evening.

Club TUB Dances To Begin Tonight; Program Includes Variety Show

Members of the Club TUB committee are shown above working on chaperone lists, decorations, and posters in preparation for the opening dance, tonight.

Scott's Band To Perform

The first Club Tub dance of the year will be held from 9 until 12 p.m. tonight in the Temporary Union Building. Bill Scott, senior, and his seven-piece student band and vocalist will provide music for the affair, according to Vera Espenlaub, vice-chairman for the program.

A variety floor show including monologue, vocal numbers, and comedy acts is to be a feature of the program.

Dance Committee Named

Club TUB dances are monthly features of the TUB dance department under Paul Carnes, chairman. The dances are sponsored, according to a spokesman for the committee, in the interest of promoting more on-campus social life.

Members of the dance committee appointed by Miss Espenlaub include: Mickie Humphrey and Don DeCavitte, in charge of decorations; floor show arrangements, Doris Donovan and Herman Litschgi; chaperone list, Phyllis Tirmenstein and Bob Fink; publicity, Juna Howard; reservations, Wayne Alley and Margie Betulius; and tickets, Dorothea Meyer and Jim Nussmier. Other members of the committee are: Mary Lou Muth, Jim Kaiser, and Alfred Crabhorn Jr.

Features Floor Show

Plans for the evening include a floor show featuring student talent. Mr. Litschgi is in charge of the program to be given during an intermission of the dance. Numbers to be presented include a comedy news commentary by Jim Troop; a vocal solo, "A Tree in the Meadow," by Jim Schmidt; and Emmalouise Seegmueller in a monologue.

Sally Henn will present a vocal solo, and concluding the program, Jim Theuerkauf will give Al Jolson song impressions including "Swanee," "Mammy," and "Rosie."

Electronics Research Head To Speak Here

John B. Caraway Jr., head of Electronics Research, Inc., of Evansville, will be guest speaker at the second meeting of the Engineers Club at Evansville College Wednesday evening, Oct. 20.

Eugene Schneider, general manager of the local branch of International Harvester, was guest speaker at the first meeting on Oct. 6.

The club is planning a field trip to Mt. Vernon to visit the Farm Bureau Oil Refinery there on Nov. 17. Time and motion study will be taken up at the Dec. 8 meeting.

The program for the Nov. 3 meeting has not yet been announced.

Late News Breaks

The date of football queen election has been changed from Friday, Oct. 22 to Wednesday, Oct. 20, according to Jim Bornett, S.G.A., president. The candidate winner will be crowned the following Saturday.

Fraternity rush activities will begin next week. Pledging is to take place Friday, Oct. 22, in the auditorium immediately following the pep assembly.

Cosh contributed to the Community Chest during the one-day college drive totaled $124.47, according to Everette Wolker, director of personnel service.

Juniors had the highest class total with $44.54. Freshmen contributed $37.96, saphomores $23.75, and seniors $18.22.

The pep assembly at 11 a.m. today in the auditorium will be conducted by the freshman class. Art Weber, class vice president, is in charge of the program.

Gamma Delta, freshman sorority, will have a tea for mothers of the members Monday, Oct. 18, in the women's lounge.

Dean Posts Fall Term Office Hours Of Upperclassmen Faculty Advisers

Fall quarter office hours for members of the faculty were announced last week. For students who may have conflicts, or who are in need of advice, a list of the members of the faculty, who act as student advisers, and the time and place they may be found in their offices follows.

Abbreviations used include: A-Administration building; C-Classroom building; E-Engineering and Science building; G-Gymnasium (Women's); L-Library building; M-Music Hall; O-Office building; and P.E.-Physical Education building.

Homecoming Dance Plans Announced; Catalano To Play

Chet Catalano and his 13-piece orchestra will play for the Homecoming Dance in the Armory Saturday, Oct. 23, from 9 to 12 p.m.

Mr. Catalano is from Lafayette and Miss Doris Kirk, college social director, reports that he is very popular on the Purdue University campus.

The dance is to be semi-formal and couples only are to be admitted. A floor show is included in the entertainment program.

Alumni, former students, present students, faculty, and their guests are invited. Reservations may be made by calling the Temporary Union Building. Admission is $2 per couple. Alumni and former students may obtain their tickets at the Armory the night of the dance.

All football queens of former years are being invited to attend the Homecoming football game with Indiana State and the Homecoming Dance. Special seating reservations will be made for the ex-queens at the game. They also will pass in review on the stage during the dance.

Kurt Klueger has been appointed chairman of the Homecoming Dance Committee. Other members of the committee include: Ronald Watson, Jim Starrett, Janet Roberts, Claire Ann Stumpf, Jo Ann James, Jim Brown, Art Weber, Rob Sherry, Joan Hayes, Mary Schenk, and Frances Huff.

Problem: Parking Congestion

Congested parking, (as a view of the parking lot, above, illustrates) has become a real problem, according to Ralph E. Olmsted, business manager and treasurer.

"An increase in the number of automobiles on campus within the past few years without a corresponding increase in parking facilities, has made the problem a major issue," he said.

The intensity of the situation has been brought before the Administrative Board, which is now making a study of methods of correction. Mr. Olmsted, Jim Barnett, Student Government President, and Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, are members of the committee representing the Administrative Board.

Suggestions for correction of the problem made thus far include the registration of all student and faculty cars; a no-parking area on the south side of the cinder driveway to Weinbach Avenue; provision of special parking space for visitors; a faculty parking area; the possibility of a fine for violation of parking rules; and a suggestion that students and faculty be urged to park off campus when the parking lot is full, rather than in the no-parking areas.

The committee will make a report of the situation and findings Oct. 20, and until that time it is open for suggestions from the student body and faculty, according to Mr. Olmsted.

Letter To the Editor

Dear Editor:

I think that all the students at Ev-Evansville College will agree with me that the Student Directory is one of the most helpful things that this school has ever published.

But where is it this year? In fact, where was it the second semester last year?

Mine was well worn out by the second semester plus the fact that you could never find out where the new freshman lived. You know that is pretty sad.

So I say let's have a Student Directory this year and fast. I'm sure it will be the most used book on campus.

A Sophomore.

The new Student Directory is scheduled to come out within the next few weeks. There probably will be just one directory again this year, since it would be a tremendous task to publish one every quarter.

Students Confused, Curious About Use Of Student Fees

By JEFF HAYS

The Inquiring Reporter fought his way through the smoke and the temptations of the card games in the Temporary Union Building, and asked a loitering group of freshmen where all money goes that is paid into the student activity fund.

Almost all of those quizzed were eager to find out just what did happen to the money they paid. In fact they seemed to be more eager to be told than to answer. After a little persuasion from old I. R., however, they made a stab at it.

Fleta Benedict, freshman — It must go for the mowing of the lawns because they're the only things that look trim around the campus.

Dick McKasson, freshman — I imagine it is pooled with the excess money that is taken in by the T-Hut and TUB to pay for all the so-called "free dances" the college gives.

Bettye Lou Baird, freshman — it is supposed to go for the TUB and other student activities. And I hope it gets there.

Yvonne Loekridge, freshman — It goes for those good looking boys that sweep out Reitz bowl and to pay those persistent program sellers.

Shirley Whitledge, freshman — For the printing of activity tickets and for the upkeep of the football team.

Jimmy Patton, freshman — I think a large portion of it goes for the faculty's entertainment such as bowling, refreshments after meetings, and a small portion of it goes for the upkeep of the TUB.

Somewhat shocked by the opinions of the freshmen, the Inquiring Reporter again forged his way through the smoke and increased temptation of the card games, in search of a more intellectual group. Feeling sure that upperclassmen could give a little more exact answer to the question, he ended the search with comments from that group.

Joyce Halbig, sophomore — It is supposed to go for the Student Union Building, which if our great grandchildren's children are lucky, they may get the advantage of.

Jerry Angermeier, sophomore — It goes for the upkeep of the school. Ash trays, waste paper baskets, and light bulbs, and other small things for the student's convenience.

Norman Sehelhorn, sophomore — Most of it goes for the games and the TUB, I don't know where the rest of it goes. I haven't given it much thought.

At this point old I. R. gave up, even the upperclassmen had let him down. No one on the campus seemed to know where the money actually does go. All of them, however, were pretty much agreed that it was a lot of money to have to pay and get so little out of it.

New Thespian Director Works on Stage, Radio

By CHARLES GREER

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech and Thespian director, has had a varied experience in the dramatic field, both as an actor and a director.

She has appeared in summer theater productions, directed a speech studio in California, had her own radio program, her own puppet troupe, supervised Children's Story Hours in the Evansville Public Library, and organized and directed the Evansville Outdoor Summer Theater.

Gets A.B. From Earlham

Mrs. Taylor received her A.B. degree from Earlham College, Richmond, her M.A. in fine arts from the School of Fine Arts of Yale University, and did special study at Northwestern, Purdue, and Indiana universities. Her graduate work was in the fields of drama and radio. She also had a special course in speech therapy. She studied under such instructors as George Pierce Baker, Alexander Dean, and Olive K. Robinson.

She held teaching positions at Hood College, Frederick, Md., and Reitz High School before joining the college faculty.

Supervised Story Hour

Other activities, outside the teaching field, in which she has participated include recreational supervisor of a puppetry and story-telling group; summer theater productions in Richmond; and director of a speech studio.

She presented her own puppet troupe and supervised a Story Hour program in libraries.

She also had her own radio program and organized and directed the Evansville Outdoor Summer Theater for three years.

She is a charter member of the Evansville Civic Theater Association and a former board member of the Evansville Community Players.

Appeared in East Lynne

Mrs. Taylor has appeared in such productions as "East Lynne," "Smilin' Thru," and "The Late Christopher Bean."

Some of the plays she has directed are "Little Women," "Every Man," "Andocles and the Lion," and "Penrod."

College Board Contest Is Opened by Mademoiselle

Mademoiselle Magazine has opened its annual contest for College Board members and its 1949 College Guest Editors.

In order to be chosen a College Guest Editor, under-graduates must be members of Mademoiselle's National College Board during the 1948-49 college year.

Write on Campus Life

1. Contestants must submit a report of two typewritten, double-spaced pages on any new phase of campus life: a new academic course, a fashion, a fad, a campus activity, an interesting organization, a college trend, or anything else that might interest other college students.

2. Contestants must submit a snapshot, plus complete data on college and home addresses, class year, college major and minor, other interests and activities and paid or volunteer jobs held.

3. All material must be mailed to the College Board Editor, Mademoiselle, 122 East 42 Street, New York 17, New York, postmarked no later than midnight, November 1, 1949.

Editors To Be Chosen

4. Only undergraduates at accredited college and junior colleges, available to work as Guest Editors from June 6 to July 1, 1949, are eligible.

Twenty College Guest Editors will be chosen from winners of the College Board Contest on the basis of three assignments to be given by Mademoiselle during the year.

Former Students Join Israeli Army Forces

Mr. and Mrs. Akiva Goffer, former students at Evansville College from Palestine, are now in Israel according to Everette Walker, student personnel director.

In a recent letter to Mr. Walker, Mr. Goffer reports that he and his wife returned to their home in Tel Aviv and were immediately drafted into the Israeli army.

The Goffers came to Evansville last February to further their educations and were called home when the new state of Israel was set up at the end of the British Mandate in Palestine last May.

Graduate To Train YWCA Leaders In Montevideo

Miss Mireille Demolin, graduate of Evansville College last June, was one of the delegates to the Young Women's Christian Associations international study conference on Women in Reconstruction at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, during August and September.

Miss Demolin who is now returning to Uruguay to resume her work with the YWCA, will be in charge of the Y-Teen work and will cooperate in the new YW plan to train Latin-American leaders from other countries at the Montevideo center.

Heretofore the leaders have been brought to the United States for their training, but it has been decided the work can be done better in Urugay. Because of the stability of the country and its geographic location, it is considered well situated for the training of leaders which is being emphasized by the Foreign Division of the National YWCA.

As Miss Demolin expresses it, "It is easier to interpret and translate the program there for Latin America. Many things done here in the United States cannot readily be adapted to the needs in the different South American countries."

Miss Demolin chose a coeducational institution such as Evansville College so that she could get a first hand view of how coed activities are conducted on a college campus. The final period of her two year stay in America was spent observing the Greater Boston YWCA.

It is now spring in Urugay and Miss Demolin reports that she is eager to get home to enjoy it and to resume her activities at the head of the Y-Teen department.

While at the college, Miss Demolin, who was named a Campus Leader in her senior year, was active in Alpha Phi Mu, girl scout organization; Student Christian Association; International Relations Club; Pi Camma Mu, honorary social science fraternity; and YWCA.

Activity Fee Used To Finance Band, Committee, Clubs

Under the new quarter system each student at Evansville College carrying 12 or more hours pays a $12.50 activity fee. Judging from the inquiring reporter's column for this issue not many students know what is done with the money after it is collected.

Views 'n' Interviews

A few days or nights ago I experienced a dream or nightmare inspired no doubt by the not too recent presence in our little town of President Truman, during which your reporter was granted a private interview with the first citizen. I present it for your perusal:

I was ushered into the president's office by his secretary, who then left the room. The president tapped a pencil nervously against his teeth and waited for me to bow and speak.

"Mr. President, what are you and Congress doing to prevent a war between our country and Russia?"

"Well," he said, after a brief pause, "in view of the extreme circumstances involved, I cannot feel free to make a statement at this time."

"Do you feel that the peace time draft is a step toward permanent peace?" I asked.

"We can only pray so," he replied piously.

"Some of the analysts are saying that because of the conflicts in the two countries' foreign policies neither can back down without losing prestige and therefore war is inevitable. Do you place prestige before peace?"

"My hands are tied by Congress. Besides, nothing can be decided until after the election. Have you heard my campaign speeches?"

This time it was I who evaded the question.

"What if war does come?" I said. "You'll be sitting in your cozy office while I, and boys like me, will be giving our all in the frozen mud of Europe! I don't want my beautiful body broken under the wheel of war!"

"But you'll be doing it for your country, and freedom," the president replied.

"What good is freedom and democracy if my fair face feeds the worms under yon foreign sod," I shouted, pointing dramatically to a map of East Bongo-Bongo which covered one office wall.

The president stood up. "Don't you want to die for your country?"

"No!"

"Shut the doors! Lock the windows! Call J. Parnell Thomas!" The president leveled his pinkie at me and cried, "He must be a Red!"

At mention of the horrible word a Federal man, identifiable as such by the manner in which he crawled out from under the carpet, drew a Gatling from his hip pocket and pointed it at me. Two more agents jumped from their posts behind a hatrack, drawing on long rubber gloves as they approached me. Their chief, from his perch on the chandelier, shouted, "Careful, men: Communism is contagious!"

The two agents with rubber gloves grasped me gingerly by the arms and began to lead me away. Their chief said to the president, "He may only be a Dewey man."

The great man replied, "Take him away!"

The agents led me out of the office to a secret door. The tunnel behind it led to a stone dungeon, exposed by Drew Pearson, in an unused sewer beneath the White House —

I woke up in a cold, cold sweat.

At Other Schools

Activities Get Shot in Arm

News at other schools indicates that many kinds of activities are in progress.

At Indiana University portable radios and cameras will be forbidden at future home football games. Numerous complaints reached University officialls following a recent game and resulted in the ban.

Under a new policy, students at Ball State College will assure direction of all productions of the campus dramatic organization, The Spotlight Theatre.

Pity the poor freshman at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va. Freshman rules, suspended since 1942, are in force again, and freshmen must wear the traditional green caps and name plates, must attend all pep rallies and student assemblies, and are not allowed to cut across the campus.

Hanover College students are fortunate to be called to class by melodious chimes instead of a loud clanging ball. These chimes, controlled by the chapel clock, are amplified and can be heard over the entire campus.

Voting for Homecoming Queen at Valparaiso University this year was restricted to male members of the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Indiana University's annual Blanket Hop, proceeds of which are used to buy monogrammed "I" blankets for outstanding graduating athletes, will be held in two places simultaneously, the Men's Cymnasium and the Union Building, this year.

Aces Meet Ottawa Here Tomorrow

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

Last Saturday was a great day for football in Lafayette, and Michigan played a great game. Purdue, after a fine start against the Fighting Irish has done a very thorough job of falling apart. From the results so far, the Big Nine should he a merry race.

Another eye opener last week was the Butler upset by the Western Reserve team, 6-0. Maybe Butler had a little trouble recuperating from the game with the Pingmen.

There is a lot of talent in the local prep grid ranks this year, most of it out on the hill at Reitz. It would be fine insurance for future years if the college could entice the seniors on that squad to come out our way.

From here it looks like Reitz is the cream of the crop in Indiana high school football and should certainly win the city title in a walk. Memorial is the only team that could be given a chance against Coach Herman Byers' Panthers.

Predictions for the week: EVANSVILLE over Ottawa hy 18 points; ALABAMA over Tennessee by six; ARMY over Harvard by 40 points; BUTLER over Washington of St. Louis hy 14; CHATANOOGA over Presbyterian College and they can name their own score; INDIANA over Ohio State by one point; IOWA over Purdue hy six points.

Kentucky should bounce back from tho Georgia defeat and let Vanderhilt have a lesson in football. "Bear" Bryant's boys had a lot more than they could handle last week, but they should really roll against a not too strong Commodoro eleven.

The Inter-Mural football loop now playing on eampus is something that should be a help to the school. More and better non-varsity athletic teams help build morale and keep the students interested in campus life.

Jim Barnett, SGA president, should be commended for his work with the league. A vote of appreciation should also go to the many others who serve as officials and scorekeepers and who do the many odd jobs conneeted with the functioning of the league.

Eight Teams Participate In Intramural Football

Eight-man touch football was introdueed to tlie Evansville campus last week with the inauguration of the Intramural Grid League. Jim Barnett, Student Government Association president, is the leagne manager and Basketball Coach Arad McCutchan is the faculty advisor.

The league is part of the campus intramural program and this is the first year that eight-man football has been included. Awards will be made to each individual player on the winning team at the end of the season.

The officials of the games are Harold Smith, Andrew Collins, Tom Byrd, Robert Gardner, and Herman Sollman, all senior majoring in physical education. The games are played aeeording to National Touch Football Rules.

Organizations Participale

Eight teams from various college organizations compose the league. These teams are desiginated as the Newman Cluh, Black Knights, Buzz Kids, Phi Zetas, Pi Kappas, Philos, I. Phela Thi, and the Oilers.

Two games are played each Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons at 4:45 on fields hy the ball diamond, located across from the Armory. The schedule is arranged to let each team play the other teams twice during th regular league play.

Results nf First Game

The results of the first games played were:

Black Knights	12	Philos	0
Phi Zeta	18	Pi Kappa	0
Newman Cluh	12	Black Knights	0
Oilers	7	Buzz Kids	6

In the second round of games played this week, the Phi Zetas met the I. Phela Thi team and the Pi Kappas played the Philos. On Tuesday the undefeated Newman Cluh went against the Buzz Kids and the Phi Zetas met the Black Knights in the second game of the evening.

The Pi Kappas engaged the Oilers and the Philos played the I. Phela Thi's during the Wednesday schedule. Yesterday afternoon's schedule include the Newman Club versus the Phi Zetas and the Pi Kappas against the Buzz Kids.

Tho scores for these games and the standings of the teams will be published in next week's CRESCENT.

Ace's Future Foes Lose Four of Six Weekend Games

Whilo Evansville was resting between the Butler and Ottawa games, two of the Aces' ffuture opponents won their week-end games, and four lost.

Murray State and Eastern Kentucky, both on the Aces' schedule, played each other, with Eastern Kentucky, winning 6-0.

Indiana State, ehallengers at the Homecoming game Oct. 23, lost to Southern Illinois 20-6 for their first defeat of the season, while Chattanooga, wbo held Georgia to a seven-point vietory and later defeated Tennessee Poly 18-7, lost to Tennessee to the tune of 26-0.

The University of Lonisville, who won over St. Joseph's of Indiana 20-0 in their previous game, lost last week to Xavier by a walloping 47-26.

Fundamentals Emphasized In Net Drill

Coach Arad McCutchan is stressing fundamentals as he continues to send his eagers through practice sessions each afternoon from 2:30 until 5:30 in the Armory. Twenty-nine hopefuls reported for the first practiee several weeks ago.

McCutchan is using touch football as a conditioner for those members of the net squad who may have become shortwinded and out of condition. The first half of the session is spent on the field across from the Armory and the last half is spent inside with the ball handling phase and driving under the hasket taking up most of the time.

Paul Keifer, captain of last season's quintet, is not out this year. Jim L. Barnett, student government president, and Andy Collins, moundsman for the college baseball nine, who performed during the past season did not report for practice this year.

Among the freshmen trying out for a position are Jim DeGroote, who has played with Navy teams for the past two years; Jerry Canterbury and Charles Nonweiler frrom Reitz; Willie Sakel, Huntingburg; Lewis Korff, Jasper; Lawrence Prusz, Holland; Clarence Ambrose, Mackey; Jack Gwaltney, Ft. Branch; Richard Skinner, Spurgeon; Ray Bawel, Boonville; and Thornton Patberg, Stendal.

Paul Beck, line coach for the Pingmen, will assist Coach McCutchan later in the season. Frank Switz and Bob DeBard are the student managers at the present time.

WAA Completes Plans To Entertain Freshmen

Freshmen women will be guests of Women's Athletic Association membbers at a weiner roast Tuesday from 4 until 6 p.m. at City Park, corner of Vann and Bayard Park.

Volleyball, softball, and croquet will be played. The committee in charge of the get-together includes Greta Elmgren Phyllis Tirmenstein, Joan Engelbert, Joan Hallinan, and Louise Kiely.

All women students, especially freshmen, are reminded that WAA meets every Monday and Tuesday from 4 p.m. until 5:15 p.m., according to a statement from Joan Engelbert, president.

Pingmen Favored Over Invading Kansas Braves

Evansville will throw its one and one record on the line tomorrow night at Bosse Field when they meet the Braves from Ottawa Kansas in the first game between the two schools. Kickoff has been set for 8 o'clock.

Wallace A. Forsberg, coach of the Braves, has 20 returning lettermen from last year's Kansas Conference Champion squad. Last year the Braves won sox games, lost two and tied one. Their two losses came at the hands of non-conference teams from Missouri.

Ottawa is reported to work chiefly from the single wing and is known for a lot of tricky ball handling, mainly in the way they lateral the ball.

Future Games

Oct. 16	Ottowa	Home
Oct. 26	Indiana State (Homecoming)	Home
Oct. 30	Chattanoogo	Home
Nav. 6	E. Kentucky	Away
Nov. 13	Louisville (Boy Scout Doy)	Home
Nav. 19	Murroy State	Away

Braves Break Even

The Braves have hroken even in their first four encounters this season. After opening with a 7-6 loss to Northwest Missouri Teachers they roared back and humbled Bethel College 47-12. In their third game the Missouri jinx stayed with them and they lost to Missouri Valley College 21-0. Last week they nosed out Kansas Wesleyan University 6-0 in a conference game.

Don Galey and Ray Coombes are the only two of the Evansville players who will not be ready to go, aceording to assistant Coach Paul Beck. Bill Miller, who has heen out of action for the first two games with a badly sprained ankle, will be ready for action and Dick Callahan, freshman end, is also expected to be on hand. Callahan also has heen suffering from a sprained ankle.

Kene Logel's knee injury is reported to have healed completely and he will be ready tomorrow. The injured knee didn't keep Logel out of either of the first two games but may have impaired his speed to a certain extent.

Starters Named

Ottawa will have Moore and Talley at ends, Claflin and Stoll at tackles, Pitts and Arensburg at guards and Haney will fill the center slot for them.

Walsh will start at Quarterback for the Braves. Musgrave and Viets will be in the halfback positions and the fullback spot will be filled by Hughes.

The Aces are slated to start with the same eleven that took the field in the Butler game. This includes Jack Crouch and Ted Ping at ends, Bill Russler and Charley Henderson at tackles; Bob Kunkel and Bob Gerhardt at guards; and Pat Fitzgerald at center.

Joe Unfried, Gene Logel, Mason Working and Morris Riley will be the Evansville backfield starters. Unfried will be at quarter, Logel and Working at the halves and Riley at fullback.

Eastern, Evansville Lead Ohio Valley By One Game

Eastern Kentucky State moved to the top along with the idle Purple Aces of Evansville College in the newly formed Ohio Valley conference.

The Maroons from Eastern rose to the top by virtue of a stunning upset victory over Murray State Saturday. The game was the first to he played in the conference by the two schools.

In the only other conference game last week, Western Kentucky State defeated Morebead 19 to 14. The defeat put Morehead in the conference cellar with Murray, both having lost their only conference game. Western earlier victim of Evansville moved up to third place, one game behind Evansville and Eastern. Louisville has yet to play a conference game.

There are no games within the conferrence this week. Evansville College plays host to Ottowa Kansas, while Louisville goes to Akron Ohio for a non-conference tilt, Murray plays Marshall at home, and Eastern journeys to Virginia with a game with Emery and Henry.

Murray's defeat left the conference without a single representative in the nation's list of undefeated teams. Before the Eastern game, Murray had won two games without a loss.

Student-Teachers Practice Locally

Miss Evelyn Cameron and Miss Harriet Buthod, shown above, are two of the 102 Evansville College students doing observation, participation, and teaching work the local public schools this quarter under the student teacher program of the department of education.

Miss Lucille Jones, head of the department of education, in explaining the student teacher program, stated that the program varies according to the level of teaching for which the student is preparing.

Teach Two Subjects

The students in the secondary education field spend the first quarter of their senior year in their restricted area, the second quarter in their comprehensive area, and the third quarter is normally spent in their comprehensive area, although time is usually given for additional work in the restricted area.

The comprehensive and restricted areas, which are roughly equivalent to the major and minor fields of study for other college students, are set up to comply with Indiana Department of Education regulations, which state that all teachers be qualified to teach at least two subjects.

The student teacher does observation, participation, and teaching in typical classroom situations in all four Evansville public high schools to gain wide experience. There are 73 students in the secondary education course at the present time. They also spend some time observing at the junior high school level, so they will be eligible to teach in grades seven through 12. Dr. Leland Moon and Dr. Robert Buell are in charge of those students teaching at the secondary and junior high school level.

17 Teach in Music Field

Miss Jones stated that in the public school music field 17 students spend one quarter teaching at the elementary and one quarter at the secondary level. These students are under the supervision of Miss Pearl Grahowsky and Wesley Shepard of the music department.

Student teachers in the elementary schools spend one-half day in the classroom. They are given the opportunity to observe and teach all subjects in the curriculum. These students work in six rooms at different grade levels during the year. Miss Jones supervises the students in the elementary field.

The supervising teachers, the regular teachers of the city school system under whom the students work, are selected by Miss Jones, Dr. Moon, and Dr. Buell, with the approval of Ralph Becker, city superintendent of schools.

Journalism Fraternity To Initiate Van Winkle

Harold Van Winkle, director of public relations, will be initiated into the Indiana University chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, tomorrow.

New members will be inducted immediately after the Indiana-Ohio State football game, according to information received from Doan Helms, Jr., president.

Mr. Van Winkle also will attend a formal dinner given by the chapter tomorrow night in honor of the initiates.

Four To Participate In Tri-State Group

Four faculty members are participating in the Fifteenth Annual Tri-State Conference on Pupil Personnel this weekend at the Hotel McCurdy.

At yesterday's general meeting, Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, college president, welcomed the visitors from the Ohio-Michigan-Indiana area. At the same session, Dr. James E. Morlock, dean of men, discussed "The Child's Adjustment to His Environment."

After this meeting, the conference adjourned to discussion groups. Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, was official recorder for the section on the significance of work as a factor in adjusting to one's environment.

This morning Miss Lucille Jones, head of the department of education, is speaking on a panel to discuss methods of helping to develop the potentialities of children.

The conference will end with a luncheon tomorrow at noon.

Kappa Chi Inducts Members Today

Kappa Chi fellowship will induct new members at 11 o'clock this morning in the chapel room of the library building, according to John Schofield, acting president.

During the induction ceremony the candidates will be instructed in the aims of the fellowship by members who have been formed into a large cross.

Mr. Schofield also has announced the appointment of the following committees:

Bill Whitledge, junior, membership; Charles Ballard, senior, program; and Howard Jacquess, senior, recreation.

Club To Honor Foreign Students at Dinner

Foreign students on campus will be dinner guests of the International Relations Club at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the college cafeteria. The dinner to honor students from other countries is an annual affair sponsored by the IRC and is the group's opening program of the school year.

Feature event of the evening is an address by Younghill Kang of Korea, assembly speaker for Tuesday and Wednesday. Also included on the program is the introduction of foreign students; a resume of the purpose and aims of IRC by Dr. Wade David, club sponsor; and a talk by Margaret Miki from Hawaii, who will describe IRC work in her country.

The dinner will be cafeteria style. Students, faculty members, and friends are welcome. Reservations should be made with Dr. David by Monday evening.

Chinese Relief Group Makes Plea to Hale

Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college, has received literature from the China's Children's Fund, Inc., an organization operating orphanage schools in China, Burma, the Philippines, Japan, and Korea, describing their efforts to improve living conditions among the children of China.

The children in these schools are war orphans. They are given schooling and vocational training and are taught democracy and the Bible.

However, because their funds are low, less than half of those in need of this care are in the schools. If any student is interested in making a contribution to this organization, Dr. Hale explained that the address is China's Children's Fund, Incorporated, Main Street at Fifth, Richmond, Va.

Picnic for Faculty To Be Tomorrow

The Faculty Club and the Faculty Dames Club are sponsoring their annual fall family picnic for the faculty and their families.

The picnic will be at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the shelter house by the lake in Audubon park, according to Mrs. Ralph Coleman and Miss Dorothy Rothrock, co-chairmen of the arrangement committee.

Faculty Dames on the committee are: Mrs. Edgar McKown, Mrs. William O. Harrtsaw, Miss Gertrude Leich, Mrs. Harold R. Botrell. Members of the Faculty Club on the committee are Frederich T. Wessel and V. W. Mavis.

Physics Department Gets Three New Transformers

Evansville College has received a gift of three 3-KVA pole transformers from the Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Company, Professor James F. Sears, head of the physics department, has announced.

These transformers are like the ones commonly seen on light poles in streets and alleys and are used in residential sections to step down company voltage to voltage in houses.

The gift transformers will be used for student laboratory work. Students will use them in electricity classes for running efficiency tests, regulation tests, and other standard transformer tests.

YWCA Offers Co-ed Classes

Co-ed ballroom dancing classes at the YWCA began Oct. 4 and will continue until Nov. 22. Persons interested in the classes may join even if they have missed the first lessons.

Adult beginners classes are on Monday from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by the Adult Advanced class from 8 to 9 p.m. The teen-age classes have been grouped according to ages and class hours have been arranged.

Robert Scott, who taught all of the dancing classes last winter, is instructing classes in foxtrot, waltz, jitterbug, and rhumba. All classes consist of an hour of instruction a week for eight weeks.

Square dances are held every other Wednesday night from 8 to 11 p.m. at the YWCA gym. Admission is 50 cents per person, the dances are open to the public.

Clarence Haller, the caller, gives instruction at the beginning of each square dance for the benefit of beginners. Schottische waltz and monthly folk dances also are featured.

Bookstore Supplies Do Vanishing Act During First Three Weeks

The college bookstore has sold over 10,000 books in the past three weeks, according to Mrs. Emma J. Scheiber, head of the store.

In addition to just books, the bookstore has sold over 8,000 packs of paper, 5,500 pencils, and many sundry items that are handled for the convenience of the students.

Much more work is done than appears to the average buyer on the customer's side. Such work as the continual ordering of books and supplies, keeping records of what books will be used for the different classes, veterans' accounts, and dozens of other jobs keep Mrs. Scheiber, her two assistants and four student helpers, busy.

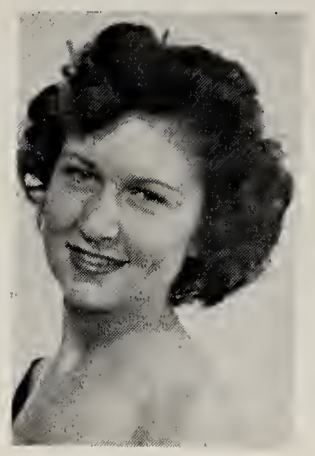
Merle Is Queen To Reign At Homecoming Activities

Faculty Assembly, Pep Rallies, Dances Scheduled for Homecoming Weekend



Helen Merle

Helen Merle, Independent, will be crowned football queen at the Homecoming Game tomorrow at Bosse Field. She was elected by a vote of the student body Wednesday, and will preside over the Homecoming Dance.

Her attendants will be Carole McCane, Castalian; Lucille Schmitt, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Lois Wiggers, Theta Sigma. Maragaret Mary Schenk is the Gamma Delta Representative.

Homecoming activities start this morning at 11 o'clock in the auditorium with a faculty pep assembly. Members of the faculty are participating in the different acts planned for the show.

A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English, is to act as master of ceremonies. Yells will be led by Virginia Haynes, assistant librarian, and Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president. James Morlock, dean of men, is in charge of a jug band which will offer several selections. A quartet entitled "Doctors of Music," with Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, leading, will sing several novelty numbers.

Pep Bally This Evening

Other features of the assembly include the presentation of the football team and music by Norman Kniese's band.

Stage acts by local entertainers will be included in the Pep Rally in the auditorium from 7 to 8 this evening. Master of ceremonies is Bob Hevron, junior.

Bill Scott's orchestra will play and other entertainment includes the Phoniacs Acts, Tommy Woods at the organ, Les and his Beboppers, Don Watson, vocalist, and Donna Kinnaman, aerobatic dancer from Bosse High School.

The indoor program is to be followed by a bonfire and more yells on campus near the tennis courts from 8:15 to 9:15. The yells will be led by Evelyn Cameron, Norbert Wooley, Jim Cooper, Don Wand, and Jerri Steinmetz, college cheer leaders.

Dancing In TUB

Juke-box dancing in the Temporary Union Building from 9:30 to 11 p.m. completes today's homecoming activities.

Tomorrow's pre-game parade will form at the college and move at 12:30 p.m. The different organizations and students will enter floats to be judged by a committee of alumni. Recognition will be given to the best floats at the Homecoming Dance on Saturday evening.

Jim Barnett, student government president, is chairman of the Homecoming committee. Other members include Joan Henn, Jim Cooper, Sam Humphrey, Bob Hevron, Norman Kniese, Paul Schmidt, Gene Christian, Angelo Howard, and Adrian Baize.

Decorations have been up on the campus since Wednesday and Bosse Field will be decorated before the game tomorrow afternoon.

Catalano To Play

The Purple Aces will play host to Indiana State college's Sycamores at the football game starting at 2 p.m. Between the half the football queen will be crowned by Bob Gerhardt, captain of the football team. Past queens, invited to the game as guests of the college, will have special seating reservations at the game.

The annual Homecoming Dance at the Armory from 9 to 12 p.m. climaxes the homecoming festivities. Chet Catalano and his 13-piece orchestra will play for the dance.

The new football queen will have the place of honor and past queens will be recognized. The winners of the float competition also will be announced. John Robertson will act as master of ceremonies for the dance.

●Meet the new faculty. Following its policy of encouraging student-faculty understanding and cooperation, THE CRESCENT has scheduled a series of features on new faculty on campus. These stories, with pictures and biographical data, alternate on pages two and four each week(see page 4 this issue).

●Outstanding student activities also made the news this week, proving once again that youth isn't necessarily a handicap on the road to success. Bill Bell, known to many students through his work as accompanist at assemblies, is one of the leading music students on campus, and we are delighted that he is already receiving recognition for his talent (see story page 2). And take notice he did the work for his own amusement, ontside of his regular assignments!

Miss Starry

●One of the most significant radio programs now being broadcast is the CBS Sunday show "The American Dream." The prodnction begins with the dramatization of a violation of one of the basic principles incorporated in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights—those principles involving freedom from discrimination because of race, religion, or color, which have become known as "the American dream." The last fifteen minutes of the program originates from local stations and features a discussion of the material presented in the dramatization as it applies to particular communities. Dr. Shockley conducts the Evansville discussions (see col. 2), which are particularly important at a time when the U. S. is being forced to reexamine and reaffirm its ideals.

●Evansville College's celebration of United Nations Week includes a special UN speaker in Wednesday's assembly. We have had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright discuss UN activities and suggest that students attending the upperclass assembly are in for a surprise. Contrary to general conceptions, the UN has been successful in many areas through its affiliated and related agencies, including UNESCO and Mrs. Wright is exceptionally qualified to discuss their function.

●Construction on the Student Union Building will begin in March or April; that is, construction will begin if the college can raise $100,000 before then. Actually, this amounts to an extension of the Student Union drive opened in June 1947 with a half-million dollar goal. Of this $500,000, just over $400,000 was collected by this fall. Since the original amount is considered necessary before construction can be started, the board of trustees has approved breaking ground next spring.

●Gordon Klahn, sophomore, won last week's "Listening Hour" question. Answer: Back and Handel, or Verdi and Wagner. Question number two is: "In what five countries has the tune of "America" been adapted to patriotic songs?"

For the week Oct. 25-29, the Listening Hour has scheduled a program by modern composers including Ravel (25), Holst (26), Respighi and Stravinsky (27), Dvorak, Enesco, Massenet (28), and Delius, Laidov, and Weinberger (29). Hereafter THE CRESCENT will carry a regular calendar listing composers and selections.

Junior Class Elects Seegert President

Mr. Seegert is a business major and a member of Phi Zeta fraernity. Miss Kaiser is taking a medical technology course and Miss Stumpf is majoring in elementary education. Both are members of Gamma Epsilon Sigma sorority.

A business administration student, majoring in marketing, Mr. Manion belongs to Phi Zeta fraternity.

Fraternities To Hand Out Bids After Assembly This Morning

The three social fraternities on campus will hand out bids for new members immediately after the pep assembly this morning in the auditorum according to James Morlock, dean of men.

Names of men having bids coming will be posted on the bulletin board. These men will remain in the auditorium to receive their bids and they will accept or reject them at that time.

Each fraternity had a rush party earlier in the week. The Phi Zeta party was held Monday night at the East Side Business Men's club room in the YMCA. Jim Manion, Paul Singleton, and Bob Hahn were in charge of arrangements.

Norman Kneisc was head of the Philo party on Tuesday night. This group entertained at the Disabled American Veterans headquarters in the Coliseum.

The Pi Kappas were hosts to the eligible rushees Wednesday evening at the YMCA. Harold Thomas, Henry Bippus, Festus Morneweg, and George Copeland were in charge.

To be eligible to pledge, a man must be carrying at least 12 quarter hours and must have had a C average in 12 hours work the last time he was enrolled at Evansville College.

Women's social sororities will have rush activities only in January, due to the change to quarter hours.

Upperclassmen Assembly To Hear U N Speaker

Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, will be the speaker in the upperclassman assembly Wednesday, Oct. 27.

Her topic will be "UNESCO—Peace Through Understanding." From its inception, Mrs. Wright has played an important role in UNESCO. She is a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO and attended the first general conference at Paris in November, 1946. She was alternate delegate from the United States to the second general conference at Mexico City in November 1947.

Mrs. Wright

Mrs. Wright is editor of "Foreign Notes," a bi-weekly summary of international events. After France was liberated and before the war ended in 1945, she went to France upon the invitation of several civic organizations of French women. She was formerly president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, and was chairman of the department of government and foreign policy of the National League of Women Voters. She is also a trustee of the American Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

Travels World Wide

Her interests in international affairs has taken Mrs. Wright all over the world—Geneva, Palstine, Syria, Iraq, Honolulu, Mexico, Japan, China, and Russia. She is advisor to the United States Delegation to the eighth Inter-American Conference at Lima, Peru.

Mrs. Wright's study of international affairs began at the University of Minnesota, where she majored in history. She is the author of "Toward a Collective Peace System," "American Neutrality," and "What Every Citizen Should Know About Foreign Policy."

Evening Group To Meet

An informal discussion group on the United Nations will be conducted by Mrs. Wright in the Cafeteria at 6:30 Wednesday evening. This will not be a repetition of her assembly topic but a different phase of the United Nations. Any student or member of the community who is interested in taking part in the discussion may make reservations with the history department.

Mrs. Wright appears on campus as part of the college Religious-Emphasis-United Nations Week activities, sponsored jointly by the Interfaith Planning Committee and the history department. The Reverend Joseph W. Baus will address the Tuesday assembly as part of the Religious Emphasis observances.

Shockley Conducts Radio Discussions

"The American Dream," a radio program conducted by Dr. Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English, is a weekly presentation sponsored by station WEOA.

The thirty-minute program is divided into two parts. A popular transcribed drama is presented during the first fifteen minutes, followed by a roundtable discussion, which Dr. Shockley conducts with prominent civic leaders of Evansville.

The transcribed play dramatizes some aspect of the American dream. The invited group then discusses the problems it presents, thoughts derived, and the relationship of this material to problems in Evansville.

Each week Dr. Shockley invites different men and women to participate in the discussions. Ralph Olmsted, Rabbi Martin Douglas, George Gray, Mrs. Mildred Miller, and others have already appeared on the program.

Long Appointed Member of North Central Staff

Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, has been appointed a staff member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, it was announced yesterday.

This appointment makes Mr. Long one of the six coordinators of the association and in this capacity he will visit 10 colleges in this area during the school year.

On these visits Mr. Long will meet with the faculty and special committees of the colleges as a counselor and will assist them in the study of their particular problems in higher education. He will spend one day at each college.

This is the first time Evansville College has had a member on the staff of this accrediting agency.

Calendar

Wednesday—11 a.m., U.N. speaker in assembly. Square dance in TUB at 7:30 p.m. "Eager Heart" tryouts in auditorium, 9 to 10 a.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Thursday—10 to 11 a.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., "Eager Heart" tryouts in auditorium.

Trustees Authorize Union Construction In March or April

Construction of the Union Building will begin next March or April if the college raises another $100,000 before that time.

The board of trustees approved this action at its regular fall meeting this week. It authorized the executive committee of the board to proceed with a follow-up financial campaign for the $100,000. President Lincoln B. Hale is to serve as the campaign director.

Since rather definite plans have been drawn up for the new building, the board has authorized the executive committee to review these plans with architects so that bids can be secured to determine the costs.

The board will discuss the matter of bids and the starting of construction at a special meeting this winter or at its next regular meeting in March.

The purpose of the Union Building, Dr. Hale explained to the board, is to provide for social education. Here a program of activities will aid students in personality development and in learning to work and to get along with others.

Such a program includes clubs and organizations, student government, and other group activities.

LinC Editor Announces Appointments to Staff

Staff appointments have been made for the 1949 LinC, the college yearbook, Jon Cundling, editor, announced this week.

Bob Hill, senior, will be the art editor. He has worked with Mr. Cundling for several months in planning the art makeup and page arrangements.

The sports editor, Eugene Market, has started to collect photographs of last spring's sport activities and to make arrangements to include all fall and winter sports in this year's book.

Sam Wherry, junior, will have charge of the photography. He is now arranging for a local photographer to take the senior pictures and is scheduling times to take pictures of organizations and clubs.

Mr. Gundling stated that there is to be an attempt to get a picture of each student in the book and to group together school departments and their activities.

Late News Breaks

Freshman and all new students should secure grades from counselors by today for work completed through the fourth week.

Student directories are to be issued beginning Monday morning. The student activity fee covers the publication charge of these books which may be secured at the bookstore.

The Community Chest Drive has been extended for one her week. Anyone wishing to make additional contributions should see Everette Wolker, director of student personnel service.

A student "Denton for Congress" meeting will be in the men's lounge, Tuesday, Oct. 26.

Koppo Chi Fellowship is having a weiner roast and initiation program at the Congregational Church on New Green River Road tonight at 7 p.m. Members and families are invited to attend.

Apostolos Kosinides, who was awarded an honorary Master of Science degree here in June, 1947, has written an article published in the October issue of Reader's Digest.

Students interested in entering the TUB clobber tournament should sign in the TUB office today. A list of participants is expected to be completed by Monday, and playing will start Wednesday.

The Reverend Ruben Bierboum, pastor of Bethel Evangelical Church, will be guest speaker at the regular SCA meeting at 11 a.m. Thursday in A301.

Religious Emphasis-U N Week To Be Observed Oct. 25-30

Two special speakers have been secured for the Religious Emphasis-United Nations week being observed next week on the campus, according to Elton Barnum, director of religious life.

This special week has been planned by the Inter-faith Planning Committee in cooperation with the college history department. Next week will be the first of the two Religious Emphasis Weeks planned for this year.

Local Pastor To Speak

In connection with the observance, the Reverend Joseph W. Baus, associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Evansville, will address the freshman assembly on Tuesday at 11 o'clock. His topic will be, "One O'er All the Earth" in which he will consider the problems of the individual and how he is responsible to the United Nations.

Mr. Baus will be on the campus all day on Tuesday and will meet with various classes from 8-11 o'clock. At noon he will be the guest at a student luncheon meeting and will participate in informal meetings of the students in the afternoon.

In the evening Mr. Baus will meet with a group of students at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Buell.

Served As Navy Chaplain

During the war Mr. Baus served as a Navy chaplain and is now a chaplain in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He received his B.S. degree from the University of Illinois, and a Bachelor of Theology degree from Princeton Theological Seminary.

He also has taken graduate work in education at the Union Theological Seminary and The Teachers College at Columbia University.

Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, will speak in the upperclass assembly on Wednesday in conjunction with the United Nations week activities.

Faculty To Travel Through Indiana

Two members of the faculty are visiting other campuses this week. Another is attending a conference in Indianapolis.

Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, will visit Indiana University tomorrow to speak at the initiation banquet of Alpha Gamma Delta, national social sorority.

The theme of the dinner will be "Jewels," with Miss Brown explaining the significance of the emerald.

John A. Boyd, CRESCENT adviser, is participating in the Indiana High School press association's annual meeting today at Franklin College, Franklin.

The newspapermen will discuss the problems of advisers to scholastic publications.

Harold W. See, head of the Evening College and the Placement Bureau, attended the semi-annual meeting of the Indiana Institutional Teacher Placement Association in Indianapolis on Wednesday.

Mr. See was the college representative from the Placement Bureau at the meeting, which was in the Lincoln Hotel.

The meeting included a discussion of the general problems of teacher placement as they apply to the state of Indiana. Trends in educational development were also discussed.

'Eager Heart' Tryout Dates Announced

Tryouts for "Eager Heart," traditional Christmas play, will be Wednesday aand Thursday, Oct. 27-28 in the auditorium. Times scheduled are 9 to 10 a.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, and 10 to 11 a.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Thursday.

A list has been posted on the bulletin board in the main hall of the Administration Building for the benefit of all students who wish to sign up for a position either as a member of the cast or as one of the stage crew.

Crescent Schedule Undergoes Change

Changes in the school's calendar to a quarter system has brought about a change in the number of times THE CRESCENT will be published, Robert Young, business manager, has announced.

The papers will be issued on Fridays as usual, but because of the many recesses and registration periods, there will be a few Fridays during the school year that the paper will not be issued.

Mr. Young pointed out that in December, for example, there would be only one issue of the paper. This is because final examinations are given the first week, and registration takes part of the next week. The last two weeks are for Christmas recess. That makes Dec. 17 the only time for an issue. There are twenty-three more issues this school year.

Alumni Will Have Banquet Today

Evansville College is having its annual alumni banquet today at 12:15 p.m. in the Pompeiian Room of the Hotel McCurdy.

For the past several years, the luncheon has been during the Southwestern Indiana Teachers Association Convention, which is now in session. It serves as an opportunity for Evansville College graduates, who are teaching in this area, to renew acaequintances with friends and faculty members.

This year there is a promise on the invitations that there will be no speakers on the program as in the past. However, John Boyd and Everette Walker, college faculty members, are chairmen of the program and they have promised that several things will happen.

All alumni, students, and faculty members are invited to attend.

Shrode Selected New Accounting Club Head

The Accounting Club, under Harry M. Landis, faculty adviser, has elected officers for the coming quarter. Russell Shrode, senior, was elected president, Richard Lambert, junior, vice president; and Harry Wilder, senior, secretary-treasurer.

Budgets Dwarf Student Fees

One of the most frequent complaints on campus concerns the seemingly exorbitant student activity fee. Last week THE CRESCENT breakdown of "beneficiaries" from the $12.50 students pay per term indicated that 65 cents per student goes toward the publication of the student newspaper.

Take that amount times the 1400 students carrying at least 12 hours per term, multiply by the three terms per year, and THE CRESCENT receives approximately $2730 during a college year.

That may sound like a magnificent sum, but take the breakdown a little further. There are 27 CRESCENT issues for 1948-49 or about $100 apportioned toward the expenses of each issue. Add to the $100 from student fees, $63 from advertising collections and THE CRESCENT operates within a budget of $163 per issue.

The budget breakdown goes something like this each week:

EXPENDITURES		INCOME
Linotype	$ 60	Student fees	$100
Printing	80	Ads	63
Pictures, Engravings	20
Misc. (mailing, supplies, etc.)	3
TOTAL	$163	TOTAL	$163

That leaves a total credit of exactly nothing even though expenses have been cut to the limit to offset rising printing shop costs.

Some people even have complained about the amount of advertising THE CRESCENT carries. A look at the chart above shows an increase in advertising space was necessary to make up the difference between cost of publication and the income from student fees. That "exorbitant" student activity rate seems somewhat smaller when 65 cent shares are considered in terms of budgets and expenses.

Don

Views 'n' Interviews

Shofstall

Because of the possible misnomer attached to this berbal dump heap, it has been suggested that I present an actual interview. Here 'tis:

The other day I was walking across campus with Doc Chanin—I'm not taking chemistry or any allied subject, so not a word. We happened to pass the Music Building and saw a student waving a short length of rubber tubing in the air. He spoke:

"Hi Doc. I'm giving away small portions of the chemistry department. Hope you don't object."

The Doc looked amazed and asked, "What good it that but for the lab?"

Just then another student, obviously of music, came out of the Music Building with a clarinet case under his arm. The first student called him over and asked him to show us how he had used the tubing. The clarinetist opened his case to exhibit about a quarter-inch of tubing shoved on one of the metal dinguses on his little black stick.

The woodwind enthusist explained, "The cork wore off. I was wearing corns on my thumb holding this thing, and yesterday I cut myself on it."

"George the humanitarian!" the Doc explained. "Do you always go around doing good things for other people?"

When the humanitarian answered only with a laugh, Doc Chanin turned and said to me, "Maybe you should interview George."

I reached for the ever present pencil and paper, when a third student dashed from the Music Building. As he passed he shouted, "Let's go!"

George, the humanitarian, and the lad with the little black case turned and followed him at a gallop.

As you can see, views are much easier to collect than interviews, especially when they are not your own. Here are some opinions, questions, and otherwise I've heard batted back and forth in those little groups that gather for a much needed smoke between classes.

Governor Dewey, in his campaign speeches, has made his keynote clean, competent government, with a decrease in bureaus, agencies and neopotism, and with the taxpayers getting their money's worth. If elected, one man wonders if such is possible.

Another soap-boxless-orator states that President Truman is ruining what slight chance he may have had by making his entire campaign a groundless tirade against the opposition.

And then there's the endless battle locally between the Mitchell and Denton partisans. One would-be politician quoted the doubling of margarine prices since Mitchell took office, and asked what he—Mitchell—had done to deserve re-election. Another asked what Denton had done to justify election. And still another wondered what any politician had ever done to deserve anything other than the fate of the late Louisiana Long. And so it went.

Where's the Music?

Last week the Fine Arts Committee started a listening hour of classic and semi-classic music that was to be a twice daily occurance in the TUB. The first program was grand, and it was a relief to hear after that constant "Be Bop" jamboree that usually predominates above the noise and chatter in our popular student hangout.

Unfortunately one unidentified student didn't like the record music so he (or she) contributed a coin to the juke box and punched a current hit tune while the classic was being played. The listening hour had to be discontinued in the TUB and it seems a shame for many students who really enjoy good music. They put up with the jazz all the time and in all fairness their likes should be considered for a short hour at least. Let's have more good music on campus. Who knows, if you really listen you'll probably enjoy the high brow as well as the low brow.

MUD! MUD! MUD!

The busiest person at the Aces-Ottawa game last Friday was the student manager who trotted in and out with clean footballs. All and all he must have traveled the length of the field at least a dozen times. The Aces proved that they were better swimmers by slipping, sliding, wading and crawling to victory. FAMOUS LAST WORDS: It looked like fun!

This week we present a boutonniere to Willim Bell for musical achievement in selling his own band arrangement of Schuman's Concerto to Schirmer's, Inc. Nice work, William.

While we are on the subject of flowers, we toss weeds, garlic and wild onions to the freshmen for failing to produce a pep assembly last Friday. We're open for explanations or excuses.

The faculty Pep Assembly this morning at eleven featuring Professor Spence, Dean Long and Dr. Morlock, among others, should be a rarity. Tonight there's going to be a pep rally in the auditorium and a bonfire. Let's all turn out to help the Aces beat Indiana State and make this the greatest Homecoming ever! See you in the smoke!

Hotel and Breakfast Scenes Cause Problems

One of the most important properties for two scenes of "Three Men on a Horse" is a bed in a second class hotel room. Finding such a property for several weeks of rehearsal posed a problem for the prop crew until an ex-G.I. suggested that a college G. I. bed, formerly used in the College Courts would be just the thing.

Mr. Olmsted, business manager and treasurer of the college, okayed the idea, so every afternoon the G. I. bed is set up for its role in the hotel scenes. It's amazing how useful those G. I. articles are!

Hungry actors Bill Taylor and Salli Henn find a breakfast scene a good chance to eat a late afternoon rehearsal lunch.

The stage crew found their first job in the scenery loft, cleaning it up. Cleanup usually comes after a play, but in this case it comes before and after, both. The crew head, Herman Litschgi and Ben Bockstage, stage manager, have done a good job of making the loft, located in the Women's Gymnasium, a real workshop for scenery and property construction.

Prop crew co-head Pat Starry, is a busy person keeping track of stage money, tables, chairs and dishes for three separate scenes. And she says the hero is forever losing his small notebook, the most important prop in the play.

Offices, Libraries Announce Hours And Regulations

Because many of the different offices on campus have reported difficulties and confusion with regard to their hours, here is a listing of the times when the departments will be open to the student body.

The library is also announcing its rules and hours for the fall quarter.

The business office which is in room 125 of the Administration Building is open from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1-4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. On Saturday this office is open from 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

TUB Opens At 7:30 A. M.

The registrar's office opens at 8:30 each morning, closes at 12, and is open again from 1-5 o'clock each afternoon except Saturday when the hours are from 8:30 to 12 noon.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday the Temporary Union Building opens at 7:30 a.m. and closes at 10 p.m. On Fridays the hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 7:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

Cafeteria hours are from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day except Saturdays when the doors open at 7 a.m. and close again at 12 noon. Sandwiches, chili, cold drinks, ice cream, candy, coffee, and cigarettes may be purchased at any time during these hours. Lunch is served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. and the evening meal is served between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. No meals are served on Saturday.

Library Rules Given

The reference library on the second floor of the Administration Building has the following hours: 8 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., 6:15 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday; and 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday.

Books may be borrowed from the reference library for two weeks and may be renewed for the same period. A fine of two cents a day is charged on each book which is not returned on time.

The reserve library is open from 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 7:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, and 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.

On weekdays books may be borrowed from the reserve library after 3 p.m. and must be returned not later than 9 a.m. the next morning. On Fridays, books may be borrowed after 2 p.m. for the wekend. A fine of 25 cents for the first hour and five cents for each succeeding hour up to 60 cents a day is charged for each reserve book overdue.

Student, Advisers Discuss Problems

Thirty-two student counselors met yesterday with Dr. F. P. Buller, director of testing and counseling, and Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, to discuss and map out more fully their specific functions and responsibilities to the freshmen of the college.

The counselors were appointed last summer and this fall on the basis of their personality, character, leadership ability, willingness to cooperate with the faculty counselors, and their genuine desire to promote and reflect the spirit of the college. During freshman orientation week, the counselors gave assistance to the freshmen and met with the various freshmen-faculty groups.

In speaking of their function, Dr. Buller stated, "It is their function to assist the freshmen in all matters that contribute to the total experience and development of the first year students.

"This they believe they can do by assisting the freshmen in understanding the meaning of grades earned in different courses; by helping them during pre-registration; by acquainting the freshmen with opportunities for participation in group activities and social functions; and by locating and encouraging those students who have talents for special activities.

"The student counselor's greatest concern is to render sympathetic and friendly assistance so that the freshmen will get the most out of college," he concluded.

Composer Makes Corrections

Bell Sells Concerto To Music Company

William Bell, senior music major, is still in a daze after selling an original band arrangement to the Schmirer Music Company of New York.

"Golly, I don't know what I did to deserve all this attention," exclaimed Mr. Bell as the above picture was being taken.

Last year Mr. Bell made a band arrangemnt of the first movement of Schuman's Concerto in A minor, originally arranged for piano and orchestra only.

Not an Assignment

He did the work not as an assignment, but merely for his own pleasure. The new arrangement was played for the first time at last year's midwinter band and choir concert.

Shortly afterwards, Miss Mary Sieber, clerk in Harding and Miller Music Store, spoke to a salesman of the Schirmer Company about the arrangement. The result was a letter from the editor of Schirmers asking to see the work.

Thinking it needed too many revisions Mr. Bell intended to ignore the request, but Wesley Shepherd, co-head of the department of music, advised him to send it anyway. Schirmers bought it immediately and sent it back, telling him he could make any revisions he thought necessary.

Big Wheel on Campus

Mr. Bell was named a Big Wheel on Campus, Campus Notable, and to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities last year as a junior. His schooling was interrupted by spending two and a half years in the Marine Corps during the year.

He is piano accompanist for the College Choir, and was president and accompanist for the Men's Glee Club last year.

At his senior recital on Nov. 4, Mr. Bell will play the second and third movements of his concerto as a piano solo. The remainder of the program.

"Variations and Fuge on a Theme by Handel" by Brahms; "Prelude" (for the left hand alone) by Scriabine; "Nocturne in C minor" by Chopin; "Ballad in F major" by Debussey; and "Caprice Burlesque" by Gabrilowitsch.

Aces Battle State in Homecoming Game Tomorrow

College Aces Confirm Power By Defeating Ottawa 18-6

By John Schrodt

Playing in a field that looked more like a barn lot during rainy April than a football field, Coach Don Ping's high-geared mud-slinging Aces proved that they were better than their Ottawa foes from Kansas by a score of 18-6.

A slim crowd of 3,000 spectatnrs watched the Aces wade, slip, and charge through almost 60 minutes of continuous rain at Bosse Field last Saturday evening. The only breaks in the rain came during the halftime intermission and for a few minutes near the end of the third quarter.

The Ottawa Braves made a net gain of only 67 yards against the powerful rushing Ace line, while the Aces gained 113.

Although the officials switched balls frequently, attempting to keep a dry one in play, both teams fumbled often. Evansville fumbled seven times, and Ottawa four.

Morris Riley, Gene Logel, and Dick Gonterman carried the ball to the 33 in the first quarter and then Logel went around the right end for a first down on the 15. Unable to score by running, Logel arched a pass to Ted Ping, who caught the ball in his stomach and went for the first touchdown of the game.

Logel made a 59-yard mud-sling blocking run in the second quarter for another touchdown. Playing defensive right half, Ray Coombes intercepted a pass and added an insurance tally in the third quarter.

An Evansville fumble set up the Braves' touchdown in the second quarter. The ball skidded out of Frank Endress' hands as he attempted to hand it to Delmar Pickels, and Ottawa recovered on the Aces' 31. A short pass and slide put the ball on the 16-yard line.

The Aces then suffered a 15-yard penalty for the unusual infraction of defensive clipping, which put the ball back to the one-yard line. Then an offside penalty against Ottawa put the ball on the six, but the Braves drove through the right side for the touchdown.

All of the Aces coming opponets won their games last week end. Indiana State defeated Illinois Wesleyan 6-0 during a steady rain in Terre Haute.

Eastern Kentucky outplayed Emory & Henry to a 35-6 score. University of Louisville was a victor over Akron, Ohio, by a score of 13-0.

Murray State College defeated Marshall College 27-0 and the University of Chattanooga played havoc with Presbyterian College with a score of 35-0.

Indiana State's Sycamores will be the Aces' homecoming opponent for the third time since 1931. In the two previous meetings on homecoming day with State the Aces have yet to emerge victorious.

Aces' Saturday Opponents

Indiana State's Fighting Sycamores will invade Bosse Field tomorrow afternoon in the Homecoming football game. It is the third time that State has been the homecoming opponent for the Aces and Evansville has yet to win from them on Homecoming. The Sycamores are in their twenty-first year under the direction of Head Coach Wally Marks, a graduate of the University of Chicago in 1927. With the exception of two years in the navy, Marks has been at the Terre Haute school since that time.

Future Games

Oct. 26 —	Indiana State (Homecoming)	Home
Oct. 30 —	Chottonooga	Home
Nov. 6 —	E. Kentucky	Away
Nov. 13 —	Louisville (Boy Scout Day)	Home
Nov. 19 —	Murray Stote	Away

Past Homecoming Games Give Aces Edge in Wins

The Sycamores toppled Evansville 13 to 6 in 1931, and held the Aces to a scoreless tie on homecoming day in 1936. Between these dates, the Aces knocked off Oakland City, Rose Poly, Valparaiso, and held Wabash to a tie, in homecoming tdts.

Aces Go Scoreless

On homecoming day in 1937, Depauw scored 13 points while holding the Aces scoreless. This did not increase Depauw's rating because the Aces gained the dubious distinction of not scoring a point that season.

After losing to Louisville and Earlham on homecoming days in 1938 and 1939, the Aces broke out with avengeance in 1940 smashing Earlham 34 to 0.

In 1941 the Purple and White defeated Central Normal 13 to 0, and then fell before Louisville in their last homecoming game prior to the war 30 to 0, in 1942.

Win From Southern

Don Ping became head coach of the Aces in 1946, and since his arrival, Evansville hasn't lost a homecoming game. In 1946 the Pingmen defeated Carbondale 21 to 7, and last year they scored once in the mud to subdue previously undefeated Upper Iowa, 7 to 0.

Since 1931 the Aces have a homecoming day record of seven wins, five losses, and two ties. They enter the game with a record of two wins and one loss for the year while Indiana State has a record of three and one.

Seeger Explosion Hurts Quarterback's Father

Injuries and new additions took their toll of the Aces at Tuesday's practice session. The injuries were not to the team members and the new addition was not to the team.

Mrs. Frank Endress presented the fullback with an eight pound five ounce girl, born at St. Mary's hospital.

Quarterback Dick Gonterman's father was seriously injured in the explosion at the Seeger factory. He is reported in an improved sondition now.

A mine accident at Boonville was the cause of injury to Paul Wires, father of Lemois Wires, freshman halfback. Mr. Wires suffered a fractured leg and lacerations in the mishap.

Pingmen Seek Third Win Against Sycamore Team

Indiana State's Fighting Sycamores will provide the opposition for the Aces tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when they clash in the Homecoming game. Both teams are out to increase their win streaks. Indiana State has won three and lost one and the Aces have won two and lost one.

Evansville seems to have recuperated from their swimming meet victory over the Braves from Ottawa and should be ready to go against the Sycamores. John McDougal is on the doubtful list due to an injured hip acquired in last week's game.

Coach Wally Marks is bringing down an experienced squad with 23 lettermen back from last year. Eleven of the Sycamore lettermen are backs. The visitors won five and lost three in 1947 and outscored their opponents 107 to 105. Their victories were over Valparaiso, Southern Illinois, Illinois Wesleyan, Eastern Illinois Teachers, and St. Joseph's College. Illinois Normal, Marshall College and Ball State were the winners over the Terre Haute team.

Marks Heads Sycamores

Worst setback in the past two seasons for the Marksmen came in the 33-6 drubbing at the hands of Marshall College.

Indiana State has been under the direction of Coach Wally Marks for the past 21 years, with the exception of two that Marks spent in the Navy. Marks was one of the grid greats at the University of Chicago, playing varsity football for three years. In his sophomore year at Chicago he led the Maroons to their first Big Ten championship.

State's squad is bolstered by one player from Evansville, Winfred Kalkwarf, a former Reitz gridder. Kalkwarf is a 6' 5", 240 pound tackle. Max Woolsey, junior halfback, was the leading scorer for the Sycamores last year, with four touchdowns for 24 points.

Lineups Named

Coach Marks will probably start John Delvecchio and Don Kunkel at ends, Augie Lambert and John Petrila at tackles, Ike Cohen and Mike Gordon at guards, and Elwood Roloff at center. Bob Chester, former Vincennes basketball and football player, will be at quarterback for the Sycamores. Bob O'Neill and Max Woolsey will be in the halfback slots and Jack Whitmer will start at fullback.

Evansville will probably have Ping and Cronch at ends, Russler and Henderson at tackles, Gerhardt and Kunkel at guards, and Elliott or Fitzgerald at center. Unfried, Gonterman or Watson will be at quarterback, Logel and Working at the halves and Riley or Endress at fullback.

Pickels, Galey, Ulrey and Hunter are other Aces who will probably see a lot of action in the Homecoming game.

Half-time ceremonies will be devoted to the crowning of the Homecoming queen, who will sit with her attendants in a specially reserved box at the game.

Home Net Chart Lists 12 Games, 11 Road Trips

Evansville's Purple Aces have lined up a schedule that includes 21 games and two tournaments for the 1948-49 basketball season, Coach Arad McCutchan has announced. The campaign gets under way on Saturday night, Nov. 27, at the Armory, with Oakland City College furnishing the opposition. One of the outstanding attractions on the home schedule will be when Anderson College's Ravens and high-scoring Johnny Wilson come to town on Dec 9.

The Aces have 10 Ohio Valley Conference games booked in addition to the conference tournament to be held at Louisville Feb. 23, 24, and 25. The conference championship will be decided at this tourney. Competing teams are Evansville, Louisville, Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky, Murray, and Morehead.

The Aces will play in the second annual Jaycee Tournament at Vincennes, Dec. 29 and 30. Other teams in this tournament have not been definitely decided, but a tentative lineup has Southeast Missouri Anderson, and Southern Illinois as the Aces' opponents. Evanville is the defending champion having defeated Canterbury and Southern Illinois to capture the crown last year.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Nov.	27	Oakland City	(H)
Dec.	1	Southeast Missouri	(H)
	4	Kentucky Wesleyan	(H)
	9	Anderson	(A)
	11	Southern Illinois	(A)
	17	Morehad	(A)
	18	Eastern Kentucky	(A)
	23	Ottawa	(H)
	29 and 30	Jaycee Tournament
Jan.	6	Southeast Missouri	(A)
	11	Murray	(A)
	13	Western Kentucky	(H)
	18	Oakland City	(A)
	20	Eastern Kentucky	(H)
	27	Southern Illinois	(H)
	29	Indiana State	(H)
Feb.	3	Louisville	(H)
	5	Indiana State	(A)
	8	Western Kentucky	(A)
	10	Murray	(H)
	16	Louisville	(A)
	19	Morehead	(H)

All home games will be played at the Armory.

Clean Seats Result Of Stiff Workout

By BILL COLLINS

Empty bottles, used cold drink dispensers, and discarded newspapers littered the scene as men armed with brooms entered Reitz Bowl early those Saturday mornings.

Hours later fans began to trickle into the stadium for a game between the Evansville College Aces and a grirlron opponent to find a spic and span expanse of seats.

This transition was worked by a crew composed in part of Bussel Day, Jim Love, Sam Wherry, Paul Irey, Don Howard, Harry Williamson, Carl Bradshaw, and Don Hartig.

Before the Western Kentucky and Butler games men were hired through the college placement bureau to clean up Reitz Bowl. There were 18 men on the crew that swept up the debris before the Western Kentucky-Evansville College game, and all were hired on an hourly wage scale of 75 cents. The crew that cleaned up the Butler game worked on a contract basis.

The possibility of finding anything valuable in the waste was lessened considerably by a group of children who preceded the clean-up crew each morning.

In the future crews will be hired by Reitz officials, leaving several experienced Evansville College students temporarily unemployed.

Clayton Discussion Wins Fourth Place At Conference

Clarence Clayton, junior, finished fourth in a discussion panel at the recent meeting of Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensics honor society, at Purdue University. He competed in a field of nearly a hundred students from Indiana and Michigan.

Mr. Clayton is an English major and has appeared on several radio discussion panels and several debates. He has participated in several speech contests.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider timely problems and draft resolutions to be sent to Congress. Two problems were discussed, Federal Aid to Education and Civil Rights legislation. Ten subcommittees were formed, five for each problem. Each subcommittee had nine members. The groups met three times each day, and the speakers were graded by a critic on the basis of their discussion in that group.

Mr. Clayton discussed Civil Rights Legislation and will receive a certificate for his work with that problem

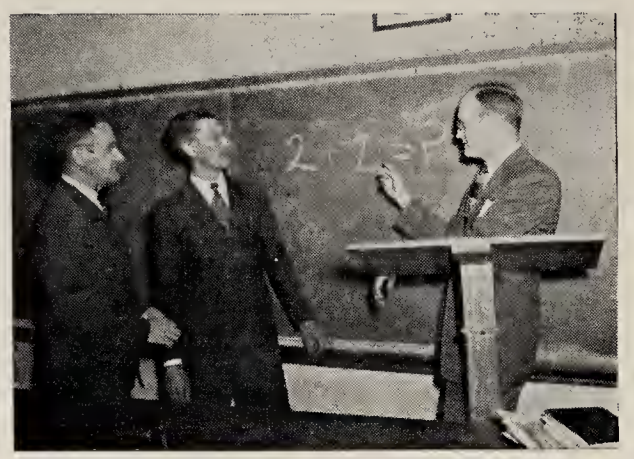
Robertson To Sing In Senior Recital

John Robertson, baritone, will present his senior recital at 8:30 o'clock Monday night in the auditorium.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Harris D. Erickson, who is his voice instructor.

His program will be: "Rolling in Foaming Billows," Haydn; "It Is Enough," Mendelssohn; "O My Father," DuBois; "Per me giunts," Verdi; "Se tu della mia morte," Scarlatti; "Fur Musik," Franz; "Romance," Debussy; "Divan of Hafig," Harling; "Beasts of Rurden," Rosza; "Voices," Hageman, and "Pilgrims Song" by Tschaikowsky.

Three New Members Join Business Staff



Harry M. Landis, Arthur Wardelman and C. H. Slusher are pictured above trying to solve a difficult" accounting problem for a baffled class.

By BILL COBB

Two and two are four, obviously. Take four, substract one, and that leaves three. Three new professors is what the department of accounting has this quarter. Take one Landis, add a touch of Slusher, mix well with a portion of Wardelman, and you have the ingredients for a good accounting staff.

Harry M. Landis, professor of accounting, is a graduate of Wayne University, where he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He taught there for five years and was formerly head of the department of accounting. He teaches both beginning and advanced accounting here.

Has Two Children

Professor Landis is married and has two children. A son is doing graduate work in physics a the University of Minnesota, and a daughter is a junior at Wayne. The Landis family spends its summers in northern Michigan, where they have a summer home on Charlevoix Lake.

Mr. Landis is well pleased with Evansville, and says, "My first impression was very good and my subsequent experience has served to prove the correctness of my first impression. I have found the faculty and students pleasant and cooperative."

C. H. Slusher, assistant professor of marketing, teaches two sections of accounting, besides his regular salesmanship and retailing classes. He was graduated from Virginia Polytech, where he received his B.S. degree in 1940 and his M.S. degree in 1948. He taught there from 1946 to 1948.

Mr. Slusher likes all sports, but he says basketball and football are his favorites. He enjoys bridge and likes to bowl occasionally. A veteran of four years army service, he spent two years overseas with the 26th Infantry.

Mr. Slusher was impressed with the warmness of Evansville citizens, and he says, "For a city of this size it displays the most genuine hospitality I have ever known."

Evansville Graduate

Arthur Wardelman, instructor in accounting, is a graduate of Evansville College, receiving his B. S. degree here in June, 1947. He has finished most of the work for his Master's at Indiana University. He teaches beginning accounting, and this is his first teaching assignment.

A 1940 Reitz graduate, Mr. Wardelman was in the Army reserve at Evansville. He entered active duty in 1943 and, after completing basic infantry training, spent five months with an A.S.T.P. unit. He was sent to the 95th Infantry and served overseas with that outfit until he was wounded in November, 1944.

Political Assembly Set For Monday Morning

Edward Mitchell, incumbent congressman from the Eighth Indiana District, and Winfield K. Denton, local attorney, former state representative, and candidate for Congress from the Eighth District, will speak to students in a special assembly Monday, at 11 a.m., under the sponsorship of the college Pre-Law Club.

The purpose of the assembly is to give the student body an opportunity to hear and see congressional candidates.

Chicago Home Economist To Address Students

Miss Kathryn Sandmeyer, home economist from the Research and Educational Division of the Evaporated Milk Association of Chicago, will be the next speaker in the series of special guests and demonstrators scheduled as a part of the college home economics program this quarter, Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department, announced.

Miss Sandmeyer will speak in the foods laboratory, Room A403 on Oct. 29 during the 9 and 10 p.m. class periods. She will be assisted by Mrs. Lanna Arnold and Miss Marilyn Marshall, both juniors, majoring in home economics.

Other speakers this quarter have included: Miss Esther Brown from the Evansville Dairy Council, and Miss Martha Carnes, director of home economics at Servel.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

●For those who, like us, are still trying to get settled in a new college year, a "stop short" reminder—this is the end of the first week of the last half of the present quarter (see col. 6). Anyone considering droping a subject after today should take another look at his grade and his point average.

Incidentally, there are no official mid-term grade releases under the quarter system. Students, who are really curious about their class standing, should arrange to see their individual instructors.

●Since one of the first principles of journalism is accuracy, obviously the cardinal sin is inaccuracy. However, it is human to make mistakes, and the people who make up a newspaper are quite human. No newspaper likes to admit having made an error, but having done so is willing to print a retraction.

Miss Starry

But, as we said, even journalists are human, accustomed to the ordinary considerations and courtesies of polite society. Accuracy is no excuse for lack of manners. Following accepted newspaper policy, THE CRESCENT is willing to print corrections of errors where such errors are pointed out by proper authorities. We do not feel obliged to consider complaints by irate people who refuse to give their names.

●We weren't there, but reliable sources tell us some of the jokes at the Pep Rally last Friday were a bit risque. One in particular seems to have aroused a bit of a furor. Word from Jim Barnett indicates that the entertainer in question was specifically told not to give the joke. That is one of the problems with which entertainment committees with no funds are faced when recruiting talent. They must take what is available and have no way of controlling the material used.

●Before someone beats us to it—anyone who thinks THE CRESCENT SPOOK resembles a recent local Mystery Man, don't ask us. We'd have to deny it.

●Ralph Abshire, sophomore, won last week's Listening Hour question. Answer to the question—In what five countries has tthe tune of "America" been adopted to patriotic songs?"—Denmark, England, Germany, Switzerland, and the United States. See story page 4 for next week's Listening Hour schedule.

●THE CRESCENT wishes to thank all contributors of prizes to THE CRESCENT SPOOK contest. Personally, we think the clues are out of this world, but here's luck to someone.

●On page 4 is the second of the interviews featuring the two new students from other countries on campus. Actually, Margaret Miki is not from another country and to her being in the states means "visiting the mainland," but to those of us accustomed to four seasons, Hawaii is another country wonderland.

Kappa Chi Inducts New Members at Ceremony

Four students were recently inducted into the college chapter of Kappa Chi, national fellowship for students studying for the ministry and other church work, in a ceremony conducted at the Union Christian Church on Green River Road.

The new members are Ray Kuhlenschmidt, Peggy Nicholson, Maragaret Miki, and Robert White.

Officers of the chapter are John Schofield, acting president; James Heady, treasurer; Edwin McClure, secretary; and Walter Jarboe, marshall.

Fraternities Announce Pledging Of 53 Men During Assembly

Fifty-three men were pledged to the three social fraternities at last Friday's pledge assembly, according to Dr. James Morlock, dean of men.

Phi Zeta pledges were Bill Cobb, Herman Litschgi, Palmer Stanley, Glen Bartelt, Arthur Adye, Bob Hartman, Bob Ahrens, Steven Cosgrove, Wallace Adye, Bob Patry, Jim Finn, Clayton Brant, and Bob DeBard.

Pledging to Pi Kappa were Jim Brown, Jim Allen, Bob Hammelman, Jim Aldrich, Lloyd Norrick, Bob Peters, Jim Jackson, Jack Pasternack, Bill Schroeder, Ted Cocca, Donald Cobb, and Keith Kramer.

The requirements necessary to be eligible for pledging to a fraternity include carrying at least 12 quarter hours with a C average in 12 hours work at the time last enrolled at Evansville College.

Organize Choir for Vesper Services

Students and Faculty Attend Science Meet

All of the faculty connected with the chemistry department left this morning for Bloomington to attend the sixty-fourth annual meeting of the Indiana Academy of Science at Indiana University, according to Dr. Alvin Strickler, head of the department of chemistry.

Also attending are Dr. Grace C. Kimball, associate professor of biology, Milton Peacock, assistant professor of mathematics and physics, and a group of students majoring in the various sciences.

The group will attend the forenoon session at 11:30 this morning, and the afternoon session at 2 p. m. to hear papers read by members of the academy. Topics to be discussed include botany, chemistry, physics, entomology, and plant taxonomy.

Pre-Med Club Names Officers for Quarter

Officers of the Pre-Med Club elected for the first quarter are president, Irene Bailey; vice president, Cene Gore; secretary, Elaine Lashley; treasurer, Thomas Walker; and critic, Barbara Brown.

Appointments include: program chairman, Robert Glenn; entertainment chairman, Toni Dillion; and publicity chairman, Elaine Lashley.

The club meets every second and fourth Thursday in A-215. During the year local doctors will be guest speakers at meetings. All pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-nursing, and medical technician students are invited to attend these meetings.

Student Sells Color Slides To Publicity Firm in California

An amateur photographer, Mr. Market reports that during the past 12 years he has sold his color slides to publicity organizations in as many states and cities for use in travel folders and magazines. He said that he believes his proudest achievement came last summer when Holiday magazine published four of his color pictures in their San Francisco feature article.

Mr. Market uses a Kodak 35 with built-in range finder for his color work and a German made Eastman for most of his black and white pictures.

On campus, Mr. Market is sports editor of the 1949 LinC and has served in that capacity on THE CRESCENT. He is a member of Pi Kappa, Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity, the camera club, and the Newman Club. He has served as student manager for the football team for two seasons.

Just Two Weeks

What a Difference A Date Makes

Most people are easily confused by dates and figures. Elton Barnum, director of religious life, became aware of this fact when in lining up advance speakers for the college vesper services and future Religious Emphasis Week programs, he had occasion recently to write to a pastor in Ohio.

His letter read: "I am extending to you on behalf of the pastors of Evansville, the students and the faculty of Evansville College, a very earnest invitation to share our service with us on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 5, 1950, and on Tuesday and Wednesday of that week in our assemblies."

The busy pastor, apparently interpretiag the date of his anticipated visit as two weeks from the current date, quickly sent his polite rejection of the invitation saying his schedule was full from now until the first of June.

Mr. Barnum, still feeling that two years is ample time for a notice, rewrote his invitation, this time underlining the 1950.

Today Is Deadline To Drop Classes

Pre-registration for the winter quarter will begin Nov. 2, and will continue for two weeks, according to G. R. McCoy, director of admissions.

A list of all the students with their advisors is now posted on the bulletin board in the Administration Building. Advisors have the schedule of classes and students should see their respective advisors for appointments to arrange classes. The office hours of advisors were published in the Oct. 15 issue of THE CRESCENT.

Freshmen will pre-register with their faculty counselor and should see their student counselor for any needed advice or information.

Mr. McCoy emphasized that the pre-registration of a student was not completed until he had turned his schedule into the registrar's office for final approval.

Bridge Club Announces First-Round Winners

First place on the North and South sides of the first Duplicate Bridge Club meeting was a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Balyeat and Mr. and Mrs. Myron C. Bishop.

Boyd, assistont professor of journalism, and Miss Doris Kirk, sacial director. The new handbook is to contain constitutions, rules and regulotions of the college.

Early Registration Starts Tuesday

Students who withdraw from courses after the seventh week of school will receive a grade of WP if passing, and WF, if failing, according to a ruling made at a recent faculty meeting.

The seventh week of this quarter will end today.

In making the announcement, Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the college, stated that WF would be treated as an F in figuring grade points for probation.

Students who have, or do, withdraw before the end of the seventh week will receive a W on their records. This, however, will not be counted in computing grade points.

Mid-quarter grades will not be distributed as in the past, but may be obtained from individual instructors if they have not already been posted.

Faculty To Present Music Assembly

Piano, cello, violin, and vocal selections will be featured in the regular assembly programs Tuesday and Wednesday. Scheduled to participate in the programs are Miss Allene Herron, Miss Mae Ruth Pietila, and Frederick Wessel from the music department faculty, and William Nation, concert master of the Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra.

Miss Herron, assistant professor of music, will present the piano solo, "Nocturne in C Minor" by Chopin. Cello numbers by Miss Pietila, instructor in cello, piano, and theory, are to include "Melody" by Bridge and "The Swan" by Saint-Saens.

Violin selections by Mr. Nation will be "Allegro Assai" from Sonata No. 5 by Bach; "Berceuse" by Por Aulin; and "Adoration" by Borowsky. Mr. Wessel, instructor in music, will sing "Charles Rutdledge" by Charles Ives.

Philharmonic Orchestra Includes 26 Students

Over One-third of Orchestra Members Students Majoring, Minoring in Music

Twenty-six students from Evansville College will participate in the first of the fourteenth concert series of the Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra Monday evening, Nov. 1, at Bosse High School auditorium.

Over one-third of the Philharmonic members are students who are majoring in music and some who are minoring in music. Students who are participating for the first time include Donna Cyrier, Carol Sue Harris, Frances Huff, Dorothy McNeely, Dean Seegert, Joe Williams, and Pat Bates.

Other Performances

Students who have taken part in previous performances are: Mona Dugan, Greta Elmgren, Dorothy Erk, Lyman Halll, Norman Heim, Gil Korb, Harold Lively, Don Pribble, Shirley Ray, Marilyn Ramsey, Joyce Robinson, Ruth Samson, Walter Schmitt, Margaret Scholz, Katherine Tiemann, Phyllis Tirmenstein, Fred Webb, Ray Windles, and Dave Bernhardt.

The Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra cooperation fosters the careers of promising young musicians by awarding scholarships each year. It also offers young students the opportunity to gain experience in their early years and provides an outlet for Tri-Sate talent.

Miss Dorothy Powers, violinist, will be the guest performer with the Philharmonic Monday.

Miss Powers is ranked with the foremost of women violinists and has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia Symphony, and other leading orchestras.

Dr. George Dasch, associate professor of music, is conductor of the orchestra. Dr. Dasch begins his sixth season as director with the Monday concert.

Organization Wants Aid To Help Negro College

The education committee chairman of the United Negro College Fund has asked Evansville College students to contribute to the support of the Negro colleges in the United States, according to Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college.

The United Negro College Fund was organized in 1944 to help the private Negro colleges, which were finding it extremely difficult, and, in some cases, almost impossible to finance their current educational programs.

Large philanthropic bequests, which were the mainstay of these schools, fell off considerably in the years before and during the war. Because of the need of money in the colleges, the fund was originated.

Before a Negro college can be eligible for the benefits of the fund it must meet the following requirements: The college must offer a complete four year course; it must be a private institution; and it must be accredited A or B by the local accrediting agency.

Anyone desiring to make contributions to the fund should send the money to 38 East 57th street, New York 22, N. Y., according to Dr. Hale.

Secretarial Club Lists Committee Members

Jacqueline Schmitt, president of the Secretarial Science Club, has announced club committee appointments for the quarter, according to Phyllis Tirmenstein, publicity chairman.

Appointments include: program chairman, Ruth Nendel; invitations, Mary Hormuth, Antoinette Heldt, and Mary Lou Muth; menu, Nancy Lou McCalfrey and Vera Espenlaub; and girl-of-the-month chairman, Carolyn Miller.

Other officers elected last spring are: vice president, Ruth Nendel; secretary, Betty Berges; and treasurer, Helen Bollinger.

Freshman initiations will be conducted at the Nov. 8 meeting, according to Miss Tirmenstein. The club meets the second Monday of every month.

Women's Music Club To Initiate Members in National Fraternity

Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, will initiate its charter members and patronesses from Evansville College Friday, Nov. 4, at the Hotel McCurdy.

Formerly known as the Evansville College Music Club, the group was granted a charter in the national organization this fall after active campaigning along that line last year. Mrs. Harris Erickson, assistant professor of voice, is faculty sponsor.

Mrs. Erickson became a member of S.A.I. while studying at Columbia University and has been working with the girls to get their charter for some time.

National Officers To Be Here

Two national officers of the fraternity, Mrs. Kathleen Davison, Des Moines, Iowa, the national president, and Mrs. Edna Rait Hutton, national editor of "Pan Pipes" the S.A.I. magazine, will perform the initiation of patronesses and active members.

Assisting them will be representatives from the Zeta chapter of Jordan Conservatory at Indianapolis, members of the Iota chapter at Indiana University, and members of the alumni chapter located in Evansville.

Banquet To Be Given

A banquet for all new members, alumni members, patronesses, and out-of-town guests will be served Friday evening at the hotel. Final meetings to complete the granting of the charter will be held Saturday morning at the college by the college deans, the heads of the music department, and President Lincoln B. Hale.

Joyce Gardener, who was an active member of the group in Murray, Ky., is president of the new organization. Other officers include Lois Lutz, sophomore, vice president; Virginia Newman, senior, secretary; Eulalie Wilson, sophomore, treasurer; Marilyn Ramsey, senior, chaplain; and Shirley Ray, senior, sergeant-at-arms.

Find, Identify THE CRESCENT SPOOK! Winner To Receive Jackpot of Prizes

Somewhere along the many corridors of the buildings of Evansville College roams THE CRESCENT SPOOK. It is neither animal, vegetable, nor mineral, but purely a thing of the spirit. And it will remain so until one of the student body can properly identify it.

This is a chance to join in the Hallowe'en activities and fun. And there are loads of nice prizes to be given away.

Clues to the identity of THE CRESCENT SPOOK are hidden in the following tale. Read it and rush! The first correct entry will take all.

High upon a not too barren hill—three trees and two barn-like edifices—the moon was barely peeping over the top when a gaunt figure rose and was outlined for all the world to see. But not many saw it. And those who did ran quickly away.

For his face was scarred from the hairline to what may be called a chin. His nose was nothing more than a black, black hole slightly left of center. His small and puffy eyes still managed to give the impression of burning coals. Gad, what a sight!

This creature hated everything and everyone—even those who might someday be his brothers in infamy—even himself. He existed for one night each year when he could drape himself in a sheet and leave his lonely hill.

And this was it! Hallowe'en! So THE CRESCENT SPOOK gave a laugh, merrily donned his clothes, grabbed his pumpkin face, spread his wings, and flew away.

There are the clues. Just follow these rules:

1. Entries may be placed in the SPOOK BOX in the TUB until 4 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 2.

2. The contest is open to all members of the student body of Evansville College except memebrs of THE CRESCENT staff.

3. Each entry must have a CRESCENT nameplate (see top of this page) with today's date enclosed. There is no limit on the number of entries one person may submit.

4. Each entry, in a sealed envelope, must include name, address, and telephone number on the same sheet of paper as the guess of the identity of THE CRESCENT SPOOK. The entry must also state in no more than ten words why the particular selection is made.

5. The prizes will be awarded to the first correct answer received. In case of a tie, the statement will be the deciding factor. All decisions of the judges are final.

Among the many prizes are:

Two tickets to the Family Drive-In Theatre; box of cashews from Aster Nuts; shoe repair service from Phil's Shoe Shop; pass to a miniature golf course; flat tire repair; two tickets to the Chicago Livestock Convention; box of candy from Hermann's Confectionery; mystery prize from Kuester's Department Store.

Also one meal at the T-Hut; two weeks of shoe polishing from Kenny Bryant, senior, with Rusty standing guard; $2 in food at the College Drive In; one pair of hand knit argyle socks from THE CRESCENT staff; A. C. Spence, professor of English, will check one English theme up to 300 words; one compass for an automobile from the Van Stone Filling Station; and $2 service from Crescent Cleaners.

Happy hunting!

There's a Song in the Air

Music Department Adds 3 to Staff

By Sara Toyen

Pietila, Grabowsky, and Cannici—their names sound more like a Notre Dame backfield than three new members of the staff of the department of music.

The student body already has had an opportunity to meet charming Miss Mae Buth Pietila when she presented a cello recital on Oct. 12. She also teaches piano and string bass.

Miss Pearl Grabowsky, who formerly tanght choral music at Kalamazoo, Mich., Jr. High School, is now instructing in music education. She supervises the choral music practice teachers.

Have Housing Problems

Both Miss Grabowsky and Nicholas Cannici consider themselves quite lucky to be here. The Evansville housing shortage almost got them down. With the aid of Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, Miss Crabowsky finally found a home — but it is in Newburgh. Mr. Cannici and the college worked things out, and he and his family are living in the veterans' housing project.

Mr. Cannici received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Indiana University where he also did some graduate teaching in clarinet. He is a member of the Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra and Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary music fraternity. He served in the Army Air Force during the war.

"The outstanding thing I have noticed about Evansville College," said Mr. Cannici, "is the wonderful cooperation that one receives from both the students and other faculty members. It is really a pleasure to be here."

Has Many Degrees

Miss Crabowsky has "enough degrees for a dozen persons" including a Bachelor of Education from Northwestern, Bachelor of Music and Master of Music from the Chicago Conservatory and a M.A. from the University of Michigan. Her favorite recreation is "messing around with photography."

While in Kalamazoo, Miss Grabowsky helped the Children's Theatre produce several operettas. She also directed the musical activities at camps in Illinois and Wisconsin during summers.

"I hope to be able to continue with this work as I enjoy it very much," she commented.

Attended Northwestern

Miss Pietila received her degree of Bachelor of Music Education from Northwestern University, too. But she and Miss Crabowsky were there at different times. Before coming to Evansville Miss Pietila taught cello in the Northwestern School of Music.

She has also instructed cello in the Lincoln Wood Crade School and assisted with the orchestra at Haver Junior High School in Evanston. A busy woman, she also had private students during this time.

Museum Director Announces Rules For Art Exhibit

Evansville College students will have a chance to submit work in the exhibition of Tri-State Artists, Nov. 24 to Dec. 12. Rules for artists submitting work were released recently by Charles Boggs, Evansville Public Museum director.

Mr. Boggs stated that artists should write the Museum requesting entry blanks.

Three Cash Awards

"We expect large response to the exhibition," Mr. Boggs said, "and it is essential that work entered in the competition be properly labelled for easy identification by our small museum staff."

Three awards, including $100 for the best painting, print or sculpture submitted will be made. Second and third awards are cash prizes of $30 and $20 respectively.

Rules Are Announced

These rules will be applied in the exhibition: (1) the exhibition will include sculpture, painting and prints. (2) Artists must reside within 100-mile radius of Evansville. (3) An entry fee of $2 must accompany application. (4) Each artist may submit as many as six objects. (5) A separate application blank should be filled for each object.

Then, (6) one copy of application should be attached to the back of the painting, or object and one copy should be mailed to the Museum Office with the entry fee. (7) All entries must be sent or delivered to the Museum not later than Nov. 20. (8) Only the work approved by the jury of three judges will be exhibited and prizes will be awarded by the same jury.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

It's all over now. All the sweat, blood, and tears of electing a queen, organizing a parade, decorating for the dance, and most important of all, winning the football game have gone to make this year's Homecoming one that will be long remembered in the minds of us all. We're really proud of each and everyone of you who helped Evansville College give a fine show of school spirit in the 1948 Homecoming celebration.

Dandelion Department

Hats off to the Philos for having their float judged the best in the Homecoming Parade! The parade is going to be made an annual affair and the name of Pi Epsilon Phi will be the first on a plaque, which is to give each year's float winner their due recognition.

Local jazz bands had better keep up on their toes as the competition is picking up with hot musicians like Dr. Shockley on the trombone, Dr. Morlock plunking away on a guitar, Miss Wolfe with her washboard, and "Neely" blowing the jug. They're in a class of their own.

Funiest of all at the faculty pep assembly was Dr. Buell singing "Belly Boy, Drink to Me With Thine Only Eye." A certain laugh in a certain section brought a visible bulge of "the only eye."

Views 'n' Interviews

While rummaging through an old box of attic junk recently, I came across a tarnished medallion with a cannon and crossed sword and musket embossed on the inner circle of one side, and around the outer circle printed "Wilder's Lightning Brigade 1861-1865." On the other side was inscribed, within a wreath, "R. C. S. Co. 4- 72 Ind. Vol." I leaned back in my chair and, through the haze of pipe smoke I emitted, could visualize my paternal ancestor, in somber stiffly-cut suit and broad-brimmed black felt hat, with a long-stemmed clay pipe in one hand. I sank deeper into the oblivion of my pipe dream and heard him speak.

"Why the dejected look, son? Bemoaning the fate of the world?"

"Yep."

"It's not that bad, son. What's that you're looking at? I showed him the medallion. "Oh, yes. I thought the world was pretty bad in those days too. But I've met some men from a couple of wars since then, and it was all about the same. It doesn't matter now."

"What were you fighting for?" I asked the old man.

"I didn't do too much fighting, son, but I spent a lot of time in a war prison wondering why I was there. I never did figure it out."

"But what's the gond of it all! The Negroes weren't emancipated, and still aren't. The Union wasn't united, not for a long time. And the ones before and after. Nothing was accumplished except a lot of untimely death and destruction and disruption. What happens to people that they allow such things as wars?"

"Well, son, most of the people are like sheep, following blindly where ever they are led. And the leaders are usnally as stupid as the followers, going blindly by precedence and opinion. Shakespeare put it nicely. We're born, we go through our seven stages, and we die. The individual really doesn't amount to much, except in his own eyes."

"But I'm important to myself," I put in. "Should I let all this go by and try to live my own life, without worrying abont the rest of it?"

"The trouble is that you can't. Through no choice of your own, you are forced to live with your fellow men."

"They seem more eager to kill each other off than to live in peace!"

"That, my boy, has been a characteristic of man since the first one crawled out from under a rock eons ago. There is apparently nothing you or any one else can do about it. It seems to grow progressively worse, however, what with the new methods of destruction being continually developed. All we had to worry about in my day was gun-powder and fever. Now they can cure a hundred men of the fever with a few pills and blow a hundred thousand to hell with a few atoms. It goes from bad to worse. My condolences, son."

"But what'll I dn?" I asked plaintively.

"That's your problem, son," the old man answered, and began to fade back into the blue haze of smoke from whence he came. I called another question to the disappearing form, but he was gone.

I refilled my pipe and sat there unconsciously rubbing the old medal, trying to recall the vision. He never came back.

I'm really working on this.

Most Students Prefer Former System to New Quarter Plan

The average college student does not like the quarter system. This is the conclusing that Mr. Gallup of the campus, the inquiring reporter, came to as he asked his question for the week.

Each student was asked to give his comparison between the quarter and the semester systems. Here is how the students familiar with both systems answered the question.

Al Reiling, sophomore — You get more of a variety of subjects on the quarter system. But, oh! the homework.

Bill Schaefer, junior — It interferes with my social life. Last semester I went out every night, and I didn't fall back on my studies as often as I do now.

Butch Mattingly, junior — It puts more work on the students and the faculty. Who benefits from it anyway?

Jerri Steinmetz, sophomore — For the difference in money, this kid prefers the semester system. Under the quarter system, there is too much talk and not much learning.

Joe Hafele, junior — I can't answer that question because it doesn't make any difference to me. They can start cutting the year into eighths for all I care.

Jim Sterrett, sophomore — Final exams come up too often and cut in on my loving time.

Ed Parsonage, junior — I have to do a lot more studying, but most of it is by Lamplight.

Gene Christian, sophomore — More work by the week makes me more weak by the grades. That sums up the quarter system for me.

Colleen Cain, sophomore — Much more work, but it develops a better attitude toward your studies.

Most of the students are aware of the rush to cover more material in less time. It should also be observed that there are more class periods a week for most subjects.

In the general conversation with the students, the inquiring reporter concluded that most of the students are wondering why there was a change in the first place.

Letter to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

We note with interest that Dr. Hale in a recent statement to the local newspapers said that construction of the Student Union Building will begin this spring. While we appreciate the desirability of having a Student Union Building, we feel, however, that the TUB and T-Hut are sufficient to fulfill the needs of the student body and the community.

Of a more pressing nature is the need of adequate housing for students. Out-of-town students, of whom the college has an increasingly large number, are forced to "live" in various rooms and rooming houses throughout the city, often at exorbitant rates.

The obvious solution is the erection of student dormitories on the campus. This would add stature to the college, serve as an inducement to an increased enrollment, bolster school spirit among out-of-town students, and ameliorate the deplorable student housing situation.

Here's a 'Must' Record

This seems to be organization and centralization year at Evansville College. A clearing house for student activities has been set up under the direction of a student personnel manager; religious life on campus is under the leadership of a director of religious life and the new Inter-faith—Planning Committee; and health and welfare care are being administered through the Health Center.

Student activities, religious life, health—those include just about everything relating to a college student outside his classrooms. Therefore, it is fairly reasonable to assume that somewhere along the line, one of those centers would have a list of all student organizations, their officers, meetings, and feculty sponsors.

Of the three centers, the logical place for such information to be found is in the office of the student personnel manager. But it just isn't there, logical or otherwise. Believe it or not, at Evansville, a college where over 1400 students participate in the activities of almost 40 clubs, organizations, fraternities, and sororities, there is no record of whom the officers are, or were; no record of where the groups meet or when; in fact, no record of whether the organizations are active, inactive, or abandoned.

Obviously, such a record is needed for the use of the student body, the faculty, the administration, and student publications.

Aces Make History Defeating State During Last Two Minutes, 13-12

By JOHN F. SCHRODT

There are undoubtedly many different opinions among the some 6,-500 fans, as to how the Evansville Aces were able to defeat the Indiana State Teachers by a score of 13-12 in the last two minutes of play last Saturday afternoon at Bosse Field.

Regardless of opinions,, it was a game that will long be remembered in the annals of Evansville College foothall history. Students and fans who missed the game, missed seeing a supposedly defeated team come back and stage an amazing 75-yard march to victory.

This all happened when the score was tied 6-6 with just two minutes left to play in the game. It was State's ball on the two yard line, Bob Chester threw a long pass to Max Woolsey in midfield who galloped to the end zone as Evansville's last two defenders, Dick Gonterman and Gene Logel failed to check him.

On the kick for point, Chester's attempted placement went wrong on a had pass from center. The latter proved to be the difference between success and failure for the fighting Teachers.

Aces Start Fighting

Then it started! Delmar Pickels returned the State's kickoff to the Evansville 25 and with less than two minutes remaining in the game, and 75 yards to go, the crowd began to move to the exits, thinking that it was over.

Pickels tried to pass unsuccessfully, then Gonterman completed one to Clem Jarhoe who carried the ball to the Evansville 39 for a first down. Two other aerial attempts from Gonternan failed, then Frank Lutz tried a pass that also failed. On the last down, Gonterman went back and sent the ball to Logel who took it in front of the goal and rammed over for the lusted marker just as the time expired.

Russler Does It

Now it was big Bill Russler's time. For the extra and winning pointfi Russler calmly stepped back from his tackle post and booted the ball through the uprights. The game was technically over before the kick, hut it was this kick that made the final decision.

Evansville scored the first touchdown nf thc game in the second quarter when Morris Riley, fullback, took the ball on a neat reverse, and ran 29 yards for the TD.

State Retrieves Fumble

Just two plays later, after State had recovered the ball on an Evansville fumble, Chester passed to Woolsey, who made the first counter for the Sycamores. Riley blocked Chester's attempted kick for the point and the score stood 6-6 with nine minutes remaining.

Football and Fatherhood Holds Interest for Frank Endress

By Jerri Steinmetz

"My heart is still in my mouth," Frank Endress said Monday during an arm-chair quarterback session about the Indiana State game last Saturday.

"I hadn't given up," the Ace fullback continued. "Right up to the last minutes I felt sure we'd come through with a touchdown and make victory ours."

Frank was smiling—which is not unusual for him—but his experiences last week gave him special reasons to broaden that wide grin of his. On Oct. 19 he became a proud father (his football teammates are still coughing on the cigars he passed out). Little Audrey Zoe Endress couldn't see the game, but she yelled for Dad's team to win with lots of loyal spirit.

Foothall under Coach Don Ping is natural for Frank since he played on the Memorial eleven in his high school days. He was all-city star two years and got recognition by being selected all-state in 1944.

Frank came to Evansvdle after a year at Notre Dame, then spent two years with the U. S. Army Medical Corps in Korea where he was a Staff Sergeant. Ile is a junior and is a member of the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity.

Aces Play Chattanooga Eleven Tomorrow Night

Pingmen Seek Fourth Victory of Season; Southerners Meet Locals at Bosse Field

By GENE MARKET

Under the lights at Bosse Field tomorrow night, Evansville College's Purple Aces face their toughest assignment of the season when they engage Chattanooga University's Moccasins. The kickoff is slated for 8 p.m.

The Chattanoogans posses a record of two victories against three defeats. All the losses were suffered from the big name schools of the South-Georgia, Tennessee and Carolina State. Its two wins were over Tennessee Poly and Presbyterian.

On the other side of the ledger, Coach Don Ping's gridders will be out trying to make it four wins in five efforts for the season. Evansville has an excellent chance of bumping off the invaders, but they will definitely enter the battle as underdogs.

College Outweighs Opponents

Evansville will have an average weight advantage in starting lineups of ten pounds per man. The Aces team averages 195 pounds while Chattanooga's is 185. The forward wall for the Hoosiers averages 202 while the Southerners tallies only 188. The backfields stack up nearly even with the Purple and White having a 181 to 180 tally.

Coach Andrew G. Moore has a host of lettermen back, losing only five players via graduation from last year's team. He is well fortified in the line. Chattanooga's main weakness is at lefthalf and fullhack positions, and Coach Moore has been shifting several players in and out of the positions in an effort to find a winning combination.

Starting Lineups Announced

Chattanooga's starting lineup will find Holmes and John Javorsky at the wing positions. Captain Ralph Hutchinson and Ernie Hartman will plug up the tackle posts. Vincent Saratore and Luke Worsham are the regular guards. Gordon Atchley rounds out the line playing center.

In the backfield, Ken Naylor calls the plays. Hartford Granitz and George Carden man the halfback positions. Jim Alexander completes the starting eleven at fullback.

Evansvdle's probable starting lineup: Hahn and Crouch, ends; Russler and C. Henderson, tackles; Kunkel and Gerhardt guards; Elliott, center; Unfried, quarterhack: Logel and Working, halfbacks; and Riley, fullback.

Engelbert Voted New Rifle Club President

John Engelbert, sophomore, is the newly elected president of the Evansville College Rifle Cluh. Other officers chosen in the election last week were Hank Dersch, sophomore, vice president; Carolyn Miller, junior, secretary; and Richard Gerhardt, junior, treasurer.

Two hours a week are spent hy the club members shooting in the National Guard Armory. Rifles and pistols are weapons that may be used by members in the 7 until 9 p.m. sessions on Friday nights. Mr. Dersch and Mr. Gerhardt are in charge of the shooting program and are responsihle for arranging meets with other teams.

Evansville College Rifle Club was organized last year and a committee that includes Miss Miller, Dorothy Dailey, Lee Hammons, and Miss Engelbert is drawing up a new constitution.

Publicity for the organization is handled by Herman Litschgi and Joan Hallinan.

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Football fortune at Evansville College is finally on the upgrade after many years of mediocrity. Along with the increase in the "win" column there is a great improvement in the school spirit around E. C. A lot of people don't seem to realize it, but school backing of a team is essential for a successful season.

There is still much room for improvement in the spirit of the students here, but it is nevertheless a great improvement over the 1947 season.

When Bill Russler was asked about the condition of his kicking foot in the TUB Monday morning he replied that "I have it in cold storage." It seems to us that it would he a good idea for him to keep it there except in those essential moments just after a touchdown.

Orchids this week to Gene Logel, Bill Russler, Delmar Pickels and Dick Gonterman. The whole line deserves a pat on the back. They were in the Indiana State backfield more than the State backs.

It won't be long until the collegiate hockey season is underway. In many of the schools that have hockey teams it has practically replaced basketball in specator appeal.. For fast sport and hard fighting there is nothing like it on the college agenda today.

One small college that we had the good fortune to watch during the hockey season two years ago had the duhious distinction of having 19 veterans of the Canadian armed services on their roster. Did someone say something about football needing its face washed?

Hockey will never gain much momentum in the midwestern schools for the natural reason that the weather is not cold enough to warrant good hockey players.

After a very disastrous attempt at some predictions we are going to make another attempt this week: EVANSVILLE over Chattanooga, NORTHWESTERN over Ohio State, MICHIGAN over Illinois, MINNESOTA over Indiana, KENTUCKY over Cincinnati, DE PAUW over Lake Forest, NOTRE DAME over Navy, ARMY over Virginia Tech, and PENN STATE over Colgate.

The "good thing of tthe week" is Buena Vista over Yankton. Also, Florida State over Stetson, Shaw over Howard, (playwright's always win from actors) and Emory and Henry over Appalachian.

Louisville, Eastern, Aces Lead Loop

Evansville College shares the Ohio Valley Conference lead with Eastern Kentucky State and Louisville University. Each team has won its only conference game to date.

Western Kentucky follows these three with a record of one victory and three defeats. Murray and Morehead have both lost their single league start.

The only conference game this Saturday will be between Eastern and Morehead. Eastern goes into the game with a record of five wins in six games, while Morehead has a season total of three and three.

Tennesse Tech will visit Murray tomorrow for a game with the Thoroughhreds, who have an impressive season's mark of four wins and one loss. Thrice beaten Western plays host to Georgetown and Buffalo comes down to play Louisville, 19 to 7 victors over Western last week, in an intersectional clash.

Throat specialists report on
CAMEL MILDNESS

30-Day test of hundreds of Camel smokers revealed
NO THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING CAMELS!

From coast to coast, the reports were the same: Not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

These reports were based on a total of 2470 examinations by noted throat specialists of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

And these men and women smoked on the average of one to two packages of Camels a day!

Yes, Camels are that mild! But prove it for yourself. In your own "T-Zone"—T for Taste and T for Throat. Smoke Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days. Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the full, rich flavor of Camel's choice, properly aged tobaccos. And let YOUR OWN THROAT tell you about that marvelously cool Camel mildness!

Prove it Yourself!
Make the Camel 30-Day Test in Your "T-Zone"

Money-Back Guarantee: Make the 30-day Camel test yourself. If, at any time during these 30 days, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you have ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage. This offer is good for 90 days from this date.

Hawaiian Philosophy Student Flys Here; Enters College

By BILL COLLINS

Margaret Miki, 22-year old Hawaiian studying at Evansville College, underwent one of the most changeable 24 hours of her life when she left Honolulu by plane on Sept. 10, for the United States.

"Breakfast in Honolulu one day; breakfast in Chicago the next," was the way she described her trip.

After attending the University of Hawaii for two years, during which time she carried only required courses, Margaret let her desire to come to the "mainland," as the United States is called by Hawaiians, be known to Reverend Charles Hoskinson to whom she was employed at the time. Reverend Hoskinson, a native of Evansville, wrote several colleges in the United States for information on scholarships. Evansville College offered a scholarship to Margaret, and she accepted.

Margaret Miki

Philosophy Major

A junior at Evansville College, Margaret is majoring in philosophy. After graduation and post-gradnate work, she plans to return to Hawaii or the Orient for her life's work. As Japanese is not accepted as foreign language credit, Margaret is beginning her study of Spanish this quarter.

Margaret shares a room with Gail Reid, junior, at 1906 Bellemeade Avenue. A part time job at the West Side library has given her a chance to meet many people outside of the college. On a whole she has found people friendly, but the attention her features create among the people of the community has proven uncomfortable to her after living in Hawaii where races mix more freely.

Werking Announces New Music Hour Schedule

F. Woody Werking, faculty chairman of the Fine Arts Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation, has announced that the Listening Hour programs will be conducted only twice weekly until student interest warrants more programs. The Listening Hour is designed to create student appreciation for classical and semi-classical music.

The committee has already purchased a large library of records, including many by concert and symphony orchestras. At present the records are kept in the TUB, but Mr. Werking stated that an attempt is being made to purchase a cabinet.

The Listening Hour will be on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the T-Hut at 10 a.m. and 2 p. m., until further notice.

Next week's program includes Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and Chopin's "Sonata No. 2 in B-flat minor," to be presented Tuesday. Thursday "La Boheme" by Puccini and Beethoven's "Quartet No 1 in F Major" will be on the program.

Shockley To Address Library Association

Dr. Martin S. Schockley, head of the department of English, will be the principal speaker at a banquet Monday evening, Nov. 1, by the Southwestern Library Association at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans La.

The banquet is a part of the twn-day regional meeting of this association, composed of librarians from 12 states.

Selfridge Recital Tonight; Second In Series of Faculty Programs

By JOHN SCHRODT

Cecil B. Selfridge, associate professor of voice, will present the second in a series of faculty music recitals this evening in the college auditorium at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. Selfridge will be accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Alherta Price Williams, piano instructor in the music department.

Before joining the college faculty in 1947, Mr. Selfridge was engaged in private teaching in Chicago. For a year he was with the music school of Indiana University.

Studied Abroad

Before the last war, Mr. Selfridge spent six summers in Italy studying voice. He has been a student of Vittorio Trevisan of the Chicago Opera Company and the late Pasquale of the Metropolitan Opera. For many years he has been active as a concert singer.

Mr. Selfridge is also director of the choir in the Evansville Trinity Methodist Church.

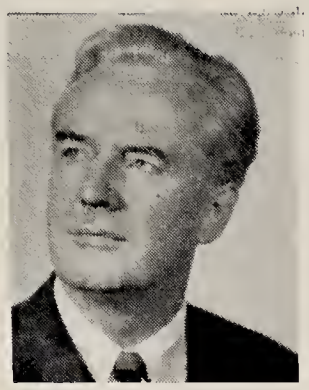
Program in Four Parts

His program will be in four parts and will consist of songs in Russian, Italian, French, and English.

The first part of his program will be Bach's solo cantata, "Amore Traditore."

Four numbers in the Russian language by the Russian composer, Moussorgsky, willl make up the second group. They are: "Shaklovity's Air" (Khovanchtachina); "The Peasant's Soliloquy" (The Fair at Sorochintsi); "A Ballad;" and, "Song of the Flea."

"Don Quichotte a Dulcince" in three movements, "chanson romanesque." "chanson epique," and "chanson a boire," by Ravel will be in the third section.



Cecil Selfridge

Concluding the program will be a gronp of songs in English, composed by contemporary British composers. They are: "The Moor" by Robin Milford; "The White Peace," Arnold Bax; "Ethopia Saulting the Colors," Charles Wood; "The Call," R. Vaughan Williams; "Bells of San Marie," John Ireland; and "Ship of Rio" by Armstrong Gibbs.

Day To Tell Engineers About Gas Situation

Roy Day, of the Southern Indiana Gas and Eelectric Company, will address the Engineering Club at its regular meeting Wednesday. Mr. Day, a graduate of Purdue University, will speak on the gas situation in Evansville and the efforts to improve it. He also will discuss phases of gas engineering.

Moon Reelected Head Of Campus AAUP

Dr. Leland Moon, professor of education, was recently reelected president of the Evansville College chapter of the Association of American University Professors.

Since Dr. Moon originally was installed as president late last year, this will be his first full term.

Other officers elected were James Sears, head of the physics department, vice president; Miss Mary Wolfe, assistant professor of English, secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Wade David, head of the department of history and political science, and Dr. Wiley Crawford, associate professor of biology, members of the executive committee.

Religious Survey Shows Student's Preferences

Religious representation among the students of Evansville College is much the same as last year, according to a survey taken during registration.

Twenty-six groups were listed by the 1,482 students who participated. No church was indicated by 182.

Methodist, 348; Catholic, 262; Evangelical and Reformed, 169; Baptist, 161; Presbyterian, 117; Lutheran, 81; Christian, 58; Episcipal, 27; Evangelical United Bretheran, 26; and Church of Christ, 8.

These include 85 per cent of the students surveyed. Last year these groups included 85.9 per cent.

Football Managers Do Work Of Army Supply Sergeant

By BILL COBB

Harold "Honk" Waninger, Jim "Snuffy" Hallinan, and Dave Millen are student football managers for the Aces' this season.

Honk, a junior, is an industrial technology major. Graduated from Memorial in 1945, he attends college on a scholarship awarded for his work as student-manager.

Snuffy is a sophomore and also majors in industrial technology. He was graduated from Memorial in 1945.

Dave, a freshman, formerly was student-manager at Reitz. He is a business administration major.

Issue Equipment

The duties of the student managers are comparable to those of an army supply sergeant. They issue equipment at the beginning of the season, and are responsible for its upkeep. They send laundry and suits to be cleaned, shine helmets, keep shoes in good repair, and see that the players get water and towels during games. The student managers work from about 2:30 until 6 p.m. each day.

Few people who attend football games realize what a job it is to equip the players. Before the Aces' game with Ottawa University, for example, the student managers had to replace the regular cleats with special mud cleats. Fifty-six men dressed for that game. There are 14 cleats on each pair of shoes. So the managers had to remove 784 cleats and replace them with 784 mud cleats.

Provide Jackets

The managers issue game uniforms and other equipment to the players before each game. In cold weather they see that sideline jackets are available.

So the next time you go to a game, notice the fellows lugging the water buckets across the field and rushing towels out to the players during timeouts.

Fourteen Students Named To Who's Who in Colleges

William Bell Named for Third Time, Starry, Witt Listed Second Time

Fourteen Evansville College students have been named to Who's Who among students in American universities and colleges, it was announced today.

Mr. Bell, listed this year, was named in 1943 as well as last year. Miss Starry and Miss Witt also were listed last year.

Only Upperclassmen Eligible

To be eligible for listing with the organization, a student must be either a junior or senior. They are chosen by Dean of Men James E. Morlock, Dean of Women Esther Brown, Dean of the College E. M. McKown, and Everette Walker, director of student personnel services.

Selection is made on the basis of leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities, scholarship, character, and indication of future usefulness in business and society.

The quota of college students eligible varies from year to year according to enrollment.

Six on Dean's List

Of the fourteen students listed, Mr. Bell, Mr. Fowler, Miss Hayes, Miss Olson, Mr. Whitledge, and Miss Witt have also been named to the dean's list for the last semester, having maintained a 2.5 average.

Mr. Ballard is a member of Phi Zeta and Kappa Chi, ministerial fellowship. Mr. Barnett is president of S.C.A. Mr. Bell is a music major and accompanist for the college choir. Mr. Cebula is chairman of the student-faculty federation welfare committee. Miss Combs is president of the women's council and of the Castalian sorority. Mr. Fowler is president of the Thespians.

Miss Hadley is student assistent to the director of drama. Miss Hays is an instructor in the biology laboratory. Miss Kessler is secretary of S.C.A. Miss Olson is president of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity. Mr. Parkinson is president of Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity. Miss Starry is editor of THE CRESCENT. Mr. Whitledge is a member of Kappa Chi and S.C.A. and Miss Witt is president of Camma Epsilon Sigma.

●We voted in our first presidential eleetion this week. It wasn't the first one for which we were eligible, but in 1944 we figured our candidate was going to win anyway, so why bother? Our attitude about a number of things has changed since then and taking advantage of voting privileges is one of them.

It took just one look at the ward heelers and hanger-ons at the polling booth to eonvince us that anyone who is too busy to bother voting in any election has no right to be critical of the kind of politics his community or nation has. Political machines may be a neeessary evil, but there are good and bad machines, and elean politics begins in one's own precinct, not in the other fellow's block.

Miss Starry

Being an eleetion day voter is not enough. Every citizen should make it his business to know the political set up in his own community; then, if something "smells," he has the right to agitate for a house cleaning.

To those cynics who insist that it doesn't matter how Mr. J. Q. Citizen votes, the machines control the elections anyway, we suggest that if fewer people had the same attitude, clean politics might beeome more than a national dream.

●Know your student leaders. THE CRESCENT initiates a new series of personality sketches on Page 2 this week by introducing the Student Government Association president, Jim Barnett.

●Those students who are in favor of an R.O.T.C. program at E. C. (see Inquiring Reporter, page 2) should consider the following news item from Indiana University: "The college male has broad shoulders, a narrow waist and big feet, according to the military department at I.U.

"R.O.T.C. uniforms ordered according to army tariff sizes don't fit; the supply department is flooded with too many requests for 9 to 14½ shoe sizes; 400 cadets are without properly fitted trousers; there are too many cadets with 29 to 31-inch waistlines and not enough 41's. The supply officer explained that the new uniforms were originally for officers and the boys just haven't filled out yet."

There is only one consolation—the neckties are fine!

●Evansville College is represented in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities this year by 14 students (see col. 7). Who's who in colleges is the national publication which gives recognition to outstanding work by college and university students. It is neither affiliated nor related to Who's Who in America.

●Students are finally going to get a chance to see several of the football movies taken at Aces' home games. That is, they will see them if the films don't disappear again. These movies have been scheduled several times before, but each time one of the coaches, legally, but without notifying proper authorities, trots the film off to some other showing. Stop all coaches!

Movies Showing Aces To Be Seen in TUB

Two football movies will be shown in the Temporary Union Building Monday at 8 p.m., according to Mary Hormuth, chairman of the TUB Evening Activities committee.

The movies were taken of the Aces-Butler game played this season and of the Northern Illinois game played last year. They are being furnished by the athletic department which hired special photographers to take the pictures. Arad McCutchan, basketball coach, will be narrator.

Jim Cooper, staff member in charge of evening activities, is working with Mary and her committee in arranging the show. He stated that further showings will depend upon attendance and interest at this first performance, which is open to the public, admission free.

Sigma Alpha Iota Holds Initiation Services Today

Twenty-five pledges and five patronesses of the newly organized chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, will be initiated today at the Hotel McCurdy.

The formal initiation services this afternoon will be followed by a dinner at 6:30 p.m. served at the McCurdy. The dinner will honor all new members, alumni members, patronesses, and out-of-town guests.

Patronesses for the group were selected from local music circles. They are Mrs. Lincoln B. Hale, Mrs. Edna Zapp Laib, Mrs. Alvin Eades, Miss Mary Certrude Wolfe, and Mrs. Albert Hahn.

Helen Allen, Freta Elmgren, Aileen Hofman, Mary Martino, June Sauer Mertz, Wilma Pierce, Joyce Robinson, Margaret Scholz, Margaret Taylor Shepard, Catherine Tiemann, Edna Mae Waltz, Carol Jean McIntire, Cwendolyn Eades, Anna Lee Schmidt, and Ruth Sansom.

Mary Colleen Jewell is chairman of the constitution committee. Working with her are Bettye Ann Brown and Ruth Grossman. Mrs. Harris Erickson, associate professor of voice, is the faculty sponsor of the organization.

R. A. Kirkpatrick To Describe Pacific Northwest Nov 9,10

R. A. Kirkpatriek

R. A. Kirkpatrick, well known lecturer, author, and educator, is the assembly speaker for Nov. 9 and 10. His topie for both the freshman and upperclassmen assemhlies is to be "The Pacific Northwest."

For twenty-six years Mr. Kirkpatrick has been speaking and writing in the furtherance of the development of scenic and recreational areas, forest conservation, wild life protection, and kindred subjects throughout the United States. His research and travel have carried him through the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Mexico, and Canada.

Mr. Kirkpatrick has been making lecture tours for the Union Pacific Railroad for the past twelve years. Each of these tours eover 40,000 miles annually.

Mr. Kirkpatrick will make five lectures in Evansville on Tuesday and Wednesday, all of them concerning the western U. S. He will use color s'ides to help illustrate his subjects.

One of these lectures, to be presented Tuesday evening through sponsorship of the Evansville Audubon Society, will be given in the college auditorium. Students and faculty are invited to attend this open meeting.

Electronic Students Attending Meeting

The senior class in communication engineering left this morning to attend the National Electronics Conference in Chicago today and tomorrow.

Speakers at the conference will be from universities and industries. Several military leaders also are included.

Joint promotors of the meeting are Northwestern University, the University of Illinois, the American Institute of Electrical Engineering, and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Castalians To Be Guests At Alum Party Nov. 9

Active members of the Castalian sorority will be the guests of the Castalian Alumni organization at a dessert bridge party Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in the TUB.

Mrs. Marvin Bates, president of the alumni group, and Mrs. Cwendolyn Eades, staff member, are co-chairmen in charge of arrangements. Decorations will be centered around a Thanksgiving Day theme.

The alumni will have a business meeting in the TUB at 7:30 preceding the arrival of their guests. Castalians will not have their regularly scheduled business meeting next week.

College Geology Class Visits Illinois Mine

Dr. Franklin C. MacKnight, head of the department of geology, and nine students left at 5 o'clock this morning to visit the Alcoa Fluorspar Mines at Rosi Claire, Ill.

While there, they will be the guests of the company and will tour the mine and surrounding environment.

Students making the trip include Robert Barnett, Thomas Becker, Jim Bodishbaugh, Lee Hammons, Richard Harvey, Wade Richards, Kenneth Schurmeier, Harold Smith, and Narl Spradley.

The group will return to Evansville this evening.

They're Really Cones

Emmert Interrupts His Own Lecture

Robert W. Emmert, associate professor of mathematics, interrupted his own lecture in analytical geometry one day for a specific definition of the term he was using.

Part of the course is analytical geometry has to do with the study of conic sections which illustrates the derivation of certain algebraic graphs. To explain this derivation, the cones must be thought of as having two parts called "Nappes."

Mr. Emmert was going along with his discusion on Nappes when he suddenly stopped and said, "I mean the "Nappe" one finds in a cone and not the "Nap" one sees in the front row."

Social Committee Mails Invitations To Reception

Invitations to the annual faculty-trustee reception for students on Thursday, Nov. 11, from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Cold Room of Hotel McCurdy are being mailed to the Evansville College faculty, trustees, and students.

Refreshments will be served and music will be furnished by the Evansville College music department, according to Miss Ida M. Stieler, chairman of the social committee. Serving on the committee with Miss Stieler are Thomas W. Doherty, assistant professor of modern languages; Paul E. Kelly, assistant professor of economics; Miss Esther Brown, dean of women; Miss Florence Keve, head of the department of art; and Warren Reininga, assistant professor of accounting.

Attire for the students is informal at this reception. A receiving line will be formed by the faculty and trustees who will greet the student upon arrival.

"Students are encouraged to attend this reception as it provides an unusual opportunity for the trustees, the faculty, the students, and their wives and husbands to become better acquainted," Miss Stieler stated.

Barnett Announces Plans for Plaque

Jim Barnett, president of the Student Covernment Association, has announced plans for a Homecoming plaque to be presented each year to the organization on campus which has the best float in the annual Homecoming parade.

Although plans are still indefinite, Mr. Barnett said he hopes to make the plaque similar to the Kiwanis award plaques which annually honor the football and basketball player judged to have shown the best sportsmanship and the best mental attitude throughout the season. These plaques, kept in the trophy case on the second floor of the Administration Building, have metal plates engraved with the name of the winner.

Mr. Barnett stated that the Homecoming plaque will be located in the main hall of the Administration Building.

The first name to be inscribed on the plaque will be Pi Epsilon Phi, the fraternity winning this year's homecoming float contest.

Kniese To Direct Senior Activities Of Coming Year

Norman Kniese will direct the activities of the senior class this year as the result of an election Monday and Tuesday.

Other officers elected were Betty Berges, vice president; Sue Cocke, secretary; and Bill Stephens, treasurer.

Candidates were nominated at a meeting Monday morning in preparation for the ballot election to follow. Paul Schmidt ran against Mr. Kniese, Mary Etta Van Horn against Miss Berges, Joan Henn against Miss Goeke, and Roy Chapman against Mr. Stephens.

Mr. Kniese is a member of Pi Epsilon Phi social fraternity, Beta Alpha Kappa business fraternity, and the band. Miss Berges is a past president of Theta Sigma social sorority, a member of Alpha Phi Delta service sorority, YWCA, and Secretarial Science Club.

Miss Coeke is a member of the Castalian sorority and is a past president of the Association for Childhood Education. Mr. Stephens is a member of Pi Epsilon Phi, Beta Alpha Kappa, and the History Club.

Committee appointments and class activities will be announced in THE CRESCENT after the officers meet.

New Plan Inaugurated To Change Addresses

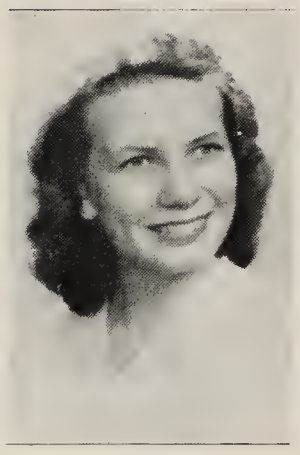
A new and simpler procedure for clearing student mail has recently been inaugurated by the student personnel council, according to Everette Walker, student personel director.

To change an address, the student now leaves the information with the registrar's office and the rest is handled from there. The old method required the student to visit many different administrative offiees on the campus, which resulted in many students not reporting their change of addresses.

In speaking of the change, Mr. Walker said, "It is to the advantage of a student having a change of address to notify the registrar's office."

Schurtter And Wiggers Pledge Freshman Honorary Sorority

Maytha Schurtter



Lois Wiggers

Maytha Schurtter and Lois Wiggers, sophomores, are new pledges to Alpha Phi Mu, women's freshman honorary sorority, according to Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, who organized the group last year.

Miss Schurtter is from Cannelton where she was graduated from Cannelton High School in 1947. She is majoring in secondary education, mathematics, and is a member of the WAA and YWCA.

Miss Wiggers is a 1947 graduate of Central High School. Her major is secondary education, commercial. She is a member of the Theta Sigma sorority of which she is treasurer and was representative candidate for football queen this year.

To become a member a woman must make a 2.4 average her first quarter in school or, if not successful in her first quarter, a 2.4 average for the entire freshman year. Members remain active only their first two years in school.

Miss Schurtter and Miss Wiggers will be initiated at the beginning of the second quarter, along with any other freshmen women who might make their grades this quarter.

Play Tickets Go On Sale Monday

Tickets for the Thespian production "Three Men on a Horse," will be on sale Monday through Friday in the main hall of the Administration Building. Tickets also can be obtained at the door on the nights of the play.

Students having activity tickets can get their reserved seat tickets for the federal tax charge of 12 cents. It will be necessary for the students to show their activity cards.

Regular price for the play is 72 cents including tax and a reserved seat. All seats will be reserved both nights.

Annual Dinner Is Set For Wednesday Night

The annual Student-Faculty Federation dinner will be Wednesday evening in the cafeteria. This meeting will be attended by the members of the various committees composing the Student-Faculty Federation.

Jim Barnett, Student Government Association president, will be toastmaster at the dinner. The members of each committee will discuss their plans for the year.

Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college, will speak at the meeting.

The purpose of the dinner meeting is to acquaint the members of the Student-Faculty Federation with the work of the organization.

Home Economics Head To Attend Meeting

Miss Agnes Bahlert, professor of home economics, is leaving today to attend the Indiana State Home Economics Association meeting in Indianapolis.

She will be attending the program in the colleges and universities division of the association, where she is a member of a committee planning a program of college standard home economics for the coming year.

The theme for this year's program will be centered around recruitment in fields of home economics.

Walker, Busey To Give Reports at Meeting

Members of the departments of sociology, history, and economics are attending a meeting of the Indiana Academy of Social Science at Richmond today and tomorrow.

Dr. James Morlock, dean of men and head of the department of sociology, is vice president and a member of the board of directors of the Academy.

Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, and Paul R. Busey, associate professor of economics, will read papers at the meeting. Mr. Walker's topic will be "The Techinque of Social and Personal Reconstruction." Mr. Busey's subject is to be "Dynamic Trends in Marketing."

Emily Combs Winner In SPOOK Contest

THE CRESCENT SPOOK has been discovered! Miss Emily Combs, senior, submitted the first correct entry and identified him as Don Caley.

The revealing clue, according to her entry, was "he merrily donned his clothes." This Miss Combs translated, correctly, to mean "gaily donned" which reversed is Don Caley.

Other clues in the mystery story published last week hinted of some of Mr. Caley's activities on campus. Reference was made to his "brothers in infamey"; he is a fraternity pledge. The letter "E" was stressed in several places in the story as he is a letterman of the football squad.

The prizes Miss Combs will receive are:

Two tickets to the Family Drive-In Theatre; box of cashews from Aster Nuts; shoe repair service from Phil's Shoe Shop; pass to miniature golf course; flat tire repair; two tickets to the Chicago Livestock Convention; box of candy from Hermann's Confectionery; mystery prize from Kuester's Department Store.

Also one meal at the T-Hut; two weeks of shoe polishing from Kenny Bryant, senior, with Rusty standing guard; $2 in food at the College Drive In; one pair of hand knit argyle socks from THE CRESCENT staff; A. C. Spence, professor of English, will check one English theme up to 300 words; one compass for an automobile from the Van Stone Fialling Station; and $2 service from Crescent Cleaners.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Dr. Leland Moon, professor of education, was trying to stress the lack of abilities of many supposedly educated people in his eight o'clock education class. To illustrate his point he stated that some people in that very class couldn't read as well as the average fourth grader. He then wrote some information on the board and in an afterthought told the class that many people in the class couldn't write as well as a fourth grader either. An alert student in the front of the room took a look at the blackboard and said "Yes, that's quite obvious."

Dandelion Department

We splurged this week and will present two floral pieces to two "studes" for gallant work. Kenneth Berger, senior music major, gets the first for the fine showing of his Princeton High School band during half-time last Saturday. Our second posey goes to JoAnn James for bravery beyond the call of duty. Never let it be said that a woman can't keep a secret. JoAnn had the scoop on the Homecoming Queen election and not once did she give it away. That knowing and not telling would be too big a job for most of us.

Now register, Now pre-register, Now register

With everyone madly running hither and yon, noses in catalogs, anxiously hunting for advisers, and straining the brain deciding whether to take canoe paddling or that new course in basket weaving, one begins to wonder just how complicated things can get around here. We register. We start to school. We settle down. Turn around and you pre-pre-register to pre-register and then you register to register. Frankly we don't get it.

Students Divided on Reserve Officers Training Proposal

Bailey Merrill, local attorney, suggested recently that Evansville College incorporate a reserve officers training unit into its program. This week the Inquiring Reporter decided to find out how the students felt about such a proposal.

Here is what a group of non-veterans had to say about the training program:

J. O. Jackson, freshman — If it will keep a person out of the service long enough to acquire a college education, then I am for it. I don't agree with their taking boys out of college.

Joan Grey, sophomore — I approve of the program because it gives the boys a chance to develop physically and mentally.

Harold Bell, freshman — Keep the army out of college, and the college out of the army.

Jim Ensor, sophomore — I had that at Indiana U. I don't like the idea of letting some little officer tell me what to do when I'm not in the army. It interferes with your class schedule too.

Wayne Hoover, freshman — I hope they put it in out here. Then we won't have to go to the service.

Joe Gossman, freshman — I want to stay around as long as I can, and if they put the R.O.T.C. unit in, we won't be drafted.

J. B. Cochran, Jr., freshman — Definitely no. I hate war. I've always hated war. I refuse to be a part of any training program that will interfere with my night life at the Gables.

Jonnie Hayes, freshman — As long as they don't bring any more boys in here to train, it's alright. I think its better than making the boys go away to get their training.

Lois Huck, senior — I think it would be met by too much resentment. I think most of the boys feel they have had enough training.

Library Adds New Books About War, F. D. Roosevelt

World War II and the Roosevelt era are the subjects of five new books recently purchased by the college Library.

"President Roosevelt and the Coming of the War 1941," by Charles A. Beard tells of Mr. Roosevelt's personal direction of foreign affairs in the year that brought the war, and it reveals the effect of the power of Congress and the President in the conduct of foreign commitments.

Stimson and Bundy Wonder

Jim Farley's story, "The Roosevelt Years," is the inside account of one man's meteoric rise to be the political genius of the Democratic Party. Mr. Farley writes of Roosevelt, the politician, a human being with human failings.

"On Active Service in Peace and War" by Henry L. Stimson and McGeorge Bundy answers some timely questions, such as why was Eisenhower chosen Supreme Commander and Mashall retained as Chief of Staff? What difficulties arose with Russia during the war? And did the difference of opinion between the Army and Navy affect the course of the war?

Churchill Tells of Storm

"McArthur's Japan" by Russell Brines tells the story of the American occupation of Japan and of the efforts to indoctrinate the Japanese in the principles of "demo-krassie" and Western civilization.

"The Gathering Storm" by Winston Churchill is a personal account of the period of the false peace through the outbreak of the war and up to the time just before Dunkirk when Hitler seemed on the threshold of victory.

Society — Notes

Long tramps through the leaves, week-end visits to other schools, outdoor fish fries, and weiner roasts on the river banks are the main stems of social activity around school while the autumn weather lasts.

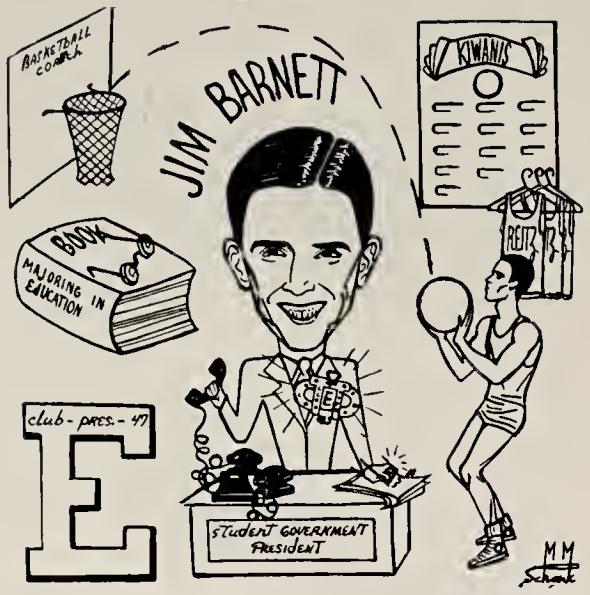
Janet Roberts and Donna Cyreir are going to Purdue to attend the Military Ball tomorrow night. This is an annual event on the Purdue campus. The women wear formals and the men are in full dress uniform of their respective branch of service.

The Indiana-Notre-Dame game at Bloomington tomorrow will have Mary Winnebald, Joyce Halbig, Virginia Dassel, and Mary Bollinger added to the thousands of spectators. Many other students will be in Richmond, Ky., for the Aces-Eastern Kentucky game.

Last week along the banks of the Ohio bonfires and laughter of college students could be heard from Evansville to Mt. Vernon. Al Wirthwein opened his family's summer cabin Friday night for a fish fry. The fellows supplied the food and the girls did the cooking. Saturday night after the game Bill and Betty Harpole had a weiner roast at their cabin overlooking the river. Rain dampened the fire but did not hamper the spirits of those attending.

Bud Wilder of THE CRESCENT staff is receiving congratulations and good wishes after his marriage last week to Patricia Hohgood. Also being congratulated from the staff is Lloyd Seifert whose engagement to Emma Lee Schmidt was recently announced. The wedding will be an event of Dec. 20 at Salem Methodist Church.

Pic of the Week



This is the first of a series of caricatures and thumb-nail sketches of leading personalities around campus

Carrying his interest in athletics from the basketball floors into student affairs, Jim Barnett, senior, president of the Student Government Association, has placed campaigning for reserved seats for College students at football games at the top of his "reform" list.

The proposal is now being considered by the Athletic Committee, and Jim is confident that it will be approved.

The next change he hopes to accomplish is in the method of selecting campus notables. At present the faculty has complete charge of this matter, without any student opinions being expressed.

"This," Jim declared, "has made the whole honor a laughing stock, which it has remained too long. It is time that something was done to increase student interest and respect."

Jim suggests that all nominations originate in a student screening committee with final selections reserved for the faculty.

Since his return to school after 3½ years in the Navy, Jim has been constantly striving to improve the college. During his sophomore year, he received the Kiwanis basketball award. Last season he was given the Gamma Epsilon Sigma athelete-of-the year award. He was also president of the E Club.

A graduate of Reitz High School, Jim is now majoring in education. His social activities include membership in Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity. In all activities he wishes to do "all I can to improve and help the college."

Don — Views 'n' Interviews — Shofstall

This week's dispassionate dispatch is devoted to the Muse. A would-be poet laureate of the campus, who wishes, perhaps wisely, to remain anonymous, has donated to this space one (1) — quote — poem — unquote. Here — without comment, views, or interviews it is:

J. Bourbon Funnelmore lay on his bed
In his hands he held his aching head.
His eyes were glazed, his tongue was thick;
J. Bourbon Funnelmore felt quite sick.

He closed his burning bloodshot eyes
And felt his feet begin to rise;
Then his bed began to sway
As in a dizzy trance he lay.

He soared above the clouds that night,
The moon was green, the sky was white.
A mermaid swam across his bed
Riding on the horse she led.

She picked him up and rode away;
Once more he felt quite young and gay.

Then suddenly he saw with fear
That he'd become a glass of beer.

She left him on a cocktail bar
Standing near a pretzel jar.
He saw himself, a drunken clown,
Reach out his hand to drink him down.

His round glass body began to sweat
Making him feel both cold and wet;
He needed help; he tried to shout.
The words were formed but none came out.

The twisted pretzels seemed to grin
And several even laughed at him.
His hand reached out and squeezed him tight,

And still there was no help in sight.

He felt himself begin to slip,
His shaky fingers lost their grip.
He started falling toward the floor,
He split apart, and was no more.

J. B. Funnelmore woke with a start;
With aching head and pounding heart.
He rubbed his eyes; an oath he swore:
"Never again. I'll drink no more!"

Advisement Center Aids All Veterans

James R. Cook is the new chief of the Evansville College Veterans Advisement and Guidance Center, now located in Room 0132.

This office is one of nine located throughout the state, and one of four that have been designated to handle the problems of the seriously handicapped veterans in Indiana.

The Center is open to all veterans in this area and not just to veterans attending the college.

Duties Explained

In speaking of the duties of the Center, Mr. Cook stated, "The duties are exactly what the name implies, 'to advise and guide' the veteran in any way possible."

After the veteran receives his entitlement, he usually visits the Center if he desires or needs advisement to help determine his occupational objective.

Once the veteran has been approved for an advisement he is assigned by Mr. Cook to a Veterans Administration Appraiser, a member of Dr. Francis B. Buller's counseling staff, who reviews with the veteran his educational and occupational background and experience. In addition, the veteran is given vocational tests if he has not already had them.

With all the information and test results the V. A. Appraiser and the veteran arrive at a conclusion as to the vocational objective that he should choose and the type of educational program that he should have to achieve that objective.

Two Offices Cooperate

Some of the specific services offered by the Testing and Counseling Center, Rooms 0146-152 in cooperation with the Center are:

1. Selecting a program of courses that is in keeping with one's interest, educational background, abilities and goal.
2. Choosing a major; choosing the right vocational objective.
3. Achieving social effectiveness, that is understanding, appreciating, influencing, and living effectively with one's associates.
4. Interpreting and applying the entrance test results. Students may see their educational and personality profiles.
5. Following tthe necessary procedures in order to get the G.I. benefits for those who are entitled to them.
6. Improving one's method and habits of study; improving reading abilities.
7. Developing a workable philosophy of life as a basis of interpretation of the meaning of experience and human existance.
8. Getting a better understanding of and solutions for a variety of personalities and problems.

30-DAY SMOKING TEST PROVES CAMEL MILDNESS!

For 30 consecutive days in a recent test, hundreds of men and women all across the country smoked Camels—and only Camels—on the average of one to two packages a day.

Every week, their throats were carefully examined by noted throat specialists—a total of 2470 examinations from coast to coast.

And these famous throat specialists reported that they found not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

But prove it yourself! In your "T-Zone"—T for Taste and T for Throat. Smoke Camels for 30 days. Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about that full, rich Camel flavor. Let YOUR OWN THROAT tell you how mild a cigarette can be! Yes, prove for yourself that there's

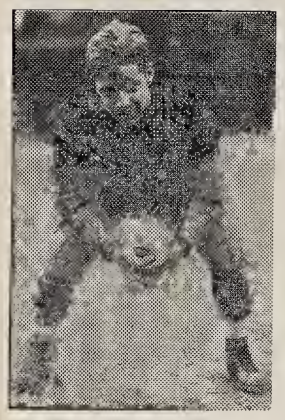
Aces Play at Eastern Kentucky Tomorrow

Evansville will attempt to get back on the victory trail tomorrow night at Richmond, Ky., when they battle the Eastern Kentucky State Maroons.

This will be the first meeting of the two schools on the gridiron, and the second conference game of the year for the Aces. In their only other conference game to date the Aces came from behind to defeat the Western Hilltoppers, 12-6.

Sparks Eastern



George Pavlovich

Evansville figures to enter the contest in good physical condition as no serious injuries resulted from the game with Chattanooga last week. Coach Don Ping has been working on Eastern plays this week and the Aces should be ready to give a good account of themselves in their first road game of the year.

Rough Schedule

Eastern is playing an impressive schedule this year. They opened against Xavier University of Cincinnati, then came Eastern Illinois, Marshall, Murray, Emory and Henry, Michigan State College and Morehead last week. Following the game with the Aces they play Western State, Northern Illinois, and close the season against Southeastern Louisiana at Hammond, La.

Tom Samuels, the mentor of the Maroon outfit, is in his second year as head coach at Richmond. Samuels was a tackle on the Michigan teams of 1929, 1930, and 1931. While playing for the Wolverines he was selected an All-Big Ten tackle. After going to Richmond right after graduation he spent the next years as line and assistant coach until taking over as head coach last year.

Five and Four

Eastern has completed the past two seasons with five and four records. Last season they won over Eastern Illinois, Emory and Henry, Valparaiso, Morehead, and Western State College. Their losses came at the hands of Marshall, Murray, University of Louisville and Southeastern Louisiana.

Phi Zetas Leaders In Football Play

First round play in the Intramural Football League has been completed with the Phi Zetas the leaders, with six wins in seven games. Second round games got underway last week. The league champion will be determined by the overall standings, instead of naming a champion for each half, which might necessitate a playoff.

The complete first round standings are:

Phi Zeta	6	1	.858
Buzz Kids	5	2	.715
Oilers	5	2	.715
Philos	4	3	.572
Newman Club	3	3	.500
I Phela Thi	3	3	.500

Gene Logel

Vets, Phi Zeta I Share Loop Lead In Bowling Race

The Evansville College bowling league swings into its fifth week with the Vets and Phi Zeta No. 1 leading the league with eight victories and four defeats, according to Buddy Dile, secretary of the league.

Although the Vets lost all three games last Thursday to the third place Engineers, they managed to hang onto the top because Phi Zeta No. 1 could win but one game in three last week.

Johnny Hurst, of Philo No. 1 holds this years' record for the highest single game bowled so far in the young league. Johnny's 223 has withstood the ten frame totals of all the bowlers including Jack Huber's second best of 204.

This year the teams are composed of four bowlers instead of the customary five. Ten teams have entered the league and so far competition has been close with the last place Accounting Club team only four games in back of the leaders, Mr. Dile added.

The Vets have a high team average for three games of 719, while Phi Zeta No. 1 has a high three game total of 713.

The standings including games played Thursday, Oct. 28 are:

	Won	Lost
Vets	8	4
Phi Zeta No. 1	8	4
Engineers	7	5
Philos No. 1	7	5
Phi Zeta No. 2	6	6
Independent	6	6
Faculty	5	7
Pi Kappa	5	7
Newman Club	5	7
Accounting	4	8

Logel Starting for Third Year in Aces' Backfield

It is the general opinion amongmany of the people who have watched those in the backfield in action during the past three years that Gene Logel is by far the outstanding player to roam the gridiron for Evansville College.

Logel's football history dates back to his freshman year in high school at Memorial and shows yearly advancement until the present time. After failing to make a letter his first two years at Memorial under Coach Don Ping he did get a letter in his junior year. However, his last season at the Tiger prep school was his best as he was named to the all-city and all-state teams.

Prep Experience

Following his graduation from Memorial, Logel went to LaSalle Military Prep School School in New York. While playing the 1945 season for LaSalle he was highly spoken of a prospective college back.

When Coach Ping came out to take the reins at Evansville Logel returned here to play under his old coach and has held a starting assignment between halfback and quarterback but has spent all his time this year running from the left halfback position.

Wants to Coach

Logel's ambition is to become a coach when he finishes his gridiron career in college. The 20 year old back is also a basketball player, having had four seasons experience in high school and playing with the Aces last season.

A great love for football on the part of Logel was proved earlier this year when his knee was injured. Some sources thought that he might be out for a few of the Aces games but the knee healed satisfactorily and Logel did not miss any of the games.

College Aces Get Scalped by Foes From South 27-0

Chattanooga University's Moccasins proved superior to the Evansville College's Aces last Saturday night at Rosse Field in defeating them, 27-0.

Some 7,000 fans saw a brilliant display of offensive football as the Moccasins took to the air to score three touchdowns in the first half of the game. For their fourth TD, they pushed 64 of the 71 yards to the goal in 15 plays. Three out of four of the extra point attempts were made good by the kicking of Vince Sarratore.

The Aces came back in the scond half to hold their own. Each team registered 13 first downs with the Moccasins rushing for a net of 143 yards to the Aces 73.

During the fourth quarter, the Aces drove to the 2 yard line but failed by inches to make another first down. This was the closest the Aces came to registering during the entire game.

It started to rain at the close of the half time but stopped until the third quarter when it came to stay. This handicapped the offensive play to a great extent.

The rain also played havoc with the student cheering section that had to scatter for seats in the grandstand.

Aces Play Tough Foes In Last Three Games

After the Aces play Eastern tomorrow night, they tackle two opponents in Louisville and Murray who have current records of five wins in six starts.

Eastern has a record of five and one and will be trying to redeem some prestige lost last week when they squeaked by a strong Morehead team 6 to 0.

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

It DOES seem that a little cleaning up of the pep rallies would be in order. We appreciate a good story as much as anyone else but it does not seem that an assembly before the entire student body is quite the place for some of those that have been told in the past two rallies.

With the exception of the humor, the past two rallies have been quite good. Variety in the programs is very fine and Jim Barnett, the Pi Epsilon Phi's and Pi Kappa's should be commended for the programs.

Officiating at some of our football games has really been of the bush league variety. It hit what seemed to be an all time low in the Butler game, but it was highly questionable in spots in last Saturday's encounter with Chattanooga.

The visiting Mocassins were undoubtedly thte toughest competition the Aces will face this year but it does seem that they could get a break occasionally. Maybe the officials were so afraid of offending the visitors that they overdid it.

It is a well known fact that there is no such thing as a perfect official However, the college is playing in fast enough circles these days where we ought to have something besides local talent on the officials roster.

Last week we had eight right and one wrong to give the column an 11 won and five lost record for the season.

This week: EVANSVILLE over Eastern Kentucky; ARMY over Stanford; CALIFORNIA over UCLA; MISSISSIPPI over Chattanooga; HARVARD over Princeton; NOTRE DAME over Indiana; KENTUCKY over Villanova; GEORGIA TECH over Tennessee; MICHIGAN over Navy; PURDUE over Oklahoma and OHIO STATE over Pittshnrgh.

It is really a shame about a character at Indiana State whose "By Line" is Joe Kish. Seems that Mr. Kish is a little irritated over the loss handed the Sycamores.

Mr. Kish said that the Aces "sneaked out a last minute, much disputed touchdown" to win. When Logel drove over it didn't look like anyone was disputing it. Granted they were trying, but it really didn't do them much good.

After the treatment that was given the Aces in their last visit to Terre Haute in 1946, it does not seem quite in order for anyone up there to gripe about anything.

Hurt Captures WAA Archery Tournament

Ninabelle Hurt, senior, won the Women's Athletic Association Archery tournament, held last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rovella Hinton and Ida Wallenmeyer, freshmen, were second and third, respectively. They shot a short Columbia round with Miss Hurt's score of 99 placing her high.

WAA meets every Monday and Tuesday from 4 p.m. until 5:15 p.m. Monday's activity is archery and Tuesday's sport is speedball.

It takes a "lot of doing" to get all that food ready for some 1500 students who are served daily in the cafeteria. Teamwork does it — all in shifts, too.

First C. R. McCutchan opens the doors, before any of the other employees arrive and at the hour when students with 8 o'clock classes wish they could sleep another 15 minutes. It is he who meets the bread man and the ice man, and who prepares the first urn of coffee.

Next to arrive are the breakfast crew, Mrs. Maud Fischer, Mrs. Mabel Hallinan, and Mrs. Helen Burr, who are ready to serve anything from coffee and doughnuts to a full course meal with bacon and eggs by 7 o'clock. Mrs. Hazel Cosgrove, daytime cashier, also serves behind the sandwich bar in the morning.

Dinner Crew Arrives

Shortly after breakfast is under way, the dinner team comes in to start preparing the noon meal. Working on this shift are Mrs. Ruby Hynas, Mrs. Blanche Gohann, Mrs. Esther Ruedlinger, Mrs. Henritta Hammerstein, and Mrs. Fern Brewster.

Preparation for supper begins with the arrival of the third crew: Mrs. Kathren Cummings, Mrs. Olivia McMillin, Mrs. Dorothy Sabel, and Mrs. Thelma Herbert.

Student Helpers

Throughout the day, Mr. McCutchan and Carol Starling alternate between the dishwashing counter and keeping the cafeteria clean and orderly. James Benett, Clayton Brant, and Willard Lemke, part-time student helpers, are on duty during the noon and evening meals to help behind the sandwich bar and with the dishwashing.

Heading the cafeteria is Mrs. Jeanette Williams, who has charge of all arrangements, including planning menues, purchasing food, and taking care of all accounts. During the nine years since she became associated with the cafeteria Mrs. Williams has seen it grow from a sandwich bar and small kitchen serving only noon meals into an all day business.

Faculty Committee Studies Changes In Curriculum

One of the busiest committees on the campus this year is the faculty curriculum committees, which is appointed at the beginning of each new quarter by Dr. Lincoln R. Hale, president of the college.

The committee is composed of 12 members with Dr. E. M. McKown, dean of the college, as chairman and G. R. McCoy, director of admissions, as the secretary. These two appointments are ex-officio. Other members of the committee include: Miss Agnes Bahlert, Dr. Leland Moon, Miss Esther Brown, Dr. Martin Shockley, Don Ping, Miss Lucile Jones, Everette Walker, A. B. Cope, Miss Wahnita DeLong, Cuy Marchant, James Sears and Wesley Shepard.

At a recent meeting of the committee, a subcommittee was appointed to study and consider science in general education. The purpose of this study is to consider new science courses for students not majoring in sciences, other than the introductory courses required for science majors.

Another subcommittee is considering how much a student on probation should participate in extra-curricular activities on the caepus.

Work also is being done in considering the possibility of organizing a two-year terminal curricula for which a certificate will be awarded. This will be for students in the day college who do not care to attend the four years required for a degree.

After the committee has finished its work on an assigned problem, it is brought before the faculty body where it is discussed and voted on for final approval.

Former Navy Officer, Atomic Scientist Added To Science Faculty This Quarter

By JEFF HAYS

Travis J. Phillips and Joseph L. Reyerson, new teachers in the department of science, have rich backgrounds from which to draw material for their classes.

Mr. Phillips, instructor in chemistry, was graduated from Iowa State Teachers College in 1941. He spent the next four years working for Uncle Sam as a Navy Engineering officer. While in the navy he rose to the rank of lieutenant.

After his return from the service, he continued his studies at Iowa University. The following year Mr. Phillips taught physics at Iowa State Teachers College. In 1947 he returned to Iowa University to get his M.S. degree in physical chemistry.

Mr. Phillips is married and has a two and one-half year old son. His wife teaches piano. Between his school work and his family life, Mr. Phillips has little time for his favorite sports of tennis and ping pong.

In connection with the housing shortage, Mr. Phillips likes to recall his living quarters at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

"We had a little trailor and in it was a large piano which my wife used for her teaching. It wasn't too crowded though, because the piano served a dual purpose. Whenever my wife wasn't using it for her teaching, we could always eat off it," he said.

Mr. Reyerson, assistant professor of physics, attended Tusculun College in Greenville, Tenn., where he majored in physics and mathematics. After two years he changed his major to electrical engineering.

In 1939 he transferred to Thomas S. Clarkson College of Technology in Postdam, N. Y. He received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering there, and took a job as junior engineer for the Ward Leonard Electrical Company in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Mr. Reyerson is proud to take credit for helping develop a high priority timing mechanism in connection with the atomic bomb.

"There was so much secrecy in those days, I didn't know exactly what all my work was for, but I am fairly sure that this timing machine was used in the atomic bomb experiment," he stated.

A course for teaching young men to become executives and employers, which was prepared and submitted by Mr. Reyerson in competition with many other teachers, is still being used at Syracuse University.

Mr. Reyerson is married and has a daughter seven years old. He has attended all the football games this year, but a busy schedule keeps him from having any hobbies at the present time. In the past they included oil painting and playing the violin.

Five Students Operate Own Radio Stations

Members of the college Electronics Club have been operating the college short-wave station, W9NVN, for more than a year. During this time they have made contacts with "ham" operators throughout the United States and in numerous foreign countries.

Among the stations they have talked to abroad are some in England, Sweden, France, Denmark, and Puerto Rico.

Five of the club members have licensed short-wave stations in their homes. They are Earle Toole, president of the club; W9NZK; Bill Driggers, W9DDV; Fred Davidson, W9LOL; Doug White, K9AAD; and Professor James Sears, head of the physics department and trustee of the club, W9DFD.

Thespians Present Comedy Nov. 15,16

'Three Men on a Horse' First Stage Production of Season

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

●"And now it is November" — at least that's what the calendar says. According to the rest of the quote, November is a month of warmish days, cold nights, and the right time to stay home by the fire. We'll agree with the last; these nasty, wet, sloppy days are the kind that incite rebellion.

Tempers snap, tongues are short, words fly, and a miserable time is had by all. To make everything cosier, this is the time of term papers, book reports, and frantic efforts to complete a prescribed text within a certain time.

●By the way, finals begin two weeks from Wednesday.

●We can find only one bright spot on the calendar — Thanksgiving vacation, four whole consecutive days! And while we are looking forward to the traditional bird and trimmings, let's not forget those who would be thankful for just something to eat. Voting for the "ugliest man on campus" next week (see col. 5) will help Alpha Phi Omega distribute holiday baskets to needy families in Evansville.

●While we're on the subject, out-of-town students who expect to spend the holidays in Evansville, are being offered a Thanksgiving Day "home." Out-of-towners who can't look another drug store meal in the face, are invited to clip the form on page 4 and be "adopted."

●SENIORS! Have you made an appointment to have your LinC picture taken? (sec col 7).

●The advantages of having a Health Center on campus are indicated by the record of treatments for October and the first part of November (see next column).

●We are glad that a record of campus organizations is being compiled. At last there will be an official list of who belongs to what, which meets where, when, and why.

●The debunkers have finally been debunked. "The Appalachian" (State Teachers College, Boone, N. C.), recently carried this "expose:" "The campus criticizer and debunker -- alias the 'campus wheel' — usually falls into one of three groups. The first is composed of idea debunkers. This is someone who is always right, but he is never wrong; any thought or opinion other than his own, though it may belong to his professor, Einstein, or the little blonde freshman in the next seat, cannot possibly be right and he will tell the world so.

"Second on the list is the most ferocious of all criticizers — the female of the species. This is the 'critical eye' group. The critical eye type is found most abundantly in the cafeteria, at the book store, at dances and anywhere there is a crowd. She says little to her victim, but sits in silence and makes mental notes; when she gets her chance she lets the venom fly.

"Last is the largest, but least dangerous group — the radical ravers. It includes reforming freshmen, unhappy politicians and jabbering columnists along with many other screwballs who rave on just to hear themselves make a noise."

Food for thought.

Jenkins To Address ACE Organization

Mrs. Robert Jenkins, former teacher in the schools of Japan, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Association for Childhood Education. The meeting will be at the home of Miss Lucile Jones, head of the department of education, Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jenkins is now teaching at Delaware school here in Evansville. She will speak about the educational conditions and teaching methods used in Japan. Graduates of last year, who are now teaching in the public schools, will be special guests.

Sue Goeke, ACE president, will preside at the meeting.

Botany-Geology Field Trip Planned for Next Week

A field trip to Chicago is being planned by the college botany and geology departments for next Friday and Saturday.

The intinerary will include a visit to the Chicago Museum of Natural History, the Rosenwald Museum of Science in Industry, and other points of interest.

Former geology and botany students are invited to make the trip which will be by chartered bus. The cost of transportation will be $8.50 for the round trip and rooms will be available at $5 for the two nights.

Any student interested should contact Miss Dorothy Rothrock, botany department, or Dr. Franklin MacKnight, of the geology department.

Social Studies Conference To Be Here Wednesday

Over 150 participants are expected at the Social Studies Conference being sponsored by the State Department of Education and Evansville College here next Wednesday.

Members of the faculty, student teachers, high school teachers and principals, and the county superintendents have been invited, according to Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, and chairman of the conference.

The theme of the conference, current challenges in the teaching of social studies, will be discussed at two general meetings and also in smaller groups.

Lincoln R. Hale, president, will give the address of welcome at the first general meeting at 3 p.m. Dr. James E. Morlock, dean of men, is chairman of the group discussing the use of local resources in social studies.

At the dinner meeting in the Cafeteria at 6:30 p.m., Dr. Robert R. Buell, professor of education, will speak on the "High Lights of Training Teachers in the Social Studies."

Mr. Long is chairman for the closing session at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. Dr. Robert LaFollette, of Ball State Teachers College, will talk on "The Social Studies and the American Way of Life" at this meeting.

Cooperating with the co-sponsors of the conference are the Evansville Public Schools and the Southwestern Indiana County Superintendents Association.

Kniese Lists Committees Of Seniors

Norman Kniese, senior class president, has appointed several committees to carry out the functions of the graduation class for this year.

Mr. Kniese stated that Helen Nunn, Castalian, will be chairman of the announcement committee. Miss Nunn's committee will make arrangements for all the senior announcements. Members of her committee are Tom Conway, Harry Damm, Al Jeffers, William Moskos, and Bob Kelley.

Social Committee Named

Jim Niehaus and Louis Holtman, members of Pi Epsilon Phi, will be in charge of the social committee. This group will plan the activities for senior week and all the social events throughout the year for the senior class. They will be assisted by Bill Stephens, Betty Bergess, Bonnie Gruebel, Sue Goeke, and Harriet Buthod.

Each year the graduation class presents a gift to the college. To make arrangements for the selection of this gift, Mr. Kniese has appointed George Campbell, Pi Epsilon Phi, as chairman of the gift committee. Other members of this committee are: Antonette Heldt, Don O'Connor, William Scott, Dorothy Kiefer, William A. Scott, and Shirley Olsen.

To Select Class Rings

Mr. Kniese also announced that Clarence Titzer, Pi Epsilon Phi, would be the chairman of the ring committee. His committee includes Jim Lewis, Evelyn Cameron, Charles Richardt, Doris Witt, and Bill Trafton. Mr. Titzer and his committee will select the ring for the class.

No definite date has been set for a class meeting, but one will be held in the near future, Mr. Kniese added.

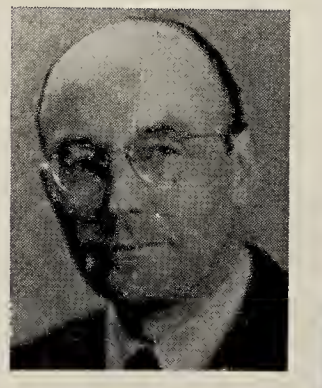
Professor Leaves As Class Stays

Even in the forced absence of the teacher, so thinks Keith Slater, instructor in management, the class must go on! Therefore, Mr. Slater, before he left the campus to attend last weekend's time and motion study conferences in Chicago, made sure his Management 280 class in Evening College would hear a lecture.

To achieve this, Mr. Slater made a 49-minute wire recording of the lecture on his home recorder, gave it to Warren Reininga, assistant professor of accounting, with full instructions on how to play it back to the class, and hopefully left for Chicago.

Now Mr. Slater is considering the idea of giving lectures by wire to all his early morning classes in order to sleep late.

Olmsted To Speak on Finance; Roberts To Talk Wednesday



Ralph Olmsted

O. H. Roberts Jr.

Ralph Olmsted, business manager and treasurer, will address the freshman assembly next Tuesday.

As part of the freshman orientation program, which is a yearly function of the assemblies, Mr. Olmsted will give a picture of the financial operations of Evansville College and the Veterans' Administration.

In trying to eliminate misunderstandings, he will discuss the various ways a student's tuition is spent and explain to veterans the responsibility of the college in dealings with the veterans' administration.

Mr. Olmsted graduated from Evansville College in 1923. After teaching at Cynthiana and at Evansville Central High School, he returned to the college in 1924 as assistant to past President Hughes and as an instructor in journalism. In 1928 he was appointed executive secretary.

O. H. Roberts Jr., local attorney, will speak before the upperclassmen assembly Wednesday, Nov. 17. His subject will be "The Three Most Important Things in Life."

Mr. Roberts graduated from Evansville College in 1937. While attending college he belonged to the Phi Zeta fraternity.

He is the president of the board of the Evansville College Community Center; a member of the Indiana School Commission; past president of the Evansville Junior Chamber of Commerce; past state president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; national chairman of the Public Education Committee of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce; and is on the college board of school trustees. He is now practicing law in Evansville.

Actors Get Final Instructions

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, is shown above working on a scene with the cast of "Three Men on a Horse." The play is to be presented Monday and Tuesday nights in the auditorium.

Play Involves Racing, Dopey Characters

"Three Men on a Horse," a comedy, will be presented by the Thespians Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8:15 in the auditorium.

The play was first produced by Alex Yokel at The Playhouse in New York City on January 30, 1935. John Cecil Holm wrote the script and George Abbott staged the first performance.

Play in Three Acts

The play is in three acts with the first scene of each act taking place in the home of Erwin Trowbridge in Ozone Heights, N. J. The second scene of act one is a barroom in a third class hotel called the Lavillere Hotel in New York City. Scenes two of acts two and three are set in a bedroom of the same hotel.

Bill Taylor plays Erwin Trowbridge, a man of little initiative, who enjoys a life of writing greeting verses for the Holly Cheer Greeting Company. Mr. Trowbridge's timidness gets him involved with three men whose whole existence consists of playing the horses.

Hero Locked Up

The three men on a horse are Chuck Palmisano, Patsy; Jim Kaiser, Charlie; and Charles Wilder, Frankie. They are down to their last $18 when Trowbridge, who makes a hobby of race speculations, wanders into their hotel. The three promptly "appropriate" Erwin, so that they can make a fortune betting on the horse, and keep him locked up in the hotel for several days.

Salli Henn plays Erwin's wife who is very distressed when Erwin fails to return home. Lewis Ray is her brother, a small town businessman who feels that his sister is mistreated. He also is on the lookout for any loose change he can pick up.

Other Characters Listed

Mr. Carver, president of the Holly Cheer Greeting Company, is played by Frank Chandler. Mr. Carver also is distressed when Erwin does not show up for work.

Other characters in the play are the bellhop, Bob Clark; hotel maid, Helen Delker; and a newspaper reporter and photographer are portrayed by Emmy Seegmueller and Herman Litschgi.

Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, is director of the play.

Freshmen Complete Eye Examinations At Health Center

Eye examinations for all freshmen were completed by the health service this week. Over 200 students were examined.

Very few previously undetected visual impairments were noted. This is not unusual, as most college students have already had a sight test, according to Miss Louise Runner, college nurse.

Thirty-five other students have received treatment from the center this month. The new organization treated 95 during October.

Miss Runner listed colds and other respiratory infections, abrasions, and sinus conditions among the majority of the cases handled.

Treatment was given to two persons who were injured in physical education classes. One man suffered a six-inch gash in his leg while playing foothall in gym trunks and a girl broke her index finger while playing ball.

Although the health service will do all that is possible, the student is responsible for any hospital bills incurred. The only exception to this ruling by the student personnel committee is injuries obtained while participating in college sponsored sports.

Dr. John H. Flinn is attending physician for the health service.

Freshman Sorority Entertains Tonight

Gamma Delta, freshman sorority for women, will entertain members and sponsors of the three social sororities, Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma and Theta Sigma, at a party tonight at 7:30 in the TUB.

Molly Marlatt, chairman of the social committee, is in charge of the party. Those on her committee include Marcine Johnson, Lois Ricketts, Shirley Paul, Joan Hayes, Mary Weber, Ann Bledsoe, Shirley Whitledge, Salli Henn, and Jeanne Williams.

LinC Editor Announces Schedule for Pictures

Deadline for seniors to make appointments to have pictures made for the yearbook is today at 3:45, according to Jon Gundling, LinC editor.

Appointments may be made in the main hall of the Administration Building. The price of the picture is 50 cents, with additional charge for extra prints, payable at the studio. Two poses will be taken.

The pictures are to be made by Logan Studio, 18 S.E. Third Street, beginning tomorrow and continuing through next Saturday.

Late News Breaks

The Engineering Club will make a field trip to Mt. Vernon, Indiana Wednesday, Nov. 17, where they will go through the Form Bureau Refinery.

All seniors interested, in participating in Placement Bureau activities must apply at the office, A-214, before Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The International Relations Club will have a special meeting to elect officers Friday, Nov. 19, in A 317, at 11 a.m. The club picture for the year book also will be taken at this time.

Dr. Robert Buell, associate professor of education, will speak before a high school parent-teacher association study group in Princeton, Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 2 p.m. His subject is to be "Can the Middle West Understand Europe."

The pep assembly to be in the auditorium at 11 a.m. today is being directed by Gamma Delta, freshman sorority. Ermo Lee Beaver is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the program.

Nomination of sophomore class officers will take place Monday, Nov. 15 in A303 at 11 a.m. Election will be in the TUB immediately following the nominations and will continue through 10 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16.

Alpha Phi Omega To Designate 'Ugliest Man on the Campus'

Alpha Phi Omega, national boy scout fraternity, is sponsoring an "Ugliest Man on the Campus" election Nov. 16 and 17. The purpose of this contest is to collect funds to help as many needy families as possible on Thanksgiving.

Candidates for this honor are Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college; Dr. Robert R. Buell, associate professor of education; Dr. F. C. MacKnight, head of the department of geology; Jim Barnett, S. C. A. president; Gene Logel, left half-back on the Ace eleven; Charles Henderson, Ace lineman; Delmar Pickels, fullback on the football squad; Sam Humphrey, senior; Mike Parkinson, senior; and Jim Fallace, junior. Additional nominations can be made by paying 50 cents to Don Howard, president of the fraternity.

Votes may be cast on Wednesday and Thursday on the main floor of the Administration Building. Any male student or faculty member is eligible to vote. The fee for voting is: two votes, 5 cents; five votes, 10 cents; 20 votes, 25 cents. A prize or prizes, undetermined as yet, will be awarded to the man who wins.

Serving on the publicity committee are Jack Humphrey, chairman; Joe Igleheart, Harold Clark, Tom Wood, Vic Simon, and Martin Hutchings.

The committee on distribution of funds is composed of Fred E. Shatara, chairman; Paul Nichols, Robert Davenport, and Don Flannigan.

Attorney To Address Beta Alpha Kappa Monday Evening

Beta Alpha Kappa, the Business Administration Club, will meet Monday night at 7:30 in the cafeteria to hear O. H. Roberts, Jr., past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Roberts' topic will be "Opportunities to Affiliate With the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Functions of This Organization."

Owen Hamilton, president of the club, has announced the members of the executive committees. They are: Social Committee: William Moskos, chairman; Helen Nourse, James Grinn, Helena Barhon, William Greenlee, and Don Howard.

Program Committee: Bill Scott, chairman; Philip Reisinger, Gene Cehula, William Simmons, Carl Bradshaw, William Owens, and Walker Gooch.

Membership Committee: Charles Specht, chairman; James Price, Howard Damm, John Freeman, Richard Haering, Harry Ewing, James Brown, and Gordon Klahn.

Placement Bureau Committee: Andrew Tempeo, chairman; Harold Whitman, Gerald McDaniel, Charles Richardt, Harold Foerster, and Thomas Conway.

Publicity Committee: Donald O'Connor, Gerald Fitzgerald, Harry Goldblatt, and Evelyn Ayers.

Student Club List To Be Completed

Plans have been completed by the student personnel council for the compiling of a complete list of campus student organizations, their officers, meetings, and advisers.

An officer of each organization should report to Miss Doris Kirk, college social director, as soon as possible with the following information:

Name of organization
Type
Names of officers
Faculty sponsor
Date of election
Time of meetings
Place of meetings.

The file, when completed, will be kept in the office of Everette Walker, student personnel manager.

Annual Party Set For TUB Group

Invitations have been sent to all Temporary Union Building committee members for the annual TUB committee party Sunday at 8 p.m. in the TUB according to Mary Hormuth, chairman in charge of arrangements.

Decorations for the party will be centered around harvest colors. Marcine Johnson, Kathryn Krueger, Nina St.Clair, and Joann Stocke, freshmen make up the decorating committee.

Jim Wilson and Fred Creech, sophomores, and Jack Berning, junior, are planning the program. Bill Harpole, freshman, will act as master of ceremonies and Donna Jean Kinnamon from Bosse High School will present a tumbling act.

Robert Sturgeon and Randolph Damm, freshmen, are arranging the games. June Tremor, sophomore, and Miss Hormuth are providing the refreshments.

All committee members are asked to acknowledge their invitations by signing up in the TUB office as soon as possible.

Thursday — SCA members hayride.

Majority Want Aces

Refrigerator Bowl Is Cold Question

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the refrigeration industries of the city, have planned a bowl game for Evansville and have named it the Refrigerator Bowl. A parade, a queen, and many other activities that go with bowl games, will also he sponsored by the Jaycees.

The game is to bc held at Reitz Bowl Saturday afternoon, Dec. 4. The Jaycees have already mentioned several eligible schools, including Evansville College if it wins its last two ball games.

Although not authorized by the Jaycees or the refrigeration industries, the inquiring reporter has taken it upon himself to find out who the students of Evansville College would like to see in this game.

Here are the varied opinions of several sports minded students:

Ed Parsonage, junior—I'd like to see Evansville College play Slippery Rock down here on a muddy field.

Lemois Wires, freshman—I'd like to see Evansville College play, and to make sure that they win, we ought to invite Taylor University. They tell me they haven't won a game.

Al Wirthwein, junior—I'd like to see Loras College from Iowa play Vanderbilt. I predict that Loras will stop Notre Dame's winning streak in a couple of years at 50 games.

Mike Parkinson, senior—I'd like to see if Hanover could compile such an impressive offensive total against Evansville.

Charles Greer, sophomore—Michigan and Notre Dame.

Joe Gossman, freshman—Evansville College and that little team out in Missouri that has won 38 games in a row.

Dick Gonterman, junior—Hanover and Missouri Valley College. They are two top noteh secondary teams.

Paul Irey, junior—Kansas State and Taylor University. Two well-known unvictorious teams. How sad can you get?

Dude Holder, sophomore—Evansville and Chattanooga, providing Bill Miller wears a nose guard.

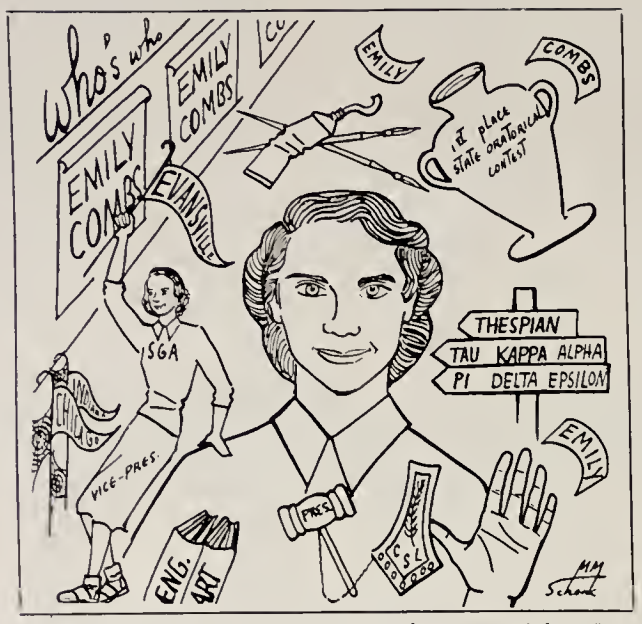
Mary Alice Peck, senior—The Aces of course. It doesn't matter about the other team as long as we win.

Nancy Sahm, freshman—I'd like to see Evansville and the next hest team play.

In the final analysis the ten students mentioned Evansville six times as the team they would most like to see in the game. Notre Dame was named once and Hanover, Taylor University, and Missouri Valley College were mentioned twice as desired entries.

Casual conversation found that Evanville College students still want to see Notre Dame and Michigan play each other. Almost all of them jokingly stated their desire to see the two teams in the bowl game, before giving a more logical answer.

Pic of the Week



Holding a major office at Evansville College is one thing, but to play three leading roles at the same time is quite another story.

Emily Combs, in these first three months of school, has proved that she can handle more than one thing at a time. She is vice-president of the Student Government Association, president of Women's Council, and president of Castalian Sorority.

Wins Oratorical Honors

Miss Combs has not limited her activities strictly to school government, however, for last year as a junior she brought several honors both to herself and her school and gained national recognition in the field of oratory.

She won the women's division of the State Oratorical Contest at Manchester College and then went on to win the Eastern division of the National Oratorical Contest at Northwestern University. Between the time of these two meets Miss Combs took another first place, this one in the men and women's speech division of the Fourth Annual Debate and Oratorical Contest at Indiana State Teachers College.

Works With Thespians

"Competing in the national contest at Northwestern has been my biggest thrill while in college," states Miss Combs.

Miss Combs was vice chairman of the fine arts committee of the Student-Faculty Federation; was a member of THE CRESCENT staff; and in the cast of the "Male Animal" last year.

She is a Thespian; president of the campus chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic fraternity; and secretary of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity.

Receives Edwards Award

The first annual Clarence H Edwards memorial award for the student who has done the most in the field of forensics, was given Miss Combs last spring.

To top off her achievements thus far in college. Miss Combs was named last week to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Students To Pick Favorite Maestro

Evansville College students are among those of 200 colleges and universities having an opportunity to enter a nation-wide contest to choose between two of the country's leading band leaders.

For the past eleven years, college students have danced to the music of Freddy Martin, and for the same number of years Woody Herman has been playing for jazz enthusiasts. And now their fans can win a trip to Hollywood for giving reasons for their choice.

Herman

Contestants should state their preference and why in 25 words or less and mail it with their name, address, telephone number, and age to Gene Howard, 951 N. La Cienega, Los Angeles 46, Calif., no later than Dec. 5.

The winner of "I Prefer Freddy Martin's Sweet Music" will be flown for three days to Los Angeles's Ambassador Hotel for three days and will spend New Year's Eve with Freddy Martin at the Cocoanut Grove.

Martin

The winner of "I Prefer Woody Herman's Swing Music" will be flown to Hollywood's Knickerbocker Hotel for three days and will spend New Year's Eve with Woody Herman in the Empire Room.

Greenwald, Schoettelkotte Head New Courses in Judaism, Scholasticism

Broaden Religion Course Scope

Rounding out the college religious program, Rabbi Milton Greenwald and Father Charles Schoettelkotte are teaching two new courses, Contemporary Judaism and Scholastic Philosophy, in the philosophy and bible department.

Contemporary Judaism deals with the picture of beliefs of Judaism as they are accepted by the Jew in the modern world. Rabbi Greenwald states that for pre-theological students, the course presents some material which may be helpful in understanding not only the origin of Christianity, but also some of the present day problems.

Active in Community

Rabbi Greenwald has been at the Washington Avenue Temple since 1932 and has taken an active part in various community activities. He has worked as director of the Veterans' Administration Center and participated in the organization of the Youth Center at Eighth and Main.

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Rabbi Greenwald was Ordained by the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati. He received an honorary degree of doctor of letters from Father Schoettelkotte teaches Scholastic Philosophy, a study of the background of the Catholic Church. The course, which includes the study of world nature, the study of man, and ment center for displaced persons from Europe; and the marriage counselling service.

After taking four years of theological study at St. Meinrad College, Father Charles did graduate work at St. Mary's-of-the-Woods, Terre Haute, and in Washington, D. C.

In addition to his class at the college, he teaches sociology at St.

Open letter to the president-elect

Dear Mr. Truman:

As one of your 140 million bosses for the next four years, I would like to let you know of my expectations.

First, congratulations on the winning of a lost cause. There are several seemingly lost causes in the state of the nation; namely they include the high cost of living in general the lack of decent housing for your "common man," and extremely high taxes with not many evident returns to the public. Please do as well in them as you did in your campaign.

Concerning your campaign pledges, you seem intent on repealing the Taft-Hartley labor law. If that is necessary for the appeasement of your labor constituents, do so; but please recognize the glaring need for some kind of legislation along those lines. And while on the subject of labor, isn't it possible to control or shut out the so-called subversive element without the prolonged publicity-mad congressional witch-hunts?

Also among your pledges are price control, federal aid to education, and subsidies to the farmers. I dislike regimentation of any kind in a supposedly free country, but at the moment it seems a good idea. Can price regulations be set up to save the public enough money to justify the additional tax spending involved?

And shouldn't educational standards, as well as teacher's salary standards, be uniform throughout the country? Perhaps this could be done by state legislation, with just a little help and/or pressure from Washington. Concerning farm aid and keeping the prices up, I would like to see that done without the horrible waste of foodstuffs so urgently needed abroad.

And by the way, Mr. President, if you apply yourself as vigorously and rigorously to the affairs of state as you did to your campaign, all should go well. One more thing: the campaign is over; please keep politics out of the national administration as much as possible, and remember that the "People's lobby," rather than big business monoplies, real estate lobbies, hutter-and-egg men, et cerera, elected you. The people are your employers. Work for them!

All our Love,

Don and Pinky

And The Roof Came Tumbling Down

Tonight ye olde walls of our Alma Mater may have good reason to crack and crumble. The three social sororities will gather UNDER ONE ROOF at THE SAME TIME. Gamma Delta, freshmen women's sorority, will act as referee — oops — 'scuse us, we mean hostesses. But seriously, with all jokes aside, we think it's a fine idea and our hats are off to the Camma Deltas for fostering such a plan.

And We're Off

Thoughts are now turned toward a brief vacation. Oh! happy delusion. Thanksgiving Day is just around the corner and those turkeys are in for mass slaughter in the next two weeks. Added spice to our turkey dinner is a much lunged for four-day weekend. That midnight oil will probably be burning, but it won't be with hooks, that for sure. We're marking off the days on our little calendar now. Anyone knowing of a way to hurry up the process should contact either of the authors of this column (using the word loosely).

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Dandelion Department

Maytha Schurtter and Lois Wiggers, new pledges to Alpha Phi Mu, freshmen women's honorary sorority, are presented our bouquets for the week. The masses of nervous tissue in thier respective skulls have enabled them to make grades so high that they are recognized among the elite crew of women having a 2.4 or higher average. Congratulations and more power to hoth of them.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Why Don't They?

Require all married men to wear rings — huild tunnels from building to building for rainy days — make standard prof jokes funnier — provide traffic signals for those dangerous corners in the Office Building — install student telephones from the T-Hut to the TUB.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Today our wrists are tired and sore
Cuz last night's shindig had people galore
Never knew it was such a chore
To pump hands with the whole blame corps!

Pingmen Meet Cardinals Tomorrow

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

If the Aces can get wins over Louisville tomorrow and Murray next week, they seem to be a "sure thing" to play in the first annual Refrigerator Bowl game at Reitz Bowl, Saturday Dec. 4. The Evansville Jaycees, sponsors of the game, have promised the fans two top-notch secondary college teams for the bowl game.

There are several teams under consideration for the game, and the contestants are expected to be named within the next few days. Missouri Valley, winner of their last 39 games, is almost a cinch to receive a bid. Last year they played in two post season contests and won them them boh.

In another two weeks the full swing of Hoosier Hysteria will be upon us. Most of the smaller high schools over the state have already gotten their net seasons under way and the rest of them will start right after Thanksgiving.

Coach Arad McCutchan's charges flip the lid off the local college season on Saturday night, Nov. 27, when they play host to the Oakland City College quintet. Following the opener, they entertain Southeast Missouri and Kentucky Wesleyan before taking to the road for the next four games.

Tomorrow's encounter with the Louisville Cardinals is the last home game of the year. The Aces are well worth seeing play and the game with L-ville should he a good one. Student backing of the team has been on the upswing this year, so let's all get out and give them a real boost in their last home game.

Wins over Louisville and Murray will assure us of the first championship in the Ohio Valley Conference. Also, it will definitely ba a hoon to the future booking of good games by Evansville.

Last week we had seven right, two wrong and one tie in the selection department. In addition we had Purdue playing Oklahoma . . . However, mistakes will happen. The season total now stands at 18 wins, seven losses and one tie.

There are several fine games scheduled over the country this weekend. Barring unrofeseen mishaps, here is the way they look to us: EVANSVILLE over Louisville, ARKANSAS over Southern Methodist, COLUMBIA over Navy, GEORGIA TECH over Alabama, ILLINOIS over Ohio State, MINNESOTA over Iowa, MICHIGAN over Indiana, MISSOURI over Colorado, ARMY over Penn, PURDUE over Pitt, SOUTHERN CAL over Washington, and TENNESSEE over Ole Miss.

Basketball Coach Names Probable Varsity Squad

Nine freshmen basketball players are rated outstanding prospects by Coach Arad McCutchan. They are Jim DeGroote and Larry Cutsinger from Bosse High School, Jerry Canterhury from Reitz, Bob Northerner from Central, Willie Sakel from Huntingburg, Ray Bawel from Boonville, Thornton Patherg from Stendal, Louis Korff from Jasper, and Harold Gwaltney from Fort Branch. Several of these boys are expected to see plenty of action this season.

Should Be Better

Coach McCutchan stated that the 1948-49 team should be better than last year's although it is handicapped hy the lack of height, particularly at center.

Mr. McCutchan also announced that the starting lineup, although still indefinite, will probably be chosen from the following 11 players: forwards, Bob and Jim Barnett, Bob Sakel, or Al Buck; center, Harry Axford apparently has this position clinched; and guards, Boh Kohlmeyer, Joe Hafele, Jack Matthews, Larry "Dude" Holder, DeGroote or Canterhury.

Eight Lettermen

Eight letter winners are back from last year's team which won eight while losing 18. They are—the two Barnett brothers, Boh Sakel, Axford, Kohlmeyer, Hafele, Matthews, and Holder. Buck received a minor award last season.

Boh Barnett, the third highest collegiate scorer in the state last year, led the Aces with 323 points. The pointmaking of the other lettermen was as follows: Kohlmeyer, 194; Matthews, 145; Holder 119; Jim Barnett, 80; Hafele, 65; Sakel, 54, and Axford 35.

Aces Share Valley Lead with Cards

By defeating Eastern last Saturday, Evansville's Purple Aces forged to the front of the Ohio Valley Conference race along with the Louisville Cardinals.

The Aces, with a record of two wins and no losses, and Louisville, having won its only conference start, play tomorrow afternoon for undisputed possession of first place.

In the only other game within the conference last week, the rampaging Murray Thoroughhreds out ran Morehead 33-0. Murray, however, cannot win the conference championship unless Evansville loses its last two games.

In other games involving conference teams last week, Western outscored Louisiana College 35-18, and Louisville beat Catawba 33-21.

While Louisville and Evansville battle it out next Saturday for the conference lead, Eastern and Western play a league game at Bowling Green. Murray and Morehead play non-conference competition.

The Aces can gain at least a tie for the first Ohio Valley championship Saturday if they beat Louisville. If Louisville wins, although they finish their conference play unbeaten, they still will not be champion because of the rules which make it necessary for a team to play at least three conference games to be eligible for the crown, according to Bud Johnson, college athletic publicity director.

Aces Edge Opponents In Number of Wins

The Evansville College Aces have a slight edge in the percentage of games won in considering an overall average of games won by their opponents. The Aces have won .666 percent of their games compared to a .620 average by their opposition.

Murray State College, opponent of the Aces next Friday afternoon at Murray, has won a total of six games while losing to Eastern Kentucky State. This is the team that the Aces defeated last Saturday night by a score of 7-0.

The University of Louisville, who tangle with Evanville tomorrow afternoon at Bosse Field, has cupped four games, while losing three.

Standings of the other teams are:

	W.	L.
Western Ky. State	3	3
Butler	3	3
Indiana State	4	3
Univ. of Chattanooga	4	3
Eastern Ky. State	6	2

Kunkel Plays Third Year With Evansville Aces

Ploys Sixth Season Under Mentor, Three Prep; Physical Ed Mojor Wonts to Cooch Football

By DON SHOFSTALL

Bob Kunkel, who will win his third straight letter on the Ace's line this year, is playing for the sixth season under Coach Don Ping. He graduated from Memorial High School in 1946, after playing at left guard for three years and receiving honorary mention on the all-state team in 1946.

Boh is majoring in physical education, and intends to coach after graduating. He hasen't decided on his minor subject, but thinks it will be English.

Concerning the football team, Bob thinks the Aces have hetter esprit de corp this year than any high school or college ball club he has seen play and whether they win or lose in their games, the men play as a team rather than as individuals. According to Bob, it's "fun to play" this year.

Razzed By Mates

After the recent game with Indiana State, Bob got a lot of friendly razzing from the team. They said he should have received an I.S. letter as the fifth man in their hackfield, because on nearly all of State's pass attempts Bob was the first man over the line of scrimmage, and kept the passer well covered. Bob called it luck!

In spite of the fact that the Aces have done extremely well on wet fields this year, Bob says it would be interesting to see what a dry field looks like for a change. He's tired of taking three showers in a row just to remove the first layer of mud after a game.

Team Has New Spirit

One thing Bob is especially happy about where the team is concerned is the rejuvenated school spirit. He says good attendance at the games and a lot of organized yelling helps the team more than the spectators seem to realize. The Pep Club, Bob thinks, is an excellent idea for both the school and the team. He hopes it grows.

Along the romantic lines, Bob is, as he puts it, pretty well attached. He has been going with Mellie Ann Wahl, a 1947 Central graduate, for three years.

Castalians, WAA Still Top Women's Bowling

Castalians and Women's Athletic Association, both with five games won and one lost, still head the Women's Bowling League following last Thursday's league play.

Rovella Hinton, freshman member of the Gamma Delta II team rolled the high individual game of 153 and the high two-game series of 279 last week. WAA made the high team two-game series score of 1081.

Miss Hinton and Louise Kiely, captain of the Castalian team, are tied for the high individual average, both having a 131 average.

Aces Edge Out Maroons 7-0, On Soaked Field

Coach Ping's charges close their home season tomorrow afternoon when they meet the Louisville Cardinals at 2 o'clock at the Bosse Field gridiron. This will be the ninth meeting of the two schools and the Aces will be after their first victory in the series.

Both teams have perfect records in conference play this season, and the game is a crucial one as far as the Evansville chances of the Ohio Valley toga are concerned. Louisville is not eligible for the championship this year as they only play two conference foes.

For those fans who like to go on comparative scores, there isn't much to hase a decision on in the case of this game. The only mutual opponent of the two teams is Western Kentucky. Louisville defeated them 9 to 6 and the Aces won 12 to 6. If comparative scores are to he taken seriously, this would make the Cardinals a seven point favorite over the college.

Aces Edge Eastern

In their last encounter the Aces scored against the Eastern Maroons in the second quarter, and held them the rest of the game. The only time that Eastern threatened was when they drove to the Evansville seven yard stripe before being stopped, inches short of a first down. Endress then took the hall and ran it out to the Evansville 30 and the Aces were never in serious trouhle again.

The Eastern win gave the Pingmen a two won and none lost record in the Ohio Valley Conference race and put them in the lead. They are the only team that can win the title without sharing it. This can he done by winning their last two games.

Evansville outdowned the Eastern team 15 to 9 and outgained them on the ground 220 yards to 113.

Five completed passes netted the Aces 85 yards. Eastern completed two of their aerial attempts for a net gain of 12 yards. The net yards gained totals gave Evansville an advantage of 180 yards over the Maroons from Richmond.

Gonterman Hurt

Dick Gonterman is on the douhtful list for tomorrow's game due to an injury received in the game last week. Otherwise the Aces seem to he in good physical condition for the game.

Louisville has been under the direction of Coach Frank Camp since the beginning of the 1946 season. Camp, a former quarterback for Transylvania College of Lexington, is a perfectionist as far as the condition of his team is concerned. He is assisted by J. D. Dunn, Clark Wood, and John Dromo. Boh Pursley serves as trainer for the Cardinal grid teams. Did you copy read this - this ? ? ?

Students of Sociology Gain Experience Through Practical Work in Community

By PAT STARRY

Fifteen sociology majors, all seniors, are doing social work in the community as a part of their college training. This practical field work is required of sociology majors for graduation.

Typical of the work of a sociology major is that of Miss Betty Willner, a graduate of last year, and Miss Doris Witt, senior, who are both affiliated with the Evansville Girl Scouts.

Duties of Workers

Miss Willner is field director for the Brownies, the youngest group of scouts. She plans the activities and sees that the girls become a part of the organization.

Miss Witt, who is majoring in sociology, works part-time with the scouts as part of the 160 hours of field work necessary to complete the course. Miss Witt's duties include working in the Girl Scout office, special activities with the girls, and arranging joint meetings of parents and children for beginning clubs.

Receive Credit

Students receive 2 hours of credit per quarter toward their major in sociology from the work that they do with a social organization in the community.

Social organizations where students may work are the Red Cross; Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts; Department of Public Welfare; Catholic Charities; Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.; Family and Child Service; and Carver Community Center.

Can Choose Work

The object of the program is to acquaint the student with social problems and to prepare him for professional duty. Each student may choose the organization in which he is most interested and, if there is a position open, he is given an opportunity to compete for it. He also may designate whether he wishes to do case or group work.

Case work involves the special case problems of an individual, while group work includes such activities as Boy Scouts and the Y.M.C.A.

After graduation the student does not necessarily have to go on working with the particular organization that he worked with as a senior.

Wanted: Turkey Eaters

Students To Enjoy Thanksgiving Day

Some of the students at the college have gotten together with the idea of finding a Thanksgiving "home" for out-of-town students who might not be able to get home for the holiday.

As Thanksgiving time approaches, many students probably recall service days spent away from home on "Turkey Day" and how difficult it was to be thankful at a soda fountain, or on a rocking ship, or eating dust in a dugout.

Any student interested in locating a "home" for Thanksgiving, fill out the form below and return it promptly to O 104.

Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department of home economics, is attending the fall meeting of the Indiana State Dietetics Association today at Indiana University.

A dinner will be served at 6:30 tonight in the Union Building on the I. U. campus. Norris Wentworth will speak about the college food service following the dinner, according to Miss Bahlert who is also a member of the national Dietetics Association.

Visual Aid Service Expands Program, Buys Equipment

The college audio-visual center, under the direction of Dr. Leland Moon, has expanded during the last 12 months with the addition of new equipment and a film rental library.

A Webster Wire Recorder recently has been jointly purchased by five college departments. It already has been used a number of times this year in various classes.

Rents Films

Another purchase was a Tri- Purpose Picturol Projector which is used for showing 2 x 2 slides, film stripe, and double frame slides. A tachistoscope, a machine that flashes printing on a screen at different speeds, is being rented and is used for the teaching of remedial reading.

A film rental service is also offered to the various schools in the Tri-State area. The center now has over 100 films for rent for elementary, high school, and college use. These films cover almost every subject from chemistry to social science. The value of the films is in excess of $5,000.

Conducts Classes

Films used by the various college classes are also ordered through the center and projected by someone trained through the department.

Trustee Composes Song About United Nations

An anthem, "We Are United Nations," composed by Richard Rosencranz, secretary of the college board of trustees, has recently been sent to the United Nations delegates and to 700 colleges and universities in 59 countries.

It has been also translated into 18 languages and played and sung in many countries.

The anthem was first played at the college during the War Memorial exercises on United Nations Day, Sept. 22, 1946.

It is sponsored by Evansville College Library as one of a collection known as "Songs of World Brotherhood."

Mr. Rosencranz also composed the first alma mater for the college, and the "Centennial Song," commemorating the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of Evansville as a city, in 1947.

THE EVANSVILLE Crescent

Vol. XXX | Evansville College, Evansville, Indiana | November 19, 1948, No. 8

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

● It is now official, via the White House; Thursday is really going to be Thanksgiving Day. Turkey enthusiasts, tired students, and overworked professors may have at least one day of grace before finals (see schedule page 2).

● This is the last issue of THE CRESCENT for the current term. Next publication date is December 17. See special calendar on page 1 for news of events scheduled during the interim.

● Congratulations to the Thespians, Mrs. Taylor, and assisting crews for turning what could easily have been a dialogue heavy show into a delightfully humorous play.

● The annual Christmas seal drive begins Monday, and seals will be available to students through the book store after Nov. 29. Students should make a special effort to participate in this fight against tuberculosis, the disease which kills one person every ten minutes in the United States. It is through funds from this drive that special X-ray mobile units are available for use in schools and colleges. Such a unit gives free X-ray service to Evansville College freshmen at the beginning of each school year. The serice also is extended to upperclassmen for a slight fee, far below that for similar services at a hospital.

Miss Starry

● Answer to musical brainteaser number 5, "What musical work was identified with the Allied struggle in World War II?" kas given by Ralph Abshier: Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony."

● Straight from the ballot box: Alpha Phi Omega collected $146.28 in their "Ugliest Man on the Campus" contest Wednesday. This fund will be turned into holiday baskets for needy Evansville families. To winner Jim Niehaus went a free dinner in the cafeteria and 50 cents worth of credit in the TUB.

Three Students and Faculty Member to Present Recitals

Starting tonight, the department of music will present three recitals, two student and one faculty, within the next four weeks.

Bob Padgett, clarinetist, will be presented in his senior clarinet recital tonight in the auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. He will be accompanied by Anna Lee Schmidt at the piano.

His first group will be "Sonata in F Minor, Opus 120, No. 1" by Brahms. This selection is in four parts, Allegro Appasionata, Andante in poco Adagio, Allegretto grazioso and Vivace.

Miss Schmidt will play "Scherzo in B flat minor" by Chopin followed by the third group of selections to be played by Mr. Padgett including "Berceuse" by Barat; "Andante et Scherzo" by Dere; and "Promenade" by C. M. von Weber.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21, Miss Allene Herron, assistant professor of piano, will present a piano recital in the auditorium at 3 o'clock. This will be the third faculty recital of the year.

Studied in Paris

Miss Herron received her masters degree in music from the American Conservatory in Music, Chicago. She also had a year of private instruction in Paris, France, under Philipp. She has been on the college faculty a year.

Her program will be in four parts. It will include numbers by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, and Liszt. The final group will be by contemporary composers.

Duo-Senior Recital Set

Ruth Grossman, mezzo soprano, and Lyman Hall, trombonist, will be presented in a duo-senior recital Monday, Dec. 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Miss Grossman was graduated from Reitz High School and is the voice student of Cecil B. Selfridge, associate professor of voice. Mr. Hall came from Bosse High School and is studying trombone under Harry Hart.

Their programs will consist of three parts each. Miss Grossman will be accompanied by Lois Lutz, sophomore. William Bell, senior, will accompany Mr. Hall.

Cooper Announces TUB Football Show Monday

Pictures of the Indiana State and Louisville football games of this year will be shown in the Temporary Union Building Monday evening at 8 p.m., according to Jim Cooper, director of TUB activities.

"That finish in the Indiana State game is really something to see, and the Louisville game with the Aces at their best should also make a fine movie," Mr. Cooper added.

Pictures of the Northern Illinois game of last year and the Butler game of this year were recently shown with a good number attending, Mr. Cooper stated.

Phi Zetas List Dec. 16 as Date For Annual Sweetheart Ball

The annual Phi Zeta Sweetheart Ball has been scheduled for Thursday evening, Dec. 16, at the Evansville National Cuard Armory, Sam Humphrey, Phi Zeta president, announced this week.

In making the announcement, Mr. Humphrey stated that this date was chosen because it is just after the start of the new quarter, and the last evening before the beginning of the Christmas vacation.

Band Not Yet Named

Negotiations are being made with several name bands for the dance, but a specific group has not yet been chosen. Tony Pastor and his orchestra is one of several bands being considered.

Jim Whitehead, vice president, is the general chairman of the dance. Jim Manion is the publicity chairman, and Jim V. Browne will be in charge of the decorations.

Queen to be Chosen

During the dance, the Pbi Zeta Sweetheart will be chosen by the college alumni. The queen is to be chosen from single college girls in attendance at the dance. The fraternity Glee Club will sing the toast to the queen during the ceremony. Lois Huck, senior, was the Phi Zeta queen in 1947.

The dance will be open to all college students and guests. Tickets will go on sale in December.

Gamma Delta To Be Guests

Tbe annual parties given by the three social sororities on campus for Camma Delta, sorority for freshmen women, will be the first two weeks in December.

Gamma Epsilon Sigma will be the first to entertain, witb a party scheduled for Monday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. Doris Witt, president, stated that the party is to be in the nursery department of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. This is in keeping with the traditional Kiddie Idea theme of this affair. Lucille Schmitt is the general chairman for the party.

The Castalians will entertain Camma Delta on Dec. 8 at the Servel Cun Club. Helen Nunn is chairman of this affair, which is the traditional Pajama Christmas Party. It begins at 7 p.m.

Gamma Delta is to be guest of Theta Sigma on Monday, Dec. 13. Joanne Engelbert, chairman for this party stated that plans are still indefinite. Tentative plans schedule the party for the Y.W.C.A., starting at 7:30 p.m.

New Courses Are Offered In Evening

Pre-registration in the Evening College for the winter quarter started this week and will continue through Tuesday of next week, according to an announcement by Harold See, director.

Class work will begin Monday, Dec. 6, and continue until Feb. 24, 1949, with time out for the Christmas vacation.

Report Writing Offered

Among the various new courses offered for the first time in the evening college is technical report writing. This course is designed to meet the needs of engineers, office personnel, and executives who are called on to write various reports and letters involving technical information. It is a three-hour course that meets on Monday and is taught by A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English.

Another new course in biology is gardening. The course is designed for the individual interested in flower raising and vegetable gardening. This is a two-hour course which meets from 8 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday.

Metalcraft Course Listed

Other new courses include advanced metalcraft, which is a two-hour course, meeting on Wednesday, applied art in home decorating, and special problems in home economics. The latter is a guidance course of independent study.

For further information concerning the Evening College, students may call at the office, A214.

Theta Sigmas Plan Dinner and Booklet On Anniversary

Theta Sigma sorority actives and alumnae are jointly planning the observance of the sorority's silver anniversary Dec. 9.

Highlight of the celebration will be a Founder's Day banquet at the Empire Room of the Hotel Vendome. Entertainment at this event will include skits portraying outstanding events in Theta Sig history. The skits will be presented as five year intervals depicting around the world sports and news events of history.

Miss Pearle LeCompte, faculty sponsor, will be the principle speaker at the banquet. Her topic is to be "Higher Coals." The annual Theta scholarship, sponsored by the sorority, will also be presented at this meeting.

On the evening before the banquet a special anniversary booklet will be released. Miss Lois Hyland, graduate of 1948, has been named editor. She will be assisted by Bernice Culley, junior, president of the acitve chapter; Dorothy Dailey, junior; Mrs. Kent Wiseman, president of alumnae; Miss Helen Ruth Smith; Miss Dorothy Lukemeier; and Miss Mary Jane Schmidt.

Jackie Schmitt Named 'Girl of the Month'

Jackie Schmitt, senior, was named "Girl of the Month" by the Secretarial Science Club at its last meeting. She was chosen for her outstanding work as a member of the Newman Club, of Gamma, Epsilon Sigma sorority, and of the Secretarial Science Club.

Freshman Group Plans Square Dance, Floor Show for Tomorrow Night

Camma Delta, freshman women's sorority, will have a dance in the Temporary Union Building tomorrow night from 8 to 11 p.m.

Entertainment for the evening will consist of square dancing and regular dancing to music of the juke box. A floor show also is being planned.

"Dress for the evening will be very informal," Patricia Bates, president of the sorority, stated when asked about this social event.

Dress is Informal

The men are to come dressed in overall or slack trousers and the women will wear summer dresses or shirts and blouses. The dance is for members of the sorority and their escorts only.

Faculty members who have been invited as chaperones are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Long; Mr. and Mrs. Everette Walker; and Miss Esther Brown, dean of women.

Molly Marlatt is acting as chairman of the social committee for the dance. Serving with her on the committee are Marcine Johnson, Salli Henn, Jo Ann Hayes, Mary Weber, Shirley Paul, Jeanne Williams, Lois Ricketts, Ann Bledsoe, and Shirley Whitledge.

Club Officers Listed

The TUB will be decorated to resemble a barn with the accent on the Thanksgiving holiday season.

Other officers in the sorority are Mary Margaret Schenk, vice president; and Lois Ricketts, secretary-treasurer. The faculty sponsor is Miss Brown.

Maynard M. Miller To Review Alaskan Exploration in Assemblies Next Week

Maynard Miller

Maynard Malcolm Miller, former president of the Harvard Mountaineering Club, will speak in assembbes, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Miller will tell his story of the first expedition to scale the treacherous Mount St. Ebas from Icy Day, Alaska, of which he was leader.

His lecture will be supplemented with colored motion pictures which show him and his seven associates setting sail in the "Grace N" from Yakutat, dodging icebergs from Icy Day to the foot of Tyndall Glacier.

Mr. Miller has been interested in exploration, mountaineering, and geology since bis boyhood. By the time he was sixteen, he had climbed every major peak in the Pacific Northwest. During his summer vacations he served as a summit guide at Mt. Rainier and in the summer of 1940, he was a member of an expedition which visited the Southern Fairweather Range in Alaska.

Mr. Miller was graduated from Harvard University in 1943, with a B.S. in geology. He is now working on his master's degree in geology at Columbia University.

First Tea Dance Set for Tuesday

The first tea dance of the college year will be in the Temporary Union Building Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., according to Jim Niehous, chairman of the TUB tea dance committee.

Norman Kniese and his Philo Dance Band are scheduled to provide the music. Decorations will be in the autumn motif.

Members of the committee in charge of plans and arrangements for the dance include Mr. Niehaus, Mr. Kniese, Jo Ann James, Pat Rampy, Ann Wilson, Lois Ricketts, James Tompson, and Barbara Nickell.

Inaugurated as part of a program to provide a well rounded academic and social program on campus, the tea dances were originally given in the cafeteria. Each dance was sponsored by a different student organization. After the opening of the TUB, last year, a special tea dance group was established as a division of the TUB dance committee.

'Eager Heart' Date Set By Director

The traditional Christmas season presentation of "Eager Heart" will be at 4 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12.

Since 1926 the play has been given each year by the Thespians and the college choir. "Eager Heart" was originally taken from monastic writings, and has been a tradition for many years in London. The Eager Heart company in England has given permission for the play to be presented at the college each year, with the understanding that no admission will be charged and the players and contributors will not be publicized.

According to Mrs. Taylor, director of the Thespians, the occasion bas become one in which students, faculty, and community families gather to catch a new glimpse of the truth and beauty associated with Christmas.

College Art Show Begins Monday

Work by Day, Evening Classes To Be Included in Exercises

Student art work for the current quarter will be exhibited during a three-day open house being sponsored by the art department November 22, 23, and 24.

Exhibits, set up in the art class room and in the reserve library, include seven divisions of work by students in day and evening art classes. They will be on display from 2 to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Tuesday, and from 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Division 1 will include beginning art work, samples of design lettering and color work; division 2, art advertising design, containing travel posters for nearly every country, as well as book jackets, menu cards, and letter heads; and division 3, art and civilization display, showing primitive masks, and drawings and paintings in the spirit of Japanese, Chinese, and other oriental art.

Making up the other three exhibits will be work from Evening College art classes. Division 4 will show still life water colors by students attending classes in the Evansville Public Museum; division 5, free hand sketching; division 6, figure drawing and ceramics; and division 7, metalcraft. Work in the last three fields is by students under the direction of Fred Eilers, Frank Engle, and Miss Alice Zimmerman.

Highlight of the three-day event will be afternoon tea, served from 4 to 5 p.m., Wednesday, in the art class room. Faculty members, faculty dames, and interested students are invited to attend.

Art students will act as guides during the exhibit.

Watson Is Sophomore President

Ronald Watson has been elected president of the sopohomore class. Marylu Plane was named vice president, Betty Ann Speis, secretary, and James B. Sterett, treasurer.

The election was conducted Monday and Tuesday in the Temporary Union Building committee room, following nominations by class members Monday morning. The official returns were given to THE CRESCENT.

Mr. Watson, a member of Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity, is a business administration major, with marketing his field of concentration. He serves the football team as quarterback. Miss Plane is a Castalian majoring in elementary education. She is secretary of the ACE organization.

Mr. Sterett, a Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity member, is on the industrial technology course in refrigeration. He also is a member of the football team, holding the position of tackle. Miss Speis is a member of the Tbeta Sigma sorority.

Other sophomores nominated for the positions were Tommy Turner for president, Mary Bollinger, candidate for office of vice president, Ann Zimmerman for secretary, and Duncan Cooke as treasurer.

Choir To Sing Handel Music

Tbe A Capella choir under the direction of Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the department of music, will present its annual program of music from Handel's "Messiah" in the regular assembly period Dec. 14 and 15.

The group will present "Glory To God," "Surely He Has Borne Our Griefs," "And The Glory of The Lord," and "Behold The Lamb of God." The famibar "Hallelujah" will be sung as the finale.

Soloists for the group will be selected from the choir and the faculty. The choir presented its first Messiah program last year at this time. It is now scheduled as an annual school affair.

On Dec. 5 the cboir will participate in the community mass chorus, consisting of the local high school and church choirs, presentation of the full "Messiah" in the Bosse auditorium under the direction of George Dasch, conductor of the Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra. This also is an annual performance and is sponsored by the Organists and Cboir Directors Guild.

F-Day Draws Near; Students Begin Cramming for Final Exams

The schedule for final examinations, from Wednesday, Dec. 1, through Friday, Dec. 3. hase been released from the Dean's Office.

THE CRESCENT lists the subject, time and place for all exams for the convenience of students.

Those who have conflicts are to report them to the Dean's Office. Paper will be furnished for exams, and they must be written in ink. Students must have met all financial obligations due the college before they will be permitted to take exams.

Committee Confers

Public Occasions Committee Links College and Community

The Student-Faculty Federation Committees are in their first full year of operation under the new plan for more student representation in school government, that is, having six students and three faculty members and a student chairman instead of having three students and three faculty members and a faculty chairman as in the past. — Ed.

Public Occasions, one of the lesser known of the Student-Faculty Federation Committees is, nevertheless, just as important a cog in the machinery of school government as any of the other eight committees.

Due to the nature of its work, the group functions differently from the other federation committees. It operates only on call and any bills it incurs are handled by the Business Office, while the rest of the committees meet every other Monday at 11 a.m. and are allotted money to work with from the student activity fee.

"Our job is to meet the needs of any occasion connected with school life where the public and community are concerned," Pat Kaiser, chairman of the committee, reports.

Normally the most important service it performs is taking care of the details and arrangements for Baccalaureate and Commencement, but the work connected with Open House and the dedication of the new Engineering-Science Building last November was its biggest task in the last few years.

Thus far this year the group was responsible for the annual alumni dinner at the time of the Southwestern Indiana Teachers Association Convention It also participated in planning Homecoming events.

Members of the committee aside from Miss Kaiser are Betty Marshall, Joan Henn, Ed Whitehead, Gene Christian, and Paul Carnes, students; and Miss Certrude Leich, Professor Guy Marchant, and Dr. Alvin Strickler, faculty.

Pic of the Week

When Sarah Kessler smiles, which is often, her pert nose wrinkles and her eyes light up. For such a busy girl, she still has plenty of time to smile over a bridge game while doing many things around campus.

Sarah can be found sometime each day in the TUB, where she specializes in posters-deluxe. Last year she was secretary of the TUB Management Board.

Her long string of activities started when she was a freshman. That year Sarah was president of Camma Delta freshman sorority, treasurer of her class, and participated in Ace Capades.

SCA Secretary

Last year, she was vice president of the sophomore class, secretary-treasurer of the Pep Club, president of the Union Board of Directors, and a member of the Student-Faculty Policy Committee. While doing all this, she took time out to be an attendant to the Phi Zeta Sweetheart and play in "Eager Heart."

Sarah's interest in the stage has not lessened and this year she is a member of Thespians. She is secretary of SCA and was recently named to Who Who's in American Universities and Colleges.

Likes Sports

Besides playing bridge, Sarah's activities include her sorority, Camma Epsilon Sigma, and "all kinds" of sports.

"The ones I cannot participate in I enjoy watching," she commented, and added that her favorite active sports were horseback riding and swimming.

Her goals for the campus are first, a Student Union Building.

"Afterwards, I would like to see the college start a dormitory system. so it can really expand beyond the city limits."

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Sight of the Week

Dr. Werking dashing madly around the Office Building looking for the janitor to get a key to his office and trying to keep his class from leaving at the same time.

Poor Mr. Schubert

It loks as though Schubert's Unfinished Symphony just can't be completed. Twice this year it has been scheduled for the Listening Hour and both times it went unfinished. The first time it couldn't be played at all because the phonograph broke down and the second time the selection was about halfway through when an alert student discovered that the manufacturer has mistakenly placed a Mozart record in the Schubert Album.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Why Don't They

Have Aee Capades this year — build a decent auditorium with stage and equipment — go back to the semester system — provide ready-made "ponies" for exams, or better still, abolish exams altogether — take a vote on the smoothest professor on campus (we have some ideas as to who would get it) — provide pillows and sleeping pills for dull lectures.

Dandelion Department

No one person gets a posie this week, but our appreciation in the form of a floral piece goes to a number of people.

To all the hardworking crews and especially to Ben Bockstege, Diane Hadley, Mrs. Taylor, and the entire cast of characters who worked on the fine production of "Three Men on a Horse," we extend our choice blossoms.

Also in line for flowers are the Camma Deltas who proved to be charming hostesses at their party for the social sororities. Their program was packed full of talent and Mary Coleman won all sorts of praise when she sang "Indian Love Call." Her voice is really something to rave about and we hope to hear it quite often.

Shofstall

For this big week before Thanksgiing vacation and finals, we grabbed two students at random from the milling masses in the TUB and asked them to comment on any little thing here at school which they felt like commenting on. Adrain Baize, bop lover, advocate of progressive music, and a member of Phi Epsilon Phi, had this to say:

"I think more entertainment is needed in the pep assemblies. I know we have plenty of hidden talent in the school body and someone should reveal it.

"Moreover, since enthusiasm has mounted to a new high, I believe that all entertainment committees should be more highly appreciated. One 'Tiger' Ritter has offered his services countless times and received nothing but a few handshakes from brother Philos. I think that we should take this example of undying effort and at least issue him a free pass to the basketball games."

We could get nothing more from Mr. Baize, as he wanted to listen to "Manteca" one more time before class, so another subject was chosen. Miss Carole McCane:

"I just want to say that I don't like the quarter system. I disapprove of it because of the concentrated courses and the additional financial burden. Also, going on the assumption that two hours of study are required for each hour spent in class, twenty-four hours are not enough in each day."

Pingmen Battle Thoroughbreds Today

Aces Bounce Louisville 18-6 for Fifth Victory

By BILL WOODS

Evansville's Aces bring their third post-war football season to a close this afternoon at Murray, when they meet the Thoroughbreds at 2 o'clock. This game can be classed as the most crucial on the Pingmen's schedule to date, as a win will give them undisputed control of the Ohio Valley Conference title.

At present the Aces have a five and two record for the season. Their wins have been over Western Kentucky, 12 to 6, Indiana State, 13 to 12, Ottawa, 18 to 6, Eastern Kentucky, 7 to 0, and University of Louisville, 18 to 6, in their last encounter.

Fast Starters

Evansville got off to a fast start in the Louisville game and was never headed. They scored 18 points in the first half and coasted the rest of the way to victory. Louisville's score was set up by a punt return to the Evansville 24 by Lucia. He had a clear path to the goal but was stopped from behind by Gene Logel. Louisville drove to the Evansville five yard strip before they were stopped, when Wires intercepted a Cardinal pass.

However, the Aces were held deep in their own territory, and Louisville drove down to score.

This afternoon's game is rated as a toss-up, with both teams having compiled good records for the season. Murray's only defeat to date came at the hands of Eastern Kentucky by one touchdown.

The Thoroughbreds have several very fast players on their roster. They are led on the field by Captain Ken Evitt, a senior from Eldorado, Ill. Other outstanding members of the Murray squad are John Hackney, junior guard from Hopkinsville, and Powell Puckett, junior guard from Shelbyville, Ky.

Flashy Backs

In the backfield the Thoroughbreds have three outstanding men in Winfred Dill, Joe Bronson, and John Singleton. Dill is a 160-pound left halfback from Huntington, Tenn., and is one of the fastest men on the Murray squad. Bronson operates from the right halfback slot where he is spending his second season. He is from Chicago.

At fullback the Murray squad has Singleton, a 195-pound sophomore from Hamilton, Ohio. Singleton, who stands an even six feet, is one of the hardest driving fullbacks in Kentucky.

Evansville will probably have Jack Crouch and Ted Ping at ends, Bill Russler and Charles Henderson at tackles, Bob Gerhardt and Bob Kunkel at guards, and Don Elliott or Pat Fitzgerald at center. Ron Watson will probably be at quarterback with Gene Logel and Mason Working at the halfback posts. Morris Riley or Frank Endress will open at fullback for the Aces.

Phi Zetas Tops In Keg League

The Phi Zeta No. 1 team is leading the Evansville College bowling league with 13 victories and 5 defeats at the end of seven weeks of play, according to Buddy Dile, secretary of the league.

Trailing in the league are the Accounting Club and faculty teams. The faculty team has forfeited its last three games and the accounting team has lost 12 of its 18 games.

Johnny Hurst of Philo No. 1 team continues to hold this year's record of 223 for a single game.

Aces Assured of Tie For Valley Pennant

At least a share of the first Ohio Valley crown will rest on the Indiana side of the Ohio river as a result of the Aces victory over the Louisville Cardinals last week.

Only Murray State can deprive the Aces of complete possession of the conference flag. The Thoroughbreds, with a record of one victory and one defeat, could throw the race into a deadlock by upsetting the Aces this afternoon and then defeating Western on Thanksgiving Day.

Western knocked Eastern out of a chance for a share of the crown last week by nipping the Maroons, 14-13. Murray warmed up for its tilt with Evansville this afternoon by drubbing Middle Tennessee, 26-12.

Besides the Murray-Evansville game, Eastern plays Northern Illinois State tonight, and Louisville entertains Bradley Tech tomorrow afternoon. Morehead has finished its schedule for the year.

WAA Volleyball Team Engages Champions

Volleyball will take the spotlight as the Women's Athletic Association prepares for its winter schedule of sports.

Last night a WAA volleyball team composed of Louise Kiely, Joanne Engelbert, Sue Dannettell, Dorothy Kiefer, Ninabel Hurt, Ann Whitehead, Rovella Hinton, and Joan Hallinan played the Central Turners Women's team, winners of the National Turners' volleyball tournament last summer in St. Louis, Mo.

Phi Zetas Edge Pi Epsilon Phil 7-6 In Hard Fought Game

Phi Zeta and Pi Epsilon Phi met in their annual grid encounter last Sunday on the college field with the Phi Zetas coming out on the long end of a 7-6 score.

Several injuries were incurred during the game, the most serious a cut wrist and tendon suffered by John Hurst of the Philos. Hurst was injured when he fell on a milk bottle. Hurst is a former Bosse High School and University of Kentucky gridder.

Net Season Opens Next Week; Oaks First Opponents

The Aces kick the lid off the hardwood season Saturday night, Nov. 27, at the Armory against the Oaks of Oakland City College. Game time is 8:30. Oakland City is reported to be much improved over the squad that the Aces defeated last year, 56 46. They have acquired a number of new players who are expected to bolster the Oaks scoring power.

Chief among these new men are Charles "Sugar Babe" Hickrod, one of the stars of last year's high-scoring Princeton Tiger squad, which blew the Central Bears off the floor late in the season, and Bob Loshmueller, who played center for the Henson's Tavern independent five last season. Lochmueller is from Elberfeld.

One of the outstanding returning players with the Oaks is the Bronklyn Dodgers 1948 first baseman, Gil Hodges from Petersburg.

On Thursday, Dec. 2, the Aces will meet the Indians from Southeast Missouri State at the Armory. This game was originally scheduled for Dec. 1 but has been postponed a day.

Last year the Aces split two games with the Indians, losing 56-45 and at Cape Girardeau and winning 66-52 at home.

Diminutive Staff

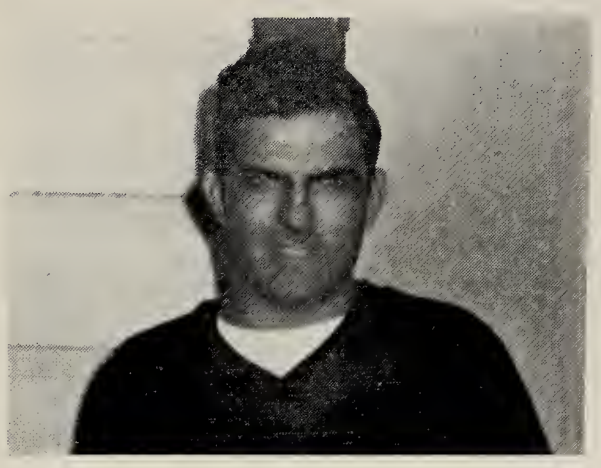
Kentucky Wesleyan, the Aces' home opponent on Dec. 4, features Farice Woods, a five-foot four-inch guard believed to be the smallest player in collegiate basketball, However, his lack of size failed to keep him from scoring last year as he had one of the highest point totals in the nation. Woods scored more points on Dee Gibson, Western Kentucky's great defensive guard, than anyone who performed against him. Woods showed his scoring ability to Evansville players by dropping in 21 points in leading his team to a 75-71 victory.

Fourth Home Game

Evansville will play its fourth straight home game Dec. 9, meeting a highly regarded Anderson College team, which features Jumpin' Johnny Wilson. Wilson set a new Indiana high school scoring record for the four final games of the state basketball tournament in 1946 only to have Shelbyville's Bill Garrett break it the following year. Garrett is now a sophomore at Indiana University. Wilson scored a basket in the last few seconds of last year's Aces-Revens contest to put Anderson in the lead for the first and only time in the game as the Ravens won 41-40.

The Aces embark on their first road trip of the season Saturday, Dec. 11 when they travel to Carbondale to meet Southern Illinois.

Last year SIU whipped the Aces in two out of three encounters, 48-39 and 64-47. However, the one game Evansville won was the most important, an upset 62-60 victory in the final game of the JC Tournament at Vincennes on New Year's Day.



Jack Crouch

Crouch Having His Best Year With Purple Aces

By Jeff Hays

This is the seventh year Don Ping has had Jack Crouch on his ball clubs. Four of those years were spent at Memorial High School where Jack gained all-city and all-state recognition in 1942.

In his senior year at Memorial, he gained the distinction of having only four yards gained around his end all year. After graduation from Memorial, Jack entered Indiana University where he earned a major letter in his first year.

The war then interrupted Jack's college career, and for the next 28 months he spent most of his time as a quartermaster in the U. S. Navy.

Jack has played on all three of Don Ping's elevens at Evansville College, but this year is undoubtedly his best. It has become very rare for him to miss a pass and his defensive work has been outstanding in every game. Probably the finest of his many catches this year came in the Butler game on a long pass from Frank Lutz.

Although Jack was a varsity member of the basketball team at Memorial, he has never tried the sport at Evansville College. He has played on seeral independent fives since his return from the Navy. Jack is also the regular catcher on the baseball team, a position he has held for the last two years.

Like many other college gridders, Jack is married and is father of a six month-old daughter, who, he believes, has given him added inspiration this year.

November is drawing to a close, and so is the 1948 grid season, a fact that makes some people very sad and others happy. As far as Evansville College is concerned, win, lose, or draw today we have had a successful football season.

At times the Aces have looked like champions and at others they haven't looked so good. However, there is a great deal of depth and all but two of the squad are listed as underclassmen. Bill Miller and Fred Schultheis are the only members of the team scheduled to get their diplomas this year.

If all goes well, the Aces should really be in the championship class next season. A vote of appreciation to the squad and the coaches for the record they have compiled for 1948.

Some material crossed this desk from the Downtown Athletic Club of New York. The material contained an invitation for Coach Ping or President Hale to attend the Heisman Memorial Trophy Award dinner for 1948, to be held in New York, Dec. 7.

The Heisman Trophy is an annual award to the outstanding collegiate gridder in the land. The selection is made by the committee of 908 electors, situated from coast to soast.

Awarding of the trophy began in 1935 when the Downtown Athletic Club of New York decided to award a trophy to the outstanding football player in the United States. After many methods of balloting for the player were considered, it was decided that the sports writers and broadcasters over the land were the best qualified to make the selection.

Jay Berwanger, Chicago, was the first winner in 1935. The years since '35 have seen winners from many schools. Larry Kelly and Clint Frank, Yale; Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian; Nile Kinnick, Iowa; Tom Harmon, Michigan; Bruce Smith, Minnestota; Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia; Angelo Bertilli, Notre Dame; Les Horvath, Ohio State; Felix "Doc" Blanchard and Glenn Davis, West Point; and Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame, have been the other winners of the trophy.

Kinnick, the Iowa great, was killed in action during the war and is the only trophy winner to have lost his life.

School Can Be Fun

Students Vanish, Found Relaxing in Cafeteria

Dr. Harold R. Bottrell, associate professor of sociology, received a surprise when he walked into his 2:45 class last Friday.

The room was empty. Not a person was in sight. The puzzled professor looked under tables, behind chairs, and in the waste basket. He even pulled out his desk drawer and peered in, but he couldn't find a trace of the vanished class.

As he stood in the center of the room scratching his head, he spotted some writing on the blackboard. Ambling over, he found a message addressed to him. The note, signed "the class," stated that they would meet him in the Cafeteria.

Arriving at the Cafeteria, Dr. Bottrell found members of the class comfortably seated around tables. In the center of one table was a nickle hostess cake bearing a solitary candle. Then it dawned on the professor; it was his birthday.

Members of the class chipped in and bought soft drinks, potato chips, and candy. Dr. Bottrell received several Hershey bars to take home to his two boys.

Just another indication that school can be fun, if you have a good-natured professor.

Student Nurses to Attend On-Campus Special Training Classes Next Quarter

By SARA TOYEN

Next quarter, the familiar white uniforms of student nurses will again be seen on the Evansville College campus.

Although the exchange of professors and instruction has continued uninterrupted, all the work so far this year has been done at the three hospitals included in the plan. This program has been in effect for over three years now.

Whenever possible the professors have gone to the hospitals, St. Mary's, Deaconess, and Welborn Baptist, but for some of the work the students must come to the college.

Study Biology

....This winter when the girls begin their study of micro-biology, they will need the facilities available in the Engineering-Science Building. Dr. Crace Kimball, professor of biology, will teach the course.

At present, Dr. Kimball is working at the hospitals, teaching an introduction to medical science for first year students. Miss Agnes E. Bahlert, head of the department of home economics, is also teaching a course in dietetics. Human anatomy and physiology is being taught by Dr. Wiley Crawford, professor of biology.

"The hospitals have more than adequate equipment for this work," Dr. D. W. Dunham, head of the department of biology reports, "and there is no necessity of moving the students out here."

Charter Buses

Because of the scattered locations of the three hospitals, transportation for the nurses has been quite a problem. There will be more than 100 persons commuting each week. Finally the authorities decided to charter buses.

There will be a two-hour laboratory period at the college for each student once a week. The class will be taught late in the afternoon so as not to interfere too much with existing hospital schedules. A maximum of 24 persons will be assigned to each of the five sections, which are planned for Monday through Friday.

Receives Credit

The work done under college instruction, both on campus and at the hospitals, receives official credit which may later be applied to a degree. The nurses are enrolled in the college for the courses and are registered as special students.

TUB Committee Keeps Scrapbook of Events

The Temporary Union Building Publicity Committee is keeping a scrapbook of TUB activities, Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, has announced.

This is the first year that the scrapbook has been kept, but the committee intends to make it an annual activity. The purpose it to maintain a permanent record of TUB activities for future reference. The scrapbook contains clippings and photographs from local newspapers and THE CRESCENT.

Freshman members of the Publicity Committee have been assigned the specific duty of keeping the scrapbook up to date, Miss Kirk stated. These members are Erma Lee Beaver, Ruth Cronemeier, and Donna Cryier.

David To Address Club In Cafeteria Tonight

Dr. Wade D. David, head of the department of history, will have "Washington, D. C., As I Saw It," for his subject when he speaks before the Faculty Club meeting at 5:45 this afternoon in the college cafeteria.

Everette Walker, president of the club, stated that the invitations to the meeting contained a quotation from the minutes of a meeting held Oct. 20, 1930. The quotation is as follows: "A motion was passed that the Faculty Club consist of faculty members, who would be at liberty to invite to the meeting their wives or husbands."

This motion has always been carried out, and the wives or husbands of the faculty members are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Castalian Sorority Plans Alumnae Dance In TUB

The Castalian sorority alumnae will sponsor a dance in the Temporary Union Building Friday, Dec. 3 from 8:30 to 12 p.m. Actives of the organization are also being invited.

Music will be by juke box and each couple is asked to bring a wrapped gift that they wish they hadn't received for Christmas, Mrs. Arad McCutchan, chairman of the dance committee, has announced. Decorations will be in keeping with the Christmas holidays.

Kappa Chi To Distribute Devotional Bookmarks

The Kappa Chi fraternity is sponsoring a series of all-student devotionals. The devotions are printed on bookmarks which will be distributed to the student body at assemblies between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The series consists of reading a portion of selected Bible verses, which will be found on the back of the bookmarks. The verses will be chosen for their holiday themes.

McKown Heads Local Religious Group; Organizes Weekday School System

A religious center in every school district for the training of school children in religious edueation is the plan of the Evansville Council of Weekday Religious Education, headed by Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the college.

Dr. McKown was first appointed in 1940 by the Evansville Council of Churches as chairman of a committee to investigate the possibility of having a weekday religious program in the local churches.

Past President

In 1942, he was appointed chairman of the Weekday Religious School, and has served continuously since that date. He has also been president of the Council of Weekday Religious Education for four of the past six years.

Under his guidance, the religious program was started in 1943 with 318 students enrolled in six school districts. One half-time and four other teachers teaching one class each were employed to conduct the classes.

Six Teachers

Last year the religious education program had 1810 students enrolled in 20 school districts throughout the city and county. The council had a budget of $6,678.00 and employed two full-time and five part-time teachers.

Dr. McKown explained that the classes were arranged by each of the following groups: The Roman Catholic churches, the Lutheran churches, and the Evansville Council of Churches. Each of these groups employ their own teachers and prepare their own curricula, and each establish classes in places that are most conveniently located for the children of each public school district.

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS

THE EVANSVILLE Crescent

Vol. XXX | Evansville College, Evansville, Indiana | December 17, 1948, No. 9

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

● Someone once said, "All things come to him who wait." and for most of us who have been waiting for the big break, today is the day – the beginning of traditional holiday before the long mid-winter grind.

To start vacation with the proper spirit, students from other countries extend messages of good cheer in their native languages (see page 4); Dr. Hale sends his annual holiday greeting (see page 2); and THE CRESCENT staff wishes everyone a Merry Christmas (see banner head).

Miss Starry

● Traditionally the time of merriment, good food, gay decorations, and the lavish exchange of gifts, Christmas also is the celebration of the birth of Christ. In keeping with his teachings, it is the time for a reaffirmation, a deeper realization, and an activation of the spirit of the brotherhood of man.

When making up your Christmas list of gifts and refreshments, we suggest that you set aside part of your budget for those to whom Christmas is just another day of hunger – particularly the children. Not only the children of Europe and the Far East, but also those of your own city and community. To the former, a $10 CARE package means nourishing food for many weeks and a better chance to develop into normal adulthood (the local post office or welfare agency can supply the address). A contribution to the Salvation Army, Community Charities, and similar organizations, means more food for more underprivileged children in your own area.

● Among the various reasons for a decrease in enrollment this quarter (see page 1) is that of finances. According to available figures, over a dozen students failed to return to college because of their financial obligations, and there is no way of determining how many others had to quit college for the same reason. Feeling that students may not know about methods of securing financial assistance through the college, Mr. Walker, student personnel director, explains that there are several sources which provide such assistance (see page 4).

In addition to the Scholarship and Loans Committee and the Placement Bureau, funds also are available through the Welfare Fund. Many financial difficulties are the result of sickness or accident expenses. In such cases, the Student-Faculty Federation Welfare Committee may be petitioned for assistance.

Alpha Phi Omega's Officers Elected

Alpha Phi Omega, national collegiate Boy Scout fraternity, has elected officers for the second quarter. Bob Rideout will succeed Don Howard as president of the fraternity.

Others elected to fill offices were: Jack Humphrey, vice president; Tom Boston, secretary; Dick Lambert, treasurer; Joe Igleheart, historian; and Bob Fink, sergeant at arms.

Gerald Powers and Bob Rideout will represent the local chapter as delegates to the national convention at Chicago, Dec. 28-29-30. Several other members will also make the trip.

One of the first projects to be carried out by the fraternity during the second quarter will be a march of dimes campaign on campus during the month of January. Plans will be announced later.

Sororities To Inaugurate New System for Annual Rushing

A new plan for sorority rushing will be in effect this year for the first time, according to Miss Esther Brown, dean of women and chairman of the Inter-Society Council.

There will be three gronps of parties this year, a rotation party, an informal party and a formal dinner.

Parties Planned

All women interested and eligible for rushing are to be invited to the rotation party on Jan. 17, which will be a series of three entertainments, given concurrently on campns by the sororities. The rushees will rotate from one party to the next during the course of the evening.

After these parties rushees will be invited to informal get-togethers Jan. 19, 20, and 21 with the members of the Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, and Theta Sigma sororities.

Dinners Announced

The following week, on Jan. 25, 26, and 27, rushing will be climaxed with formal dinners.

In previous years under the semester system there was a period of rushing and bid handout during each semester.

Last spring the Inter-society Council voted to eliminate fall rushing and expand winter rushing.

Requirements Listed

"In order to give sorority members and rushees a better chance to become acquainted it was decided that more than one party was needed, so the new plan was initiated," commented Miss Brown.

To be eligible for pledging students must have been in college at least one quarter, and have carried twelve hours, maintaining a C average as well as being enrolled in twelve hours at the time of pledging.

Temme Presented Theta Scholarship

Mary Lucille Temme, junior, was presented the annual Theta Sigma sorority scholarship award last week during an anniversary party at the Vendome Hotel.

The presentation was part of the sorority's silver anniversary celebration and was attended by both active and honorary members of the sorority.

The story of the 25 years of the sorority's being on the college campus was reviewed in dramatic skits presented by the members. The sorority is the third oldest on the campus.

Last year the scholarship was awarded to Miss Lois Hyland, 1948 gradnate.

Miss Temme is an elementary education major. She is an active member of the Association of Childhood Education, and also works as an assistant in the college treasurer's office.

Assembly Wednesday To Honor Students

An honor assembly Wednesday, Jan. 5, will be the occasion for the announcement of the first quarter dean's list and the awarding of a plaque to the highest scholastic ranking sorority on campus. Members of Who's Who, announced earlier in the year, will also be introduced at this assembly.

TUB Gets Christmas Face-Lifting

Five members of the TUB decorating committee are pictured here as they worked with tinsel, bulbs, ornaments, and icicles in decorating the Christmas tree placed in the lounge of the TUB. If St. Nick happened to be among the many who viewed and appreciated the product, the committee felt its efforts were not in vain.

Beg Pardon---

Wrong Professor Is Correct One

At the next registration period, college instructors may add photographs of themselves to the usual namecards identifying each instructor and their department.

At least this might be the suggestioa of one student after his experience the first day of the new quarter.

It seems that this student had enrolled in a class under Ray C. Boggs, assistaat professor of engineering, and before class affairs could begin he asked, addressing Mr. Boggs, "Are you substituting for Mr. Boggs?"

Puzzled, Mr. Boggs asked the student why he thought that. The student replied that Mr. Boggs was a saady-haired man.

After a few minutes of thought, Mr. Boggs deduced that the confusion must have started when he was absent a few minutes during registration proceedings, when Professor John Kroasbein, head of the department of engineering, and sandy-haired, had substituted in enrolling some of Mr. Bogg's students.

Placement Bureau To Print Booklet

Questionnaires are being sent to all seniors this week by the Placement Bureau for information necessary for the printing of the annual placement booklet.

The booklet will be an attractive production containing the pictures and detailed information about the Evansville College gradnates of 1949. It is sent to all major industries and businesses throughout the United States, and to all school superintendents in the Midwest.

Many requests have been received for the booklets, according to Marvin Hartig, assistant director of the Placement Bureau, and it is hoped that the booklet will be ready for distribution by Feb. 15, 1949. This will be in time to benefit the March graduates.

The fee for this booklet will be $6.00 and the deadline for the information is Jan. 3, 1949.

Faculty Recommends Federation Changes

The faculty of Evansville College recently made two recommendations, dealing with the makeup of the Student-Faculty Federation, to the Administrative Board of the Federation.

Proposition one recommends the inclusion of the vice president of the SGA as a member of the Administrative Board. It asks that the Administrative Board consist of the four officers of the SGA, four faculty members, and the president of the college. At present there are only three faculty members on the board.

Proposition two recommends that the number of students on the federation committees be increased permanently to six, with a student chairman.

These propositions are to be considered and passed upon by SGA vote.

Independent Association Officers

Top officers of the newly organized Independent Student Association are shown here working on the constitntion of the organization and plans for the coming year.

Bob Gerhardt 1948 Winner

Coach Don Ping, above right, is accepting the Kiwanis athletic award on behalf of winner, Bob Gerhardt. Vernon Bosse, Kiwanis president, is making the presentation.

Evansville College, Dec. 10 – Bob Gerhardt, Aces' captain for the past season, has been chosen as the Kiwanis football award winner for the 1948 season.

The annual award was made in an assembly honoring the Evansville College football squad this morning in the school auditorium.

Bob, who is 23 and a junior, was not present at the time the award was made. Vernon Bosse, Kiwanis Club president, made the presentation to Coach Don Ping in the absence of the winner.

Bob has left school temporarily to accept a job, but plans to return for the spring quarter.

Gene Lugel, Ace halfback, was last year's award winner.

TUB To Stay Open After Home Games

Jim Cooper, director of Temporary Union Building evening activities, has announced that the TUB wil be open after home basketball games until 11:30, if the students show sufficient interest.

The snack bar will be open, and facilities will be available for dancing, ping pong, and card playing.

Independents Now Have Organization

The independent students on campns may now belong to an organization to be known as the Independent Student Association.

A constitution has been adopted which follows the pattern of independent organizations on other college campuses.

Officers for the coming year were elected following a meeting, Dec. 9. The newly elected officers are: Fred Shatara, president; Gail Reid, vice president; Nancy McCaffrey, secretary-treasurer; and Martha Butcher, membership committee chairman.

Elected as committee chairmen were James Fowler, nominating committee; Elaine Lashley, projects committee; James Riedford, publicity committee; and Sam McKean, social commitee.

Shatara in Charge

Fred Shatara was in charge of the first meeting and after expressing his thanks for the interest shown by those attending, he read the constitution of the organization.

The constitution states that the organization shall be known as the Evansville College Independent Student Association and its purpose will be to encourage participation of independents in college affairs, to serve the college, and to promote cooperation between independent and organized students.

November Elections

Membership is open to any independent student who is regularly enrolled and carrying 12 hours or more. There will be no blacklist in this organization and membership may be acquired by applying to the membership secretary.

The offices will consist of a president, a vice president, a secretary-treasurer, and a membership secretary. There will be four committees – nominating, projects, publicity, and social – with a chairman and two to four members on each. Elections will be held during November of each year and terms will begin on the first day of December. Meetings will be held twice each month and there will be 50 cents for dues each year.

Probation Rule Change Announced by Faculty

Another new change in the college probation rules has been announced by Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the college.

The change states that a student placed on probation must make satisfactory grades in a minimum of 12 credit hours to remove himself from probation. Heretofore, there has been no definite requirement as to the number of hours a probationer had to carry to remove himself.

Hale Sends Christmas Message

Students and Faculty:

Christmas 1948: Again the birthday in which the hopes and aspirations of mankind find their beginings is at hand.—Peace and Good Will to Men—May you pause occasionally as the days of this festive season slip by to ponder its deep meanings as they pertain to your life and our world.

Santa Claus time 1948! Memories of childhood flood back. I believed in Santa Claus. Later I revelled in the opportunity to don his whiskers and red suit to see unadulterated happiness in little children's eyes. May you find in this holiday season all the fun of family companionship at Christmas time that is part of this great tradition.

To you all—A Heartfelt Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Library Is Essential Part Of College -- Harding

Thomas S. Harding

By CHARLES GREER

"The library is an essential part of the college, and my job is to make it effective in the college program and encourage its students."

With this statement, Thomas S. Harding, Evansville College librarian, announced the policy he plans to follow to carry out his program for the library.

Mr. Harding stated that he has attempted to carry out the program of his predecessors in obtaining for the library a collection of works to meet the college's needs. He said that the library's main job is to supply the reading material needed by the students for the preparation of their lessons.

Encourages Library Habit

Mr. Harding said that he has tried to make the students feel that the library is a pleasant place to read and study. They are allowed all the freedom they can expect and are not called down at every moment.

"This encourages them to acquire the library habit," he explained, adding that college graduates need to be able to evaluate sources of information and know where and how to obtain source material for reference work.

Along this line, Miss Virginia Haynes, assistant librarian, is giving library instruction to freshmen in conjunction with the department of English.

Doing Graduate Study

Mr. Harding received his B.A. from the University of Buffalo in 1933; his B.S. in library science from the same school in 1937; and his M.A. from the University of Chicago in 1939. Since 1939 he has been doing graduate study toward a Ph.D. at the University of Chicago.

His library experience includes: student assistant and later full-time assistant at the University of Buffalo from 1930-1936; librarian at the University College, Northwestern University, 1937-1942; and librarian at Missouri Valley College from 1946-1948. He has been at Evansville College since Sept. 1.

Society Notes

It may be hard to distinguish the Christmas bells from the wedding bells in the coming holiday season. Many weddings are being planned to take place over the Christmas vacation.

Lloyd Siefert, junior, and Emmalee Schmidt will plight vows Dec. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Salem Methodist Church.

Jim Whitehead, Pi Kappa, will marry Eustacia McCollum, Dec. 19 at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Pat Casey, former student, will be married in December to Warren Lindsey, also a former student. They will reside at LaPorte, Ind., after the ceremony.

Students Plan Trips

The two week vacation will afford time for holiday trips for many students.

Mary Jean Howton, sophomore, will journey to California to see Glenn Thompson.

Vernon Huff, freshman, and Clarence Karges, sophomore, are planning a holiday trip to St. Louis and Florida to visit friends.

Ed Wessel, freshman, is journeying to Panama to visit a friend who is attending college there.

Ruth Nendel, junior, is leaving Dec. 20 for Florida where she will spend the holidays.

Engagements Announced

Engagement rings will no doubt be a popular Christmas gift again this year. Many engagement announcements have been made during the past few weeks.

Bill Whitehead, Philo, is engaged to Sissy Meier.

Jack Hauke, Philo, and Joyce Grabbert, Castalian and former student, also recently announced their engagement.

Sara Toyen, senior, received her engagement ring from Gil Magazine, alum. They plan to be married some time in March.

Jean Marshall, Theta, is now engaged to Fred Stephenson, chief accountant.

Parties Planned

Many parties head the list of Christmas entertainment.

The Castalian Sorority had a Christmas party in their club house Tuesday night for active members. A pot luck supper was served and gifts exchanged.

Pat McCarthy, sophomore, will entertain college friends at a spaghetti supper, Dec. 21, at her home, and invitations have been issued for open house Dec. 27 to be given by Jo Ann Lex, junior.

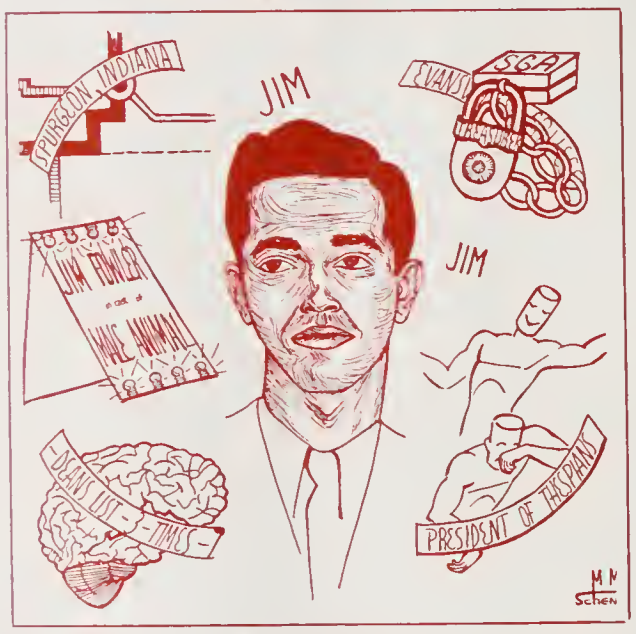
Pic of the Week



Selection for Who's Who among students in American Universities and Colleges is based upon leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities, scholarship, character, and an indication of future usefulness in business and society. Jim Fowler was selected by the faculty committee last spring as a student who is eligible for such an honor.

Jim was elected in May of this year as president of the Thespians. He was in the cast of "Eager Heart" production of 1947 and again this year. When "The Male Animal" was presented here last spring, he filled the role of Joe Ferguson, the returning football hero.

As treasurer of the Student Government Organization, Jim must account for the expenditures of the various committees, which are active in the Temporary Union Building activities. He was a member of the nominating committee of the Independent organization on the campus.

Jim is majoring in secondary education, with mathematics and physics as his major.

Jim was graduated from Spurgeon High School in 1941, where he played basketball for four years and baseball two years. After two and a half years as an administrative clerk in the civil service at Hickman Field, Hawaii, he was inducted into the army. He received his discharge in November of 1946 and entered college the next January.

ROUNDABOUT

Poker Playing Pals.

A group of coeds got together for a friendly game of poker one night last week. One member of the party wasn't too fleet about rules, winning hands, etc., but the other players were card sharks from way back, so they fixed up a poker chart, commonly referred to as the "bible" which listed the highest hand, five of a kind, to the lowest, a single pair. Each girl played her choice of a game when she dealt the cards. At last th e deal came to Miss Know-Nothing-About-Poker, who boldly stated she wanted to play the bible. The other players quirked their eyebrows and asked her what she meant. "Well you know," answered the beginner, "the game where you get five of a kind or a royal flush or any of that stuff."

Even after Four Years

After dragging herself through the registration line last week, Helen Nunn, who's a senior and should know better, took a quick look at a handfull of bills, receipts, and registration instructions and exclaimed, "Well these are all paid for," and threw them away. Neatly folded among the many papers was one of those $12.50 bargain tickets. Helen can still he seen leafing through refuse cans,

PROVE CAMEL MILDNESS FOR YOURSELF!

According to a Nationwide survey:

MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE

Doctors smoke for pleasure, too! And when three leading independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors what cigarette they smoked, the brand named most was Camel!

Prove for yourself what throat specialists reported when 30-day smoking test revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

MAKE YOUR OWN 30-DAY CAMEL MILDNESS TEST. Smoke Camels, and only Camels, for 30 days. Prove for yourself just how mild Camels are!

Hundreds of men and women, from coast to coast, recently made a similar test. They smoked an average of one to two packs of Camels a day for 30 days. Their throats were examined by noted throat specialists. After a total of 2470 examinations—these throat specialists reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

But prove it yourself . . . in your "T-Zone." Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the rich, full flavor of Camel's choice tobaccos. Let YOUR OWN THROAT give the good news of Camel's cool, cool mildness.

Money-Back Guarantee!

Try Camels and test them as you smoke them. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price, plus postage. (Signed) R. Hoosier Hysteria season is now in full swing, but the memory of that Saturday afternoon will always remain at Evansville College. Belated congratulations to Coach Ping and the 1948 edition of the Purple Aces for the grand job against Missouri Valley. There is certainly nothing to be ashamed of in a six and three record, and with the exception of Bill Miller, they will all return next year.

Last year there was a great deal of criticism of the net officials in Indiana. This year there ought to be a lot more. When the officials in a college game allow it to get out of hand, as the Anderson game did, there should be some drastic changes in the roster.

Johnny Wilson, a very fine player, really took the short end of it in that encounter. He was roughed up time after time under the basket but always came out of the scramble with a smile. However, both teams received several bad breaks from the gentlemen in the striped shirts.

If Evansville is going to keep moving up in the athletic circles, it would be a smart gesture to get some good officials for the basketball games.

Coach McCutchan's charges, after getting off to a three game winning streak, lost their last two games in real heartbreaking endings. Win or loose, they are one of the best teams that we have had at Evansville since before the war, and they certainly deserve the backing of the entire school.

There is but one thing more to say before closing the door on the '48 grid season. Congratulations to Captain Bob Gerhardt for winning the Kiwanis award and to captain-elect Gene Logel for bringing home the most valuable player award in the Refrigerator Bowl game.

Aces Open Season In Ohio League With Morehead

In playing Morehead tonight, the Aces open their season in Ohio Valley Conference competition. Evansville plays ten games in the new league this year, and will have to play heads up ball all the way to follow up the championship shared by the football team, according to Arad McCutchan, basketball coach.

Although the conference was not in operation last season, the Aces played nine games with the teams now in the loop, winning only two of them. The conference, however, is much stronger in basketball than it was in football. Many of the teams have played in Madison Square Garden in New York, and all the teams in the league are prominent in the Midwest, according to Bud Johnson, publicity director for the college.

After the end of the regular season, the first annual Ohio Valley Conference tournament will be held in Louisville, Ky. The teams in the conference with Evansville are: Louisville, Western Kentucky, Murray State, Morehead, and Eastern Kentucky. Each of the teams defeated Evansville last year although the Aces won return matches with Murray and Morehead.

McCutchan's Starting Five Has Speed and Fight

By BILL COLLINS

Coach Arad McCutchan and his basketball squad are finishing their third week of their 1948-49 schedule this week and once again the Aces are depending upon speed and fight to bring them victory as they meet teams which can more than match them in height.

Harry Axford has been assigned the starting position at center and did very well by himself as high point man against both Oakland City and Southeastern Missouri State.

Use Game Captain System

Acting as captain for the opener under the rotating system of the squad this year was Joe Hafele, who hails from Cannelton. A guard, he is five-feet, nine-inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. A junior at Evansville College, Joe has already won two varsty letters for his basketball efforts.

Holding down the other guard position and turning in his usual rebound play is Bob Kohlmeyer, a six-feet, one-inch Central High School graduate. Bob also won two letters as a member of the varsity during his freshman and sophomore years.

Barnett Plays Second Year

Bob Barnett is returning for his second year of play with Evansville College and is expected to have another good season. This 165-pound, six-feet, three-inch tall forward was the leading scorer for the Aces last season. Bob played with Boonville High School before entering college.

Another sophomore who has a starting berth as forward is Bob Sakel. Bob comes from Jasper High School, weighs in at 171, and touches the six-feet, three-inch mark.

WAA Plans Intramural Volleyball Tournament

Inter-society competition will get underway the first week in January with a volley ball tournament sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association.

The first game will be played Wednesday, Jan. 5 at 4 p.m. with the Camma Deltas and Thetas matched against each other. Following this game the Castys and Sigs will play.

The Independents, who drew a bye in the first round, will play the winner of the first game Jan. 10 and the winner of this game will meet the winner of the Casty-Sig battle for the championship on Jan. 12.

All games will be played in the Women's Gym and will begin at 4 p.m., according to Miss Ida Steiler, WAA sponsor.

Tournament, Five Games Keep Netmen on Move

Coach Arad McCutchan's basketeers have a full schedule for the next three weeks with five scheduled games and a holiday tournament at Vincennes.

The Aces will be in Kentucky tonight for their first Ohio Valley Conference game against Morehead State University. Last year Morehead and Evansville split two decisions, the Aces winning the first and Morehead the second.

Aces at Richmond

Tomorrow night the Aces move to Richmond to take on Eastern Kentucky for another conference game. This will be the first time the two teams have met on the hardwood.

Next Wednesday Evansville meets St. Joseph College at Jasper, Ind. In a two-game meet last year, the Aces won the first by two points in an overtime, and St. Joseph won the second by a two point margin.

The only home game during the three weeks will take place next Thursday night at the Central gym when Ottawa University from Kansas stops at Evansville. The game will be a benefit contest.

Play in Jaycee Tourney

Evansville will again be one of the four teams in the annual Vincennes Junior Chamber of Commerce hlind tournament on Dec. 29 and 30. The Aces copped the tournament last year by defeating Canterbury and Southern Illinois.

The first game of the new year will be against Southeastern Missouri at Cape Cirardeau.

Evansville Netmen Win First Three; Drop Next Two

Evansville College's Purple Aces won their first three basketball contests of the season before dropping two close decisions in games played last week.

The Aces defeated Oakland City, 41-34; won over Cape Girardeau, 72-40; and came back to drop Kentucky Wesleyan, 72-57. Then came the two defeats by a total of three points. Anderson College's George Mingle hit from under the basket with 20 second remaining to give the Ravens a 48-47 victory Thursday. In a game at Carbondale Saturday night Southern Illinois Captain N. Eadie, hit with 40 seconds left to defeat the Aces, 61-59.

Hafele Hits Against Anderson

Hafele was high man in the Anderson contest with 16 points. Evansville held a 28-24 halftime lead in this game but couldn't hit in the second half. Bob Kohlmeyer blew a golden opportunity to win the game when he missed two free throws with only six seconds remaining. However, Kohlmeyer did a good defensive job on Johnny Wilson, third highest scorer in the nation last year. Wilson got only 14 points, all in the first half.

Aces Cold at Foul Line

The Aces lost the Southern Illinois game through their inahility to hit from the free-throw line. They outscored the Maroons from the field, 25 to 23, but were able to hit only nine charity tosses to 15 for Southern.

Ohio Valley Conference Admits New Members

Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., and Tennessee Tech of Cookeville, Tennessee, were admitted into the Ohio Valley Conference at a recent meeting of the conference at Louisville, Ky.

Arrangements were made for the O. V. C. basketball tourney immediately following the end of the regular basketball season. Dates were also set for the golf, track, and tennis tournaments by the delegates.

The admission of Marshall and Tennessee Tech increases the league membership from a six to an eight team conference. Other members are: Louisville, Western Ky., Eastern Ky., Morehead, Murray State, and Evansville.

Logel and Trophies

Two Trophies Awarded For Refrigerator Win

Evansville has two new trophies as a result of the victory over Missouri Valley in the first annual Refrigerator Bowl game. The team trophy, presented to the winning eleven was given to Coach Ping right after the game and he in turn handed it to Captain Bob Cerhardt. This trophy will remain at Evansville permanently.

Cene Logel, who has been a starter at the college for the past three seasons, received the most valuable player award in the game. The award was based on ability, attitude, and sportsmanship. After the trophy has been displayed on the campus, Logel will retain it permanently.

Anna Lee Schmidt, soprano, and Ray O'Neal, tenor, will present their junior recitals Tuesday, Jan. 4, at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Miss Schmidt, a junior, is majoring in voice. Mr. O'Neal, also a junior, is a piano-voice major. He is a Phi Zeta.

For her half of the program Miss Schmidt has chosen "Serenade Italienne," Chausson; "Ils etaient trois petits chats blanc," Pierne; "Les gros dindons," Chabrier; "Chere niut," Bachelet; "I Pastori," Piazetti; "King David," Howell; "Silent Strings," Bantoch; "If I Be Living in Eirinn," Peterkin; and "Light! My Light!" by Carpenter.

Mr. O'Neal will sing "Deh perquesto istante (La Clemenza Di Tito)," Mozart; "E lucevan le Stelle," Puccini; "Bolschaft," Brahms; "Wie bist du meine Konign," Brahms; "Wie sollten wir geheim sie halten," Strauss; "Symphony in Yellow," Griffs; "As I Walked Forth," Foss; "Out in The Dark," Rubbra; and Serenade," by Carpenter.

Ralph Balyeat, Top Heavy With Title, Especially Interested in 'IT' Course

Ralph E. Balyeat

By JOHN SCHRODT

Ralph E. Balyeat is a faculty member with a long title and a big job to go with the title.

His exact title is "Director of Cooperative Training in Industrial Technology," and his job concerns all the phases of the new industrial course, which is now in its second year here. The industrial technology course, sometimes known as the "IT" course, is the cooperative plan of education between industry and the college.

Mr. Balyeat with his broad industrial experience is well qualified for the job. He received his college training at Ohio State University and the University of Toledo.

Former Navy Officer

He spent five years in Florida before coming to Evansville. Three of his five years there were spent as an officer with the U. S. Navy. In the navy he worked on the development and testing of radar and electrical navigation equipment. His two years as a civilian were spent as the director of the Marion County Vocational School. Besides his experience in Florida, Mr. Balyeat has spent 12 years in various other phases of industrial technology.

Mr. Balyeat believes that the IT program in Evansville has great possihilities. Industry is well pleased with the college program, he says, and more than 25 industries are already taking part in the program. Among these are the Illinois Steel Corp. in Pittsburg and the Chrysler Motor Corp. at Detroit.

College Has Many Aids Available to Students

Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, has stated that he is concerned about the number of students who drop out of school, and listed several methods whereby they may be able to continue with their studies.

He announced that financial aid is handled by the Scholarship and Loans Committee headed by G. R. McCoy, registrar. The Placement Bureau, under the direction of Harold See, also gives financial assistance by procuring jobs for students.

Mr. Walker stated that he felt students who left school because of academic reasons might have been able to continue if they had consulted with their advisers when they first began having difficulties.

Civil Service To Offer Student Aid Training

Arrangements have been made for the employment in Civil Service of cooperative students to serve as student aid trainees in this area in engineering, chemistry, mathematics, metallurgy, physics, metcorology, and geology.

Trainees will perform scientific research under professional guidance in these fields.

Applications must be received not later than Feb. 1, 1949. Competitors will be rated on a test which will be given later.

Mr. Balyeat, director of cooperative training, urges students interested to take the examination.

There Are Many Ways To Say That Greeting

The group of students from other countries in the picture are all well acquainted with the English language, and hence the expression "Merry Christmas." A study of the native languages of this group, however, reveals many interesting variations of this expression of good cheer during the Christmas holidays.

Foronda from Philippines

Claude Foronda, who comes from Laoag, Philippine Islands, can put his feeling of cheer across in several tongues. Besides his command of English, Mr. Foronda speaks the Ilocano dialect of the Philippines. "Naimbag A Pascuayo" would be the Christmas expression in that dialect. He can also use the French "Joyeux Noël," meaning "Joyous Christmas" and he has "picked up" enough Spanish to make himself understood. Mr. Foronda stated that English is used more commonly than anything else in the Philippines.

The Spanish "Felices Pascuas" or "Happy Christmas" would be used in the South American countries of Nelson Andrade, Hernando Cifuentes, and Hernando Ospina. Mr. Andrade is from Quito, Ecuador. Mr. Cifuentes and Mr. Ospina are from Bogota and Ibaque, Colombia, respectively.

Santos Speaks Portugese

Portugese is the native language of Salvador Bahia, Brazil, which is the home of Nilza Santos, who would greet her friends of that country with "Boas Festas" meaning "Good Holidays."

Helena Barhon, from Prague, Czechoslovakia, has another variation at her command. The Bohemian "Vesele Vanoce" is used in her country. Aphrodite Tsatoudi's call of "Kala Christougenna" would serve her purpose in her native Salonica, Greece.

Other Expressions of Cheer

Of course there are many expressions not represented by this group. The Hawaiian "Mele Kalikamaka," the Danish "Glaedelz Jul," the Italian "Bono Natale," and the Swedish "God Jul" also are good greeting words.

Radio Engineer Group Accredits College

Evansville College has been accredited recently by the Institute of Radio Engineers, according to Professor James F. Sears, head of the physics department.

Only schools of recognized standing that offer a four year engineering curriculum are considered for accreditation by the IRE.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

● In case anyone hasn't come to since last Friday, it's offieial; the new year is in; this really is 1949! In fact, by this time the traditional resolutions have either been dedicated to the waste basket, stored away for next year's good intentions, or, more rarely, adapted as part of a new look at life.

● E. C. also started 1949 with a new look. Anyone now in doubt about the location of any part of the campus needs only lean against the nearest green post and become well informed. The new direction signs should prove a great convenience for visitors and new students.

Miss Starry

● Also begining this year with new laurels is the department of music. Under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Shepard and a fine staff, the department has received national recognition by being approved for membership in the National Association of Schools (see story this page), ranking it with such schools of music as Jordan, Indiana U., Chicago Musical College, and Julliard

● Congatulations to the 801 juniors and seniors who passed the English Proficiency Examination last term. We feel it's even a time for a pat on the back — we thought it was pretty tough.

● Underclassmen will have their pictures in this year's LinC — they will, that is, if they make arrangements to have them taken next week (see story, page 1). All those who had gripes about last year's omission had best start for the TUB Monday morning. We suggest that everyone doesn't wait until noon Friday.

● Students, who are puzzled about what makes an artist paint the way he does, have an opportunity to find ont when Ulfert Wilke speaks in assemblies Tuesday and Weduesday. (see page 4).

● Beginning this term, Industrial Technology classes were expanded into a regular industrial technology curriculum. Students following this course may take the regular four-year college program or may combine work and study under the five-year cooperative plan (see story, page 4).

● Honors to the students who made the Dean's List last term with special recognition to the old timers and a hearty welcome to the new comers.

● THE CRESCENT always welcomes letters from the student body and is particularly interested in presenting views from both sides about questions affecting college students. Whenever possible, we will offer thought provoking editorial comment or answers from the editor on questions bronght up by such letters.

This week, we are publishing a letter referring to the recent Servel gift to the Student Union Building Fund and an accompanying editorial (see page 2).

Cagers To Get More Backing

Evansville College's newest organization, the Tipoff Club, has elected officers and is getting ready for an eventful year backing the basketball team, according to Jim Barnett, the organizer.

Bill Russler, junior, was eleeted president, and Paul Schmidt, senior, is vice president. Denzil Reed, junior, will serve as secretary for the club, and Ritchie Bauer, junior, is the treasurer. Chuck Palmisano, junior, is in charge of membership.

The club, which meets every Monday night in the cafeteria, was organized to build up student and civic interest in the basketball team. A trophy will be awarded by the club to the most valuable player on the Evansville team at the end of the year. Mr. Barnett also added that the club would assist in selecting the basketball queen in conjunction with THE CRESCENT.

January to April

A Four Month Pictorial View Of Coming Campus Events

Sorority rushing is the big January affair.

Gambling is prohibited on campus, and the girls above are not indulging in the forbidden practice — only making big decisions about dates of parties and events of rushing with the aid of coins.

The animated expressions belong to the three social sorority presidents who are left to right: Bernice Culley, Theta Sigma; Doris Witt, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Emily Combs, Castalian.

Who's next?

Harry Axford, basketball squad member, would indeed be puzzled if he alone had to decide who should wear the basketball crown which he holds.

Girls selected by the basketball team will serve as candidates for the contest, and after the election by the student body, the winning girl will be crowned queen at a basketball game during February.

A gentle reminder!

Only two more months until final examinations for the winter quarter.

It won't be too long until this bit of action is again a common sight. Amid maps, notebooks, rulers, typewriter, pencils, much crumpled paper, books and more books, Bud Karges, sophomore, is engrossed in a 4 a.m. struggle known as cramming for finals.

Hope for the future!

In case the quota for the Union Building fund is reached by April — the proposed time of ground breaking — there are three people on campus prepared for the event. Left to right: Gene Market, shovel in hand, is ready for the ground breaking; Donald Hartig holds aloft the blueprints for the building; and Carl Lehman, the typical student, receives the idea with open arms.

Labor, executive plans, and student spirit will work hand in hand in carrying out the project.

Walker Reads Dean's List Wednesday

Eighty-one student's names appeared on the Dean's List which was read during the honors assembly Wednesday by Everette Walker, director of student personnel service.

Olson Named Again

Shirley Olson extended her record to seven consecutive terms of maintaining a 2.5 average of grades. Mary Frances Clouse, Lester Morton, and Roy M. Smith made the list for their fifth consecutive time and Lester Driggers, Robert Eissler, and William F. Whitledge were on the list for the fourth consentive time.

Students whose names appeared on the list for the third time in succession were Wilfred Caldwell, Bill Driggers, Kenneth Leimgruber, Harley Lichtenberger, Joseph E. Logsdon III, Thomas A. Morris, Jr., Virginia Rice, Richard Shelly, Zane Todd, and Edward A. Weidenbener .

Listed Second Time

Making the list for the second consecutive time were Wallace M. Adye, Kenneth Berger, Michael Cook, Virgil Espenlaub, Vera Farley, Hannah Haring, Jo Ann James, Nilza Santos, Anna Lee Schmidt, Bernard L. Stock, John A. Tischendorf,

Music Department Wins Recognition

The college department of music has been approved for associate membership in the National Association of Schools, according to an announcement made by Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college.

In making the announcement, Dr. Hale stated, "Membership in the music association is the realization of a goal the college set up three years ago. The achievement is a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepard and to the entire music department staff."

Twenty-two colleges applied for membership in the association and Evansville was one of the eleven accepted. Membership was granted after a thorough inspection of the music department by a representative of the association. His report was then examined by officials for this national accrediting agency.

Membership in this association places the department on the same level with such schools of music as Jordan of Indianapolis, Indiana University, Chicago Music College, and Julliard School of Music in New York.

Underclassmen Pictures To Be Taken Jan. 10-14

Underclassmen pictures for the LinC will be taken in the Temporary Union Building committee room January 10 through 14.

Hours will be 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. No appointments are necessary; students may come in at their convenience within the designated hours.

Last year there were no individual freshman, sophomore, and junior pictures in the yearbook. This year the LinC staff will give every student an opportunity to have his picture in the annual, Jon Gundling, editor, reported.

"We feel that the book is more complete this way and that it is closer to the interests of the entire student body," Mr. Gundling said.

Shockley Releases Results of Tests

Six Pass Examination With Distinction, Seventy-Four Satisfy Requirements

Six Evansville College juniors and seniors passed the English Proficiency Examination given Friday, Dec. 17, with distinction and 74 others satisfactorily, it was announced today by Dr. Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English.

The purpose of the examination is to be certain that any graduate of Evansville College will be able to use English in a way that will be helpful to him and creditable to the college, according to Dr. Shockley. To take the examination a student must have a junior standing and must pass the examination before he is entered as a candidate for a degree.

Contents Listed

In making the announcement of the examination, Dr. Shockley said, "We have been giving substantially the same examination the past three years, during which time copies have been on file in the library. There is always a business letter and a report, a question on reading comprehension, a paragraph copied from a college textbook on history, economics, sociology, biology—material that a college student should be able to read."

Received Distinction

Students who passed with distinction are Arlene Starry, William Lively, Charles Palmisano, Ervin Kelley, Helena Barhon, and Barbara McTaggart.

The students who passed satisfactorily are Gilbert Korb, Robert Patry, Jon Gundling, William Scott, Harold Spaetti, Kingston Ely, Harry Williamson, Roy Chapman, Helen Ashbrook, Nathan Lieberman, Ralph Yates, Sarah Kessler, Ford Lacey, William Schnute, William Moskos, William Simmons, Cletus Kroeger, Robert Glenn, Palmer Stanley, Robert Miley.

Others Named

Peruse Plans of Proposed ROTC

LeRoy Smith, junior, left, and Boh Ahrens, junior, right, would both be eligible as members of an ROTC unit if such a unit were established on campus. Here they are looking over plans for the proposed program.

CollegeMakesApplication For ROTC Air Unit

The Board of Trustees has approved a faculty recommendation that Evansville College apply for a charter to organize an Air ROTC unit on the campus.

Such a unit would provide a four-year college program, with the idea of training future Air Corps officers.

Exempt from Draft

Membership in the ROTC would be elective. Those students who participate in the program would to all practical purposes, be exempt from military service while taking the training. However, blanket exemption will not be given. A quota of 90 per cent of the unit's membership is all that can receive this assurance.

The ROTC would take the place of physical education courses for freshmen and sophomores. During the last two years the student in training would be on a contract basis receiving compensation of 90 cents an hour, five days a week. Upon graduation, ROTC members would receive a Reserve Officer's commission and may be required to serve three years as Air Corps officers.

Three Hours Work

During the first two years, students would spend a minimum of three hours a week in the program. This includes two hours of lecture and one of drill. The advanced program, during the junior and senior years, calls for five hours per week with classroom work being stressed.

An optional 40 hours of flight training would be included during the last two years for those who desire it. The emphasis, however, will be for the training of ground and operational officers. Training here probably would be in the fields of Communications, Supply, and Administration.

The college would be expected to develop a unit graduating 100 men a year.

Late News Breaks

There will be an auction of lost and found articles in the TUB at 11 this morning, according to Miss Doris Kirk, Director af social activities.

Students who are interested in entering pictures in the Camera Club's second annual salon are asked to bring their prints ar negatives to the Camera Club meeting Friday, Jan. 14. Competition in the contest will be open ta all type camera pictures.

The trophy case, now located an the second floor of the Administration Building, will be moved to the TUB sometime during the coming week so that the new trophies may be better displayed, according ta Jim Barnett, S.G.A. president.

Because of the many requests, two new evening classes are now listed in night school curriculum. Beginning accounting is offered an Tuesday nights, 6:30 to 9:30, and a class in retail salesmanship is being given at the same time.

There will be an organization meeting of a Physics Club this morning at 11 o'clock in E-201, Robert Artman, associate professor of physics, announced yesterday. The club will be open to those interested in engineering or any of the sciences.

Lincoln B. Hale, president, and Edgar McKown, dean of the college, will attend a meeting of the association of American colleges, Monday, Jan. 10.

Date of the Alpha Phi Omega March of Dimes campaign has been set for Jan. 21-30

Thetas Receive Plaque For Top Scholarship

Bernice Culley, representing Theta Sigma Sorority, was awarded a scholarship plaque by Louise Kiely, president of Alpha Phi Mu, freshman women's honorary sorority, Wednesday in assembly.

The award was presented to the social sorority with the highest grade point average for last year. This project of Alpha Phi Mu is to encourage and recognize scholastic achievement among women students on campus.

Whom Do Investments Aid?

To the Editor:

I am not pleased to see that the "business, social, and civic leaders of the community" are still interested in Evansville College. It is interesting that Mr. Ruthenburg ealls Servel's $20,000 contribution to the student union building an "investment." I hope Mr. Ruthenburg does not expeet any more of the same kind of dividends that the trustees exaeted last spring.

This $20,000 might help add another pump-in the "serviee station of edueation," but it might mean the further prostitution of Evansville College. If this contribution means that these interests will influenee the academic policy of Evansville College, I would prefer that all the money for the new union building be raised hy student effort.

Mary Frances Clouse.

In business circles an "investment" generally means the placing of money into an enterprise for the purpose of receiving certain dividends or benefits. These latter frequently are in the form of cash returns; often they mean the securing of a controlling interest in the formulation of policy or of the management of the enterprise.

When the Republic of the United States was just a paper dream, many people invested in what they hoped was going to be a new way of life — meaning political, religious, and personal freedom from the repressions they knew in Europe. Their investments included not only money, but also time, health, scholarship, dreams, the plans of brilliant minds, and constant vigilance. What finally evolved was a system dedicated to the promotion of what is now known as the four freedoms — freedom from want; freedom of worship; freedom of speech and expression; and freedom from fear

Today, there seems to be a trend toward a new kind of dividend for those who make investments in those same four freedoms. For example, the case of the federal postal employees in two New Jersey towns who were suspended because they attended certain meetings, read certain literature, and voiced criticism of the accepted American tradition; the case of the head librarian of a certain large city who is under attack because the county supervisor is "not satisfied that the librarian is free of those liberal thoughts that we don't like to see in the mind of the head of the library."

The case of the college professors who have been fired, or scared into silence, because their "loyalty" was questioned when they attempted to show students all aspects of political or eeonomic systems; and there is the Congressional committee that ean ruin an individual's reputation, character, and economie security without due process of trial and which attempts to determine what organizations a citizen may or may not join and he a loyal American.

These are only a sampling of the facist trends in a country which was built on the idea that an individual has the right to hear all sides of a question, to read whatever he desires, to write the truth as he sees it, and to form his own opinions after a thorough investigation of all factors concerning a question, and to criticize those actions which he believes contrary to the welfare of him and his nation.

The attempts to suppress these rights are of grave concern to everyone, and particularly to college students, who are being trained to take their places in society as responsible citizens. A college is supposed to he the leader, the guiding hand that dispells ignorance and searches for truth. If a college, particularly a community college, takes the place of a follower, the word, "investment" acquires a sinster and insidious meaning.

Off 'n' On .....

Those Good Old Days Look Good---Even Without Shoes

By JEFF HAYS

"In the last fifty years man's knowledge of the universe which he inhahits, his control over the forces of nature, his ability to produce the necessities of life and to prolong life itself, have increased more rapidly than in any comparable era of the past."

This is an exerpt from a history book, and we think it pretty conclusively sizes up man's conquest of nature in recent years. No longer is anyone surprised at any thing. People just take the unusual nowadays as if it were expected.

With the great minds of the workl now getting ready to fight a war from a man made satellite at a point nine tenths of the way to the moon, we wonder what effect these modern developments will have on athletic competition.

When I read about an American team playing a chess game with France hy cable, I knew the ultimate had been reached. In this game eight Americans sat huddled over their chess boards in New York, while eight Frenchmen matched jumps with them in the Caissa Club 2000 miles away in Paris. Every time a player made a move it was cabled across the Atlantic and the operation was marked on the opponents board.

The players had to play very fast for chess — 20 moves an hour. Regardless of the rapidity of the game, the competitors prohably didn't become too excited if the game didn't go right for them, because they always had a chance to cool off by drinking tea without sugar, lemon, milk, or cream as they studied their moves. The players also had to use stop watches to maintain their schedule.

When a player captured an opponent's piece one of the judges removed it from the board. When a cabled dispatch revealed that an opponent had speared one of his they lifted it off the square and dropped it in the box.

Although playing chess hy cable is cheaper than sending a team across the ocean, it is still an expensive pastime. "We can't charge admission because nobody would come," says Roger Piquet, French Caissa club president. "Every message costs a hundred francs, and you can see all those dispatches coming in, one for every move."

Ah! but for the good old days when one had to trudge six miles through the snow to school. With no shoes.

ROUNDABOUT

— and Jerri —

B+, D–, C, F, A,

Has anyone ever figured out how grades are determined here? We tried and gave up soon with a bad headache.

Take the case of the student who sits next to you in elass. He loses his text the first of the quarter, sleeps three days a week and euts the other two, flunks all the tests, and insults the prof. What happens — he gets a B. And you who never miss a lecture, make good test grades, hand in all the assignments, and appear eager. What do you get — a D–.

This is only one example of many we have heard recently and we have come to the following conclusion: lots of work =poor grade, no work=good grade; therefore, why work? If anyone wants to set us straight OR if any prof. wants to raise our grade, we're availablc most any time. Although we know an education isn't determined by the grade you get, they are a necessary evil for the obtaining of a degree.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Why Don't They

have more and longer vacations — give Helena Barhon all the four leaf clovers and rabbits feet she can hold — speed the recovery of our favorite lady, Mrs. Shultz, in the TUB — give Al Wirthwein a comb and a hair brush — send Pat Wingeard a new set of springs for her Crosley — ask Kurt Kluger's sister to knit us all a ski sweater.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Straight From the Crib

A bore knows everything except how late it is. A sad sack is one that's been deflated. One sensitive youth, his feelings wounded by a remark a prof wrote on a paper he had turned in, went in to see what the prof meant. He breathed freely once more when he found out the harried teacher had intended to vrite "Good" Next time, he promised he wouldn't leave out one of the "o's." Prof: What are you late for today? Frosh: Class I guess.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

School has resumed
Ugh! how we fumed
At the masses of work
That only a jerk
Would throw out our way
To be done over a hol'day.

Public Speech Committee Plans Forensic Contests

Public Speech Committee is the section of the Student-Faculty Federation which is responsible for the various speech contests and activities on the campus.

This committee cooperates with the department of English and particularly with the speech and drama instructors in promoting speeeh and dramatic activities throughout the year.

In cooperation with the debate coach, Prof. A. C. Spence, a schedule of dehates is arranged each year with colleges within a 250 mile radius of Evansville. The committee recommends rules and helps arrange the financing of all debate and speech trips.

Sponsors Debate Meet

During the 1947-48 school season, the committee sponsored a seven college debate schedule and made possible the college's participation in four speech tournaments. These tournaments were held on the Purdue, Indiana, Indiana State, and Eastern Illinois campuses, and consisted of such activities as debate, oration, legislative contests, and introduction speeches.

Last spring the committee sponsored a Tri-State High School debate tournament. A similar event is planned for this year. Prizes last year included two scholarships of $300 and $150 awarded to the two best debators in the contest.

Establishes Award

Thus far this year the group has arranged exchange debates with several colleges which will start the first of this month. In Octoher a group of speech students attended the Tau Kappa Alpha convention on the Purdue campus. Clarence Clayton, senior, placed fourth in a panel discussion contest with over 100 student participants.

The Clarence H. Edwards Award was established last year under the leadership of Richard McWilliams, a graduate of last spring. The award will be given each year to the student making the greatest showing in speech activities for the year. Emily Combs, senior, was the first winner of the award last year. Miss Combs was in the finals of the National Oration Contest held in Chicago. The award is in memory of the late Clarence H. Edwards, college debate coach, 1946-48.

Pic of the Week

The girl of the week is Doris Witt, senior, president of the Gamma Epsilon Sigma sorority.

Among her many activities Doris has been secretary to the Dean of Men and assistant in the sociology department for three years.

She was listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges in her junior and senior years and has been on the Dean's List three consecutive times.

In her freshman year Doris was elected president of Gamma Delta. As a sophomore she was secretary of the Intersociety Council, secretary of the Pre-Med Club, and vice president and president of Alpha Phi Delta, girl scout sorority.

Last year she acted as vice president of Gamma Epsilon Sigma and secretary of her junior class. She belonged to the Phi Gamma Mu national social science fraternity, Alpha Phi Delta.

Aces To Face Murray, Western Next

Future Foes Hold High National Net Rating

Following the encounter tonight at Southeast Missouri, Evansville will meet two of their tonghest foes of the season in Murray State's Battling Thoroughbreds and the Hilltoppers from Western Kentucky. Murray will be met on their home floor January 11 and Western will invade the Armory on the following Thursday.

Coach McCutchan's charges will be favored to win the Cape Girardeau game, having copped the first one to the tune of 72 to 46.

Last year the Aces split two games with the Thoroughbreds, losing the first one 62-60 and winning the second, 57-55. Due to their past record the Murray team will probably enter the game a slight favorite.

Hilltoppers Invade

Evansville will run up against one of the top teams in the country when they engage Ed Diddle's Hilltoppers from Bowling Green at the Armory next Thursday. Western is currently riding the crest of a nine game winning streak. The Hilltoppers made an eastern swing during the holidays and added their last three victories on the trip.

They opened the tour by blasting Canisius from the undefeated ranks, 65-55, followed this by trouncing Long Island University, 85-58 and then wound up by dropping St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, 86-69.

Every year Coach Diddle, who is widely known for his "Crying Towel" antics, comes up with a top-notch team, and this year is no exception. The Hilltoppers were hard hit by graduation last June but have rebounded to their high national ranking at present.

Travelling Squad

Coach McCutchan has announced 10 of the 11 players that will make the trip to Southeast Missouri. They include: Bob Barnett, Joe Hafele, Jim Barnett, Harry Axford, Bob Sakel, Bob Northerner, Al Buck, Harold Stubbs and Larry Holder. Another player is to be named before the team takes off.

After the Western Kentucky game the Aces have a five day lay-off before travelling to Oakland City for a game with the Oaks. Following the Oakland City contest they have nine regular season games and wind up against the other members of the Ohio Valley Conference in the first annual tournament.

Remaining Games

20 January — Eastern Here.
27 January — Southern Illinois Here.
29 January — Indiana State Here.
3 February — Louisville Here.
5 February — Indiana State at Terre Haute.
8 February — At Western Kentucky.
10 February — Murray State Here.
13 February — At Louisville.
19 February — Morehead Here.

Cagers Win Four Holiday Contests

Most of Evansville College's students had a two week vacation for Christmas, but not the basketball players. A rigorous four-game schedule and a holiday tourney were reeled off by the local cagers over the holidays, and the Aces emerged victorious in four of the six games played.

On Dec. 17 the Aces journeyed to Morehead, Ky., to win their first Ohio Valley Conference start, 71-61. Bob Barnett and Joe Hafele led the team with 19 points apiece.

In another O. V. C. game the next night, the Aces met a red hot Eastern Kentucky team, and lost 85-64. The Kentuckians hit 57 per cent of their shots, and inflicted the first conference loss to Evansville. Slender Bob Barnett and Joe Hafele, pint sized guard, again led the Evansville attach with 16 and 18 points respectively.

The Aces gained their fifth victory of the year in a benefit game at Jasper against St. Joseph's college, 66-45. Hafele again led the point parade for the winners with five baskets and two free throws. Every man of the 16 man Evansville squad saw action at some time during the game.

A new scoring record was written on the record books of Evansville College when the Aces trounced Ottawa University 85-65 at Central gym. Joe Hafele scored 27 points during the melee, stretching his free throw string to 18. Evansville ranking among the best in the country in free throw proficiency, sank 23 or 30 during the game.

New Plans Announced By Rifle Association

From the final 1948 Rifle Club meeting, these developments were reported:

1. The club has obtained the use of the armory to hold their practice sessions in.

2. In the future, ammunition will be furnished by the National Rifle Association.

3. The club's constitution is being rewritten by Jonnie Engelbert club president; Carolyn Miller, secretary; and Dorothy Dailey.

Hafele Playing Third Year In Evansville Uniform

By BILL DUFFY

Joe Hafele, diminutive Purple Ace guard, has proved himself a valuable member of the Evansville College basketball team. At present Joe is the leading scorer on the squad, holding a four point margin over Bob Barnett. Hafele has a 144-point total for an average of more than 13 points per game.

Hafele is now in his seventh year of organized basketball, having earned four letters while attending Cannelton High School. During his four years at Cannelton he was captain of the net squad three years and earned three letters in baseball.

60 Points As Frosh

In his first year at Evansville Hafele hit the nets for 60 points. Last year he topped his freshman total by several points. Hafele shows that he is an experienced netman by his play, which features his faking. Hafele considers this faking ability next in importance to speed.

During the current season Joe has been among the first ten scorers in the state, running just ahead of Bob Barnett.

Joe stands five feet nine inches in height, tips the scales at 155 pounds and is classified as a junior. In addition to his basketball activities he has pitched for the Evansville College baseball team the past two seasons.

Believes in Practice

Joe is a firm believer in a lot of practice. Every night he can be found at the Armory with the other members of the squad, attempting to keep his shooting skill at top form.

Joe has become one of the crowd favorites at Evansville home games. During his high school career and during his first two years on the college team, Joe preferred a mouthful of paraffin to gum for avoiding butterflies during games.

Women's Keg League Features Tight Race

Castalian's and the Women's Athletic Association are still tied for first place in the Women's Bowling League.

The two teams met each other Thursday before vacation but nothing was settled as they split two games, leaving each with 12 games won and two games lost.

The faculty and Gamma Epsilon Sigma are tied for second place with an 8-6 record. Louise Griffith, Sig howler has the highest average of all keglers, 136.

Phi Zetas 1 Leads At End of Nine Weeks of Play

The Phi Zeta 1 Team continues to lead the Evansville College bowling league after nine weeks of play with a record of 20 wins and seven losses.

At a meeting in A-317 Thursday, Dec. 16, it was decided that the team winning the league would be presented a trophy as well as individual trophies. The individual high scorer for the league will also be given a trophy.

Highest individual games are now held by Bahr with 225 and Hurst with 223. Highest averages belong to Jandebur with 164 and Huber with 161.

Western State Leads Valley Cage Squads

Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers, one of the few remaining unbeaten college cage teams this season, are pacing the Ohio Valley Conference teams with nine wins and no defeats.

Eastern is running a close second with an eight and one record, losing only to Western.

Gene Robinson, Aces' business manager, disclosed that there would be two O. V. C. champions this season. One would be the team with the best season's average against O.V.C. competition; the other, the winner of the conference tournament to be held in February.

Evansville College netmen face one of the toughest periods in the history of the school in the period from 20 January to 16 February. During this time they will play eight teams, all of which are ranked fairly high on the national cage scene.

The eight-game grind opens with Eastern Kentucky, 20-point winner over the Aces. Following this game Evansville will play Southern Illinois, a team that won by two points in the first game this season. Next on the schedule come the ever-tough Sycamores from Indiana State Teachers college at Terre Haute. State rolled over the Aces twice last year, winning the first game 52-44 and the second by a 64-40 margin.

Louisville is the next opponent for the local netmen, and then they journey to Terre Haute for a return bout with the Sycamores. The next encounter is the second of the series with Western Kentucky and this is followed by Murray's trip here for a game. The last regular season road game is with Louisville. Evansville winds up the regular season with Morehead, on the home floor before taking a four day rest and then journeying back to Louisville for the Ohio Valley Conference tournament.

If the Aces can break even in those eight games there will certainly be nothing to be ashamed of as far as Evansville College basketball is concerned.

Evansville has an all-Indiana basketball squad this season, with Boonville, Cannelton, Huntingburg, Jasper, Ft. Branch and Yankeetown the other Hoosier towns and cities represented in addition to Evansville. Central, Bosse, Memorial and Reitz are all represented.

Aces Lose in JC Tourney Finale To Panthers

Evansville College's defending champions were defeated by Eastern Illinois, 84-67, in the final game of the Junior Chamber of Commerce tournament at Vincennes, Dec. 29 and 30.

Evansville won the right to compete in the championship game by defeating Georgetown College, 79-42. Eastern reached the final game by defeating Southern Illinois, 72-55.

Charley Pennington, Georgetown's freshman center, was high scorer in the first game with 21 points. Bob Barnett got 15 for the Aces.

In the championship game Eastern pulled away in the last three and one half minutes to rack up an easy win. John Wilson of Eastern was the leading scorer with 23 points. Joe Hafele led Evansville with 17.

Marvin Hartig Recently Named New Assistant Director Under Harold See

By MARY LOU WOLFE

Marvin E. Hartig, a 1948 graduate of Evansville College, has been appointed assistant to Harold W. See, director of Evening College, the Placement Bureau, and the Graduate Center.

Mr. Hartig will work on a half-time basis in the three departments. During the fall term he has been acting as business manager and librarian for the music department. He also designed the football formations for the band. Mr. Hartig will continue these duties the rest of the year on a half-time basis also, and in addition will manage the band and choir trips.

A graduate of Central High School, Mr. Hartig came to Evansville College in May 1943. In his freshman year he contacted poliomyelitis and returned to school in February, 1945.

A member of Phi Zeta Fraternity for four yeors, he was in charge of the 1946 and 1947 Sweetheart Dances. He is interested in music; he sang tenor in the choir for three years and was elected president of that organization in his junior and senior years. He played baritone in the band for two years.

The student body elected him treasurer of the Student Government Association. He also was treasurer of his senior class.

In his junior and senior years he was honored in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Along with these honors he was a campus notable and leader.

Last spring Mr. Hartig received the first local scholastic award from Pi Camma Mu, social science honorary.

His name appeared on the Dean's List for six semesters, and he was graduated Cum Laude, majoring in Secondary Education.

Assembly Program For Winter Term Announced Today

The schedule for assembly programs for the winter quarter has been announced, and is as follows:

January 11 — Albert Wilkic, painter, to speak.
January 12 — Albert Wilkie, painter, to speak.
January 18 — Everette Walker.
January 19 — Walter Koch, of International Steel.
January 25 — College Band.
January 26 — College band.
February 1 — Bathie Stuart, from New Zealand.
February 2 — Bathie Stuart, from New Zealand.
February 8 — Walter B. Posey, historian and professor at Agness Scott College.

February 15 — No assembly scheduled.
February 16 — No assembly scheduled.
February 22 — Dr. Paolo Trever, from the Institute of International Education.
February 23 — Dr. Paolo Trever, from the Institute of International Education.
March 1 — Lionel Novak, pianist.
March 2 — Lionel Novak, pianist.

New Industrial Technology Curriculum Gives Students a Broad Background

With the beginning of the fall quarter a new curriculum was offered to interested students. Called Industrial Technology, it is designed to give the student a knowledge of business and industry and a broad educational background, as well as giving him the technical knowledge and training he needs for his future joh.

Four Main Fields

There are four fields in which to major: refrigeration, industrial chemistry, electronics, or machine design. The course can be completed in four years by attending college during the fall, winter, and spring quarters and taking the summer vacation, or the five-year cooperative plan can be followed. Both plans graduate the student with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Industrial Technology.

Paired into Groups

It takes 19 quarters to complete the five year cooperative plan. Twelve of these quarters are spent in college. The other seven are spent at work in industry. The entire first year is spent in college. After that the students are paired into two groups. The groups then take turns between study and work during the remaining quarters.

While he is on the job, the student earns the same wages as other workers. Although he will not usually earn enough to pay his college expenses, this work gives the student a chance to apply the theories he has studied. He is afforded an opportunity to meet the men and women of industry with whom he must work after he finishes college. The cooperative student also has the advantage of finding out before he graduates whether or not he is suited for the work for which he has been studying. By being shifted from department to department on the job he is able to choose the kind of work he likes best.

Shepard Attends Clinic For Band Directors

Wesley Shepard, co-head of the department of music, is attending the annual National Band Clinic at the University of Illinois. The clinic started yesterday and will continue through today.

New trends, developments, and problems in the field of band music will be discussed. New musical numbers will be demonstrated by the University's band.

Ulfert Wilke, German Born Painter, To Address Assemblies Next Week

Ulfert Wilke, assistant professor of painting at the University of Louisville, will address the freshman and upperclassman assemblies Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. His topic will be "Interpretations of a Man Who Paints," during which he will use slides of his own work.

Mr. Wilke will be present at a tea in the TUB between 2:30 and 4:30 Tuesday afternoon and dinner in the cafeteria at 6 o'clock that evening. Anyone interested is invited to attend these gatherings. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Wilke will hold art conferences and other meetings with German and music classes.

Born in Germany

Mr. Wilke was born in Germany where he studied painting under Willy Jaeckel in Berlin. In Paris he studied at the Academie de la Grande Chaumiere, the Academie Ranson, and audited at the Sorbonne.

He came to this country in 1938 and entered the army in 1942. His occupational therepy work at Schick General Hospital was given wide publicity by Life Magazine and Paramount Newsreel.

Awarded Prize

Mr. Wilke was awarded the first Albrecht Durer Prize for Germany, 1927; first and second prizes at the Society of Four Arts in Palm Beach, 1942 and 1943; first prize at the Delgado Museum in New Orleans, 1944; and first prize and Gold Medal in the National Army Arts contest in 1945.

He is represented in important European and American museums and galleries.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

● All abroad. All abroad! All abroad for the S. S. Washington and across the Atlantic! There is space for 28 people on the proposed trip to Europe this summer.

This is the biggest venture yet operated by the sociology department in its series of trips, started several years ago and designed to give students and faculty a bird's eye view of how the rest of the world lives.

Miss Starry

At the risk of being accused of undermining the student body, we suggest that the trip could well be the chance of a life time and worth working during the spring term to scare up the extra money (for details see story this page).

● Item by the way: The women's lounge has had a face lifting. New chairs and equipment have been provided by the women's council, with the aid of a donation from the college (story, page 1).

● The Fraternity Brothers are starting a project we should like to see taken up by other fraternities and sororities. In order to become nationally affiliated the organization is planning to open a resident fraternity house and needs only a few more interested members to begin housekeeping (see story and picture this page).

We are not advocates of the conditions present in sorority and fraternity memberships, but so long as fraternities and sororities continue to exist, we believe that members should have a taste of living in fraternity and sorority houses. It has its advantages, particularly on non-resident campuses without dormitories.

● Sunday marks the second of a series of yearly vesper services. These services give students the opportunity to hear outstanding figures in religious and philosophical circles. We suggest that the Rev. Dr. J. H. Jackson should be well worth several hours of Sunday afternoon time (see story this page).

● We noted with a little more than usual interest the result of freshman class officer elections (story this page). Several years ago, THE CRESCENT campaigned to clean up SCA elections, to open the closed shop operated by organized groups, and to give the independents a chance to participate. We don't know how successful we were, but at least voting regulations were enforced and the campaign period revised.

This year's freshmen have a chance to begin a new trend and make class offices more than a political grab bag for the organized groups. Class leaders have a definite place in college life; there are those who think that there is a need for more leaders and fewer politicians (see letter to theEditor, page 2).

Debaters Schedule Murray College

A non-decision debate has been scheduled here next Wednesday with Murray State College competing with the college affirmative and negative teams.

Each group will debate the question, "Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools by means of annual grants."

Students who will participate in this debate for the college are Clarence Clayton, senior; Emily Combs, senior; John Schrodt, senior; Kathryn Starry, sophomore; and Hobart Lutz, sophomore.

Members of the affirmative team will be Mr. Clayton and Mr. Schrodt. Negative members are Miss Combs, Miss Starry and Mr. Lutz.

The college team will travel to Murray for a return debate Feb. 16, according to A. C. Spence, debate coach.

Millen Elected By Freshmen

David Millen was elected president of the freshman class by a secret ballot election in the auditorium Thursday, Dec. 6.

He will assume office immediately and will be in charge of a freshman class meeting in the auditorium next Thursday when a permanent faculty sponsor will be chosen.

James Kaiser was elected vice president and Jo Anne Freshley will fill the office of secretary-treasurer.

A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English, acted as temporary faculty sponsor for the class. Robert Colvin, temporary president of the class who was elected during the freshman orientation week, was in charge of the election meeting.

Walter Prickett and Robert Ossenberg were nominated along with Mr. Millen for president, Joan Hayes and Robert Colvin were defeated by Mr. Kaiser for the office of vice president, and Miss Freshley ran against Molly Marlatt for secretary-treasurer.

Philos Choose Hevron For New President

The Pi Epsilon Phi social fraternity elected new officers last week to complete the present school year.

Sororities Announce Rush Captains

College Art Department To Present Exhibit by Paul Ashby, Alumnus

The Evansville College Art Department will exhibit the works of Paul W. Ashby, known as the "Hoosier print maker," next week in the Art Department in the Reserve Library.

Mr. Ashby, a 1931 graduate of Evansville College, is now supervisor of art in the Kendallville schools.

He held his first exhibit six years after his graduation from college. Since then he has exhibited his work in more than 80 shows. Most of these have been national exhibits.

His latest showing was held at the Hoosier Salon Galleries in Indianapolis. It closed on Jan. 4. The same exhibit will be open again in Muncie, Feb. 1.

Most of Mr. Ashby's work is done on wood or linoleum blocks, although he has done painting in oils, watercolors, and pastels.

Mr. Ashby features work on Indiana State parks, and the lesser known beauty spots in the state.

This exhibit will be open to the public.

Fraternity Brothers Seek Men To Live in New Proposed House

The house above, located at 1109 Lincoln Avenue may soon be the fraternity house of the Fraternity Brothers organization on campus. Arrangements have been made for procurement of the property as soon as the required number of members are available for residency in the home.

The Fraternity Brothers, formerly the Acacia Club, are working "long hours" these days trying to meet the necessary requirements to obtain the proposed eight-room fraternity house located at 1109 Lincoln Avenue.

Finding members and pledges to live in the house is the main problem confronting the group at present. To obtain the building they must have the assurance that 15 members or pledges will reside there.

The fraternity, sponsored by the Masonic Lodge, will have the house leased for them by the Evansville Hadi Shrine Temple, if the requirements are met.

Sponsored by Lodge

This is the third year for the fraternity on the campus, and they now have an active membership of 30 students. Last year the group replaced the name Aeacia with Fraternity Brothers. Acacia is the national fraternity's name and by not having a house, the local fraternity was not considered national. If the house is obtained, the name Acacia will be adopted again and the fraternity will become the only national fraternity at the college.

Officers Listed

Pledges to the fraternity are selected by the active members. Closed meetings are held each Monday in A213. The president is Claude Bates; vice president, William Parsley; and Marvin Brown, secretary-treasurer. Prof. Myron Bishop is faculty adviser. James Bishop is the chairman of the house committee. Students interested in this fraternity are to contact one of the officers.

If the house is secured, it will have a dormitory on the second floor, and a large club room and recreation hall on the first floor.

That's My Book

Students Find Lost Items at Auction

Another auction was held in the TUB last Friday to get rid of all the books, pens, pencils, and other items that had accumulated in the TUB'S lost and found department.

Some students recovered their lost belongings before the auction including Bob Hevran, who recovered a book that had been lost since last quarter. Some students, however, had their items sold at the auction before they had a chance to recover them.

Mary Bollinger is looking for the person who bought her suit coat that has been lost since last October, and on unidentified student is on the trail of the villian who bought his Schaeffer fountain pen.

Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, reminds students that the TUB is not responsible for items not claimed within thirty days.

Morlocks To Guide Students on Tour

A trip to Europe is being planned as part of this summer's college tour program, according to James E. Morlock, dean of men.

Reservations have been made for 28 persons on the SS Washington which sails from New York on June 15. Dr. and Mrs. Morlock, who will conduct the tour through the European countries, will land with the group in Southhampton, England. They will later go to the continent where five other countries will be visited.

The entire trip is expected to take six weeks, for which 7½ quarter credits are to be given.

Cost of the trip will be about $1040 per person. Dr. Morlock stated. The price includes transportation, meals, hotels, guides, side trips, tips, and other such expenses.

Dr. Morlock asked that interested students contact him as soon as possible, so that lists may be completed. A large number of applications have already been received, he concluded.

Women's Council Begins Remodeling of Lounge

New study chairs have been purchased by the Women's Council to be used in the women's lounge on the second floor of the Administration Building.

The college appropriated $250 to the council for needed improvements. In addition to the new chairs, the old davenports have been rebuilt with new springs and backs. Most of these study chairs have been placed in the lounge and are already in use.

The lounge still needs many improvements, however, according to Miss Emily Combs, president of the Women's Council. Many of the old chairs need repairing and new draperies are needed for the windows, she stated.

Rushing Activities Begin Next Week

Fraternities and Sororities Schedule Off Campus Parties for Rushees

Sorority and fraternity rushing will get underway Monday with at least one party scheduled for each night next week.

Phi Zeta fraternity, with Paul Singleton chairman, will have a rush party in the West Haven Gun Club at 7:30 p.m., Monday.

The same night the three sororities, Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, and Theta Sigma will entertain prospective pledges at a rotation party on campus at 7:30.

Meeting Monday

"All women who are eligible and interested in rushing are invited," stated Miss Esther Brown, dean of women. "The rushees are asked to meet in the auditorium at 7 p.m. to be given instructions for the party and a general explanation of rushing as it is set up here," she explained further.

At the time of the meeting in the auditorium the rushees will be divided into three groups and will progress to the three parties. Each group will be with one sorority for 45 minutes and then will pass on to next party.

Asked to Sign Up

Miss Brown has asked all women who plan to attend to sign up in her office sometime today so that the sororities will have some idea as to the number to expect.

The Castalian party will be in the women's lounge with Marylu Plane and June Tremor in charge of arrangements; the Sig party will be in the Cafeteria headed by Charlotte Rupp, rush captain; and the Theta party will be in the men's lounge with Dorothy Dailey in charge.

After the rotation party an invitation list will be made by each sorority and rushees will be invited to informal parties.

Fraternities Rush

On Tuesday night the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity is having its rush party at the Servel Gun Club at 6:30 James Niehaus, chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Pi Kappa fraternity will have a rush party Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home, Rookery Building. Bob Rideout is in charge of this party.

Also on Wednesday night the Castalians will have the first of the informal parties at the home of Juna Howard. "Gold Rush" will be the theme of the party and Diane Hadley and Ginger Eades will be the co-chairmen.

Dorothy Golightly will be responsible for the Theta party on Thursday night which will be at Camp Optimist with a "Scotch Plaid Party" theme.

Friday fraternity bids will be issued in the regular pledge assembly. That night the Sigs will have the last of the sorority informals at the Spenee Tea Room headed by the rush captain.

18 Graduate In December

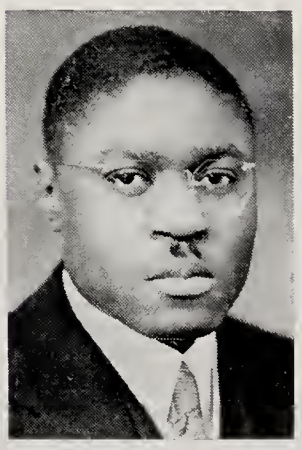
Eighteen seniors were graduated from Evansville College Dec. 4, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar. These students will receive their diplomas in June, 1949.

The first quarter graduates and their degrees are: Elizabeth N. Baskett, A.B., El. Ed.; Kenneth W. Berger, A.B., Music; Charles W. Brinkley, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Hilda Bruek, A.B., El. Ed.; Anna Muriel Flucks, A.B., El. Ed.; Bonnie Lou Creubel, A.B., El. Ed.; Owen M. Hamilton, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Robert U. Huhle, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Eugene C. Martin, A.B., Chemistry; Melvin M. McCosh, A.B., English; Wayne O. Montgomery, A.B., Biology; Bernice M. O'Neil, A.B., El. Ed.; Mary Alice Peck, A.B., El. Ed.; Jack L. Rettig, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Charles R. Richardt, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Charles F. Specht, B.S., Bus. Ad.; Florene Varner, A.B., El. Ed.; and Jake R. Yeager, A.B., Sociology.

World Church Council Delegate To Speak at Vesper Services

The Rev. Dr. J. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist Church in Chicago, will be the speaker at the Vesper Services in the auditorium Sunday afternoon, January 16, at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Jackson was a delegate to the World Council of Churches in its first assembly late last summer in Amsterdam, Holland. Following that he spent ten days on a preaching mission in Germany and England. This was his third trip to Europe on religious business.



Dr. J. H. Jackson

The Olivet Baptist Church, of which Dr. Jackson has been pastor since 1941, is one of the largest Negro churches in the country.

The Rev. J. M. Caldwell, pastor of the Zion Baptist church, will introduce Dr. Jackson. Dr. E. M. McKown, dean of the college, will give the invocation and benediction.

The Vesper Choir, directed by Mrs. Margaret Shepard, will sing, with Ralph Waterman at the organ.

W. G. Koch To Speak On 'Responsibilities'

Walter G. Koch, vice president of International Steel company of Evansville, will address the upperclassmen assembly next Wednesday. "Business and Its Civic Responsibilities" will be his topic.

Mr. Koch attended the Evening College when it first began. He is a member of the Rotary Club, on the board of trustees of the YWCA and is aiding in the Atomic Energy program. A past president of the Evansville Community Chest, he was chairman of the 1947 campaign and is on the board of directors of the organization. He was presented the Rotary Civic Award of 1947 for his activities. At the present time Mr. Koch is also chairman of the Indiana Toll Bridge Comission.

Late News Breaks

Candidates for the title of basketball queen nominated by the basketball team are: Carol McCone, Castalian; Joyce Robinson, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; Fleta Benedict, Independent; and Ninabelle Hurt, Theta Sigma.

Tryouts for the Thespian production "The Linden Tree" are scheduled for 3:30 and 6 tonight in the auditorium.

Locker rental fees for the winter quarter should be paid at A-10B by tomorrow morning, according to R. E. Olmsted, business manager. A few students are using lockers which they rented for the first quarter without paying the rental for the second quarter, he stated. Tomorrow locker combinations will be changed on all lockers for which rental has not been paid.

"Girl of the Month," as chosen by the Secretarial Science Club has been named for January. Nancy McCaffrey, saphmoore, received the title for the current month, and Mary Lou Muth for December.

Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, was recently named a director of the Evansville Council for Community Service. He and seven other members will serve an additional year term.

At Other Schools

Things Are Similar, Yet Different, Too

Activities on other campuses throughout the nation vary greatly, according to the student publications of these institutions.

North Texas State College's Student Union Building, slated for completion in February was originally planned 30 years ago following World War I. Plans for the building were revived in the last days of World War II and now the building will serve as a memoiral to alums of both wars.

The Indiana University Student Senate has recommended to school authorities that a mid-year commencement be held for those students who will graduate in February.

DePauw University officials are considering a proposal to "de-emphasize" grades and adopt a less rigid policy in regards to attendance.

A recent student presentation of the opera "Carmen" at North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, Texas, was carried over television.

Butler University football players have organized a fund to aid Bob Hamilton, the Bulldogs most valuable player last fall, who was injured in an automobile accident during the Christmas holidays.

Roosevelt College, Chicago, Illinois, is giving interested students an opportunity to go abroad this summer to work in camps in various European countries.

The National Student Association, has begun activities to place students among the list of displaced persons in American colleges and universities.

The Tenth Air Force has alloted suffieient draft deferment quotas to cover the entire Butler University Air ROTC Unit according to The Collegian, school newspaper.

Keve Combines Art With Her Travels

Miss Florence Keve, assistant prolessor ol art, has just finished posting a story of Pablo Picasso, the much talked of modern artist, in connection with a student display of modern art. Miss Keve says that although she is not always in sympathy with him she appreciates what he is trying to do.

After two years of military life with the American Red Cross in the Pacific during the recent war, Miss Florence Keve, assistant professor of art, returned to civilian life, going to the College of Idaho, Caldwell, Idaho in 1947 and then coming to Evansville College.

Miss Keve was assigned to the Roosevelt Club in Manila for a year. Touring the hospitals and service clubs to draw sketches of the troops and working in the publicity department were two of her many duties at this time.

Was Club Director

How ever, her favorite assignment was conducting a tour once a week 30 miles across the Manila Bay to Corregidor.

The following year she spent as director of an enlisted men's club in Sasebo, Japan, which provided recreation for a regiment of 400 men.

"We tried to have a different activity every night and a special program on weekends, with dancing always popular," commented Miss Keve.

Traveled In Europe

"Besides three C.I.'s and 53 Japanese on the staff there were only three Red Cross women, so naturally we were kept busy dancing," she said.

Combining painting with traveling constitutes Miss Keve's main interest. She has done some painting in Mexico and San Francisco and in Manila and Japan while she was there. She also made a trip to England, Belgium, Germany, Italy and France before the war.

Miss Keve has taught in the high school at Danville, Illinois and was art supervisor in the city schools of Whiting, Indiana.

Miss Keve received her A.B. degree from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa and her masters degree from Columbia University in New York City.

What's Next for the Campus, A Fieldhouse or Dormitory?

By Jeff Hays

In Evansville College's long-range, post-war plans, several building sites were proposed between Rotherwood and Weinbach. Among these were new dormitories, a fieldhouse, a music hall, a chapel, sorority and fraternity houses, a union building and an engineering building.

The Engineering Building has already been completed, and the Union Building is all set to be started next Spring. The big question now is, "What building should be built after the Union Building is finished?" The inquiring reporter was busy this week trying to find out what the students want.

Here is how a few of them answered:

Richie Bauer, junior,—We need a fieldhouse. The Armory is too small and costs too much to rent. Besides we need a gym for intra-mural sports, too.

Allen Brown, sophomore,—They ought to build a beer hall Minnesota has one where they are allowed to sell 3.2 beer.

Jack Taylor, sophmore, — We need a fieldhouse. It would supply our needs for football, basketball, and track.

Lois Ricketts, freshman, — We need a fieldhouse. The entire city needs one. It looks as if the college will have to build it if it is to be built.

Joe Gossman, freshman, — I think we need a music hall so that Archie Owen can be at home with his hand music.

Kurt Kluger, sophomore, — Strictly off the record of course, we need a dormitory badly. Before long the out of town students will be sleeping in the gutters.

Byron Bacon, freshman, — We need dormitories. After the Union Building attracts all these out of town students, we will have no place to put them.

Bob Hanselman, junior, — They ought to build a fieldhouse. Somebody should build a fieldhouse in this town before they build anything else. I mean before they build a parliament building, new show, golf course or anything.

Homer Scruggs, freshman, — They have a big football field out here, and I think they ought to build a stadium around it. Athletics are a big thing in most colleges, and it should be around here too.

Diane Hadley, junior, — They ought to improve on all the old buildings before they build anything new — meaning the stage.

Pat Lynch, unclassified, — They ought to build dormitories before they build anything else.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor

During the past few years I have managed to see quite a few newspapers from over the country, college and otherwise, and I would like to say that the CRESCENT is the first one I have ever seen that put a letter to the editor in the editorial column and published an answer in editorial form. I think tha you are aware that an editorial is a statement of the policy of the paper. That being the case, I am sure that there are members of the Crescent staff who were quite surprised at the stand they are taking.

The letter submitted by Miss Mary Frances Clouse was interesting, to say the least. It is to be regretted that Miss Clouse is "not pleased" to find that socially, hnsiness and civically prominent people are still interested in the welfare of the college. I am sure that Miss Clouse has heard the statement about "biting the hand that feeds you." I think that Miss Clouse, along with many other people who have attended and will attend this college, would find it very difficult to complete their educations without the leaders that she is damning.

The answer to her letter, which appeared in the form of an editorial, was also very interesting. It hued the "party line" down to the last sentence and certainly gives a fine impression of the type of student being turned out. One of the most regrettable points of the episode is the fact that it is not confined to student readers. Outsiders will undoubtedly have read it, and I can assure you that it will be of no assistance to the development of the college.

If the persons who wrote the letter, and the editorial are so displeased with conditions here at Evansville College, I am sure that they will not find the door locked against their departure.

Bill Woods

To the Editor

It is through this medium that I am taking the opportunity to ask some questions and express my speculations about a recent CRESCENT front page story headlined "Kniese Lists Committees of Seniors."

First—I wonder why Kniese was nominated? Did someone nominate him as a joke? Might it have been his right as "Bop King?" Or was it through his seniority in the school?

Second—Now that he has been elected, by a majority, do those outside of the Pi Epsilon Phi and Castalians stand a chance of graduating? To put the question another way, is there any senior Philo's name left out of the story? If there is, surely Kniese can find another committee to put him on.

Third—I ask this question in reference to the class meetings to be held in the near future. How does an Independent go about obtaining an invitation to this Philo-Casty affair? Besides, these meetings are held every Thursday, so I've been informed; mayhe not jointly, but the same in purpose.

Fourth—I ask this—can't we right the wrong and come June make it a class graduation instead of a Philo-Castalian victory over those who didn't have any "say so" anyhow?

An Independent

This department is for student expression and does not necessarily constitute the views, policies and opinions of the newspaper. Only signed letters will be published, but the name will be withheld if so desired.

At the beginning of the 1948-49 school year THE CRESCENT publishing an editorial entitled, "We Reaffirm Our Policy," listing five main points of intention.

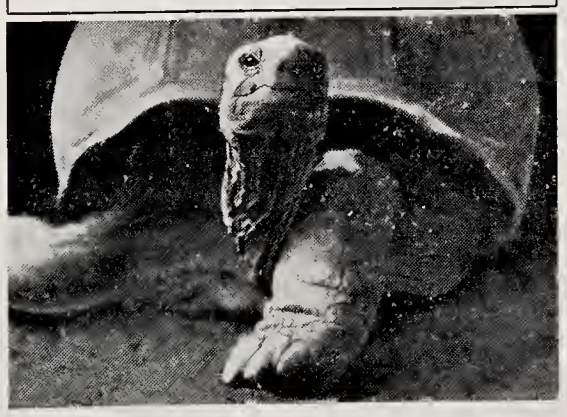
The third point in this policy reads as follows, "To promote the progress of Evansville College both physically and academically. To assist the administration in its drive for better educators and more facilities with which to work. To nurture the prestige of the college in minds of the citizens of the community and the nation."

Last week the editorial, "Whom Do Investments Aid," seemed to challenge this policy beyond limits. There is nothing wrong with having different factions on the campus but when such an organ as THE CRESCENT is used for the dissemination of the opinion of a person, or a group of persons under the name of THE CRESCENT, it appears as if the purpose of the paper is defeated.

According to statements in the Official Handbook, the Committee on Publications of the Student-Faculty Federation has supervision of the student paper and other publications. As to whether such a committee was consulted before the editorial was published is challengable.

In no way should the opinion of a person be condemned, but the question is whether or not the opinion should be printed in THE CRESCENT with the assumption that it is the opinion and belief of the Committee on Publications and 12 members of the staff of the paper.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test



THE hair that bothered this tortoise didn't run him a race, as they "tort-us" back in school. His hair just kept getting in his eyes! Being naturally slow, it took some time for him to try the Finger-Nail Test. But when he did, brother, did he move fast for a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil—and look at him now! No more dryness and loose, ugly dandruff! Wildroot Cream-Oil keeps his hair well groomed all day long.

What non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin did for Sheedy, it can do for you. So get a bottle or tube today at the nearest drug or toilet goods counter. And have your barber give you professional applications. You'll like what Wildroot Cream-Oil does for your hair—so mock this turtle and start using it today.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

And They're Off —

Once again the time has come when fellows and girls make their choice and select their side of the fence in the organized social societies of our fair school. The six sororities and fraternities begin rushing Monday and lessons will take a back seat as the parties get under way. Then there's always Hell Week which looms up at the end of this particular rainbow, but we doubt if we see much of it on campus this year since the trend is more towards an off-campus initiation.

Why Don't They

Ask Jim "My Dog Had Pups" Manion for a cigar — sing the school hymn more often in assemblies — teach Bob Ossenberg how to play ping pong — give Professor Kelly some "No Doze" pills for his 9:00 economics lecture — let us see our grading points, instead of sticking us with them — make more giggles like Karleen Yeager's.

Congratulations and orchids to the Thetas for earning the sorority seholarship plaque. To any group who can accomplish all the things demanded of a sorority and still make top grades we say more power.

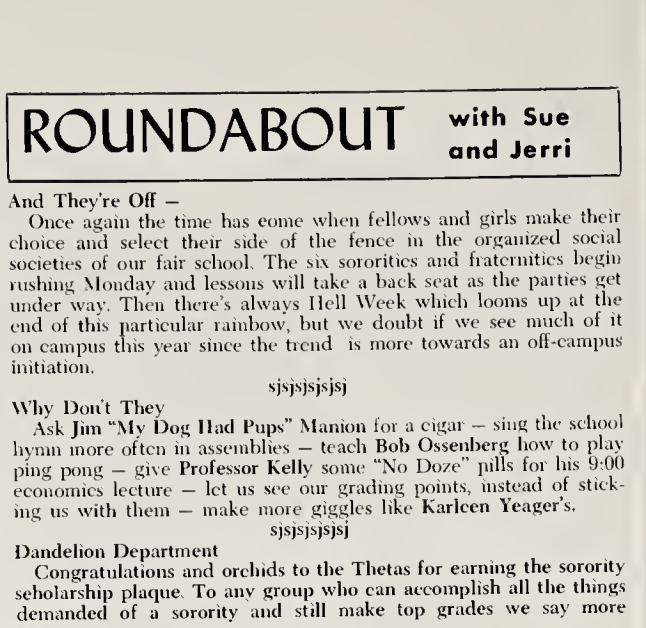
More of the Same —

In India when a cow grows too old to be useful she is placed in a home for old cows . . . Little Willie: Papa, what makes the world go round? Big Willie: Didn't I tell you to keep out of the cellar . . . Female voice: (to bus driver) Cee, can'tcha wait until I get all my clothes on? Fifty soldiers twisted their necks around while the laundress got onto the Henderson bus with her basket of clothes . . . "Hey," cried Satan to a new arrival, "you act as if you own the place." "I do," came the answer. "My wife gave it to me before I came here."

Pic of the Week



Sam Humphrey, senior and president of Phi Zeta fraternity, is the pic of the week.

In addition to being president of the Phi Zetas, he has held two other positions in this organization. In his sophomore year he was chosen pledge master, and was elected vice-president in his junior year.

Also in his sophomore year Sam served as historian of the Alpha Phi Omega, and is a member of Beta Alpha Kappa, honorary fraternity open to those majoring in business administration or economics.

He is chairman of the Social Life Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation, and is a member of the Student Council.

After being graduated from Reitz High School in 1942, he entered the Navy and served three and one half years in that capacity, seeing action in the Tinian campaign.

He entered Evansville College immediately following his discharge from the Navy.

Aces To Battle Oakland City Tuesday

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

Last Monday night a meeting was held that may he the turning point in basketball backing in and around Evansville. The idea was originated here at the school and is being carried out now to the community. The Tip-Off Club, as the organization is known, is being opened to the public in the hope that it will become a sort of "Quarterback Club" of basketball.

At the first meeting, held in the Spaghetti Bowl, coaches of the local high school teams were present in addition to college people and interested townsmen. An organization such as the Tip-Off Club deserves the wholehearted cooperation of the students and basketball fans in Evansville, as in future years it may he a force that will help to increase interest in the net sport in Evansville.

In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post there is another sports "expose" by one of their staff writers. This one concerns betting on college basketball games and the heights it has reached in the past few years.

There is no doubt about the fact that something should be done to curb wagering on amateur athletics on such a large scale. The recent attempt by four men to bribe a Washington University player should he evidence of that fact.

The memory of the Brooklyn College scandal of a few seasons ago still rankles the bigwigs of collegiate sports. They must be given credit for striving very hard to prevent the infiltration of gamblers into the game.

Joe Hafele, junior guard, is bringing a lot of favorable national publicity to the college by way of his free throw shooting ability. The team as a whole also is ranked very high from the charity line. Hafele is out in front in the individual scoring column, but he is followed closely by Bob Barnett.

Harry Axford seems to have cooled off from his opening drive, hut he is still a very valuable player under the basket and also manages to pour in his share of field goals.

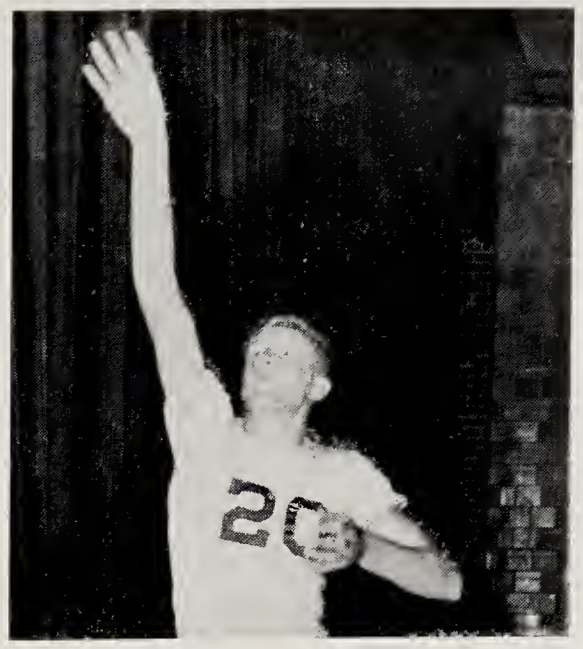
Last night the Aces met what probably will be their toughest opponent of the year. In one national survey, the Hilltoppers from Bowling Green were ranked third in the nation, just behind St. Louis' Billikens and the University of Kentucky Wildcats. Kentucky and St. Louis have been in the one-two spot most of the season in the rankings. During the earlier part of the season the Wildcats were on top, but after dropping a 42-40 decision to St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl tournament, they were relegated to the second position.

TUB Tournament Plans Announced by Watson

Karl Watson, chairman of the TUB Recreation Committee, has announced that plans are being formulated for table tennis and clabber tournaments. The tournaments will be conducted the same as last year, with trophies being awarded to the winners.

Tomorrow has been set as the deadline for entries in both of the tournaments. The clabber entries should be made in pairs, hut if one person enters the officials of the tournaments will furnish a partner.

Barnett Having Big Year In Second College Season



Bob Barnett, Ace forward

By Jeff Hays

Remember that great Yankeetown team five or six years ago that ran up those fabulous scores? It was on this 100-points-a-game team that slender Bob Barnett, Evansville College's high scoring forward, started building his basketball reputation that has spread from Southern Indiana to all parts of the midwest.

Sticks To Basketball

Although Bob has never tried any sport besides basketball at Evansville College, he was quite prominent in other sports at Boonville. In track he ran the quarter mile, and was a member of the mile relay team. Also, he played quite a name for himself as a slugging first baseman on the baseball team.

Bob made the varsity in his first try last year as a freshman, and he led the team in scoring with 323 points. This year as a sophomore, Bob has lived up to expectations. Although he is second to Joe Hafele in this year's scoring race, he has continued to be one of Coach McCutchan's most reliable men because of his rebounding, defense ability, hall handling and his 12-points-a-game average.

Also In Business

Although Bob hasn't taken part in any other sports here, he makes it clear that he doesn't spend twelve months a year playing basketball like many other small town players. His work in the field of business keeps him pretty busy, hut when he isn't studying or playing basketball, Bob likes to take his rifle and go out and shoot rabbits.

Announce Entrants For Ohio Valley Net Meeting

With eight teams participating, the Ohio Valley Conference Basketball tournaments shapes up as one of the toughest in the Mid-Weest. The tournament, which is to be held February 23 through 25 in the Louisville Armory, will have one of the top ranking teams in the country in Western Kentucky, under the tutalege of Ed Dihble.

Eastern Kentucky, three point loser to Western in an early season game, will probably be favored to cop the runner-up spot. The loss to Western is the only one that the Eastern quintet has suffered to date. In their first meeting with the Aces they came out on the long end of a 85-64 score.

Louisville's Cardinals are another team that is not to be overlooked in the ranking of the entries in the OVC tournament. The Cardinals almost always have a powerful team by the time hasketball season rolls around. This year's aggregation is not exceptional, hut they are certainly capable of pulling an upset and walking off with the conference crown.

Another entry in the touruament is the Marshall Thundering Herd. Marshall has not had too good a season but has gone against some first class competition in games this season.

Not much is known about Tennessee Tech, one of the two additions to the conference. They play about the same class of teams as the other members of the league and will have a chance to test their strength at the Louisville meeting. Morehead is not conceded much of a chance at Louisville, but the Kentucky schools should never he counted out until the last whistle.

Murray and Evansville will be the other two teams that round out the field at Louisville. Both of these are good college teams and can also be given a chance of upsetting the dope bag and bringing the first OVC basketball championship home.

McCutchan's Charges Meet Eastern Next

Coach Arad McCutchan's basketeers face two rough teams this week when they journey to Oakland Ciay Tuesday and then meet Eastern Kentucky at the Armory on Thursday night.

In the Aces second conference game of the season Eastern defeated them 85-64 with little trouble.

During this game Guard Paul Hicks of Cynthiana, Ky., made 11 field goals. His collegue, Center Chuck Mrazovick, who towers six feet five inches, completed eight baskets and five gratis throws. Both players made 73 per cent of their shots that evening. The team hit 57 per cent of their shots, shooting 60 times and dropping in 35.

Eastern lost only one game this season and has won nine. They were beaten hy Western Kentucky by a three point margin. Eastern ranks second in the Ohio Valley Conference.

In their first season game, the Aces defeated the Oakland City Oaks by a 41-34 score at the armory. Since that time the Oaks have won seven straight games and have the best independent college haskethall record in the state, excepting Notre Dame. The Oaks will be out to avenge their loss to the Aces and will have the advantage of the game being on their home floor.

To date the Oaks have heen sparked hy Boh Lochmueller, tall six foot, five inch center, from Elherfeld, Ind. Lochmueller is temporarily out of play with an injured ankle. However, without his services, Oakland City defeated Union College of Kentucky last Saturday night, 100-65.

Murray Wins 56-54

The Murray State College Thoroughbreds came back from a first short end of the score to defeat the Evansville College Aces 56-54 Tuesday night at Murray.

It was Murray's second win in three Ohio Valley Conference ence games and Evansville's second loss in three conference tilts. Herrold of Murray scored 19 points and Kohlmeyer was next with 18 points for Evansville.

Bowling Loop Play In Second Round; Two New Teams

Phi Zeta II and the Newman Club teams jumped into an early lead in the second half of the Evansville Iollege Bowling League season by winning all threee of their games in their first matches. Phi Zeta I was the winning team in the first round of play.

Roy Ash, rolling for Phi Zeta I, had the high individual game and series last week with totals of 218 for the game and 550 for the series. Vets had the high team series with 1896 and the Faculty Business Administration team had the high team game of 653.

Two new teams were entered in the league under the titles of Philo II and Pi Kappa II. Independent I dropped out of the league.

Jack Huber and Fred Jandebaur have been named co-secretaries of the league, replacing Buddy Dile, who resigned the position.

Following Newman Club and Phi Zeta are: Philo I, Phi Zeta I, Vets, and Accounting Club. Faculty Business Administration, Philo II, Pi Kappa I and Pi Kappa II are holding the second division berths.

Women's Athletics

Castalians, Thetas Win In Volleyball Tourney

The Castalian sorority defeated the Camma Epsilon Sigma sorority last Wednesday, 40-36, in the second game of the Intersociety volleyhall tournament. Theta Sigma won on a forfeit from Camma Delta in the first scheduled game.

In the second round played Monday the Thetas scored a 40-38 victory over the Independents. Castalians met the Thetas Wednesday for the championship.

Both leaders in the Women's Bowling League dropped a game last Thursday to remain tied for first place. Castalians split two games with the Sigs and the Women's Athletic Association lost a game to the Thetas.

McCoy Releases New Enrollment Statistics

Fourteen hundred students have enrolled in Evansville College for the winter quarter, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar and director of admissions.

The number of nurses enrolling from the St. Mary's, Welborn Baptist, and Deaconess hospitals is expected to reach about 106, making a total of about 1506 students attending during the winter term. Last term there were 112 nurses enrolled.

Total Decreases

The total of students enrolled this quarter is a decrease from the 1605 students enrolled for the fall quarter.

Thirty-six freshmen are attending Evansville College for the first time and seventeen students transferred from other colleges. Mr. McCoy stated that these figures are surprising as this is not the end of a term for the high schools and other colleges. None of the city high schools graduates seniors until February or June.

Veterans Enroll

The figures on veterans enrolled at the college for the winter quarter have not yet been compiled. Last quarter there were 785 attending school, sixty under the disability law and the other 725 under Public Law 346.

These totals cannot be compared with last year's because of the new quarter system.

Jewel, McIntire Featured In Joint Recital Tonight

Mary Colleen Jewell, pianist, and Carol Jean McIntire, mezzo-soprano, will present a joint recital in the auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Miss McIntire, a music major, is a student of Cecil Selfridge, and Miss Jewell, also majoring in music, studies under Miss Sylvia Olmsted. Both girls are juniors and members of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity.

For her part of the program Miss McIntire will sing "Dido's Lament," Purcell; "Nicolette," Ravel; "Nocturne," Franck; "Chevauchee Cosaque (Ride of the Cossack)," Fourdrain; "Printempo qui commence (Fair Springtime Beginning)," from 'Samson and Delilah'. Saint Saens; "The Celestial Weaver," Bantock; "The Cry of Rachel," Salter; "The Daffodils," Castelnuovo-Tedesco; and "The Tryst" hy Sibelius.

Miss Jewell has chosen to play "Sonatine, Allegro and Minuet," which she composed herself; "Capriccio in G minor, Op. 116," Brahms; "Warum, Op. 12," Schumann; "Crande Valse Brilliant, Op. 18," Chopin; "Ondine." Debussy; "Pavane Pour Une Infante Defunte," Ravel; and "Three Fantastic Dances, Op. 1," by Shostakovitch.

Faculty Revamps Grade System; Requirements

In a recent faculty meeting it was decided that the letter grades would have a different meaning than heretofore.

The letter grades will be the same with the exception that they will no longer have the same numerical equivalent. Instead of the usual numerical value, the grades will now stand for the descriptions listed below.

Letters Are the Same

A Excellent or distinctive

C Fair, meets course requirements, satisfactorily

D Passing, did not meet all requirements, but may be able to take the next course profitably.

F Failure, must repeat course to get credit.

Another change was made in the requirements for graduation: "The average grade in the courses included in his field of concentration must be a point average of 1.00."

Changes D Requirements

This is to be a substitute for the present requirement which is that the average grade in the courses included in his field of concentration must be a C grade with no more than one hour of D allowed for each 7½ hours of credit in this field of concentration.

Boyd Writes Magazine Article on Journalism

An article written by John A. Boyd, assistant professor of journalism, is appearing in the current issue of the Scholastic Editor.

Entitled "LinCing the Yearbook With the Community," the article is an explanation of how the advertising and the community sections of last year's yearbook, the LinC, were combined. Mr. Boyd was asked by the editor of the magazine to write this information after the judges of a national yearhook contest had rated this LinC section as effective and unusual.

The magaine is a monthly publication for scholastic journalists and is the official organ for the National Scholastic Press Association and the National Association of Journalism Directors.

Mr. Boyd has contributed several articles to this magazine and at one time was one of its regular columnists.

Besides being faculty adviser for the LinC. Mr. Boyd also serves THE CRESCENT in that capacity.

Kronsbein, Engineering Head, Has Had Wide Experience

Dr. John Kronsbein, head of the department of engineering, has had wide experience in the engineering field, including six years as head of an engineering company in England.

A native of Nebraska, Dr. Kronsbein received his early education in schools in Nebraska and Canada.

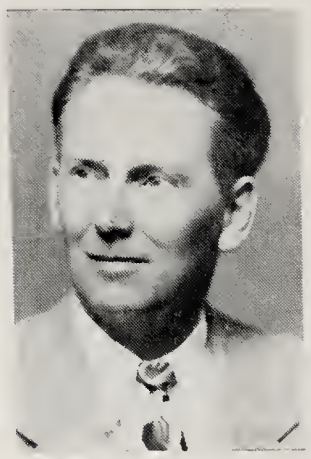
He received his Ph.D. degree in pure mathematics at the University of Leipzig, Germany, and a Doctor of Science degree in physics at the University of Jena, Cermany.

Following this he served as development and research engineer at the Incadescent Heat Company in Birmingham, England. Later, he was technical director for the Brightside Plating and Manufacturing Company, also in Birmingham.

In 1938, Dr. Kronsbein organized the Electro-Chemical Engineering Company in London. He served as general-manager and president of this company until 1944.

While in England he built automatic equipment for electro-chemical and heat treatment processes.

From 1944 until September of 1948, when he joined the Evansville College faculty, Dr. Kronsbein was head of the research department at Hoosier Cardinal Croporation in Evansville. While with Hoosier Cardinal he also did consulting work for the Illinois Tool Works of Chicago and Elgin, Illinois.



John Kronsbein

Dr. Kronsbein likes to do mathematical and electro-chemical research. He also is a flying enthusiast. He owns his own airplane which he keeps at the Municipal Airport..

Dr. Kronsbein has had a number of papers on electro-chemical and mathematical subjects published.

He is also the holder of a number of patents.

Dr. Kronsbein is married, and resides on Stringtown Road.

Ruth Sansom To Give Flute Recital Tuesday

Ruth Sansom will give her senior recital next Tuesday evening at 8:30 in the auditorium. She will play the flute and will be accompanied on the piano by William G. Bell, senior.

Selections which Miss Sansom will play are Mozart Concerto in C Major; "Third Sonata," Gaubert; "Pastorale" Stravinsky; "Piece en Fornne De Habanera," Ravel; "Luciole," by Samazeiulh; and "Sonatina," Rieti.

Miss Sansom is a member of the newly formed music fraternity, Sigma Alpha Iota. She is the student of Mrs. Pauline Fehn, prepatory school music teacher.

McKowns To Entertain Kappa Chi Members

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar M. McKown will entertain the pretheological students and members of the Kappa Chi Fellowship at their home at 617 S. Norman Avenue Monday evening.

The dinner has become a traditional event to the students of religion on the cacpus.

This year, however, will be the first year for any girls from the campus to attend. Evansville College now has three girl students training for full time Christian service. They are Gail Reid, junior, Peggy Nicholson, freshman, and Margaret Micki, junior.

Healthy, Too - -

Student's Solution Beats High Cost

Sometimes lectures take unusual turns. In fact, Larry Anderson, associate professor of economics, is now recommending a "cease fire" order to some of his students after one of his lectures took one of those turns during the discussion period.

This particular lecture had dealt with the credit-plan buying and whether this type of financing had helped to raise or lower the standard of living in this country. Various phases and aspects were discussed. Then Mr. Anderson made a personal comment.

He explained that he had an automobile of a rather recent vintage, but he expressed the idea that in his financial condition he probably should have a model T.

The stardard of living problem was left unanswered when a student popped up with — "Well, you could at least afford a bike."

Various Changes Made In New Library Policy

For the first time since this college has had its charter, books in the library will bear bookplates, according to Thomas S. Harding, librarian.

The bookplate is an engraving of the Administration Building.

Cards in the charging file have been changed. Cards are now used according to call numbers instead of dates, and color signals are used to check charging cards.

Robert Emmert Appointed To Teachers Committee

Robert W. Emmert, associate professor of mathemetics, has been appointed to a committee of the Indiana State Teachers Association.

The purpose of the committee, according to Mr. Emmert, is to bring about a single organization of all mathematics teachers in the state, to replace the smaller organizations now functioning in some of the larger cities in Indiana.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

●Someone once took a poll and found that various segments of the United States celebrate three times as many weeks as there are actual date weeks in the year. Confusing? Not at all. It's just that we crazy North Americans have a habit of commemorating everything from Aunt Susie's operation to Dillinger's jailbreak.

Anyway we celebrate National Book Week, Be Kind to Animals Week, Go to College Week, Drive Safely Week, Fire Prevention Week, and so on over 160 times. In addition, we have various drives and campaigns like the Cancer Drive, the sale of Christmas seals for Tuberculosis Cure and Prevention, the Rheumatic Fever Research Drive, the March of Dimes, the Community Chest, the Red Cross, etc.

Miss Starry

Many of these week drives and fund campaigns are well worth time and attention, but most are just publicity stunts dreamed up by an advertising agency with a slow selling product. Those which people support are usually determined by their personal or civic interests.

In spite of the constant dunning, which we resent, we usually can afford to support at least three of the drives, including the March of Dimes. Anyone who has ever visited a crippled children's clinic knows why. Which brings us to the point of this palabra, today begins March of Dimes Week at Evansville College, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega and Alpha Phi Delta, service organizations (see picture this page).

● A letter to the editor, carried by THE CRESCENT last week and signed "an independent," seems to have stirred up quite a bit of resentment in certain circles (see letter to the editor, page 2). We regret that any slurs should have been cast on an individual or an organization by the signature.

It is CRESCENT policy that all letters to the editor should have a designatory signature, unless otherwise requested by the writer or required by the contents of the letter, such as items from official representatives or officers of organizations. No letters received without proper signatures are printed in THE CRESCENT.

The signature "an independent" was chosen by the editor and the page editor, with the consent of the signer, and meant just what it implies — someone who does not belong to an organized group. The letter was received before the organization meeting which resulted in the ISA: it was not printed until last week because of make up problems. The writer does not sneak for ISA, but as an individual student, an independent student.

IRC To Hold Special Election at 11 Today

Hernando Ospina, acting president of the International Relations Club, has announced that there will be a special meeting of that group in A317 today at 11 o'clock.

The purpose of this meeting, Mr. Ospina stated, is to elect a vice president for the Club. Rolland Eckles, the present president is resigning because he does not have the time to give to the job. Mr. Ospina, the present vice president, will be advanced to the presidency, thus creating the vacancy for the vice presidential post.

Sororities Plan Formal Dinners Next Week to Climax Rushing

Sorority rushees will be entertained at formal dinners next week in the final series of rush parties. All three dinners will be from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m., according to rules set up by Intersociety Council.

Gamma Epsilon Sigma Sorority will have their "Gay Nineties Party" Tuesday in the Pompeian Room of Hotel McCurdy. Committees working with rush captain Charlotte Rupp are: place cards, Mary Bollinger and Jean Reynolds; menu, Mary Etta Van Horn and Joan Craesch; transportation, Mary Hormuth, Dorothy Hoffman and Pat Kaiser; and decorations, Sarah Kessler, Pat Rampy and Janet Roberts.

Invitation committee members are Ruth Nendel, Elizabeth Bell, Jackie Schmitt and Mary Ann Hahs; entertainment, Joan Henn, Lois Huck, Mary Lou Muth, and Ann Wilson; favors, Joyce Robinson and Lois Lutz; centerpiece, Louise Griffith and Joy Scherzer; programs, Barbara Brown, Helen Bollinger and Margaret Scholz; and alum contact, Ann Whitehead, Claire Ann Stumpf, Ann Zimmerman and Lucille Schmitt.

Country Club Scheduled

The Castalian Sorority will entertain rushees at the Evansville Country Club, on Wednesday. Co-chairmen Sissie Buthod and Betty Marshall have announced the following committees: favors, Joyce Halbig, Carole McCane and Virginia Dassel; transportation, Emily Combs, Cinger Eades and Louise Kiely.

Members of the decoration committee are: Juna Donovan, Marilyn Marshall, Marylu Plane and June Tremor; invitations, Helen Nunn, Sue Dannettell and Jerri Steinmetz; and entertainment, Diane Hadley, Karleen Yeager, Evelyn Cameron, Sue Coeke and Wilma Pierce.

Theta Party Thursday

Theta Sigma's party will be Thursday in the Pompeian Room of Hotel McCurdy. A wintertime theme will be carried out in the sorority's colors of black and white announced Martha Wessner, rush captain. She will have these committees working with her: invitations, Joanne Engelbert and Betty Wood; and transportation, Betty Berges, Ann Sinnett, Joan Hallinan and Marion Erhardt.

On the decorations committee are: Shirley Kalkbrenner, Mary Lou Winsett, Evelyn Ayers and Lois Wiggers; reception, Jean Marshall, Ninabelle Hurt, and Betty Speis; and entertainment, Dorothy Dailey and Betty Berges.

Winter Assembly List Now Posted on Board

A list of students required to attend assemblies is now posted on the bulletin board outside the registrar's office.

All students should check to see if their name appears on this list. If a student is listed and his status has changed, it is his responsibility to report to the student personnel office to clear his record. If this is not done, the student will be held responsible for assembly attendance, according to Everette Walker, student personnel director.

Notices are sent after a student misses assembly twice.

Tool Engineers Admit Five Local Students

Five engineering students were recently admitted to membership in the Evansville chapter of the American Society of Tool Engineering, according to Myron C. Bishop, associate professor of engineering.

Mr. Bishop stated that this is one of the few instances for college students to be admitted to membership in this organization.

The five students who received this honor are James Love, senior; Otis Lupton, senior; Robert Biddle, junior; Harley Lichtenberger, junior; and William Cromwell, senior.

Camera Club Plans Salon

Entries are now being accepted by the Camera Club for the second annual photo salon the first week in March in the Reserve Library Building, according to an announcement made by Robert Funkhouser, chairman of the salon committee.

Entry blanks may be obtained from any member of the club or from Dr. Martin Chanin's office in E312. The deadline for all entries will be February 15. They may be given to any club member or turned in at the Camera Club meeting which is held each Friday at 11 o'clock in A304.

Entries Unlimited

Non-members of the club must have their exhibits enlarged to an 8x10 size. Members will work together in preparing their entries.

There is no limit to the number of entries per person. Judges for the contest will be announced at a later date. Recognition will be given to the participants with outstanding prints.

The present officers of the club are Glenn Elder, president; Don Pribble, vice president; Wilma Pierce, secretary; and Dr. Chanin, faculty sponsor.

Plan Field Trip

A field trip has been arranged by the club for Sunday to Mesker Zoo. Plans will be completed for the trip at the meeting this morning.

Service Groups Conduct March of Dimes

Members, above, of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity and Alpha Phi Delta, a related service sorority, will conduct the annual "March of Dimes" campaign on campus.

The drive, which starts today, will run through Friday of next week. Tables will be set up in the main hall of the Administration building where contributions will be received by the service organizations who are working in cooperation with local drive members. A goal of $150, or 10 cents per student, has been set.

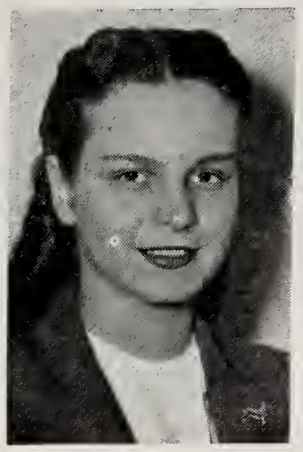
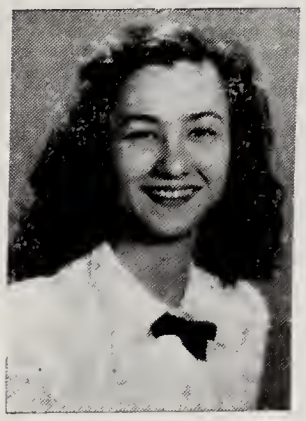
Benedict, Hurt, McCane, Robinson Are Nominated

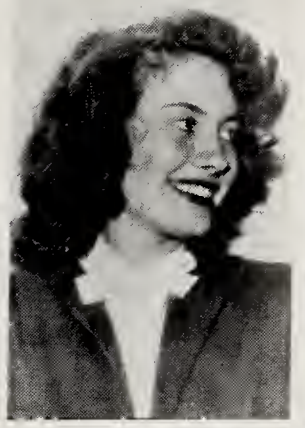
Queen Candidates in Election Race



Fleta Benedict



Ninabelle Hurt



Carol McCane

Joyce Robinson

Team Chooses Girls To Run For Queen

Members of the basketball squad have nominated a girl from each of the three social sororities on the campus and an independent representative to run for basketball queen of the 1948-49 season. The election will be in the committee room of the Temporary Union Building next Friday, Jan. 28.

Fleta Benedict was named by the squad to run as the independent candidate. Miss Benedict is a graduate of Bosse High School. She was the 1947 football queen at that high school. A freshman, Miss Benedict is majoring in home economics.

Former Candidate Named

Ninabelle Hurt is the Theta Sigma candidate for queen. Miss Hurt is from Newhurgh. She was a yell leader at Yankeetown, Ind. and was grauated from Boonville High School. Miss Hurt is studying for a degree in secondary education. Her majors are secretarial science and physical education. She is a senior and belongs to the Women's Athletic Association, Alpha Phi Delta, girl scout sorority, and is on the assembly committee. She was a candidate for football queen in 1947.

McCane Listed Again

Carol McCane, who was a candidate for football queen during the past season, is the Castalian candidate for basketball queen. Miss McCane is a graduate of Bosse High School. She is a sophomore majoring in English. She also maintains an interest in music by taking courses at the college. Art is her hobby.

The Gamma Epsilon Sigma candidate is Joyce Robinson. She graduated from Maine High School of Park Ridge, Illinois. English is her major. Miss Robinson also belongs to Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity.

New Plan Inagurated

A new system was inaugerated by having members of the basketball squad nominate the candidate this year. The Tipoff Club, a newly formed organization to boost the basketball team, and THE CRESCENT are working together in naming the queen of this season.

During the 1947-48 season the election was sponsored by Camma Delta, sorority for freshman women, with the assistance of Miss Esther Brown, dean of women.

Brown, Williams To Give Junior Recital Sunday

Bettye Anne Brown, soprano, and Joe Williams, baritone, will present a joint voice recital in the aduditorium Sunday, Jan. 23, at 3:30 p.m.

Miss Brown is a junior and is majoring in music. Mr. Williams, also a junior, is majoring in music education. Both are members of the A Cappella Choir.

Numbers chosen by Miss Brown are "Una voce poco fa," from "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," Rossini; "Stresa," Watts; "A Piper," Head; "Hymn to the Sun," from "Le Coq d' Or," Rimsky-Korsakoff; "Bachianas Brasileiras No. 5 Aria (Cantilena) and Dansa (Martelo)," Villa-Lobos; and "La Traviata Excerpts, Aria: Ah, fors' e luiche l'anima," Verdi.

Mr. Williams will sing "Non Piu Andrai, from 'Le Nozzo di Figaro'," by Mozart. At the end of the program Miss Brown and Mr. Williams will sing "Duetto: Pura siccome un angelo from La Traviata Excerpts," by Verdi.

Both Miss Brown and Mr. Williams are students of Cecil B. Selfridge. They will be accompanied by William Bell.

Senior Is Featured Soloist With Band In Assemblies

The college band will play for the student assemblies Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 25 and 26, according to Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department. Mr. Shepard will conduct the band during both assemblies.

Featured on the program will be a trombone soloist from the college band, Gene Pegler, who will play "Morceau Symphonique," by Guilmant. Mr. Pegler is a senior and is majoring in music education. He is a graduate of Reitz High School.

Writes Accompaniment

Mr. Shepard wrote the band accompaniment to the solo which Mr. Pegler will play.

Other numbers to be played are: "Elder Statesman," by Irona; "American Rhapsody," a collection of American folk tunes, by Wood; "Bolero," by Mosgokowski; "Promenade," by Anderson; and "Broadcast from Brazil," by Bennett. The latter is a selection that is built on the famous samba rhythm.

To Play Concert Material

The concert band, now in its third season, does not often have a chance to perform for the students other than during athletic events where only marches and pep songs are played, Mr. Shepard stated. During these assemblies, the director will show the students that the band is capable of playing concert material, by having them play "American Rhapsody" and "Broadcast from Brazil," he said.

New Members Join Alpha Phi Delta

Alpha Phi Delta, national service sorority, initiated 21 new members in a special induction ceremony last week.

Though the organization is primarily a service sorority for former girl scouts, membership is open to any woman interested in joining the service group.

New members inducted are Shirley Kalkbrenner, Maytha Schurtter, Frieda Montgomery, Erma Montgomery, Maxine Majors, Jean Marshall, Mary Lou Winsett, Jacqueline Johnson, Marcelle Mach, Jo Ann James, Joann Stocke.

Fraternity Brothers To Have Initiation

The Fraternity Brothers will have a dinner and initiation ceremony next Thursday at 6 o'clock at the Hadi Shrine Temple.

Entertainment for the evening will be furnished by Don Culley, local pianist.

New pledges to be initiated are Danial Smith, Jack Cain, John F. Schrodt, Charles Woods, Frank Swallow, Robert Wilkinson, Thomas Lankford, William Wheeler, Cullen W. Carr, Arthur D. Ragan, William Hawkins, and Donald Swift.

Harry Ewing is the rush captain of the organization.

Columnist Leads Rough Life

—John Schrodt

Last week I tried for the first time to write a column in THE CRESCENT. It had been my ambition for some time and I always supposed it would really be the thing to be able to express opinion and let other people read about it.

However, after the first week I am ready to "throw in the towel." It seems as if other people on the campus have their opinions, too, and of course they don't all agree with mine. Therefore, I decided that I'd better leave the job to someone else, especially if I wanted to please all the readers.

I had lots of ideas for columns too, but since I'm going back to writing "straight news," I'll give them all to you at once in dehydrated form. You can take them for what they are worth. The general subjects are listed below.

One thing that I could never understand was why the independents were still "independent" after they were organized. Maybe all the letters in the Greek alphabet were taken.

I often wondered why the E Club allowed students to wear their high school letters and emblems on the campus. They always seemed out of place to me.

Another thing I was going to write about was why the curriculm committee was always changing the probation rules. Perhaps they get their ideas from the one time popular book, "How To Treat The Returning Serviceman."

Reading about the recently planned trip to Europe by the college made me wonder if they might give 7½ hours credit to veterans who made an extensive tour of that continent. I could really use that credit.

With the high cost of books and the shortage of newsprint, it looks as if the bookstore would buy and sell used books. It would certainly save some money for the students. With the quarter system hooks, don't get the use they formerly did anyway.

I received a letter from my former battalion commander the other day. He says that he's back in college and having a rough time with Speech 101; said something about his articulation being poor. Seems rather funny; he used to talk to 500 men at a time in his battalion for thirty minutes without the use of notes.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am personally not too much concerned about the unsigned statement that appeared in the January 14 issue of THE CRESCENT. My reason in answering such a letter is that this person (who must have a number instead of a name) has tried to hide behind the good name of Independent to satisfy his own sadistic whims . . .

Many students prominent in Independent political and social affairs have asked me to tell the student body that this letter represents neither thier organization's policies nor any of their ideals. The organized people have told me of their desire to have no part of anyone who would write such a letter. With people like this on my side, I find that the letter itself and all its accusations dwindle into nothing more than a place to wrap discarded chewing gum. . .

As for this person calling me the "Bop King" I can think of very few honors which I would like better . . .

If this person (operator 12) should by chance meet the requirements to graduate someday, I'm sure that my being president of the senior class would have absolutely nothing to do with the function performed. His graduation would indeed be a gala affair and nothing less than parties and parades would be fitting . . .

Operator 12 asks how to obtain an invitation to the class meeting to be held in the near future. I shall personally cut a hole in the floor so he may attend. . .

Operator 12 also states that "these" meetings are held every Thursday. I would like to inform my friend that:

(1) class meetings are held whenever business arises.

(2) Casty meetings are held on Tuesday nights off campus.

I hope this straightens my "secret" friend out and proves constructive to him.

Norman Kniese

To the Editor:

In the issue of THE CRESCENT which came out last Friday there appeared a letter which was signed "An Independent." This letter has brought forth many interesting comments; among them were questions as to whether or not I was the anonymous author.

I definitely did not compose this childish outburst. If I had, I can assure you that I would have thought twice before submitting it for publication. Still, many people feel that this was written by a member of the Independent Students' Assoc. and represents the feelings of that group. Nothing could be more mistaken.

In light of the fact that there was no I.S.A. slate offered in the senior class election, there are no grounds for complaint from any senior member of the I.S.A. on the outcome of the election. Furthermore, I firmly believe that there is no member of the I.S.A. who is on so low an intellectual level as "An Independent."

It seems to me that in the future a distinction would be in order when such matters arise. The I.S.A. is on its way up and if I can help it, no such rattlebrained, loudmouthed student will bring ill-will upon the organization by such loose use of the term "Independent," especially in connection with such vain raving. In the future let the malcontents use a small "i."

Fred E. Shatara,
President,
Independent Students' Assoc.

Dandelion Department

An orchid goes this week to Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, in recognition and appreciation of all the little things she does to help each and every girl on campus. Miss Brown does much in guiding and directing the various women's orginizations, and her office door is always open to any girl to come in for a chat or to talk over some current problem.

Why Don't They

Send Jim Fowler a dictionary containing modern slang terms and their meanings — have more people in this world with personalities like Sarah Kessler's — perfect an odorless paint for the prime purpose of painting the halls of schools — forbid schedules to have 8 o'clock classes — take up a collection so that Sue and Jerri can take the trip to Europe this summer — have pep assemblies for the basketball team.

Next week someone should be pleased to see something new in this department, such as a paragraph entitled "Why Aren't They?"

You've Got the Wrong Specie, Sir

During a recent review section in Zoology, Dr. Dunham called upon a student to give the location of the hepato-pancreas in the crayfish. Slightly hesitant the scholar began; Well, you-ah- have a hole in your mid-gut———At this point Dr. Dunham interrupted and without cracking a smile shook his head and said, "No, not me."

Third Installment

If this be of any comfort, we've just about exhausted our source . . . Scientists have definitely proved that the bumblebee has not enough wingspace with which to fly. However the bee does not know this and flies anyway . . . He: "Honestly, you'd never think I bought this car second-hand would you?" She: "Gosh, no, I thought you put it together yourself." . . . First man: "What did your wife say when you came in late last night?" Second man: "Nothing. I was going to have those teeth pulled anyway." . . . Variety is the spice of life, but we like pepper.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Usually we end with a ditty
Which isn't really very witty
This week's efforts run true to form
Again we've dished out plenty of corn.

Ideal Mate Should Have Pash, Cash; Survey Shows Most Are Dreamers

Miss Nancy Garoutte, College Board Editor of Mademoiselle, recently took a survey on the subject of the ideal partner for marriage. Students at DePauw University came to the conclusion that the perfect mate should be confident, neat, ambitious, intelligent, sociable, and have a deep love for children. He or she must also have personal integrity, similar ideas, and finally, must know "what the score is" on sex.

The Inquiring Reporter asked several students about their opinions of an ideal husband or wife, and what qualifications he or she would have to live up to, to gain such a distinction.

Some of the students answered like this:

Joanie Hayes, freshman — Love comes first. Then he must have the same religion, he thoughtful, have a devotion for children, a sense of humor, similar likes and dislikes, respect, patience, understanding, initiative, and the same intellectual level.

Salli Henn, freshman — The big handsome brute must have a big, new convertible. He has to have a generous heart and a king-sized pocketbook, and at least a part of a college education.

Joe Unfried, sophomore — She must be loyal, lovable and trustworthy.

Frank Morrison, sophomore — Just any woman that will get on a slow boat to China with me — a row boat to Mt. Vernon will do.

Ed Wessel, freshman — She must have a mutual agreement with her husband, and must be able to face life with him through better or worse. She must be truthful and honest. That's love, man! I read it in the Reader's Digest.

Janet Roberts, junior — They say a man has only two faults — everything he does and everything he says. I'm looking for a man that doesn't meet those requirements.

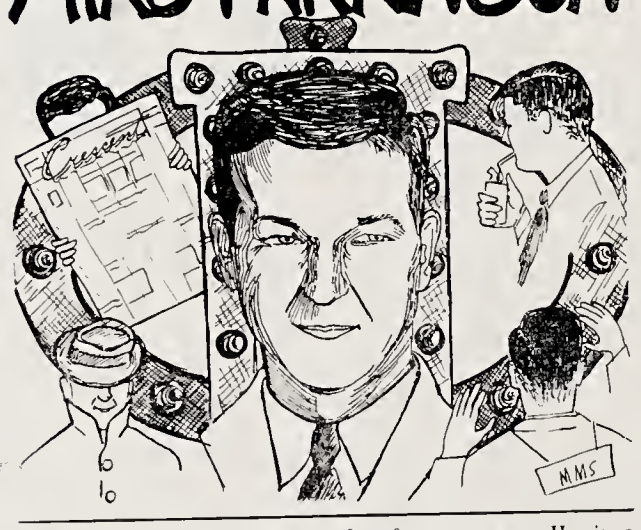
Lois Huck, senior, — He must have a good personality, ambition, and intelligence. He has to be handsome, good dancer as well as congenial — and not spoiled.

Ramsey Bristow, sophomore — A woman that keeps a smile on her face, and her big mouth shut.

Jim Fallace, senior — A girl that can cook, compromise, and doesn't mind my keeping beer in the ice box — and doesn't drink it.

Pic of the Week

MIKE PARKINSON



Mike Parkinson needs no introduction to the students and faculty of Evansville College because his varied activities while he has been enrolled here.

As a sophomore Mike was on THE CRESCENT staff with a weekly sports column appearing under his name. He was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Tipoff Club which is aimed at boosting college sports.

"I am an ardent sports follower, particularly of Evansville College," he stated.

Mike was a member of the Student Council for two years, and he was football and basketball statistician for the college for three years. He was chairman of the Welfare Committee which set up the Health Center as it is operating today.

Philo Prexy Twice

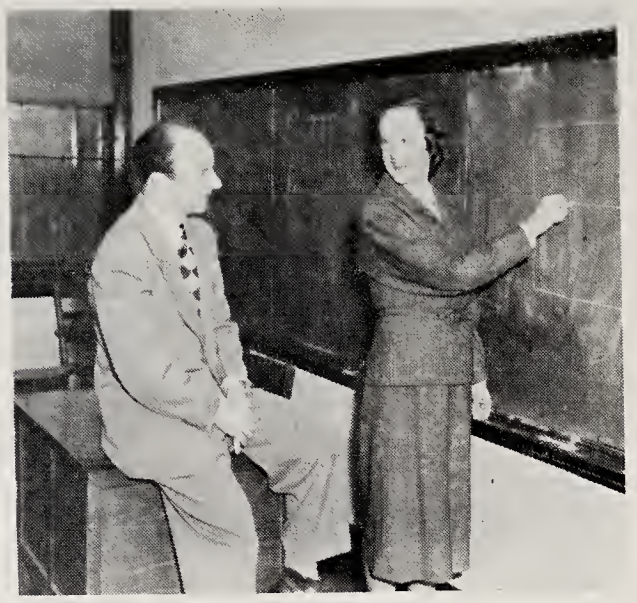
Until the recent election Mike was president of the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity and held that office for two years. He is a member of Pi Gamma Mu honorary fraternity, and was named in the Who's Who of 1948.

He is chairman of the publications committee, a member of the student personnel committee, and belongs to the Business Administration, and Newman Cluhs.

To Graduate in March

Graduating from Central High School Mike entered the Army Air Corps and served for three years. After his discharge he entered Evansville College in March of 1946. An accounting major and political science minor he will graduate in March.

It's the Life



Sam Humphrey, left, chairman of the Social Life Committee, and Miss Esther Brown, right, faculty member of the committee, seem to be enjoying their talk about plans for the new Student Union Building.

Social Life Policies Set by Committee

By MARY LOU WOLFE

As one of the nine special committees of the Student-Faculty Federation, the Social Life committee serves a much needed function on the Evansville College campus.

This group, headed by chairman Samuel W. Humphrey, is concerned with the social needs of the college and is responsible for the execution of the social ideals of the institution.

This committee used to actually plan the social events and carry them out but now it is mostly a policy making committee, concerned with the standards and rules of social functions.

SGA Appoints

There are nine members on the committee, six students and three faculty members. The chairman must be a student and a member of the Student Council apointed by the student president. All other members must be appointed by the Student Government Association. President Lincioln B. Hale is responsible for choosing three faculty members to act on the committee.

Mr. Humphrey's group discusses such social functions as the homecoming dances, tea dances, and Christmas parties, but the Temporary Union Building committees are responsible for the actual planning and carrying out of these affairs.

Makes Dance Rules

It is the job of the Social Life Committee to decide how many dances to have, where to have them, and who the chaperones will be. They also name the hours for the various parties and dances.

This organization receives 20 cents out of each activity fee with which to carry out their plans. This year the money was used for the Get Acquainted Dance, the square dance caller, and it also helps pay for the name bands when they are brought to the college.

One of the rules that this committee set up is that each sorority and fraternity must have a faculty sponsor. It also decides what kind of functions should be all school functions.

Members of this committee include Mr. Humphrey, Jim Cooper, Jim Love, Bob Hevron, Beverly Gerard, Helen Nunn, and faculty members Miss Doris Kirk, social director; Dr. James Morlock, dean of men; and Miss Esther Brown, dean of women.

I wonder, I wonder -

Questions Do Give Insight into College

High school graduates who wonder how they will do in college, and college students who wonder why they don't do well now that they're there, can profit by answering eight self-analysis questions prepared by Wray H. Congdon, Lehigh University dean of students.

The questions compiled by Congdon:

1. Can I write five consecutive paragraphs on a given topic and express myself coherently, correctly and intelligently?

2. Can I read an article in the Atlantic Monthly rapidly (400-500 words per minute) and comprehendingly, and retain the main arguments lucidly in mind for three days?

3. Do I know how to prepare successfully for examination so that I don't become confused, panic-stricken and ineffectual when I face the necessity of taking a test or examination?

4. Can I listen to an address or lecture and note briefly the main points so that, when I've gone home, I can reconstruct the essential theme of what the lecturer said?

5. Can I go to the library and find quickly the reference and source books I need for preparing a paper, and take the necessary notes effectively for writing an assignment of the topic?

6. Can I make up a budget for the daily use of my time to meet all my necessary assignments, have a proper amount of time left for eating, sleeping and wholesome recreation, and stick to that budget in spite of all the lures of the flesh and the devil?

7. When I have homework to do, can I settle down to it promptly and concentrate on my work at once without daydreaming and frittering away my time?

Aces Host to Carbondale Thursday

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

Evansville College can certainly claim a moral victory over the Hilltoppers from Western Kentucky after the game last week. The Aces went into the game a 13.5 point underdog and then battled the Diddlemen to a standstill before bowing by a six point margin. To most observers this is further proof that the current edition of Purple netmen is one of the best to be turned out here in several years.

One of the fine points of the team is the fact that they are all underclassmen and will be back for one or two more years competition.

Evansville College howlers have received an invitation from Indiana University to participate in two meets with some of the Bloomington keg fans. Bowling at Indiana is under the sponsorship of the Student Union and the teams will bowl at the Union Building at I.U. The local end of the meeting will be held at the Franklin Lanes, site of the Evansville College bowling league.

Karl Watson, chairman of the TUB recreation committee, is handling the arrangements for the meeting.

A lot of speculation has been going on about the seeding of positions in the Ohio Valley tournament to be held at Louisville, Feb. 23, 24, and 25. The best break that the Aces could get would be for the teams from Louisville, Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky, and Marshall College to be in one bracket, putting Murray, Morehead, and Tennessee Tech in with Evansvillle.

In the event that the pairings should come out this way, Evansville could conceivably have a chance of copping the title. It is no reflection to say that the chances would be pretty slim should we be placed in the bracket with the other teams. Eastern, Western, and Marshall are three teams that are really tough and it is quite possible that they might knock each other out of the running should they meet.

Five Keg Teams Tied; Vets Set New Mark

Five teams are tied for first place in the second week of the Evansville College Bowling League play in a report received from Jack Huber, co-secretary of the league.

The teams in first place include Phi Zeta 1, Phi Zeta II, Accounting Club, Vets, and the Faculty Business Administration. Each of the teams had won four games and lost two.

Philos I and Philos II are tied for second place with three wins and three losses each, while the two Pi Kappa teams are bringing up the end.

Ramsey Bristow of the Vets was high man last week with a score of 207 for a single game and 581 for the series. The Vets team set a new high for the season with a total of 2072 for the series and 740 for the highest single game score.

Figures Show Purple Aces Hold Edge

Evansville College's basketball squad, in games through Jan. 13, has averaged 64.6 points per game, unofficial figures compiled by THE CRESCENT reveal. This figure is slightly better than the 58.1 mark set by the Aces' 14 opponents.

The Aces still maintain one of the highest free throw shooting records in the nation. They have hit 197 shots in 295 tries for a mark of .715. This figure is considerably above that set by the opposition of 184 foul shots in 327 attempts, a .563 mark.

Evansville had its best night from the charity line against Ottawa, dropping in 23 out of 28, although they had a better percentage, seven out of 10, against Georgetown College in the holiday tournament at Vincennes. The Aces poorest exhibition of converting gift tosses was in their opener against Oakland City, when they hit but seven out of 17.

The figures reveal that the Aces are more aggressive than are their opponents. Evansville has committed 284 personals in 14 games, the opposition, 261.

No field goal percentage based on shots taken is available as the College Athletic Department keeps no record of shots attempted at games played away from home. However, in the 14 games the Aces have played, they have made 347 two-pointers for an average of 24.8 baskets a game. Evansville's opponents have made 303 baskets, a 21.6 mark.

Mac's Starting Center

Harry Axford Playing Second Year With Aces

By BILL COLLINS

Harry Axford is another member of the 1948-49 edition of the Evansville College Aces, who with speed and determination, puts up a terrific fight against odds that seem unsurmountable in regards to height.

This is Harry's second year on the college hardwood squad. During the 1947-48 season he alternated between the center and forward positions. He has started every game of the present season at center and has racked up a total of 125 points.

Weighing in at 185 pounds, Harry stands six-feet two and one-half inches above the floor. Under the rotating captain system, Harry acted as captain for Aces during the game between Evansville College and Southern Illinois at Carbondale, Ill.

Harry started the season by emerging from the first two games with Oakland City College and Cape Girardeau as high point man. In the hotly fought contest with Western Kentucky he was tied with Bob Barnett and Bob Kohlmeyer for the honor when they all sank 14 points.

A graduate of Bosse High School where he played three years of varsity basketball, he was on the 1944-45 Bosse squad which won the Indiana High School state championship. He is majoring in business while attending college. He is a member of the E Club and the Phi Zeta fraternity.

According to Harry the two toughest games of the season have been with Eastern and Western Kentucky teams with Western Kentucky having an edge on the other foes.

"I do believe we have a team that play and work together this year," he stated.

Thetas Beat Castalians Win Volleyball Tourney

The Theta Sigma Sorority won the Inter-Society Volleyball Tournament by defeating the Castalian Sorority 53-8 last week.

Basketball started this week in the Women's Athletic Association. Basketball will be played both Monday and Wednesday evenings for the remainder of this month and then in February badminton will be played along with basketball, according to Louise Kiely, basketball sporthead.

Bowling standings changed very little last week as the Castys and WAA both won two games to remain on top with 15 games won and 3 games lost.

Purples Out To Avenge Earlier Southern Win

The Purple Aces renew an old rivalry next Thursday night when they tangle with the Southern Illinois Maroons on the Armory floor.

The local squad will be trying to avenge two defeats handed them by the Carbondale team last year. The Maroons defeated Evansville at the Armory a year ago, 48-39, and also in a return game at Carbondale, 64-47. Tonight's game is the second game scheduled between the two schools this year. The Aces lost a 61-59 thriller at Carbondale.

In the Jaycee tourney at Vincennes last year, the Aces defeated Southern 62-60. This victory gave Evansville its eighth win in twenty four starts with the Carbondale team.

Southern Illinois gained nationwide recognition in 1946 when it won the National Collegiate Tourney at Kansas City. The Maroons also have won three straight Illinois Athletic Conference championships.

Coach Arad McCutchan plans to start his usual lineup of Joe Hafele and Bob Kohlmeyer at the guards, Harry Axford at center, and Bob and Jim Barnette at the forward positions.

The Aces will probably go into the game as a slight favorite because of the home floor advantage. Southern Illinois didn't lose a game on its floor last season.

Aces Win

Evansville scored their ninth win in fifteen games Tuesday night at Oakland City, defeating the Oaks, 63 to 53. Bob Barnett, sophomore forward, sparked the Ace attack by pumping in 10 buckets and a charity toss for 21 points.

Oakland City got off to an early lead in the game and held it until the Aces tied it at 10-all. The Purples then went into the lead and held it.

Ideas Pro and Con About Officiating

By HARRY TREBER

Evansville's Aces were playing Western Kentucky to a standstill

Hickman Duncan blew his whistle and shouted, "Eighte-en, y-o-u-u shoved." Everyone in the Armory heard him, and the fans around me must have heard the fellow who leaned over to me and said, "This is my first college game. How many fouls does he get?"

My curious friend asked other questions during the game, and I must give him full credit for learning quickly. By the beginning of the second half he felt qualified to boo the officials loudly, and was shouting, "Drop dead, you bums," at frequent intervals. As I left the stands after the game, he said, "I wonder how much Western paid the referee."

This is one side of the never ending battle between basketball officials and spectators. Too many people, who know almost nothing about the game, are too loud in their criticism of officials.

On the other side, poor officials are ruining the game — both for players and for regular basketball fans. These incompetent arbiters who get paid just as much as good officials, seem to be becoming more common every year. Evansville College has hired several of them this year.

Both college and high school play must have better officiating if the quality of play is to remain at its present high level and if games are to continue drawing big crowds. Here are some suggestions for improving the standard of "whistletooting."

1. Annual awards for the three best officials in the Tri-State Area. Winners to be chosen by a judging panel of coaches, players, and qualified fans.

2. More frequent officiating clinics under the direction of recognized authorities.

3. A rating scale for officials. Those making consistently low scores may have their licenses suspended or limited.

McCutchan Spends 15 Years Coaching

The current edition of Purple netmen has developed into one of the finest teams in the college's history. A large part of the success is due to the alertness and ability of Arad McCutchan, the quiet, mild-mannered, highly-efficient coach behind the netmen.

Mr. McCutchan started his coaching career at Sulligeut, Alabama, in 1934, and remained there for two years. In the 1935 and 1936 seasons he coached at Gum, Alabama. He was assistant coach at Bosse in 1936, and took over Harry King's Bulldogs in 1941. He tutored this team to the semi-finals and was defeated by Washington, ultimate state champs.

Graduating from Evansville College in 1935, he received his Masters Degree from Columbia University in 1939. After serving three years in the Navy, he returned to Evansville College.

Mr. McCutchan is kept busy with other jobs too. He is president elect of the Southwestern Indiana Officials Association, and serves as chairman of the Indiana District of the National Association of Inter-Collegiate Basketball. He is also a member of the East Side Kiwanis Club.

Kirk Announces Lounge Redecoration Plans

Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, has announced that the Men's Lounge will be redecorated tomorrow.

The redecoration was requested by the Men's Council, representing all men on campus. It will include the removal of the table tennis equipment, installation of extra furniture, and giving the room a good scrubbing and waxing. Miss Kirk stated. The present sofas and chairs in the lounge will remain.

With the removel of table tennis, those students who wish to use the lounge for studying or for conversational purposes may do so without being disturbed. Miss Kirk reported.

Newman Club To Hear John Carroll Monday

John Carroll, local attorney, will speak to the members of the Newman Club, Monday, according to John Hermann, president.

Mr. Carroll's talk will conclude a series of speeches on the Christophers given by local business men. Last Monday Thomas Mooney, sales representative for Hancock Truck Lines, spoke to the club members.

Has Shelves in Library

The Newman Club has installed shelves in the Reserve Library, according to Miss Mary Hormuth, club librarian. These shelves contain many Catholic and philosophical references, including the Catholic encyclopedia and the "Summa of St. Francis," Miss Hormuth added.

Mr. Hermann also announced that a Communion Breakfast was held at St. Mary's Catholic Church last Sunday. This group attended the 9:30 mass followed by an informal breakfast served by the St. Mary's P.T.A.

Fine Arts Group Receives Eleven Record Albums

Dr. F. W. Werking, head of the department of modern languages, recently announced that the Fine Arts Committee has received seventeen new record albums.

These albums will be used for the Listening Hour programs according to Dr. Werking.

Among the new albums are selections by James Melton, Burl Ives, Jerome Kern, Victor Herbert, George Gershwin, and others.

New Home EC Instructor Has Taught All Levels

Mrs. Dora Louise Hess, new Home Economics instructor, standing at the extreme left, was giving sewing instructions to Mary Etta Van Horn, seated at the machine, when the above picture was taken. Others are Mona Lou Dugan, next to Mrs. Hess, Donna Cyrier, and Marian Harris.

Mrs. Dora Louise Hess, new instructor in home economics, has had the experience of teaching in all the different levels of education, such as nursery school, grade school, high school and college.

Mrs. Hess, a graduate of Bosse High School, taught there in 1944-45, and also served for two years as director of St. Paul's nursery, before coming to the college.

With her wide experience of teaching in the city schools, she has several of her former students in her classes of home economics now. She is looking forward to having more of them in the future.

Purdue Graduate

She attended Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.; McMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill.; and is a graduate of Purdue University.

When asked how she liked teaching at Evansville College, Mrs. Hess replied, "I enjoy teaching at Evansville College. The enthusiasm of the students who are looking forward to careers in home economics, makes working with them very interesting."

Mrs. Hess has heen interested in the development of the college as a whole for sometime, particularly in the home economics department.

Demand Great

In commenting on the future of the home economics students, Mrs. Hess pointed out that the demand for home economists in the fields of education, industry demonstrations with public utilities, restaurant managers, clothing buyers, and designers is much greater than the number being trained.

Mrs. Hess resides at 2109 Washington Avenue with her two children, Steven, two, and Jerilyn, five. Her husband, Lawrence, a former student at Evansville College, is now an army jet pilot stationed in Alaska.

Sigs Elect New Officers Kessler Chosen President

Gamma Epsilon Sigma, social sorority, recently held an election of officers for the next quarter and a half.

The new officers are Sarah Kessler, president; Dorothy Hoffman, vice president; Mary Hormuth, secretary; Joy Scherzer, chaplain; Pat Rampy, historian; Ann Whitehead and Louise Griffith, co-critics; and Doris Witt, sergeant-at-arms.

The installation of officers will take place February 1 at a formal dinner. At that time, Miss Mary G. Wolfe, assistant professor of English and sorority sponsor, will be presented an honorary membership.

Wessner Wins Theta Presidential Election

Martha Wessner was chosen president of Theta Sigma, social sorority, in elections last week.

Others elected and their offices were Dorothy Golightly, vice president; Betty Ann Speis, recording secretary; Betty Wood, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Dailey, treasurer; Lois Wiggers, critic; Ann Sinnett, prosecuting attorney; Jo Ann Marshall, sergeant-at-arms; Betty Burgess, reporter; and Bernice Culley, chaplain.

Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department of home economics, is faculty sponsor of the group.

New officers will take office February 1.

Violin Soloist To Be Here For Concert Monday

Erica Morini, violinist, will be featured at the Musician's Club concert in the Coliseum Monday, Jan. 24.

This is the third concert sponsored hy the club this season.

Miss Morini, who began her career at the age of eight, has been featured in many concerts throughout the world. Her program will include numbers by Gershwin, Schuman, Chopin, Brahms, and Rossini-Paganini.

Students interested in music are invited to attend this program.

Discontinuation of Bridge Club Announced by Kirk

Because of the lack of participation, the Student-Faculty Duplicate Bridge Club, instituted in October, has been discontinued, according to an announcement by Miss Doris Kirk, social director.

Freshman Counselors Advise Students About Difficult First-Year Problems

Freshman counselors, appointed to assist the freshmen during their first year of college, are meeting throughout the year to discuss the problems and increased effectiveness of the service.

The counselor service begins when each freshman is given a group of intelligence, educational, vocational, and personality tests with a profile of the tests as a result. These profiles are used in rendering services to the student.

The counseling program consists of two groups. Twelve faculty members serve as counselors to freshmen. Each faculty member has about 30 counselees. From the week of fall orientation through the first year of college, they assist the freshman in the selection of courses and suggest, according to the student's needs and interests, how the student can best succeed in college educationally and personally.

Faculty Serves

The faculty counselors meet with Dr. F. P. Buller, director of testing and counseling, and Everette Walker, director of student personnel service, throughout the year to take up various phases of the student counseling program.

Members of the faculty serving as counselors are Robert A. Artman, John A. Boyd, Miss Esther Brown, Ralph H. Coleman, Wiley W. Crawford, Harris D. Erickson, Cyrus L. Gunn, William O. Hartsaw, Paul E. Kelly, Miss Dorothy Julian, Frederick T. Wessel, and Miss Mary Gertrude Wolfe.

Upperclassmen Assist

Twenty-five upperclassmen have heen selected to assist the freshmen during registration and then to follow through with an introduction to student activities and social life. Counselors acquaint the freshmen with the other services on the campus, such as health aids and housing.

These student counselors are assigned from five to 15 counselees and they meet occasionally with Dr. Buller and Mr. Walker to discuss various ways to improve their counseling work with the freshmen who have been assigned to them.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

He's gone. One of the most familiar figures at Evansville College will no longer search the halls, sleep in classes, dine at the cafeteria, or patrol the campus. If there be a realm for the after life, we are sure he rests with tranquility.

For he was one of the faithful; his loyalty and devotion to those he loved were without reservation. He recognized the valuable and rejected the unworthy factors in life with an instinctive sureness most of us may well envy.

Miss Starry

He never made the Dean's List, but his class attitude puts many of us who did to shame. When discussions and lectures were interesting and productive, he was quiet and receptive; when they became dull and pointless, his disgust was audible and effective.

In his own field, he was a specialist, discharging his duties with speed and efficiency. He once gave us a perfect point in philosophy class; what sort of game he was calling us, we aren't quite sure, but we are positive that if challenged, he could have shown just cause for his reaction.

His trustworthiness, his instinctive sympathy, his dedication to his friend and companion were a constant amazement to everyone. He restored our faith in the triumph of love and loyalty over the inadequacies of materialism.

They never die who remain in the memories of those who knew and admired them. His name was Rusty and it can never be said that he was "only a dog."

● Veterans of the South Pacific will have a chance to see another side of life "down under" during next week's assemblies. The rest of us can get our first glimpse of New Zealand and the native peoples of South Pacific areas from the movies Miss Stuart is scheduled to show (see story this page).

● "Greek and Latin Derivations in Scientific Terminology." Sounds like the title of some ancient volume, written by some unknown writer as his thesis for securing his doctorate, and dug out of the musty stacks of some ancient library. Not so, however, just a new course being offered next term through the cooperative efforts of the biology and modern language departments (see story this page). Maybe the Greek letter fraternities and sororities could qualify, too.

● Musical brainteaser number 7: "What opera premiere was postponed a year because of the outbreak of a war?"

Sorority rushing ended last night with the Theta Sigs formal dinner at Hotel McCurdy. Tuesday night Gamma Epsilon Sigma entertained also at Hotel McCurdy, and Wednesday night the Castalian Sorority had their dinner at the Country Club.

A period of silence between sorority members and rushees went into effect after the Theta party last night and will be observed today and tomorrow until the sororities receive their bid lists.

Bids to be Complete

A general list of bids will be compiled by a disinterested person from the societies lists and women whose names appear on this list will receive a preference card delivered by messengers. Messengers will be teams of three women chosen from the three sororities.

Methodist Youth To Hold Round Table Discussions

The Methodist Student Movement has recently inaugurated a new round table discussion group to meet every other Monday at 11 o'clock on the sun porch of the cafeteria.

About 12 or 14 persons will be featured at each of the discussions. Subjects of current interest to all students of the group will be discussed.

At the next meeting plans will be discussed for the annual Methodist youth dinner Feb. 15 at the Bayard Park Methodist Church.

MSM was organized on the campus last year and is under the supervision of Dr. James E. Morlock, dean of men, and head of the sociology department. It is a part of the world wide Methodist Student Movement.

Its primary purpose is to serve as a planning council, to bring all Methodist students into a fellowship and to encourage religious activities on the campus.

Pi Gamma Mu Pledge Dinner Next Monday

Alpha Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honorary organization will initiate 23 students and three faculty members Monday, Jan. 31.

Dr. Robert Falls, clinical psychologist with the Vanderburgh County Child Guidance Clinic, will be the speaker.

All student pledges have met the requirements of six hours of "A" average in a social science department, and a "R" average for two years in college.

Students in the departments of education, business, sociology and social science, are being inducted.

Faculty pledges are William Affolder, Harris Erickson, and Paul Kelly.

Thespian Play Cast Named

The cast for the Thespian production, "The Linden Tree," by J. B. Priestley, has been chosen, Mildred Taylor, assistant professor of drama, announced to THE CRESCENT yesterday.

The leading roles of Professor Linden and his wife Isabelle, will be played by Frank Chandler, freshman, and Emmalouise Seegmueller, freshman.

Other students taking part in the production are Colleen Cain, sophomore, who will play the part of the oldest daughter, Dr. Jean Linden, and Diane Hadley, junior, will play the part of the youngest daughter of the Lindens. Their son, Rex, will be played by Charles Palmisano, junior.

Evelyn Cameron, senior, will act as the married daughter, Jack Kasey, sophomore, and Donna Cyrier, freshman, will play the roles of Bernard Fawcett and Edith Westmore, students at the university.

Earl Blemker, junior, will play the role of Alfred Lockhart, a secretary at the university. The housekeeper of the Lindens, Mrs. Cotton, will be played by Elizabeth Grimmsley.

Beta Alpha Kappa Elect New Officers

Norris Reynolds, junior, and Charles Studer, sophomore, have been elected vice president and treasurer, respectively, of the beta Alpha Kappa fraternity to fill vacancies in club officers created by two seniors who were graduated in December.

Beta Alpha Kappa is the business fraternity on the campus and membership is open to any person majoring in business administration or economics.

The fraternity meets every third Monday of the month and features various successful businessmen as guest speakers.

Traveler, Lecturer To Present Color Movies of New Zealand

Miss Bathie Stuart

Miss Bathie Stuart, nationally known traveler and lecturer, will speak at two assemblies Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 1 and 2.

Miss Stuart has addressed audiences throughout America on the topic of the South Pacific lands. She has recently returned from an extended trip through New Zealand and brought with her the first colored movies of that country ever to be shown here.

Native of New Zealand

Having grown up in New Zealand, Miss Stuart has been a prominent figure in the affairs of the Dominion throughout her career.

She brings to this country many Maori songs, dances, and native crafts of the New Zealand people. These and the other primitive peoples of the Pacific she knows intimately, just as from her wide travels, she understands the civilized peoples from Australia to China and the Philippines, and knows their social and political aspirations.

Talk of Public Interest

Because the Pacifics is so important in world affairs and because so many Americans visited there during the war, Miss Stuart's appearances are now said to be of maximum public interest.

In addition to the assemblies, a movie about New Zealand will be shown Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, at 8 o'clock. This is for the benefit of evening college faculty members, students, and friends. Anyone else interested is invited to attend.

Dr. Werking To Teach New Language Course

A new course will be added to the biology and modern language departments in the spring, according to Dr. F. Woody Werking, associate professor of modern languages.

This course is entitled "Greek and Latin Derivations in Scientific Terminology" and is open to students interested in medical studies and allied fields.

No prior knowledge of Greek or Latin is required for this three-hour course to be conducted by Dr. Werking. It will probably not be given again until the fall of 1950.

Basketball Queen Election Today

Winner To Be Entered in State-Wide Contest As Candidate of College

From 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. today the committee room of the Temporary Union Building will be open for balloting to decide who will reign as the basketball queen of Evansville College during the 1948-49 season.

An additional honor will be given the winner of the election, according to Jim Barnett, student government president. The winner will represent Evansville College in a state-wide contest sponsored by the Indianapolis Star to choose a representative of Indiana to the national Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C. next April.

Requirements Listed

The requirements of this contest are that the girl be between 18 and 25 and that her home be in Indiana. Should Joyce Robinson, who is from Park Ridge, Ill., win the election, the runner-up will be substituted in her place.

Any student carrying 12 hours or more is eligible to vote in this election. A check off list will be kept at the polls to decide the eligibility of the students. Each candidate has poll watchers assigned to protect her interests.

Candidates for queen are Fleta Benedict, independent; Ninabelle Hurt, Theta Sigma; Carol McCane, Castalian; and Joyce Robinson, Gamma Epsilon Sigma.

Campaigning Ends

There has been a full week during which the candidates could conduct their campaigns.

The candidates were chosen by members of the team this year and the election is being sponsored by the Tipoff Club and THE CRESCENT. The result of the election will be announced in next week's issue.

It's in Books

Richard E. Fuson, lelt, and Edward E. Potter, prolessors ol literature, collaborate on the preparation of some material lor their classes.

Fuson, Potter New English Professors

By BILL COLLINS

Since almost every student who attends Evansville College must at one time or another takes a course in literature, the professors who teach those courses beeome acquainted with a large number of them. With the beginning of the fall quarter of 1948 Richard E. Fuson, assistant professor, and Edward E. Potter, associate professor, began teaching literature courses at the college.

Richard E. Fuson was graduated from the State University of Iowa in 1938. He reeeived his masters degree in 1940 and then went on to study at Harvard and Columbia Universities.

Worked On Radio

Mr. Fuson then taught one year at Claymont High School, Claymont, Vt., before entering professional radio work for the next five years. At the same time, he was doing some graduate work and part-time teaching at the University of Iowa for two years and at Oregon State College for three year. He taught at Indiana University one year and then at the University of Tulsa in 1947 before coming to Evansville College in 1948.

Mr Fuson has taught music and speech as well as English. He holds a masters degree in musie and speech from the University of Iowa.

Edward E. Potter is a graduate of St. Ambrose College, at Davenport, Iowa. He did graduate work at the University of Notre Dame and at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Potter taught politieal seience and English at tbe University of Notre Dame and at the University of Toledo, Toledo, Obio, before entering the service in 1942. He was discharged in 1943 as a result of a relapse of an old football injury.

Ghost Writer

Working in the sales promotion department of the B. F. Goodrich Company in Akron, Ohio, Mr. Potter did ghost writing for company exeeutives, prepared booklets about company products, and wrote copy for advertisements. As part of his work in the automotive and aviation divisions of the same company, he helped put on air shows all over the United States.

Mr. Potter is the author of an article on state government in Compton's Encyclopedia. His hohby is wood working and he jokingly reported that he would accept anv student volunteers who would like to help him remodel his home.

Mr. Potter is married and has a four-year old boy, Christopher Michael, who is nicknamed Kim.

This Thing Called Rush

Rushing is the term used hy the various social organizations when they entertain and meet new girls as prospects for membership. One usually thinks that the non-members are the ones being rushed. This year, however, the women's plan has been a series of parties rather than one bang-up affair. With this plan both members and their prospects have been in a big mad "rush" — using the term loosely. Once before in this column we said that our lessons would be taking a back seat during rush. Those lessons, along with sleep, have been pushed to far back in tbe back seat tbat they're now crawling into the trunk.

Things Could be Verse

There was a line, a mighty line
Before the Commons door,
And Willie, waiting for his lunch
Was Number Twenty-Four
But Number Three had twelve good friends,
And Number Eight, eleven,
While Willie found to his surprise
He now was Forty-Seven
And tho the people far up front
Were moving quite a lot
The longer Willie stood in line
The farther back he got.
This struck the boy as mighty silly
But lunchtime never came for Willie.

College Editor Speculates 'If I Were a Freshman'

The editor of "The Bullet" of Mary Washington College looks back in a feature titled "If I were a freshman again:"

"I would budget my time to include both studies and extra-curricular activities.

"I would get more sleep—at least eight hours.

"I would worry less about how I was going to get things done and go ahead and do them. I would worry less about exams, hut keep up with daily work.

"I would try to budget my allowance so that by the second day I wouldn't be broke. I wouldn't spend all my money on new clothes and then write home for more . . .

"I wouldn' let anyone make me ashamed of working part-time, because I know it will he a future asset.

"I would cut down on the "eokes and nabs" diet and eat meals regularly . . .

"I would make friends with my profs and not hesitate to ask them questions. I wouldn't approach the faculty with flippancy and disrespect.

"I wouldn't cut classes more than I should. I would attend more of the social functions — teas, dances and lyceum.

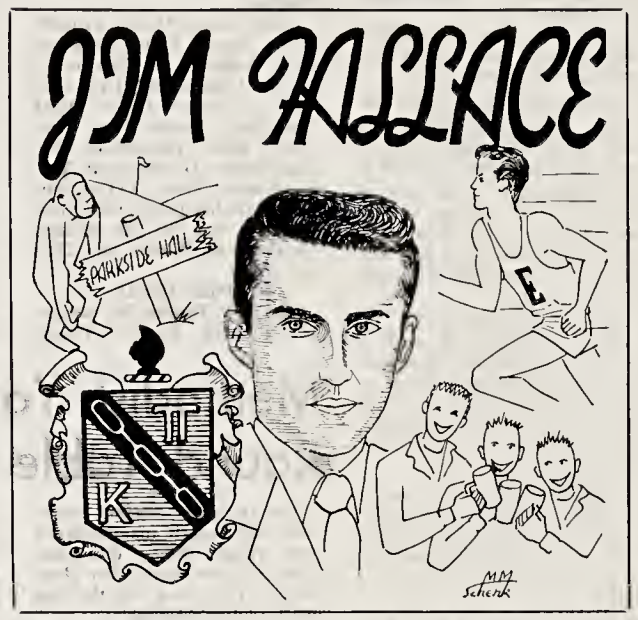
"I certainly wouldn't believe all the gossip on the campus concerning students or faculty . . .

"I would read a book on bridge. I would write cheerful letters home instead of woebegone ones that were full of all my little heartaches and troubles.

"I would balance the see-saw hetween "joiner" and "stay in the room."

"I would he sure to keep a good "rep" and he my true self."

Pic of the Week



James Fallace, senior, and president of the Pi Kappa fraternity, is the nominee for the pie of the week.

From New York City, Jim, as he is known to his friends, first heard of Evansville College through a friend in the service, who had been a student at the college. Jim, being impressed with the build-up, came to Evansville in 1946 and has spent his entire college career here. This year, his brother Henry joined him at the college and is now a freshman.

In his first year here, be was a member of the track team. During his sophomore year he was pledge master of his fraternity and last year served as the secretary. He is also a member of the International Relations Club and Newman Club.

"I like the size of Evansville much better than New York," he explains. "The people are friendly and it is mueh easier to get acquainted."

Jim is a secondary edueation major concentrating in social studies and business edueation. He will he gradnated in August and hopes to settle somewhere in the Midwest.

He spent two years in the Navy with the Hospital Corps before coming to Evansville College.

Doodles Weaver, Crazy Like a Fox, Decides To Exist in a Normal Way

Winstead Sheffield Clendenning Dixon Weaver, better known as Doodles Weaver or Professor Feitelbaum is afraid people will think he is crazy.

You would be, too, if you'd done all the things he'd done.

Anyway, from now on he says he's going to confine his zany antics strictly to working hours, on the "Spotlight Revue" and on his vaudeville tours with Spike Jones.

"Whenever my agent suggested me for a good movie role," he recalls, "Some director would say, 'Doodles Weaver? Why, he's crazy. He'd burn down the sets or something."

"All this," says Doodles mournfully, "just because I used to like to indulge in a practical joke now and then."

Plans to Go Straight

From now on he is going to drive his car forwards, not hackwards, and he is going to cross busy streets with the signal. He used to eross against the signal, pretending to be a decrepit old man. After tieing up traffic for a block while he painfully dragged himself across the intersection, he would leap into the air, click his heels and run down the sidewalk.

Doodles Weaver is a rich man's son, but he always preferred the Rollerdrome to the Brown Derby. Onee he mystified his family hy refusing to go along on a vacation trip to Europe. The day after they left he converted the family estate into a night club, with a neon sign in front and midget cars raeing around the outer perimeter. Advised of this outrage by a eable from angry neighbors, the elder Weaver eabled back, "Are you making any money?"

"Mad Monk"

During his college days he was known as the "Mad Monk of Stanford," and his exploits there bave become a kind of fantastic legend. Doodles freely admits the story ahout how he had another student's car dismantled, and re-assembled in his room. It almost filled the room and the poor guy slept in the back seat for a week.

"Now that I lead the quiet life, know where I stay when we're on tour?" says the ex-playboy. "At YMCA's. Nobody bothers me there."

Off'n' On

Who Smells? --- Who Stinks?

Almost

Oh, oh for the Good Old Days

Tbings are dull around here anymore, they say. No more Durham or McCosh. That, for the benefit of some of the newsters, refers to two individuals who used to look at things and see something, then they wrote something in what they called columns for this paper. These two persons never saw tbe same things — or at least, they never saw things the same. That made for lively times. And after a time some of it got in Time—a magazine, that is.

But there's no reason for dispair. Things aren't as dull as the weather, and let's leave the weather out of it, too. To prove this point, take a walk around and through the campus using all those five senses. First, let's take that matter of sight. That's right — the eampus is a sight. Take the paper that russles and hussles around. It has been said that if every man on eampus thought that every piece of stray paper had a nude or lewd picture on it, there would be no clutter on the campus. It's an idea. Anyway, the eampus is a sight — and not a good one.

Take another sense—sound — rather, the perception of sound. Ever hear that 8 o'clock bell? There's nothing dull ahout it. And that sound over in the Office Building when the language classes listen to recordings. It's not true, but some of the math students next door are speaking with an accent. Then there is that sound in the TUB — noise, it is. "Hit me light!" That's not dull. And how ahout that stuff coming from the walls of the musie shack?

Next comes smell. Well, take this thing you have in your hand and place it near the nose —not too close. That could be one way of evaluating the worth of this sheet, hut it isn't valid. THE CRESCENT refuses to use seented ink and paper. But back to the nose. Those who put it to the grindstone won't find it dull. Also, try it out over in the Engineering-Science Building. What do they cook there, anyway? Speaking of cooking, have you ever tried a good erepe sole over a hot-foot? Someone did in the TUB the other day. That wasn't dull —except for the thud that followed.

Taste is next. Of course, no one has tasted the grass that is trying to grow around some of these huildings, but there is no doubt that a goat would starve around here come spring if the hoofers don't start using the sidewalk. And, ob yes, there's good taste and bad taste — and that in no way eonstitutes a cigarette indorsement. For a good test of this sense, try a bowl of chili at the cafeteria. Tain't dull. Your tongue will know something just passed by.

Then there is that sense of touch. Some have it more than others. And some use it more than others. This is used most in the TUB, although this term is somewhat mild. The "bite" is a more accurate term. "Give me a dime, Bud." This is a light touch. Then bands touch as the cards are passed. Yes, and it happened — toes have sneaked from loafers to touch toes.

There they are — the five senses. Once you get the hang of it you can use more ban one of tbe senses at the same time. The possibilities are unlimited.

How can anyone say things are dull around here? If that's what you think, you must be dull. You may not he so dull to others, either. You may stink.

Aces Battle Indiana State Here Tomorrow Night

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Things are beginning to look up for the Aces in the way of national recognition. Following their close game with Western and the win over Eastern they have received some good publicity in papers over the nation. Eastern, prior to the Aces win, were ranked tenth and twentieth in two national polls. Western with their 15 wins and no losses is still clinging to the third spot in almost all of the polls.

There is a great deal at stake in the coming games on the schedule, not only from the conference standpoint, but also as far as chances of getting invitations to some of the tournaments go, as well. A win over Indiana State tomorrow night would certainly increase Evansville's chances of going to Kansas City in March.

There are approximately 160 men on campus who are ready and waiting to take part in the intra-mural net program, if a gym for it can be found. One fact that has some of the potential participants in the league wondering is why the girl's gym cannot be used for these games. It is a perfectly good gym, but for some unknown reason is unobtainable for the use of the intra-mural league.

So far, the league has been unable to obtain a gym that is within the means of the organization. The city schools have gyms, but a lot of them are in use by independent teams on the nights that the league can have competition. Also, there is the factor of rental charges.

At the present it looks as if the intra-mural loop will function on paper only this year, and only because of the lack of playing space.

Membership in the newly formed Tip-Off club is now at about 60, according to Bud Johnson, program director for the meeting last Monday. The meetings are now being held at the Belvedere Cafe, Second and Locust, having been transferred there from the Spaghetti Bowl.

Movies of the Kentucky-St. Louis and Evansville-Western games were featured at last Monday's meeting.

Bruce Lomax, one of the operators of the Lomax-Nicholson sporting goods store, is the newly elected permanent president of the Tip-Off club.

Several people have voiced the opinion that to really gain national recognition in the way of basketball, Evansville should send its team on a swing, either to the east or to the west. Western Kentucky, Marshall, and several of the other conference schools send their teams on these trips and they seem to fare pretty well. Marshall was not too successful on their western jaunt, but the Hilltoppers snowed under three eastern foes during the Christmas holidays.

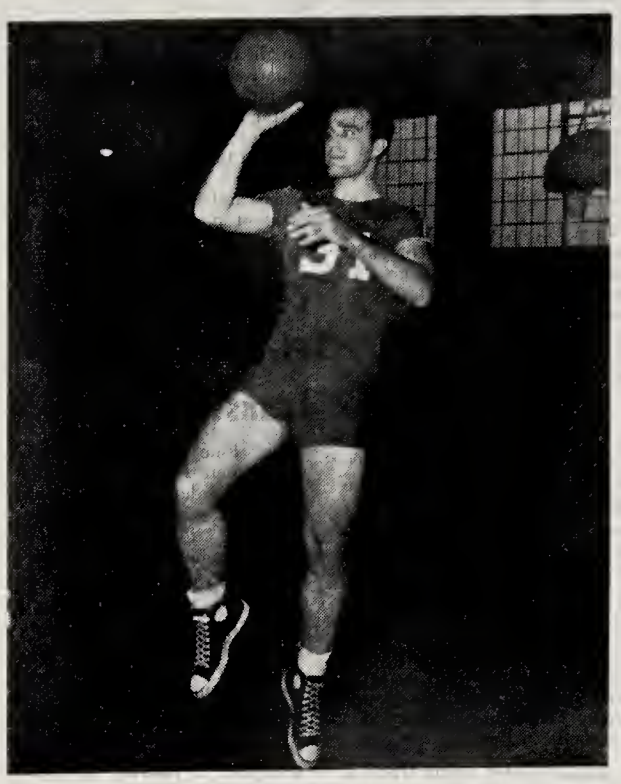
Rugged Robert



Forward Bob Kohlmeyer

Kohlmeyer in Third Year As Evansville Rebounder

By JEFF HAYS

A lot of highly publicized high school players never make the grade in college because they rely too much on their press clippins and not enough on good old hard work. Bob Kohlmeyer is one "high school hero" who left his press clippings at home when he went off for higher learning.

Bob was a terrific player at Central High School. He earned varsity letters in 1945 and 1946, and was one of the star players of the great Central team of 1946 that fought its way to the final round of the Indiana State Basketball Tournament, before bowing to the Anderson Indians.

Bankboard Battle

That game with Anderson marked the beginning of a rivalry between Bob and "Jumping Johnny" Wilson that has carried over into their college careers. These two jumping demons have met three times now, and each time a highly competitive battle of the hankboards resulted.

Indiana sports writers selected Bob to play in the annual high school all-star game between Indiana and Kentucky. Members of this select team nominated Bob to represent them as captain of the Indiana team.

Physical Ed Major

Bob now weighs 192 pounds and is six-feet, one and one-half inches tall. He is majoring in Physical Education, and is in his third year as member of the basketball team. Bob has been one of the leading scorers for the Aces every year, but his main attribute is his great rebound play and defensive ability.

Like most athletes, Bob doesn't restrict his natural talents to basketball alone. He also plays the outfield for the Aces in basehall. Bob has earned three letters in this sport and is regarded as a good hitter and good defensive outfielder.

Louisville Cardinals Next Foes of Purple Netters

By BILL WOODS

Evansville's Aces collide with what promises to be the toughest intra-state foe of the year tomorrow night when they battle the Sycamores from Indiana State Teachers College at the Armory at 8:30 o'clock.

After a four day rest the Aces will again take the home floor on Thursday night, this time against the highly rated Cardinals from the University of Louisville.

Basketball Schedule

Sat. Jan. 29 Indiana State Home
Thurs. Feb. 3 Louisville Home
Sat. Feb. 5 Indiana State Terre Haute
Tues. Feb. 8, Western Kentucky Bowling Green
Thurs. Feb. 10 Murray State Home
Wed. Feb. 16, Louisville Louisville
Sat. Feb. 19 Morehead Home
Wed., Thurs., Fri., Feb. 23, 24, 25, Ohio Valley Conference Tournament Louisville

Netman Rank High In Team Offense

The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau has released some official basketball statistics covering games played through January 15. These are statistics for small colleges only.

Joe Hafele has slumped down to fifteenth in free throw shooting averages, with .800, and Bob Sakel ranks nineteenth with .793. No other Evansville player is ranked in the first thirty although the team as a whole is rated first with a percentage of .697. The team has added 207 points to its total via the foul line in 297 chances.

Averaging 63.8

The smooth working Aces are in twenty-fifth spot in team offense with an average total per game of 63.8. Eastern Illinois, a team that defeated Evansville, is nineteenth in the same department with an average of 65.2.

Eastern Kentucky State Teachers is in twenty-third place in team defense with 61 points.

Wilson Third

Eastern Kentucky is also rated high in the field goal percentage department with .385 for eighth place. Eastern hit a phenomenal 57 per cent against Evansville in their first meeting.

Jumping Johnny Wilson of Anderson's Indians is third in the list of small colleges in average points per game. Johnny has a 23.8 average. Johnny also is leading the nation's small colleges in number of points in one game with 46.

Tomorrow night's game promises to be a close and hard fought contest. The Aces are sure to be keyed for it, as they stand a very good chance of being invited to the Kansas City Invitational tournament if they can defeat the Terre Hautemen. State is almost assured of an invitation to the tournament as they were one of the finalists last year.

Four Over Six Feet

Indiana State brings a fairly tall club down here for the battle. Daniel Dimich starts at center. He is six-feet three and one-half. Duane Klueh, State's all-American, and Donald McDonald start at forwards. They are six-three and six-two, respectively. Lenny Rzeszewski and Robert Royer hold down the guard slots. Rzeszewski is six-two and Royer is the smallest man on the squad at five-ten.

There are fourteen lettermen from last year on the Indiana State squad. In addition to the starting five they are, James Berger, Bob Brady, James Hans, Buren Hooper, Bill Jagodzinski, Gerry Kunkel, James Powers, Clarence Walker, and Max Woolsey.

Louisville Cardinals Here

Thursday night the Cardinals from the University of Louisville will be here for what promises to be another close and interesting game. At present the Cardinals are sporting a 15-won and five-lost record.

Jack Coleman is the captain of the Cardinal five, and is playing his third season as a member of the varsity. Coleman was one of the sparkplugs in the Louisville record of 29 wins in 35 starts least season.

There are several experienced guards on the Louisville squad, among them Kenny Reeves, Johnny Knopf, Roy Combs, and Glenn Combs. Roy Combs was the player who was the downfall of the Aces in the home game with Louisville last season. He poured in 29 points at Central gym, 28 of them on long shots from the floor. Glenn Combs, a brother of Roy, played forward last year and is trying his hand at guard for the first time this season.

Have Experienced Forwards

Captain Jack Coleman holds down one forward spot for the Cards and there are four other good forwards that can be alternated in the other spot. Randle Ford, James Edwards, Gil Waggener, and Jess Johnson have been seeing a lot of action for the Cards this season.

Ford is a sophomore this year, after being one of the three outstanding freshmen last year. Edwards saw limited action last season and scored 51 points in the twelve games that he played. Waggener got in 20 games last year and has seen action in all of the games that the Cards have played this year.

Jess Johnson is in his third year on the Louisville varsity and has been improving every year according to reports from "The Cardinal," University of Louisville paper.

Students Help Check Papers

Students Get Experience In Counseling Service

By W. L. DUFFY

Many people seem to think that all the work in a college department is done by faculty members. Apparently that isn't the situation in the psychology department and the Testing and Counseling Service.

Take for example, the students in the above photograph. William Taylor works for Testing & Counseliog, adoinistrating aod scoring psychological tests given to students, vocational rehabilitation clients, and V. A. advisements. Most of the tests that Mr. Taylor deals with are mental, personality, occupational interests, special and aptitude tests.

Mr. Taylor is a psychology major and plaos to enter the field of clinical psychology in conjunction with the veteran administration.

Keeps Office Open

Miss Jean Marshall assists in the veterans affairs section, attending to various part-time duties, one of which is keepiog the office open on Tuesday nights. Veterans enrolling in the Evening College need assistance in order to enroll properly under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Veterans also need information and aid in filling out various forms required by the Veterans Administration. Miss Marshall is a secoodary education major.

There are many duties in the department that students can help do, such as administering psychological tests, scoring tests, preparing test profiles, typing, cutting stencils, checking Veteran Administratioo forms, and answering questions for students.

Receive No Credit

The students receive no college credit for work in the Psychology Department, hut are paid by the college for their services. However, much valuable experieoce is gained for students interested in clerical work, personnel work, psychometrics, or even certain aspects of social work.

One of the objectives in the psychology department work is to encourage students to acquire a fouodation for graduate study in psychology, personnel, and counseling work..

Seventy Geology Students Study Specimens in Cave

Approximately seventy geology students visited Marengo Cave Jan. 14, according to Dr. F. C. MacKnight, head of the geology department.

"The group was quite large and my voice gave out on me," stated Dr. MacKnight. "I had to turn the meeting over to the guide."

Dr. McKnight stressed seriously to the students that anyone going on a field trip should dress prepared to fall io a ditch. Lloyd Norrick, junior, proved this point by actually tumbling into a ditch.

Marengo Cave was chosen because it exhibits all the interesting phenomena of cave material, and the trip to the cave was not too exhausting.

Pictures were taken of the group and are to he displayed on the bulletin board in the Engineering-Scieoce Building.

Dr. McKoight said a trip to Wyandotte Cave has heen scheduled for this spring. Anyone who had the geology course last year is invited.

Committee To Buy Pictures by Three Evansville Artists

The Fine Arts Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation voted Monday to buy several original pictures by local artists, according to Miss Florence Keve, assistant professor of art.

Included in the group are two watercolors by Virgil Espenlaub, "The Outpost" and "After the Rain." Mr. Espenlaub has been studying at Evansville College and has done the work required for a degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. He recently accepted a position to teach painting at the University of Kentucky, beginning Feb. 1.

Other works which will he acquired include a watercolor by Miss Keve aod an oil painting by Charles Boggs, director of the Evansville Public Museum.

These pictures will be added to several other works hy local artists which are already hanging in the Temporary Union Buildiog. These pictures are by Merrill Snethen, art teacher at Bosse High School; Fred Eilers, industrial designer at Servel, Inc.; and Miss Emily Wilson, former art instructor at the college, who is now at Indiana University.

Rusty - - -

Beloved Companion Of Student Dies

A well known compus figure will no langer raam thraugh the halls af Evansville College.

Rusty, the canstant canine companian af seniar Kenwood Bryant is deod. He died last week after many faithful years of service and devation ta his master.

Rusty was knawn on campus mare than many sa-called "wheels." He often carried a brief case, studied in the librory, rested and ate in the TUB. He was a part af the campus and was a popular part of the campus saciety.

It was evident how he gat his name. His rust-calar was one af his autstanding features. It was nat sa clear about his age, however. He had been araund far several years and had made many friends.

His survivors were nat known, but Mr. Bryant was his clasest friend. Funeral services were private.

Civil Service Positions Now Open to Seniors

The U. S. Civil Service Commission recently announced that four examinations are open to graduates and seniors. They are Junior Professional Assistant, Junior Management Assistant, Junior Agricultural Assistant, and Junior Scientist.

To qualify for the "JPA," "JMA," and "JAA" examinations, the person must pass a written test and have had appropriate education or experioece.

All applicants will be given a written examination, except those for Junior Scientist positions, who will he judged on their educational background. Applications will be accepted from students who expect to be graduate in June.

Application forms can be obtained from the post office.

Sun Rays Reflect Through Flower Bowl To Cause Fire in Music Department

Emmalouise Seegmueller, freshman, displays the curtain in the Music Department where spontaneous combustion started a blaze.

Evansville College narrowly escaped a bad fire recently io its Music Department. One Sunday oorning not long ago, Professor Wesley Shepard, co-head of the department, was sitting in his office browsiog through some papers.

He suddenly smelled burned cloth, and rushing ioto the next room he discovered a wiodow curtain on fire. He quickly extinguished the flames.

The cause of the fire was rather freakish, but many fires start in unusual ways. The suns rays were focused on the curtain by a glass flower bowl, which was partially filled with water.

Fortunately the damage was slight, with only a small hole being burned in the curtain.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

O We always are excited by the achievements of people who refuse to let circumstances defeat them ; who won't sit back with the idea that the world owes them a living and that all they need to do is wait for success to come to them; and who, in spite of the odds, make their own way, and that way above the average.

In this instance, we are referring in particular to Charles Caniff, one of the most popular and outstanding of last year's who recently was awarded the Junior Chamber of Commerce recognition as Evansville's outstanding young man of 1948 (see story, page 4).

Miss Starry

● Students, who find themselves bogged down by harrasing medical bills that might prevent their remaining in college, should be interested in the financial assistance available through the Welfare Committee (see page 2.)

● Anybody who doesn't believe that Evansville needs soot control — well, if there is any such person, we respectfully refer him to the soot test conducted by several college chemistry seniors (see story page 4).

Flash! The latest answer to those students who think they aren't getting a fair deal in class — the Grievance Committee. Set up under the Student Council, the committee will receive complaints and suggestions on a confidential basis, and initiate whatever action seems advisable. (see story this page.)

● Reminder. Students, who want to drop classes without a qualifying report on the records, had best do so today. After this week, they are either WP or WF (see story this page).

● An E. C. first — aetivity tickets will be good for admittance to the annual mid-winter band and choir concert Monday. Featured will be numbers by the A Cappella Choir, the band, and the first campus appearanee of the Little Symphony Orchestra. (see story this page).

● Newest campus publication — The Evansville College Library News. Designed to give students and faculty a list of the newest books available in all subject fields, the bulletin will be issued monthly. People who are afraid of card catalogues will be happy to know that the listings will include the library call numbers (see story this page).

● We would like to eall it "the best kept secret on campus." If someone says he knew all along who was elected Basketball Queen for 1949, take it with two grains of salt. More likely, he made a lucky guess. Only three people on campus knew the official results, and each of those three knew the identity of only one other member of the trio. Reminds us a little of the Underground system in Europe during the recent war — there, security was a matter of life and death.

Pi Gamma Mu Names Logsdon President

Joseph Logsdon, junior, was elected president of the Indiana Alpha Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science organization, at an iniation dinner Monday evening.

Other officers elected were Sarah Kessler, junior, vice president; and Mrs. Vera Farley, junior, was elected scribe of the organization.

Twenty-three students were initiated at the meeting. Three new faculty members also were accepted for initiation. They were William Affolder, Harris Erickson and Paul Kelly. Sixty-seven attended the dinner.

Dr. Robert Falls was the speaker and talked on his work as elinical psychologist in the Vanderburgh County Child Guidance Clinie.

Dr. W. B. Posey Speaks In Assemblies Feb. 8-9

Dr. Wolter B. Pasey

Dr. Walter B. Posey, professor of history at Emory University and Agnes Scott College, will speak during the student assemblies Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 8-9.

Dr. Posey has served on the faculties of Birmingham-Southern College, the University of Alabama, and Tulane and Vanderhilt Universities. During 1939-40 he was a visiting professor of American History at the University of Hawaii.

A civilian employee of the Information and Education Section of the United States Army, he taught in 1945-46 in the American University at Biarritz, France, and in the American University of Shrivenham, England. After these assignments, he was sent to Cermany as a lecturer on democracy and other topics.

Since returning to teaching, Dr. Posey has continued his lecturing in the field of demoeracy. He has written a book on "Methodism in the Old Southwest," and at present, with the aid of a Carnegie Grant, he is engaged in a similar study of the Presbyterians.

He has contributed numerous artieles to the "Journal of Southern History," and to the "Mississippi Valley Historical Review."

Thespian Play Crews Named

The crews for the Thespian production, "The Linden Tree," by J. B. Priestley, have been chosen, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, director, announced today.

Louis Ray will serve as head of the technical crews. The stage crew will be composed of Mike Reagen, Marvin English and William Blesch. Norman Stewart will be stage manager and Kathryn Starry is the propter.

Shirley Morgan and Urban Steckler will make up the light erew. The paint crew will be Doris Donovan, June Suhrheinrich and Fleta Beoedict.

The property crew will be Ken Bryant, Lyndon Pirkle and Don Schofstall. Sarah Kessler and Mary Lou Muth are in charge of the costumes. The make-up crew will be Betsy Reeser, Marylu Plane and Ann Zimmerman.

Emily Combs is in charge of publicity and James Fowler is the business manager.

Ticket sales will be handled by Harold Buck, and Barbara McTaggert will have charge of distributing the programs.

Committees of Parties Fo~ High Schools Set

Committees have been appointed to plan parties for high school seniors in the Temporary Union Buildiog this spring, according to Mary Hormuth, chairman of the Evening TUB committee.

These parties are arranged to acquaint high school seniors with the college.

Co-ehairmen of the program committe are Herman Litselugi, Fred Creech and Bob Patry. Vera Espenlaub heads the refreshment eommittee.

Elizabeth Lockwod and Mary Lou Wolfe will manage favors and Bob Statham, invitations.

Band, Choir To Present Third Annual Mid-Winter Concert

Three members of the music department who will participate in the mid-winter concert, Mondoy, look over a section al the music to be used.
Shirley Roy, left, is a member ol the Little Symphony Orchestra, Harold Lively, seated, is a band member, and Wilmo Pierce belongs to the choir.

Several unusual numbers are in store for the students and faculty who attend the Evansville College third annual midwinter band and ehoir eoncert at the Coliseum this Monday at 8:15 o'clock, according to Marvin Hartig, business manager of the music department.

The A Capella choir of 61 voices, direeted by Mrs. Wesley Shepard, and the concert band of 65 instruments, directed by Wesley Shepard, will be featured in the concert.

This is the twenty-first season for the choir on the campus. It is made up of students from the entire student body and not just those majoring in music. The choir will sing both sacred and secular numbers during the con-

The band is now in its third year at the college. It was organized in 1946 under the present director. During the concert it will present a variety of numbers.

The campus Little Symphony Orchestra, directed by Dr. George Dasch, will join the choir in a combined number. This is the first year for this organization on the campus.

College students will be admitted for the first time on their activity tickets. Tickets for outsiders are heing sold by the members of the participating organizations. Admission prices are 80 cents for adults and 25 cents for students, tax included.

Local Plant Gives To Building Fund

A gift of $10,000 from the International Harvester Foundation for the Evansville College Union Building Fund was announeed Thursday, Jan. 28, by Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college.

A check for the amount was presented to Dr. Hale by J. E. Layton, general manager of the refrigeration division of International Harvester Company, and George P. Donovan, district sales manager for the tri-state area.

This gift brings the total amount of donations received during the eurrent eampaign to $57,738, which is more than half of the goal of $100,000.

The gift is one of a number of donations by local firms. The last donation was received from Servel about Dec. 1 for $20,000.

Mr. Layton wrote that John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester, after hearing of the need of Evansville College for the building had stated that he felt that industry must support local colleges and universities and he recommended the gift.

The college hopes to get eonstruction started on the building this spring provided the goal of $100,000 is met.

Classes Dropped After Today May Mean 'F'

Students who drop subjects after today will have grades recorded either WP or WF.

Passing class work at the time of dropping the eourse will be recorded as WP. Otherwise the grade will be recorded as WF.

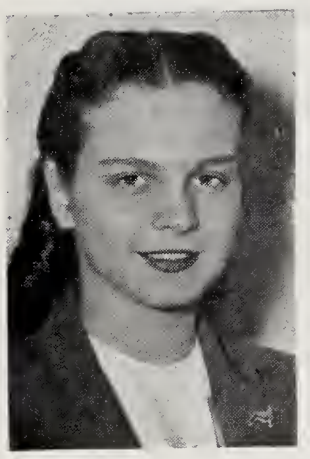
WF is considered as an F in determining such matters as probation. Students dropping eourses before the end of the seventh week will receive no grade for such courses. The record will show a W for withdrawal.

Fleta Benedict Is Basketball Queen

Bob Kohlmeyer, as Squad Captain, To Crown Queen Between Halves

Fleta Benedict, independent candidate, was chosen basketball queen of the 1948-49 season by an election of the student body Jan. 28. She is to be crowned at the Murray State basketball game next Thursday.

Miss Benedict will also represent Evansville College in a state-wide contest sponsored hy the Indianapolis Star to choose a representative of Indiana to the national Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C. next April.



Fleto Benedict

Attendants Listed

Her haskethall attendants are: Carol McCane, Castalian; Joyce Robinson, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Ninabele Hurt, Theta Sigma.

Miss Benedict and her attendants will have special seats in the center of the student section during the game. She will he crowned during the half-time of the game by acting captain Bob Kohlmeyer, center of the hasketball team.

The queen and her attendants will be dressed in suits for the crowning. Maroon will be the outstanding color of their attire.

Is Past Queen

Miss Benedict is a 1948 graduate of Bosse High School where she was the football queen during the 1947 season. Miss Benedict and the other three candidates who ran against her were nominated by members of the basketball squad this year, inaugurating a new system which is being sponsored by the Tipoff Club and THE CRESCENT.

Mary Lou Muth was last year's queen. She was the candidate of Gamma Epsilon Sigma sorority. Her attendants were Beverly Cerard , independent; Diane Hadley, Castalian; Mary Alice Peck, Theta Sigma; and Roberta Tuley, Gamma Delta representative.

SGA Creates 'Gripe' Group

The Student Counoil has completed plans for setting up a new Grievance Committee to handle complaints of the students.

This committee will be composed of five students seleeted by the Student Council. Students will file their eomplaints or suggestions on forms furnished by the SCA office and the name of the student will be kept strictly confidential.

Here is how the committee will work, according to Jim Barnett, SGA president.

A student feels he has received an injustice in one of his classes and wants to file a eomplaint. He goes to the SGA office and fills out the proper form leaving it at the office.

The committee receives the eomplaint; a meeting is ealled and action is decided upon hy the committee. If the committee cannot remedy the complaint, it will be referred to the Administrative Board. Here it will he reviewed and proper action will be taken.

This is the first time the college has ever had sueh a plan, explained Mr. Barnett. Heretofore the only place a student could take a complaint was to one of the deans of the college and many of the students have been reluctant to do so.

Library To Publish Monthly Bulletin

The college library made announcement this week of the publication of a new monthly hulletin to be known as "The Evaosville College Library News."

In the initial appearance of the mimeographed issue, it was stated that publieation was for the purpose of presenting a list of the new books in all subject fields received by the library to students and faculty who have expressed a desire for such a compiling.

Under general topie heads, books of a speeific category are listed aecording to order of library eall number. Approximately 140 new books were listed in the first publieation of The News.

"In addition to announcements of new books, The News may carry from time to time other news items regarding the library and articles of interest to book-lovers among both students and faeulty," it was stated.

Late News Breaks

$166.40 was the amount of money collected for the March of Dimes compoign conducted last week on campus, it was reported by Bob Rideout, Alpha Phi Omega president. The Alpha Phi Delta and Alpha Phi Omega, service organizations working to gether on the drive, topped the set goal af $150. Last year's tatal collections amounted ta $37.20.

Boyd, Wolfe Elected Freshman Sponsors

John A. Boyd, assistant professor of journalism, and Miss Mary Wolfe, assistant professor of English, were recently named permanent faculty co-sponsors of the freshman class.

Mr. Boyd and Miss Wolfe were chosen as co-sponsors from a list of eight faculty members. They replace A. C. Spenee, assistant professor of English, who has been serving as temporary faculty sponsor.

Student Discovers His Best Vacation Was Spent Training for Uncle Sam

This story was written for an assignment in Mrs. Charolette Steven's 101A class describing "My Best Vacation." The Crescent will be glad to publish usable contributions from non-staff members when the space permits.

By DONALD KLOKE

My best vacation started when Uncle Sam sent me my induction notice about four years ago. At the time I was inducted, victory was well on the way. I went through basic training lounging most of the time in the beer garden or in the barracks. We had road drills, K. P. and rifle range duty, but it wasn't as hard as during the crisis.

The army finally grew tired of us merely lounging and decided to send us to school. We had aptitude tests for a couple of days, and then the army made placement plans for us. The ones that were best qualified for air plane mechanics probably went to cooking school; the ones best qualified for gunnery school most likely went to the medical corps. I guess that's how I was selected to go to radio school.

I started my radio training a few months later at Scott Field, Illinois. We thoroughly enjoyed the time spent in radio mechanics school. Some of the boys became tired doing nothing and signed for overseas duty; me, I knew a good deal when I saw it, so I stayed at the field and struggled through. I came home every Friday night and stayed until Sunday. This part of my vacation lasted almost a year. After the army had spent approximately $3000 on teaching me radio mechanics and radio repair, I received my diploma.

This was about Christmas time so I secured a 15 day furlough and a 15 day delay enroute to Westover Field, Massachusetts. My vacation there was even more pleasant, after I became settled and was assigned to a certain squadron. I arose about 9 a.m., had breakfast and arrived on the job at 10 a.m. My lunch period was from 12 until 2 p.m., and then I worked from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. However, this easy life didn't last too long, because my time in the army was growing short.

'Hearts' Is Tough To Explain

Jeff Hays

Joe, a friend of mine, who spends most of his time in the library, dropped out to the TUB the other day for a little relaxation. He thought he might like to play cards, and so when someone yelled "seat open" he hustled over and sat down.

While in the library, Joe had brushed up on his "Hearts" in an official book of Hoyle. He remembered that the eldest hand makes the opening lead, and that each hand must follow suit to a lead if able; if unable a hand may discard any card. But the player dealt the Queen of spades must discard it at his first opportunity. Having this knowledge, Joe felt that he was qualified to sit in on the game. He quickly found out, however, that he wasn't hep to the language of the game.

Joe found out that he was a victim of the spade parade, and that he had to eat the root. The player to his right had smoked it out of him before he had a chance to fluff it off. The players then tried to explain to him that he could "shoot the moon" if he could pull a snow job. Our fugitive from the hookcase found this a little difficult to understand, and asked for an explanation. All Joe could get out of the other players was that if he had a through hand, he could pull an oiler unless someone was a hero and took him off.

A kibitizer advised him not to run 'em because he was hurting in spades, and to lead his out card. Then some fish across the table took him off, and found out that he was cased in diamonds.

In the next hand, Joe decided to smoke it out, and the man to his right promptly thanked him for letting the high man off. Then the man to his left floated the nine of hearts, but he dropped his socks when Joe took him off with the jack, and he yelled, "I'm hung."

The kibitzer informed Joe that he had a good chance to hang the low man because the root was well backed. Joe led his Queen of hearts, thinking it was a diamond, and somebody yelled "You'll never cut the mustard because I have your stopper."

After Joe found out that he was a chooch, a fish, a clown, and a ducker, he checked out of the game. While he was walking out of the door, somebody yelled "seat open."

Pic of the Week

The girl of the week is Bernice Culley, junior, who is a member of the Theta Sigma sorority.

Until the recent election held by the Theta Sigmas, Bernice was the president of that organization. Last week at their formal rush dinner she was installed as chaplain and Martha Wessner takes her place as president.

Last year she was elected sergeant-at-arms of her sorority and acted as Hell Week captain.

Bernice is interested in athletics and belongs to the Rifle club and Women's Athletic Association. She also belongs to Alpha Phi Delta, service sorority. Being somewhat of a photography fan, she is a member of the Camera Club.

Much of her time is spent working with student committees and the Inter-Society Council.

In her sophomore year Bernice belonged to the Student Christian Association and was also active in the YWCA club which later combined with the S.C.A.

When she was a freshman she was a member of the Pre-Med Club.

A melical technology major, Bernice came to Evansville College from Central High School. She resides at 105 E. Columbia Street.

Hell Week Opinions Vary:

Some Think It Is 'The Stuff,' Others Believe It Outdated

The age old question of Hell Week is again popular on the campus this year as it has been in the past.

This year, as last, the Crescent has attempted to find out what a cross section of the student and faculty thinks of the activity. However, from the poll, no definite conclusion can be reached other than most of the students believe it should be in moderation.

The question asked was, "Do you approve of Hell Week, and to what extent do you think it should be carried out on the campus?"

Here are the answers:

Dorothy Daily, junior—I approve of it. It definitely has a place on the campus. The campus is for social life. Social life is for mutual enjoyment, and I think that all parties concerned enjoy Hell Week activities.

Clarence Clayton, senior—If it provides a constructive program benefiting the college I approve of it, otherwise, I am against it.

Prof. Lawrence Anderson—I can see no value in it except that it brings the individuals closer together in the group. It seems to be a throw-back from the college campus of the past.

Hobart Lutz, junior—I approve of it as long as it reflects dignity upon the college; but not as some of the antics have been in the past.

Prof. A. C. Spence—I approve of Hell Week, however, it should be kept out of the buildings and classrooms.

Kathryn Starry, junior — No, I believe it to be childish and foolish.

Harold Buck, senior—Yes, but I believe it should be an off-campus affair.

Prof. Harold See—I do not see anything wrong with it in moderation. However, if it is approved in principle as a school activity, it should be allowed to be carried out on the capus rather than off the campus where there is no supervision.

Joann Gresch, junior—Yes, but I don't think it should be on the campus.

Mike McGary, sophomore—Yes. After the monotony of class work, it seems as if it is a good outlet for surplus energy.

Dr. Robert Buell—I do not approve of dangerous activities which reflect on the sponsoring organization. The constructive program like that of the Pi Kappa's two years ago of putting in the sidewalk is good and reflects honor on both the college and fraternity. The seven organizations participating in Hell Week might provide assembly programs for this week which would be educative rather than silly, improper or dangerous.

Frieda Montgomery, freshman—It is all right, but there should be a limit to the campus activities.

Noble Hart, junior—It may be all right for the younger students, but I certainly don't think the older and veteran students think much of it.

J. Robert Hill, senior—No, inasmuch as the organizations on the campus are not national, it is not worth the embarrassment involved.

Carl Klingelhoefer, sophomore—Yes, without some kind of activity, it wouldn't seem as if you had joined a fraternity.

Jim Fowler, junior — It is all right, but I think there should be a limit to the degree to which it is carried out.

Freshmen in Mrs. Charlotte Stephens English 101A class were given the assignment to write a theme about the TUB. With those instructions one gentleman, pretty green and unfamiliar on the campus, turned in a neat, well-prepared theme entitled "The History of The Bathtub."

Notes to You, Too

Last Monday night selected compositions written by music students were presented before the public in a very formal and solemn manner at a recital in the auditorium. These numbers were all listed on the program with their grand musical titles which to us know-nothings about music really sounded great. One particular piece written by Kenneth Berger was entitled "Sonatina for Woodwind Quartet." Not listed on the program however, were the individual titles given to the three movements by Mr. Berger:

1. Serenade to a Stray Maid
2. Songs My Mother Never Taught Me
3. Fallen Arch March

Welfare Committee Assists Students With Doctor Bills

By JEFF HAYS

To help students with medical emergencies that may arise during the year, on or off the campus, is the main purpose of the Welfare Committee. Although most students know nothing about it, if a student has a doctor bill and needs financial assistance, the committee may be able to take care of him.

This is not an attempt by the school to finance the maintenance of good health at Evansville College, but each medical bill is paid for by a fund built up by the students. About $2.00 a year is taken from each students' activity fee and put into the committee fund.

The committee is composed of nine members, six students and three faculty members. Gene Cebula is the chairman of the committee, and Charlotte Rupp, James Barbee, Tony Capprita, Earl Buechler, and Hobart Lutz make up the student members. Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department of home economics; Dr. Donald Dunham, head of department of Biology; and Arad McCutchan, basketball coach, are the faculty members.

Committee Decides

To receive financial assistance, a student should have his statement from the doctor, and give it to Jim Barnett, Dr. McKown, or any committee member. The bill is then taken before the committee and they pass judgment as to whether the student deserves financial aid. As yet none have ever been rejected.

Any bill of $100 or more may not be completely taken care of. The committee has made a rule on large bills stating that either the whole bill shall be paid or 3½% of the fund's balance, whichever is less. There is about $5000 in the fund at the present time.

Eight claims are on file now and are ready for payment. Two of the most notable among the bills paid this year by the committee were the bills for the two injuries resulting from the intra-fraternity football game last fall.

Helps Health Center

Another function of the Welfare Committee is the upkeep of the Health Center. Miss Louise Rumer is employed as a full time nurse, and Dr. John Flinn is available from 8 until 9 o'clock every morning for consultation at the Health Center.

The Health Center has been set up in the office building. Two beds have been placed there, and full first-aid equipment is at the students disposal.

This committee also arranges for the Tuberculosis chest X-rays that are available every year for the students and free for freshmen.

Officials for the Ohio Valley Conference were announced last week by Kelly Thompson, manager of the tournament. Two of the four chosen to work the tourney are well known to local fans. First of these is Hickman Duncan, from Nashville, and the other is "Ox" Hartley, a local official. Kenny Jordan, Cincinnati, and Herman Jackson, Mufreeshoro, Tenn., are the other team to work the games.

These four were chosen hy the conference coaches, each of whom turned in their preferences. Drawings for the tournament will be made at Louisville this Sunday.

Single game tickets for the tournament are not being sold here but may be obtained at the door or by writing for them.

The "No Smoking" rule that has been put into effect at our home games is one that should have been enforced long ago. A gym that is filled with smoke from pipes, cigars and cigarettes is eertainly not helping the wind and general health of the players, or speetators for that matter.

This rule should be enforeed very carefully for the protection of players and fans alike. Many people never have smoked at the games, going on the theory that if they refrained others might follow their example. However, the people that went right on puffing away were the ones that caused the haze.

Evansville's baseball schedule is partially complete at the present time and includes four games with the Indiana University nine. Two of the games will be played here and two of them at Bloomington. The diamondmen are also playing James Milliken University and Eastern Illinois during the season.

These games will be in addition to the games with conference members that will determine the Ohio Valley championship. The Aces should have a good baseball team with several lettermen back from last year's nine.

In addition to baseball, Evansville will field the usual number of spring sports teams, including track, tennis, and golf. This should be a better year for Evansville as several lettermen are expected back in each sport.

Tourney Ducat Quota of 255 For Evansville

Evansville has received its allocation of tickets for the Ohio Valley Conference basketball tourney at the Armory in Louisville Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 24, 25, and 26.

Two hundred tickets have been received which will sell for $7 and 55 other tickets will sell for $5. The difference in seating makes the difference in price.

Sale Ends Tomorrow

The seats assigned to Evansville are in the side arena filling the first 21 rows in section 12. No single game tickets are to be sold to colleges but single game tickets will be on sale at the armory in Louisville on Feb. 7 and can he secured either in person or by mail. Season tickets will not be on sale at the Athletic Office after tomorrow noon.

Members of the conference to participate in the tourney are: Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky, University of Louisville, Murray State Teachers, Morehead, Marshall, Tennessee Tech, and Evansville College.

Make Drawings Sunday

The tourney will be conducted in four sessions as follows: two games Thursday night, 8 p.m.; two games Friday, 8 p.m., two games Saturday, 12:15 p.m.; consolation game Saturday, 7:30 p.m. and final game at 9 p.m.

Tourney drawings will be Sunday in Louisville.

College Bowling Team To Roll at Indiana U

The Evansville Cotlege bowling team will play its first match of the season Feb. 19, when they journey to Bloomington for a meet with the Indiana University bowlers, according to Jack Huher, co-secretary of the howling league.

Last year the upstaters defeated Evansville College in both matches of a home-and-home arrangement. Jack Huher, Fred Jandebeur, and Harold Gourley are holdovers from last year's team. Ramsey Bristow and Al Delaney probably will round out the five-man team that will play Indiana, Mr. Huber added.

Sakel Playing Fifteenth Year on Basketball Court

After getting off to a slow start last year because of an appendectomy, Bob Sakel, one of the first six, has turned into a dangerous and scrappy ball player. Bob alternates at forward with the Barnetts, and has seen action in every game the Aces have played this season with the exception of the Ottawa encounter.

Playing basketball since the fourth grade in Huntingburg, Bob has gained a lot of valuable net experience. He played on the grade school team in Huntingburg from the fourth through the seventh grade and then moved to Jasper, where he completed his pre-college edncation.

Earned Four Letters

During the time he lived at Huntingburg the elementary school team never lost a game to Jasper and while he lived in Jasper the grade and high school teams never lost a game to Huntinburg. This speaks well for Bob as a player, whether he was entirely responsihle for the wins or not.

Bob earned four letters, two major and two minor, in his high school days in basketball. In addition to his net efforts he lettered four years in baseball while there. According to Bob, he received a letter his freshman year in baseball because the coach put him in to get walks because of his small size at the time. He still plays baseball during the summer with the Jasper semi-pro team, alternating between first base and shortstop.

After his graduation from high school in 1945, Bob entered the Navy and was in until July 1946. While in the service he played for a short time with the St. Mary's Pre-Flight team and with the Farragut, Idaho team.

In addition to his net efforts he lettered in tennis last year and plans to go out again this spring. A Phi Zeta, Bob is sergeant-at-arms of the fraternity.

College Blasts Southern; State Wins in Overtime

By GENE MARKET

Evansville College's fast-breaking quintet encounters three tough opponents next week. The Aces travel to Indiana State tomorrow night, and to Western Kentucky, Tuesday. The only home engagement is the Thursday meeting with Murray.

In last week's firing, the Purple Aces broke even, stampeding Southern Illinois, 84-67, and losing a closc 69-68 overtime verdict to Indiana State's fighting Sycamores.

Tomorrow night's opponent needs no introduction for the memory of last Saturday's skirmish is still vivid in the minds of most Evansville rooters.

State's starting aggregation consists of the same five that started last Saturday's epic battle. Duane Kleuh and Donald McDonald, the man who wrecked the Aces in last week's tilt, at the forwards. Jim Dimich cavorts at the pivot position and Boh Royer and Lenny Rzeszewski round out the five at the guard posts.

Western, Aces Mix

Western Kentucky, next Tuesday's foe, finally met disaster after 15 straight successes by bowing to Eastern's Maroons, 42-40. Incidentally, the Western loss was the first on its home court in their last 32 games.

Evansville lost to the Hilltoppers recently after having led the Hilltoppers for thirty-eight minutes, 72-66 in a game at the Armory.

Coach Eddie Diddle's giants are paced by lanky Bob Lavoy, the six-foot, seven-inch center, veteran guard now in his fourth season as a regular on the Hilltopper squad.

Murray Here Thursday

Next Thursday, the Purple Aces take on the Murray Thoroughbreds on the Armory boards in a rematch and it should prove another interesting battle. The Aces bowed to the Breds earlier in the season, 62-60.

After building up a 17-point half time lead, Evansville faltered badly against the Sycamores and State finally caught the Aces at 60-60. The game was nip-and-tuck with the end of regulation time finding the game 62-all. The Aces played part of the overtime minus three of their starters who had touled out.

Seven Matches Face College Rifle Team

Seven challenges for competitive small bore gallery matches have been received and accepted by the Evansville College Rifle Club within the past few days.

Five of the ehallenges are for the women of the team and two are for the men.

The Rifle Cluh has never been broken into teams of men and women. But, for competitive matches, it was decided to consider the team as two groups, according to Joanne Englebert, president. Practice firing will continue with the teams as one group as usual, every Friday evening at 7:30 in the Armory basement.

One Five for Many

All the challenges are from affiliates of the National Rifle Association and are for postal matches; that is, scores will be exchanged rather than the teams traveling. Under this system, the scores from one round of firing may be used against more than one team.

Next Friday evening, at 7:30, the Women's Team will fire against the Women's Team of the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash., and of the University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio.

On March 4, the Men's Team will compete with the University of Cincinnati.

The University of Nevada, Reno, Nev., has challenged both the Evansville teams to matches for the week ending March 19. For the same week, the Women's Team has a tentative match with Penn Hall Junior College of Chambersburg, Pa.

Name Women Team

During the week ending March 26, the Women's Team will fire against Beaver College of Jenkinstown, Pa.

Name Five-Man Team

Five men who will fire are: Jack Williams, junior; Hank Dersch, junior; Dick Gerhardt, junior; Allen Borgend, freshman; and William Duffy, junior. Remaining positions on the Men's Team have not been decided upon.

At the present, the group is waiting for further word from the Director of Civilian Marksmanship, Washington, D.C., concerning the issuance of free ammunition to the local group. Meanwhile, ammunition is being secured in wholesale lots.

Other officers of the group besides Miss Englebert, are: Hank Dersch, vice president; Carolyn Miller, secretary; Dorothy Dailey, corresponding secretary; and Dick Gerhardt, treasurer.

Vets Continue Lead In Bowling League; Jandebeur Rolls 240

The Vets continued to lead in the Evansville College Bowling League at the end of the fourth week of play with nine wins and three losses according to a report from Jack Huber, co-secretary of the league.

Following close behind is the Philo I team with eight wins and three losses. Three teams are tied for third place with seven and five each. They are the Newman Club, Phi Zeta I, and the Faculty Business Administration.

The standings of all the teams are as follows:

	W.	L.
Vets	9	3
Philo I	8	4
Newman Club	7	5
Phi Zeta I	7	5
Faculty Business Adm.	7	5
Phi Zeta II	6	6
Pi Kappa I	5	7
Accounting	5	7
Philos II	4	8
Pi Kappa	2	10

Fred Jandebeur of the Vets set a new season record by rolling a 240 for a single game and a 610 for the series high.

The five bowlers with the highest individual game average for the second half of the season are listed below:

Dr. Buell, Education Professor, Aided in Rocket Development

Dr. Robert R. Buell, associate professor of education, is one of the 24 new faculty members at Evansville College this year.

Born in Iowa, Dr. Buell attended high school there and received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the State University of Iowa. He also received his doctorate from the same school, with a major in education and a minor in chemistry.

Dr. Robert R. Buell

Taught at Several Colleges

Dr. Buell has taught in high schools in Iowa and Wisconsin and in colleges in Iowa, Illinois, Alabama, and Indiana.

From 1942 through 1947, he was with the Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Del., in various technical capacities. During this period, Dr. Buell also served on the Army-Navy Rocket Panel. In 1946 and 1947, he was in charge of rocket powder development at the Sunflower Arsenal.

Dr. Buell resigned as technical director of the Hercules company in 1947 to return to teacher training.

He has had a number of books, papers, and monographs published. These include books on "Cellulose Nitrate Colloids," "Control of Double Base Propellants for Dimension Control and Ballistics," and "Effect of Water on Colloiding Nitro-Cellulose."

Also listed among his works are a monograph, "Silica in Boiler Feed Waters," monographs and papers on related subjects and Quality Control, and, in education, works in the fields of high school chemistry and physical science.

His Poems Published

He has had poems published in several anthologies and magazines.

They Sing, Too -- It Says Here

Here is one of those publicity shots. This time it is of a couple of lovely lasses, Jo Stafford (left) and Peggy Lee. The two songbirds are comparing warblings in tune-up for a radio show.

Current Month of the Year Turns Out To Be February

All those people born in February have a distinction that no other people have. They are the only people who were born in the second month of the year.

If this is not specific enough, a single day will be singled out for study. Take the day Feb. 4. This is the day set aside for those born on this day, some year ago or more, to celebrate their birthday by celebrating what has come to be called a birthday.

There are exceptions to this, of course. There are some who do not care to celebrate the event because it necesitates the admission of the addition of another year to the too-many-already. The reason for this act may be insurance or vanity—not old age security.

Others may not celebrate today because they are not, as they say, up to it. This may or may not mean they started their celebrating a bit too early.

Olmsted Featured in Piano Program Tonight at 8:30

The music department will present Miss Sylvia Olmsted, pianist, in a faculty recital tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

Miss Olmsted is assistant professor of piano on the college staff. She was with the Cluthe School of Music until 1942, when it was merged with the college.

A native of Evansville, Miss Olmsted attended Northwestern University, the American Conservatory, and the Gunn School of Music in Chicago. She has studied piano under such artists as Arne Oldberg, Tomford Harris, Glen Dillard Gunn, and Alfred Mirovitch.

For the first part of her program Miss Olmsted has chosen to play "Ballade, Op. 52, F minor;" "Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 2;" "Waltz, Op. 70, No. 1;" and "Etude, Op. 25, No. 11;" selections by Chopin.

The second section of the program will include "Sonata, Op. 35 (Agitato, Scherzo. Marche funebre, and Presto)" by Chopin.

Concluding the program, Miss Olmsted will play three selections by Ravel, "Jeux d'-Eau," "Ondine," and "Toccata."

'48 Graduate Wins Evansville Jaycee Service Award

Charles Edward Caniff, 1948 graduate, last week received the Junior Chamber of Commerce service award as Evansville's outstanding young man of 1948.

Mr. Caniff, formerly a captain in the Marine Air Corps, was injured in a plane crash in 1945, and was paralized from the waist down. He was hospitalized for over a year.

While at the college Mr. Caniff majored in business administration. He was listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," was named a Campus Notable, was elected president of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity, and was a member of Phi Zeta, social fraternity.

Mr. Caniff was instrumental in the founding of the Midwest Paraplegie Veterans Association. This was listed as his outstanding accomplishment of 1948.

He now lives with his wife and two children at 2609 Blackford Ave. He is Operations Supervisor for Sky Service Corporation.

Smoke Gets in Your Eyes

Two Chemistry Majors Make Smoke Experiments in City

Clarence Titzer and Reginald Rodman, both seniors majoring in chemistry, have completed a project, under the direction of Dr. Alvin Strickler, head of the chemistry department, to prove just how dirty Evansville is in the winter.

Twelve Sections Tested

The project consisted of setting up metal plates 30 inches square and covered with an absorbent paper, in twelve different locations throughout the city. Each location was chosen to be as nearly as possible in the center of an area a mile square. The plates were placed approximately eight feet above the ground. They were put out on a Saturday and left out for seven hours.

After the plates were collected, the students had the job of dissolving the paper, filtering out the soot collected, weighing the soot, and then figuring out on the basis of the thirty square inch collector, the amount of soot that fell in the seven hours over each square mile area.

Study Results

The results showed the heaviest soot fall was not far from three tons. The exact figure was 5.547 and was represented by a plate set up at the Mead Johnson terminal. Close behind were the locations at WGBF, 519 Vine Street and at 2421 Pennsylvania Street. Both of these yields were over two tons. The smallest yield was 590 pounds at 700 Sunset Avenue.

Other derived figures included Washington and Lodge Avenues, 2685 pounds; 750 Washington Avenue, 883 pounds; 2915 Broadway Street, 3099 pounds; 109 S. Willow Road, 1139 pounds; 610 John Street, 1114 pounds; 635 Tennessee Street, 2272 pounds; 1211 Harriett Street, 1534 pounds; and 1112 Park Street, 2242 pounds.

Plan More Tests

Mr. Titzer and Mr. Rodman pointed out that these tests were made on a Saturday when few industries were in operation. They plan to make other tests when the factories are in operation.

Similar tests have been made in Evansville before by Dr. Strickler, but this is the first time for that particular method.

Thetas Treat Castys, Sigs To 'Pot Luck' Supper

The Theta Sigma social sorority gave a "pot-luck" supper last night in the Tea Hut for the other two social sororities on campus, Castalian and Camma Epsilon Sigma.

After the supper, the group attended the Evansville-Louisville basketball game at the Armory.

This was the first time for an all-sorority get-together in many years. Several years ago they all joined in sponsoring a dance.

Special Tests Scheduled For Monday, Tuesday

Two special tests are to be given by the Testing and Counseling Office Monday and Tuesday.

Three seniors, Adam Banner, Arline McRae, and Arlene Starry, are scheduled to take the Graduate Record Examination, which will be given Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. This examination is required by some schools for students who plan to do graduate work at those schools.

The Medical Aptitude Test, required of all medical school applicants, will be given Monday. Taking it will be Charles Grief, Kenneth Scales, Dale Schlusemeyer and Don Wand.

Kronsbein To Speak

Professor John Kronsbein, head of the department of engineering, will speak to members of the Engineering Club, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Men's Lounge.

Art Work of Students Displayed on Campus

Students of Miss Florence Keve, assistant professor of art, have been working on various art projects.

Recently the art students have been creating designs that can later be put on textiles.

Several weeks ago the art classes met out of doors and sketched scenes of the college campus. These sketches were later elaborated upon in class and several are on display on the walls of the art room.

Also on display are drawings of an army officer who was invited to pose for the classes.

The music department furnished the subject for the colored paintings of a violin in a case.

Through The Newsoscope

By ARLENE STARRY

Some people blame everything on the weather; we have reason to suspect there might be a certain validity in such an outlook.

For instance, we recently had occasion to remark we were in a slump, that education had lost its challenge. Out of the conversation came the logical explanation that a college career follows the natural curve of ups and downs, of exhilaration and depression.

The freshman year keeps a student occupied just getting acquainted and acclimated; the sophomore year he realy gets going — classes, clubs, social activities, and committee affairs have him continually on the jump; during the junior year, he sort of slides along on the acceleration set-up by the first two; then, pft, comes his senior year and the student is suddenly faced with the realization of how little he actually knows — and there is that big, turbulent world facing him. Comes the slump, and a fleeting speculation as to whether the struggle is worth while in the long run.

Miss Arlene Starry

On this basis, we took another look, and reached the conclusion it probably is — in the long run. But, on the other hand, the sun shone this week. Now which gets the credit—the weather or the logical explanation?

● Students with an annual gripe about the method of selecting Campus Notables and Leaders should be cheered by the recent faculty resolution to have a student-faculty nominating committee do the choosing (see story this page).

● The third vesper service of the college year will feature Dr. Elton Trueblood of Earlham College, speaking in the auditorium Sunday. Dr. Trueblood, a Quaker and a leading contemporary philosopher, was at one time chaplain of Sanford University. Among his most recent contributions to philosophic thought are "The Predicament of Modern Man," "The Alternative to Futility," and "The Logic of Belief."

More streamlining has been done on the registration system. Oldtimers no longer will need to go through the line (see story this page).

● The recently established Grievance Committee is now in operation. Complaint forms are available at the SGA Office in the TUR. For the names of students who will serve on the group, see story this page.

● People with reading handicaps will now have an opportunity to increase their rate of reading and comprehension. Eye movement tests will be given in the psychology department with the opthalmograph; students with difficulties may take corrective drills (see story page 4). The rate of reading and comprehension frequently means the difference between outstanding and medioere work in college and in business.

● Musical Brainteaser No. 8: On what historic occasion did the band play "The World is Turned Upside Down?"

Long, McKown Elected At Recent Meetings

Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president of the college, has been elected president of the Evansville Council for Community Service, it was announced reeently by Robert H. Schlundt, retiring president.

Mr. Long has heen an active member of this organization for the past three years. The first year he was vice president and last year he served as treasurer of the organization.

Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the college, was reeently elected vice president of the National Association of Biblical Instructors, midwest section, at a meeting in Chicago.

Students To Have Voice In Selecting Notables

A long-voiced wish of the student body was realized last Monday when the faculty voted in favor of a resolution made by Jim Barnett, Student Government president, to let the student body have some say in the choosing of Campus Notables and Campus Leaders.

James Morlock, dean of men; Lucile Jones, professor of education; Harris Erickson, professor of bible and philosophy; Harold Willis, assistant professor of physics; and Mary G. Wolfe, assistant professor of English, served on a faculty committee which was appointed to review the process of selecting Campus Notables and Campus Leaders for publication in the LinC.

Committee Reeommendation

The final resolution stated that the committee recommended a fairly large and representative nominating committee of both faculty and students meeting jointly to pick the recipients in order to avoid the danger of overlooking any worthy and eligible students.

The student council will appoint a student from each fraternity and sorority, two students from the Independent Students Association, and four unaffiliated students who will select at least three times as many nominees as will be finally selected. A list of these nominees, along with their achievements, will then be presented to the faculty who will make the final selection by ballot vote.

Qualifications Listed

Campus Notables in the past have been chosen as typifying the seven virtues indicated on the college seal, which are: adequate vocational skills, excellent health habits, worthy recreational facility, grace in social fellowship, love of beauty, attainment of wisdom, and spiritual aspiration.

The deans of the college have been choosing Campus Leaders heretofore with the choice made on the student's ideals, inspiration, enthusiasm, and personality.

Services Set For Sunday

Dr. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College, will speak at the Vesper Services in the auditorium Sunday, Feb. 13, at 4 p.m. His topic will be "A New Reformation in Our Time."

Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college, will preside during the services and Dr. Harris Erickson, professor of philosophy and religion, will introduce the speaker.

Dr. Trueblood at one time was the dean of chapel and professor of philosophy at Stanford University. He is the author of several books, the latest being "Alternatives to Futility."

He will he at the Central Methodist Church at 9:30 and at the Trinity Methodist Church at 10:30 Sunday morning.

Elton T. Barnum, director of religious life, made the arrangements to bring Dr. Truehlood to Evansville College.

A total of four Vesper Services are being held this year. Their purpose is to strengthen the religious life program on campus. All students and the puhlic are invited.

Music Awards Given Monday

Twenty-eight music students received gold key service awards at the annual mid-winter concert in the Coliseum Monday night, Feh. 7.

These awards are presented annually, at this event, to outstanding members of the college hand and choir.

To be eligihle for the key, a student must have heen in either the band or choir for at least nine quarters. Three of these quarters must have been during the senior year of college.

The 17 choir members who met the requirements for gold keys are William Bell, Miriam Curtis, Ruth Grossman, Antoinette Heldt, Karen Warweg, Harold Lively.

Mary Martin, Virginia Newman, Robert Padgett, Marilyn Ramsey, Wilma Pierce, Shirley Ray, Harvey Rose, Ruth Sansom, James Schmidt, Mary Etta Van Horn and Jerry West.

Eleven band members who received awards are Kenneth Berger, Cantrell Craddock, Joyce Gardner, Lyman Hall, Robert Hormuth, Gilbert Korh, Harold Lively, Robert Padgett, Gene Pegler, Ruth Sansom, and William Scott.

The awards were presented by Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college.

Dean Reports Change In Summer Schedule

The summer session will begin June 9 instead of the previously announced June 13, according to Edgar M. McKown, dean of the college.

Students who are enrolled in the spring quarter will register for the summer session sometime in May. New students will register June 8.

The summer session will last eight weeks, closing Aug. 5.

Registration To Start Feb. 21; New System To Be Initiated

G. R. McCoy, registrar of the college, has announced a new plan of registration to be instituted with the third quarter.

Third quarter registration will start Monday, Feb. 21, and continue through Saturday, March 5, Mr. McCoy declared.

Will Receive Cards

Under the new system, when the students complete pre-registering with their advisers and take the completed forms to the registrar's office for approval, they will be issued an envelope containing the necessary cards for completing registration. The student will then fill out the cards in the same manner as in the past and return them to the registrar's office for checking.

The cards include the student's enrollment card, the cards for the dean of the college and dean of men or women, the student's card for his personal use, and a card for the use in the TUB.

Pay hy March 23

Tuition need not be paid immediately, but must be paid by the third day of the new quarter, Wednesday, March 23. If it is not paid hy this time, the student's enrollment will be cancelled and a $3 re-enrollment fee will be charged.

Mr. McCoy said tbat this plan will eliminate the need for a two-day registration period as in the past. He said, however, that freshmen enrolling for the first time and transfer students will register Friday morning, March 18.

The two or three-day registration period formerly followed will have to be used for the fall quarter because of the inadvisibility of registering so far in advance, Mr. McCoy stated.

Debate Team To Visit Murray State College

Two college debate teams will travel to Murray State College next Wednesday to participate in a two-round debate challenge.

The topic for debate is, "Resolved: That the federal govenment should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools hy means of annual grants."

Members of the affirmative team will be Clarence Clayton and John Schrodt, both seniors. Emily Combs, senior, and Hobart Lutz, sophomore, will be on the negative team.

Professor A. C. Spence is the college debate coach.

Voice Instructor To Give German Recital Tonight

Frederick T. Wessel, instructor in voice and music literature, will he presented in a faculty recital in the auditorium tonight at 8:30.

Mr. Wessel, baritone, has chosen a program of German songs for his recital, which is another in a series of faulty programs scheduled this year by the music department.

He has sung in several Evansville churches and while in Huston, Texas, was soloist in the First Methodist Church there.

Frederick T. Wessel

Directs Glee Club

A graduate of Central High School, Mr. Wessel received his bachelor's and master's degrees in music from DePauw University. He now directs the college Men's Glee Club.

The program will include numbers from four German composers: Franz Schubert, Robert Schumann, Johannes Brahms and Hugo Wolf

Opening the program will be five selections hy Schubert: "Das Wandern," "Das Lindenbaum," "Das Jager," "Morgengrusse," and "Rastlose Liebe."

To Sing Folk Songs

Mr. Wessel will sing four songs by Brahms: "Regen Lied," "In Meiner Nachte Sehneu," "Wir Wandelten," and "Heimkehr." Numbers by Schumann will include "Die Meerfee," "Liebeslied," "Jasminenstrauch," and "Waldesgesprach."

In conclusion he will present "Fussriesse," "Biterrolf," Auf dem Grunen Ralcon," "Anacreons Garh," and "Trunken" by Wolf.

Miss Jean Bridges, assistant professor or organ and piano, will accompany Mr. Wessel at the piano.

Banquet, Reception Mark Thespians' 25th Anniversary

"The Linden Tree" will be presented by the Thespians next Thursday and Friday in the auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The Thespians 25th anniversary will be celebrated in connection with the play by a banquet and a reception Thursday evening.

The play, written by J. B. Priestly, is an English play produced in London in 1947. It coneerns an English family named Linden whose lives have heen affected by the war and its aftermath. There is rationing and insecurity everywhere in England. It is a story of a professor of history at a university in Burmanley, England.

Professor Has Troubles

Professor Linden, played by Frank Chandler, is a strong individualist. His wife, Isabelle, played by Emmalouise Seegmueller, helives her husband is old enough to retire and she threatens to go to London if he doesn't.

Members of the university try to dispose of the professor, and three of his children are against him; however, his youngest daughter, Dinah, worships him and she is the only person he really trusts.

Knowing that his family and the university are against him, the professor doesn't know whether to stick to his ideas, or to reconsider, give up his joh at the university, and keep peace in the family.

Adds Humor

Mrs. Cotton, housekeeper of the Linden family, provides the humor in the play.

Miss Pearle LeCompte, assistant professor of speech, who has heen associated with the Thespians for 21 years, will be the honored guest at a hanquet Thursday in the T-Hut at 6:30 p.m. Miss LeCompte visited in England last year while the English production of "The Linden Tree" was being run.

Alumni Invited

The banquet marks the 25th anniversary for the Thespians at Evansville College. All Thespians alumni are invited along with the cast and crews of the play.

Special inviatations have been sent to English people in Evansville, inviting them to a reception to be given after the performance Thursday evening. Cast and crews of the play and the first night audience are also invited.

Council Appoints New Grievance Committee

Five students have heen named to compose the new Grievance Committee recently set up hy the Student Council.

The joh of this committee will he to make a thorough investigation of complaints received from the students.

Students may file a complaint hy completing a form obtainable from the office of the Student Government Association in the Temporary Union Building.

One Beer Coming Up

It is a sad fact that one of the easiest ways to sell ideas to the American student is to associate with each idea a free beer. Now we are not necessarily against beer, free or otherwise but we do feel that there is a need for a de-emphasis among the student population of the purely material values which seem so paramount in our society as a whole.

A primary aim of both academic and extra-curricular education should be the broadening of student interest. The finished graduate of our colleges and universities should be able to enjoy and appreciate such divergent activities as an opera, a basketball game, the works of a great poet, a dance, a political forum.

Those who devote their entire collegiate career to their books are apt to be narrow in their concepts and attitudes. Those who shun their academic responsibilities are in a worse position, for their wasted under-graduate years are apt to be a complete loss to the community-at-large. Only the well-rounded graduate is fully equipped to meet his social responsibilities.

The student government continually must work, therefore, for an expansion of the horizons of the individual student. Through to accomplish this end it at first may be impossible to disassociate the beer from the idea, the essential goal must always be kept in view.

Only when each aspect of our culture is objectively judged by the college student on the basis of its own intrinsic worth will higher education have begun to meet its potentialities.

Dick Heggie—The NSA News

College Education Helps Majority, Says Survey

Seven out of ten people believe their college education has been of real help in their occupational success according to reports of a survey made in 1947-48 by Time Magazine. The survey was made in 1100 colleges, including Evansville College, and some 9064 men and women graduates were questioned.

However, satisfaction with their education varies widely according to the major they studied.

Major Studied	Helped In Present Occupation A Lot	Some	None
Medicine	95.4%	4.6%	–%
Dentistry	95.3	4.7	–
Pharmacy	85.7	11.4	2.9
Law	84.6	14.8	.6
Engineering	81.9	17.3	.8
Home Economics	80.5	18.3	1.2
Philosophy, Religion	78.9	19.3	1.8
Other Professional	75.3	23.6	1.1
Agriculture, Forestry	73.8	25.8	.4
Science, Mathematics	72.2	25.8	2.0
Education	70.9	27.6	1.5
Fine Arts, Music	66.7	31.1	2.2
Humanities	63.6	32.7	3.7
Business Aministration	61.8	36.8	1.4
Social Sciences	54.0	43.3	2.7

More people studied in the field of humanities while they were in college than in any other field of concentration. Science and mathematics, engineering, social science, education and business administration followed in that order.

Four out of five of these graduates are satisfied with the colleges they attended but 25 per cent of them wish they had majored in a different field of study.

Convenience Named

Convience was the main reason 46 per cent of the graduates and their friends attended the colleges they did.

Seven out of ten of these graduates had jobs during the time they were attending college and three out of ten said they earned half or more of their total college expenses.

Only one in eight did not engage in some form of extra-curricular activity. Women were as active as men; in fact, they were somewhat more inclined to leadership of campus organizations.

Sports Most Popular

The five most popular general fields of activity of men and women alike were sports, varsity and otherwise; dramatics and debate; college paper and yearbook; choral, orchestra and band; and campus politics.

Fifteen per cent of the graduates received grades of mostly A's; 60 per cent received mostly B's; and 24 per cent received mostly C's and D's.

The occupational plans of these men and women while in college were somewhat different from their actual performance in post-college life. Notable changes include the swing to business and the decline in education as a career.

Men Run Business

The high occupational status of these graduates is indicated by the fact that two-fifths of them are in professional ranks. Men still have the field of business pretty much to themselves and three out of five of the employed women are in teaching and allied work in education.

While four out of five of the men graduates are now married, the ratio drops to three out of five for the women.

Only 33 per cent of those questioned attend church every week. Twenty-two per cent attend pretty regularly, hut not every week. Men graduates are less regular in attendance than women.

These college graduates are joiners, with only one in seven not belonging to cluhs or organizations, other than churches.

Thirty-eight per cent of those questioned considered themselves Republicans and 26 per cent considered themselves Democrats.

Brandon, Loos New Additions To Department of History

By BILL DUFFY

William L. Brandon and John L. Loos, recent additions to the history department, find contact with students and faculty of Evansville College to be cooperative and stimulating.

Mr. Brandon, instructor of history, was graduated from Pennsylvania State College in 1946. He received his M.A. degree in history from Pennsylvania State College in 1948.

In 1946-47 he taught social studies at Peru Junior High School in Indiana, and taught American History in Pennsylvania State College before coming to Evansville College in the fall of 1948.

Was in Navy

Being a native of Indiana, Mr. Brandon received his early education in Indianapolis.

Mr. Brandon served as a naval officer in the Navy Training Program for two years.

A strong believer in scouting activities, he has had contact with the scouting movement since he first joined a scout troop when he was a boy. He is the faculty adviser of Alpha Phi Omega, national organization of former boy scouts.

Enjoys Ping Pong

Mr. Brandon enjoys his work at the college. "I have been pleased with the fine cooperation between the students and faculty of Evansville College," he stated.

Some of Mr. Brandon's favorite hobbies are scouting, table tennis and tennis. He says he is still trying to overcome Dr. David's serves at the Ping Pong table in the TUB.

Mr. Brandon is married and has a daughter two years old.

From State of Nebraska

John L. Loos, assistant professor of history, was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1939. He received his M.A. degree in history from the University of Nebraska in 1940. He did three years of graduate work at Washington University in St. Louis.

Born and raised in Nebraska, he was educated in Nebraska public schools.

Mr. Loos was an officer in the Field Artillery for five years. He served two years of this time in Hawaii, Philippine Islands and New Guinea, aand was returned to inactive duty as a major.

Finishing His Ph. D.

Describing his experiences at Evansville College, he said, "I have found my contacts with the students to be both pleasant and stimulating."

Mr. Loos is working for his Ph. D degree and his doctoral dissertation, a definitive biography of William Clark, co-leader of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, is now being produced. He did six months of intensive research on his Ph. D. degree last year in the National Archives and Library of Congress. "I hope to have it written by the end of the summer," he said.

Mr. Loos's hobby is swimming. In addition to his teaching, Mr. Loos is faculty adviser of the International Relations Club.

John L. Loos, left, and William L. Brandon, instructors in the department of history, who are selecting material to be used in future classes, seem to find humor in history.

Delay Causes Vets' Losses

Many of the veteran students at the college who have had their dependency status change during this school year have lost money because they have not reported it immediately, according to Mrs. Shirley Owens of the Testing and Counseling Center.

For the benefit of students who expect a dependency change the following information is quoted from the Veteran's Administration:

Report At Once

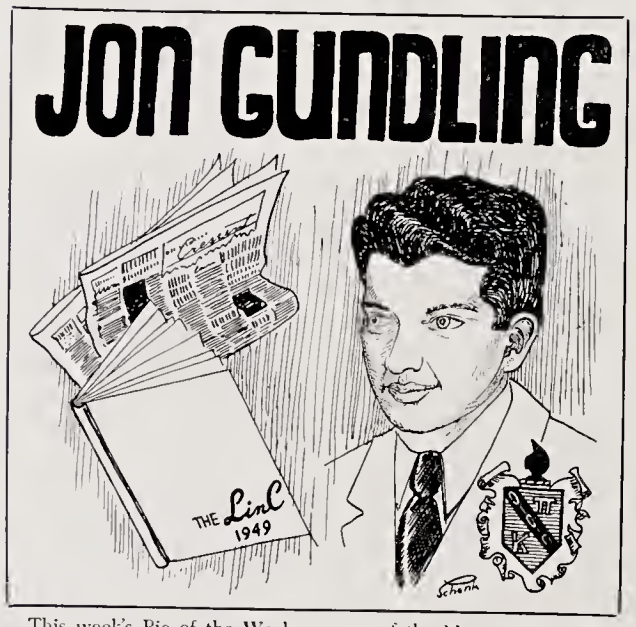
"Student veterans whose dependency status changes during the school year are reminded by Veterans Administration to submit proof of additional dependency as soon as possible to the VA regional office in which their records are filed.

Veterans with dependents, who are studying full or part-time in schools and colleges under the G-I Bill are eligible for additional subsistence payments because of dependents.

Proof Required

However, legal proof, such as certified copies of public records of birth, baptism, marriage, divorce, or other evidence, must be in their VA training file in order to qualify.

Pic of the Week



This week's Pic of the Week is Jon Gundling, editor of the LinC. The soft spoken former army air force pilot has been very active in Evansville College's student government.

Before becoming editor of the LinC, Mr. Gundling served as a section editor in his freshman year, and as associate editor in his junior year. Last year he worked on THE CRESCENT as feature editor. He is well known among his journalistic colleagues, but he is equally well known by the entire student body because of his varied connection with many of the school's committees.

Mr. Gundling served as chairman of the Management Board and of the Publicity committee of the Temporary Union Building last year. He is now secretary of the Executive Board, and he has worked on the Handbook Committee for the last two years.

Although these extra curricular activities have kept this weeks Pic of the Week selection pretty busy, the good looking Mr. Gundling has still found time for fraternity life. He has been an active member of the Pi Kappa fraternity since he was a freshman.

This year he is serving in the capacity of treasurer of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Sue Says So Sorry

The Sue-half of this column, not wanting to be sued, would like to make an apology to two people. Last week she wrote a cutline under a picture of several people on the Welfare Committee. Out of the clear blue sky, still not knowing why she did it, she wrote the name of Hobart Lutz where the name of Gene Cebula should have been written. So apologies are hereby extended to both gentlemen, and Sue promises to keep them separate in the future.

This evening at five o'clock the forty women pledges of the three social sororities can take their rightful place as young ladies of the campus. For the past two weeks the gals could be distinguished by their respective hats and ribbons — and by their obedience to commands given by their active sorority sisters. They passed ont free smokes, provided chewing gum and candy, and stood in line for lunches when told to wait on someone. Veteran sorority members had better smoke up, fill up, chew up and eat up, today 'cause next week they will have to get back in the swing and do things for themselves.

This Is a Smelly Situation

Gene Market

This St. Valentine's day business is getting goofier by the year. So now what? Well, your Uncle Sammy has on the pay roll some sniffers for the cards you will send the girl friend.

There's been quite a commotion between representatives of the greeting card campanies and Uncle's internal revenue department boys, I was told hy a local card dealer. What it simmers down to is this: When does a valentine card, all nicely smelled up, become a luxury for the lady friend?

The sniffers hired by Uncle Samuel inhale deeply over the ultra-sentimental card. If they figure that the exotic emanations from the conventional token of love will permeate the hankies, panties, nightwear, etc., which the gal has in the boudoir drawer, then the valentine must he considered a sachet, and therefore be subject to the 20 per cent luxury tax which goes on all perfumes.

In consequence to lower costs to the consumer, the greeting eard companies this year have watered the scents which they put into the flossie valentines which have on them stuffed silken hearts. What filters out of those hearts in the way of olfactory caress is not Chanel No. 5, but an attar which Unk's sniffers do not consider to have the lasting aroma of a sachet.

Of all the stupidity which goes on in that fabulous Washington-on-Potomac, the business of levying excise taxes on certain items ranks right up amoung the silliest. Why, for instance, should Joe Taxpayer pungle up extra pennies when he huys an electric light glohe? I have heen convinced through eminent authorities that the electric light is here to stay. In fact, this writer, along with thousands of other persons, helieves that the electric light bulb no longer is a luxury, but a necessity of life.

And why should the married couple, finacially stripped, have to pay excise tax on the talc which gives comfort to the baby's soft and pink hide? Why should any tax at all he levied on the items which the medical profession has developed for the cure or relieving of pain? Why should the government put the 20 per cent bite on your luggage items? Luxury stuff? Heck, no. When you travel to visit relatives and friends, as most people do, you do not put your necessities in a shoe hox or a gunnysack.

What about that, Senators Jenner and Capehart?

Louisville, Morehead Wind Up Season

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Occasionally something comes across the desk that is of interest, even though it is not necessarily current news. The following item appeared in a recent issue of the Indiana Statesman, published at Indiana State in Terre Haute. It concerns the ever-present problem of inferior basketball officiating.

"Something should be done to improve the caliber of officials refereeing cage games. There are many good officials, but the majority is inferior.

Top money attracts top men in any type of business, but the money paid to basketball officials is a joke. Some of them feel lucky if they walk out of a game with five dollars. Average money paid officials runs anywhere from 25 to 75 dollars, plus expenses, and physical beatings they take they deserve twice that much.

Officials in basketball are getting older, and the busine....ss is not attracting younger men. Officials in their late 40's and early 50's, trying to keep up with the present day pace, find themselves puffing and blowing after five minutes of play. They are physically unable to keep up with the progress of the ball, and as a result make more than their share of mistakes. Basketball is a young man's game, and it calls for young officials.

One answer to the problem is to set up a national pool of officials with various regional offices throughout the country. Schools desiring officials would inform the national office in advance and, in turn, this information would be relayed down to the regional offices which would assign the officials. The men would he guaranteed a flat fee for any game and would work games in a comparatively small area.

This would eliminate scrapping between officials for jobs at the best games, where the top money is paid. It would eliminate hiring hiring men from out of town on their own accord.
officials to wrk games a thousand miles away, while local teams are

In any event, the universities and colleges must face up to it. Unless they start shelling out some real dough, the officiating is going to get worse."

The article in the Statesman went on to say that State has a newly inugurated course in officiating. This is a very good policy and one that we are glad to he able to say that Evansville College is following. There is a course in officiating taught here, and the men that are taking it draw assignments in second team games in and around Evansville.

There is, as the article stated, a very definite need for younger men in the officiating field. This should be obvious to any fan that has followed the basketball team the past two years.

Aces To Play Morehead In Ohio Valley Tourney

Coach Arad McCutchan's Aces drew Morhead for the first round in the Ohio Valley Conference cage tournament this Feb. 24-25 at the Jefferson County Armory in Louisville. The Aces will meet Morehead two weeks from tonight at 9:15 o'clock.

Western Kentucky State, rated as sixth among the nation's collegiate basketball team was seeded as No. 1 team for the tournament. The University of Louisville, Eastern Kentucky, and Evansville College, were seeded in this order after Western.

If play runs according to order Eastern and Western will meet in one of the semi-final games. Louisville and Evansville being in the lower bracket are also expected to meet in the semi-finals.

Only the top four teams were seeded. The seeding was determined by votes of the eight represeentatives of the school. The tabulation (four points for No. 1 selection, three for No. 2, two for No. 3 and one for No. 4) showed Western with 28 points.

After the seeding Eastern drew Murray in the first round. Western meets Tennessee Tech at 7:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24, and Eastern will play Murray at 9:15 that night.

In the lower bracket, Louisville meets Marshall College, which it defeated 73-64 in the Kansas City invitational tournament in December at 7:45 p.m. Friday, Feb. 25, and Evansville will meet Morehead as already mentioned.

The upper-bracket semi-final is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, and the lower-bracket semi-final for 2 p.m., same day. The championship game will takee place at 9:15 that night, with the consolation contest for the semi-final losers scheduled for 7:45 o'clock.

Jim Barnett, forward

Second Year of Varsity Play for Jim Barnett

By BILL WOODS

This week's net personality is Jim Barnett, sophomore Ace who played high school ball at Yankeetown. His last year on the team he ran up some phenomenonally high scores.

Jim's basketball career started when he was 10 years old and he has been playing the game ever since. After completion of his grade school work he enrolled at Yankeetown high school and played four years of basketball with them. He was a senior at the time his brother, Bob was a freshman, and they were mates on the high scoring five.

26 Months Navy Service

A business and marketing major, Jim spent 26 months in the navy following his graduation from high school. While in service he played on the St. Louis Base team and on various barracks teams. This is his second year on the Evansville varsity, where he earned a starting berth late last season.

Jim and Bob started in college at the same time, and will be available to Coach McCutchan for two more seasons, a fact for which the Aces followers can be very grateful. Jim is the truly "dead-pan" player of the two, never showing the slightest sign of emotion while on the playing floor.

Takes Few Shots

Not shooting much, hut making them count when he does, is one of Jim's traits. He is a fine defensive player and is "in there" all the time. In addition to these merits he and Bob have worked up a passing combination that is haffling, to say the least, to the opposing teams.

When asked if he had any comment on this year's edition of the Purple Aces, Jim said, "We'll probaby make plenty of trouble in the OVC tournament."

As to post graduation plans, he says that he is not going to take up coaching, but plans to go into the contracting business with his father.

Netmen Hold Victories Over Both Opponents

By JEFF HAYS

The Purple Aces swing into the last week of their most successful post war season when they meet Louisville and Morehead in the two Ohio Valley Conference games.

The Aces journey to Louisville Wednesday to try to make it two in a row over the Cardinals who have been beaten only once on the Jeffersonville County Armory floor this year. That single defeat was registered by the powerful Phillips "66" team that won the amateur tourney last year. In spite of Evansville's 68-60 victory over Louisville at Evansville, the Cardinals have been installed as pre-game favorites because of this home floor advantage.

Comb Brothers Hot

Glenn and Roy Combs, the brother combination on Louisville's team, scored 29 points between them in the game at Evansville, and they are reputed to be much more accurate on the home floor.

Last year the Cardinals won 28 out of 35 games including two wins over Evansville. This year Louisville has won 17 while losing eight, and have heen mentioned in several polls of the nation's top teams. In basketball as in football, the Cardinals have tried to play big time opposition. On their schedule this year have been teams from the west and east coasts.

Morehead Saturday

Saturday night Evansville fans will see the 1948-49 edition of the Aces for the last time on the home floor when Morehead visits the Armory for a return engagement.

Evansville defeated Morehead earlier in the season, 71-61, at Morehead, Kentucky, and should repeat in the regular season finale.

Pagliaro Exhibition Set for Feb. 23

Lou Pagliaro, three times United States table tennis single champion, will give an exhibition at the Armory, Wednesday evening, Feb. 23.

Mr. Pagliaro will have as his partner in the exhibition Hamilton Canning, one of the top ranking players in America today. He also will play the winners of the TUB tahle tennis tournament in an exhibition match.

The exhibition, which is sponsored by the TUB Recreation Committee, will start at 8 p.m. and last approximately one and one half or two hours. Students will be admitted free on presentation of their activities tickets. The price of admission for non-students is 50 cents.

Women's Kegler Teams To Be Revamped Soon

Little activity took place last week in the Women's Bowling League as only four teams howled. Teams will be reorganized soon, according to Miss Ida Stieler, Women's Athletic Association sponsor.

Any women who wish to bowl in the league, which meets on Thursday at 4 p.m. at Franklin Lanes, should contact Miss Stieler as there are openings on the independent and freshman teams.

How rhythmic can a rhythm song be?

You'll know when you hear Blue Barron's new waxing for MGM Records—"Powder Your Face With Sunshine"

The Barron has a foot-tapping arrangement here—a combo of Dixie, shuffle and 2-4 time. It's sure-fire styling for a danceable hit tune. And on the flip, Blue puts "Cruising Down the River" into fast waltz time. Blue Barron likes to mix his rhythms—but in smoking, he sticks to one brand—Camel. Here at the right, Blue is telling his vocalist, Betty Clarke, about Camels.

How MILD can a cigarette be?

Make the CAMEL 30-DAY TEST . . . and you'll know!

Yes, make the 30-day Camel Mildness Test. See for yourself how mild Camels are. In a recent test of hundreds of people who smoked only Camels for 30 days, noted throat specialists, after making weekly examinations, reported

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking—

Camels

Money-Back Guarantee!

Smoke Camels and test them in your own "T-Zone." T for taste, T for throat. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price plus postage. J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

WHEN a camel's hair coat company refused Sheedy as a gift—he went all to pieces. It was a blow that'd break an ordinary camel's back—but not his! He remembered hearing about the Finger-Nail Test . . . tried it . . . and hot-footed for a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now you wouldn't know the old boy! His hair has a snappy, well-groomed look. No more of that old dryness and loose, ugly dandruff! He's the hit of every caravan!

Even if you're not a camel—you, too, should be using non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin. You needn't walk a mile for it—your nearest drug store has it in bottles and tubes. And your barber can give you a professional application. Get some today!

Must Be Talking Business

383 Students Majoring In Business This Term

The Business Administration department embraces 383 students, offers 6 major fields, and lists 13 professors.

Students majoring in business are required to complete 90 hours in the department, 40 of which must be in one field of concentration.

A student may choose accounting, economics, finance, management, marketing, or secretarial science, as his concentrated area. Upon graduation he will recive a B.S. degree in business with a specialization in his chosen field.

Students Work

Approximately one-third to one-half of the students combine their class work with practical experience in local business establishments.

Paul R. Busey, associate professor of economics, stated that the number is constantly fluctuating because the majority of the students can work only part-time.

Mr. Busey further comented that at present there is no formal co-operative program established. The primary reason is that most of the students prefer to finish their work as soon as possible, rather than be delayed by working every other quarter. He added, however, that the groundwork is being laid with business firms in Evansville with the view of ultimately establishing such a program.

Thirteen Instructors

Dean Long is head of the department. Assisting him are William F. Affolder, assistant professor of economics; L. W. Anderson, associate professor of economics; Maurine Breeden, instructor in secretarial science; James A. Julian, associate professor of management; Paul E. Kelley, assistant professor of ecomonics; Harry M. Landis, professor of accounting; Warren Reininga, assistant professor of accounting; Keith Slater, instructor in management; C. H. Slusher, assistant professor of marketing; Arthur J. Wardleman, instructor in accounting; and Mr. Busey.

The Business Administration Club, with membership open to all business majors, and the Accounting Club, for those specializing in accounting, attempt to supplement text work with current business trends.

Former Acacia Member Speaks

Mahaffay Culley Made Honorary Fraternity Brother Members

William E. Mahaffay and Don Culley were elected honorary members of the Fraternity Brothers at a recent meeting at the Evansville Shrine Temple.

Mr. Mahaffay is the chief engineer at the International Harvester Company. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and as a student, was a member of the campus Acacia Fraternity. He has been with International Harvester Company since 1935 and resides on outer Bellemeade Avenue.

Culley Entertains

Mr. Culley is a professional musician and also a former student at Evansville College. He is well known as a pianist and singer and has furnished the entertainment for several of the fraternity's socials.

A number of committees were appointed at the weekly meeting last Monday. These committees will serve for the remainder of the year:

Williams Heads By-Laws

Initiation Committee: Kenneth Schnieder, chairman; Walter Kopcho, Jack Caine, David Smith, Don Swift, Thomas Lankford, and Harold Courley.

By-laws: Randall Williams, chairman; Richard Hancock, Horace Ross, Harry Ewing, and William Hawkins.

Honorary: Reginald Rodman, chairman; Earl Wilson, and James Nichols.

Entertainment: William Woods, chairman; Robert Wilkinson, William Wheeler, and Thomas Scholl.

House Committee: James Bishop, chairman; Harold Cox, Harry Ewing, and Earl Wilson.

Meetings are held each Monday in A213.

Dr. Trueblood To Talk To Christian Society

Dr. Elton Trueblood, professor at Earlham College, will be the principle speaker at the regular meeting of the Student Christian association Sunday, according to Elton Barnun, director of religious life on the campus.

Dr. Trueblood's topic will be "New Reformation for Our Time." Dr. Trueblood is the seventeenth speaker to address the club this year.

Victor Openhaus will be in Evansville for Vesper services April 3, and will be the speaker for the regular assembly period that week, Mr. Barnum added.

Wilma Pierce To Sing On Heidt Program

Wilma Pierce, senior, will represent the college in the Horace Heidt Talent Show to be held in the American Legion Auditorium Friday, Feb. 25 at 7 and 9 p.m.

Miss Pierce, soprano, is a music major and a student of Mrs. Harris Erickson, voice instructor.

Welfare Committee Announces Aid Plan

A simplified procedure for students to get financial assistance for medical treatment has recently been announced by Gene Cebula, chairman of the Welfare Committee.

The following steps should be taken in applying for assistance for sickness or accident expenses: (1) Go to the SCA president's office in the TUB and secure an application blank. (2) Fill out the blank and attach to it all the itemized doctor or hospital bills. (3) Leave the blank and bills in the S. C. A. president's office.

Action will be taken on all bills within two weeks after the bills are presented. A large sum of money has been built up in the committee fund, and students are urged to take advantage of the service, according to Mr. Cebula.

Faculty Planning Log Cabin Party

The Faculty Dames and the Faculty Club of Evansville College are going to celebrate Lincoln's Birthday with a "log cabin party" in the Temporary Union Building tomorrow evening, according to Mrs. Vivian Maves and Miss Agnes Bahlert, co-chairmen of the party.

The party will be in keeping with the late winter gatherings of three-quarters of a century or so ago. The couples will take their supper in a pail and the committee will provide a simple dessert and beverage. There will be a program and entertainment with square dancing, Mrs. Maves added.

These parties, more than any other campus activity, calls attention to the growth of Evansville College as a whole, and particularly to the greatly increased faculty, according to Mrs. Maves.

Professional Fraternity Accepts Pledges

Auditions for the pledges were given Thursday, Feb. 10. There will be a formal initiation at the home of Wilma Pierce next Monday, Feb. 21.

● According to our latest tabulation this is National Cheese Week, National Hot Tea Week, and National Crime Prevention Week, so we can all eat cheese, drink tea, and cogitate about how to prevent crime.

Of course, some people like cheese and loathe tea; others are tea addicts, but can't stand the smell of cheese; and we suspect there are those who wouldn't touch either. Then there are the connoisseurs who want a particular kind of tea from a certain section of the orient and those who cater to a special variety of the proverbial 101 different kinds of cheese.

Miss Arlene Starry

But none of these differences subjects a person or group of persons, to discrimination and persecution by other people. They are accepted as a perfectly natural indication of preferences. Which brings us to crime prevention and the greatest crime of all — the well-worn, but eloquently expressive "man's inhumanity to man."

There is no crime in preferring the company of one type of person to that of another; the crime is the refusal to understand and the inability to appreciate the contributions to civilization of, and the social, economic, and civil rights due, those people who are "different" from us.

Next week is National Brotherhood Week. (Editorial, page 2).

● Item from our campus history: Yesterday marked the thirtieth anniversary of the granting of the charter for Evansville College.

● Current Event: Tonight is the second performance of "The Linden Tree." (see review this page). Our congratulations to the Thespians group for having the courage to present plays that explore social problems, instead of sticking to the strictly lightweight, escapist formula.

● Sight-seeing and educational tour: Williamsburg, Va., is one of the most colorful spots we have ever visited. We are looking forward to seeing it "come to life" in the film "18th Century Williamsburg," scheduled to be shown in assemblies next week (see story this page).

● On the credit side: Music, art, and dramatics are on the list of the Fine Arts Committee. Visible evidences of their efforts are available in the increased number of original paintings and reproductions in various buildings on campus. Audible results may be heard every Tuesday and Thursday in the cafeteria. We applaud this attempt by the committee group to give students the opportunity for more cultural contacts. In the long run, only a small percentage of education comes out of text books. Even the specialist will find his subject more tasty if seasoned with a dash from the fine arts (see story page 2).

National Music Chapter Accepts Nine Pledges

The formal initiation service for Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music organization for women, will be held Monday, Feb. 21, at the home of Wilma Pierce, senior, member of the group.

New pledges are Pat Bates, Marianna Cubbison, Carol Sue Harris, Mona Centry, and Frances Huff, freshmen; Virginia Rice and Mariam Curtis, seniors; Miss Pearl Grabowski, music instructor; and Mrs. June Mertz, a graduate of last year.

Requirements Met

To be eligible for membership in Sigma Alpha Iota, the girl must be majoring in music, music education or must be making a living in some music profession. Pledging begins the second quarter so that freshman pledges have adequate time to meet grade requirements.

Patrons who will be installed for the coming year are Mrs. Charles Nenneker and Mrs. Bert Horn.

A pledge musicale and tea was held recently at the home of Mrs. Wesley Shepard to honor the new pledges. Members of the active and alumni chapters were present along with the new pledges.

Officers Listed

Auditions for the incoming pledges were held Thursday, Feb. 10, in the music building.

Officers of the campus chapter are: Joyce Gardner, president; Lois Lutz, vice president; Virginia Newman, secretary; Eulalie Wilson, treasurer; Marilyn Ramsey, chaplain; Shirley Ray, sergeant at arms; and Mary Ann Hahs, editor.

There are three faculty sponsors for Sigma Alpha Iota. Mrs. Harris Erickson is in charge of programs; Mrs. Alberta Price Williams is faculty adviser for the membership committee; and Miss Mae Ruth Pietela is in charge of finances.

The alumnae chapter will hold its annual vesper service Sunday, Feb. 20, at Bethel Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Tests Planned For Students

A plan to test sophomore students studying for degrees in liberal arts so they may be compared with students throughout the United States is being worked out by Everette Walker, director of student personnel service, and Francis P. Buller, director of testing and counseling.

Faculty members recommended this test during recent meeting. Students working for an A. B. degree would be required to take it. For those students working for a B.S. degree the tests would be optional.

Dates Set

The tests are a part of the National Collegiate Sophomore Testing Program sponsored by the American Council of Education. If they are to be given here this year, they must be given between March 14-25 so the results can be compared with other colleges.

The test results give the students evidence of their strength and weaknesses in basic subject matter areas and gives the participating colleges a basis for evaluating the effectiveness of their instructional programs.

Measures Student

The test has three divisions. A cooperative English test is divided into mechanics of expression, effectiveness of expression, and reading comprehension. The general culture test is a three-hour comprehensive examination which gives a profile of the students knowledge of current social problems, history and social studies, literature, science, fine arts, and mathematics.

The contemporary affairs test measures the students understanding of recent social, scientific, and cultural developments.

Representatives of College To Attend Union Meeting

Four representatives of the college will attend the Association of College Unions meeting in April, at Colorado Springs, Colo., according to Jim Barnett, president of the Student Government Association.

Sarah Kessler, member of the Temporary Union Building board and staff member; Bill Woods, chairman of the TUB administrative board; Jim Cooper, staff and board member; and ily, seeks happiness and escape Miss Doris Kirk, social director, are expected to attend the convention.

'Linden Tree' Has Second Stage Showing Tonight

By BILL DUFFY

A repeat performance of the Thespian play, "The Linden Tree," will be given tonight in the auditorium at 8:15.

The play concerns an English family who are trying to adjust themselves to the bloodless revolution which is taking place in England.

The stage business of the actors moves smoothly and naturally from one part of the stage to another, forming well-blended stage pictures. The actors carry out the rhythm of the play successfully, while keeping their own individual tempo.

Excellent Contrast

Colors and furniture used in the setting gives a very definite mood and atmosphere of an authentic English home.

The contrast created by the professor's three daughters is excellent, including both action and make-up. The two eldest daughters possess sophisticated characterization, whereas Dinah, the youngest daughter, is willing to face anything that comes along, is untouched by hardships and restricted living, and seems continuously happy.

Rex, the only son in the family making his living through his cleverness.

Family Has Problems

Most of the play concerns a discussion of the professor's retirement from the university, and the problems of his family. The professor's wife has been driven beyond endurance, and is on the verge of a breakdown. Professor Linden is such a strong individualist that he refuses to retire, even if it is beneficial to his family.

The final scene moves to the climax, and the curtain falls, leaving the audience with its own impression of the outcome; however, the future of the Linden family is obviously clear.

Shepard Announces Auditioning Date

Auditions for musical scholarships at Evansville College will be given in the music building on Sunday, Feb. 20, from 2 to 5 p.m., Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, has announced.

Each year Evansville College offers a number of scholarships to high school seniors who are outstanding musicians. Some of the scholarships are valued at $1200, some at $600. All are for four years. The number and type of scholarships is announced in advance of the date set for auditions. Applications for auditions had to be in the hands of Mr. Shepard before Tuesday.

Seniors Eligible

High school seniors who are in the upper one-third of their class are eligible to try out in any of the following fields: piano, organ, voice, strings, woodwinds, and bass.

The Evansville College music department was recently nominated as an associate member of The National Association of Schools of Music. The department gives training which qualifies students for elementary or high school teacher's licenses in choir, orchestra, or band directing; vocal or instrumental class teaching; and theory.

More than fifty public recitals and concerts are conducted by the music department each year with faculty member and music major students participating.

Evening Quarter To Start March 7

Evening College spring quarter classwork will begin Monday, March 7, according to Harold See, head of the Evening College.

Pre-registration for Evening College will be from Monday, Feb. 21 through Thursday, Feb. 24, and registration from Monday, Feb. 28 through Thursday, March 3, in the Evening College office, A214.

The office will be open for registration on those dates from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Mr. See particularly cautions those day students who contemplate attending Evening College, that classwork will begin during the same week of final examinations this quarter, and that those students may be attending school both during the day and in the evening throughout that week.

LinC Editor Gets Addressed Letter

There are many stories of how the mail gets through fog and flood and how some postal employee along the line figures out where a letter with some peculiar address should be sent.

Mrs. Miriam Lammers, who handles the college mail, sometimes has just as tough a job in getting the mail to the proper persons in the college. She ofetn has to decide who should receive letters addressed to faculty members, who have not been on this campus for ten or more years.

She feels that if some companies are as progressive as their mailing lists, they must be doiag real, old-fashioned business. As a case in point, last week she received a letter to the Editor of the Yearbook, Moore's Hill College, Evansville, Ind.

Moores Hill College burned in 1915, and the Evansville College charter was granted by the state 30 years ago yesterday.

Engineers Planning Trip to Seeger

Members of the Engineering Club will have their weekly meeting at the Seeger Refrigerator Corporation next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The club members, who will be guests of the Seeger company, will spend the evening in tours of the plant and a lecture.

The first item on the program for the evening will be a tour of the cabinet plant. Following the tour they will meet in the Seeger cafeteria for a lecture by one of the plan engineers, according to Albert Jeffers, president of the Engineering Club.

After the lecture, the future engineers will be taken on a complete tour of the plant, covering most of the phases of refrigerator production. Following the tour of the plant there will be refreshments and a social hour in the Seeger cafeteria.

It's Time To Register Again

Robert Artman, associate professor of physics, and Charles R. Bristow, junior, discuss courses and hours in preparation for third quarter registration which will start Monday, Feb. 21, and continue through Saturday, March 5.

Late News Breaks

The International Relations Club will have a panel discussion in the Men's Lounge Wednesday, Feb. 23, on the North Atlantic Alliance. Dr. James Morlock, dean of men; Keith Slater, instructor in management; John Clouse, junior; and Elmer Whitmer will lead the discussion with John L. Loos, assistant professor of history acting as moderator.

The newly organized Physics Club will have Robert Artman, associate professor of physics, to speak on high voltage machines when it has its first program at 11 a.m. in E201 today. Ralph Yates, chairman of the club, has announced.

"Interviewing" will be the topic of Gilber Schade, director of personnel of the sales department of Servel, Inc., when he speaks before Beta Alpha Kappa next Monday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Harry Goldblatt, president, has announced.

TUB Board Asks For New Policy

The Temporary Union Building Management Board has presented two requests to the College Administrative Board, according to Miss Doris Kirk, social director.

The first request is that the Administrative Board handle the funds allocated from student fees for social activities. The reason behind this is that requests to the Social Life Committee often result in delay in the planning of activities.

Calendar

Feb. 18 to Feb. 24

Today — Thespian Play in auditorium, 8:15 p.m.

Saturday — Morehead College basketball game, Armory, 8:30 p.m.

Monday—Registration for spring quarter begins. BAK meeting in Cafeteria, 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Tuesday — Assembly at 11 a.m., auditorium, Dr. Leland Moon, to show film. Faculty recital, auditorium, 8:30 p.m.

Wednesday — Dr. Leland Moon to show film in assembly at 11 a.m., auditorium. Table tennis demonstration, Armory, 8 to 10 p.m. Lutheran students meeting in cafeteria, 6 p.m.

Thursday — Ohio Valley Conference Tournament at Louisville.

Barnum Announces SCA Schedule of Programs

Student Christian Association programs for the remainder of this quarter and the first week of the spring quarter were announced recently by Elton T. Barnum, faculty sponsor.

Next Thursday during the regular meeting William Bell and Anna Lee Schmitt, music majors, will present a recital. A swimming party for members will be given that evening at the YMCA. Elizabeth Lockwood, freshman, is in charge of arrangements.

On March 3, Rice Kello of the YMCA will address the meeting of the group. SCA officers for 1949-50 will be nominated during the March 24 meeting.

Reason for Delay

Miss Kirk pointed out that the Social Life Committee has never refused any request for funds, and that the delay stems from the fact that the group is not organized and does not form its various committees early enough. The committee often does not name its sub-committees until near the end of the fall quarter.

The second request made was that the Union Building and all its activities be considered as a separate department, and be responsible to the TUB Board of Directors and the Student-Faculty Federation Administrative Board.

Other Setups Studied

Miss Kirk stated that the reason for this is, "That any organization whose activities are as widespread as those of the TUB should not be tied down by red tape. This is the first time for a Union Building on the campus, therefore, we must decide where it belongs."

The TUB Management Board spent four or five months studying this problem before making the requests. It studied the setups at other colleges, wrote letters to get information, then met and decided what it thought was best for Evansville College.

The requests have been referred to the Social Life Committee, which will make a recomendation to the administrative board.

Dr. Leland Moon To Present Film

A four reel film entiled "18th Century Williamsburg" will be presented during the assemblies next Tuesday and Wednesday by Dr. Leland Moon, head of the department of secondary education.

The film pictures the everyday life of Americans who lived and worked 200 years ago by telling the story of a day in the lives of a few Williamsburg, Va., colonists. Music taken from that period provides the background.

Williamsburg received its name in 1699 when, after a fire had destroyed the statehouse at Jamestown, it was decided to build a new capital. Williamsburg was important to our national development until, in 1799, the capital was moved to Richmond. With the moving of the capital went Williamsburg's social and political leadership.

Historic Williamsburg was forgotten by most of the nation until, through the leadership of John D. Rockefeller Jr., most of the buildings and gardens of the 18th century were restored to their original appearance.

Alpha Phi Mu Initiates New Members Tonight

Lois Wiggers and Maytha Schurtter will be initiated into the Alpha Phi Mu, an honorary sorority for freshmen women, this evening at the apartment of Miss Esther Brown, dean of women. The initiation will be followed by a dinner.

To be a member of the sorority, a girl must make an average of 2.5 or more during the first two quarters of her freshman year, or she must make that average for the entire year.

Man Is Not Self-Sufficient

Featured at one of the local theatres this week is a movie about "The Boy With Green Hair." Next week, Feb. 20-27, is "Brotherhood Week." They go together. One is a very effective argument for the other — not just for Brotherhood Week either — but for today and tomorrow and the day after that.

Much has been said about racial, religious, and color discrimination. It could all bear repeating — things like Life Magazine's picture story "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" That is the one showing a man either ill or dying on the steps of a New York subway. Hundreds of people passed by, either stepping over his body or ignoring him completely, before a policeman finally discovered him. What would we have done? Ignored him? Tried to help him? Or just shoved him over so we could get by, too?

How many of us really understand just how dependent we are on the other guy — the guy who is different from us as well as the guy who is like us? We are none of us self-sufficient. As John Donne expressed it, "No man is an island in himself, but each is a part of the main." Whether the boy has green hair or red hair, or the man has a wart on his nose, or the girl next door goes to a different church, or the woman down the street is a different color, we are all in this together — we are all classified HUMAN BEINGS.

The green hair does not make the boy really different from other boys. He probably likes baseball, has a bike, is just as happy when there is no school, and has his feelings just as easily hurt as ours by jibes and sneers.

When we start thinking of the similarities we have with others instead of the differences, when we start thinking how we would like to hear some of the things we say about others said about us — then maybe we will be getting closer to this understanding of our fellow man, this brotherhood of man.

For so long as we hear whispers about the kid with green hair; so long as a religious group is blacklisted from certain "select" housing areas; so long as a man can't get a job because his color is different, that long "ask not for whom the bell tolls, it tolls for thee."

Pic of the Week

The name Arlene Starry is a familiar one to CRESCENT readers. As editor of the paper, her weekly column appears on the front page of each of these issues. She was assistant editor of this same publication last year, and this year has assumed the editorial position.

Arlene has been named to Who's Who in colleges for two consecutive years, and her name has appeared on the Dean's List. At present she is the acting president of Phi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, and prior to the last election, was president of the International Relations Club. She is also an active member of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity.

A native of York Springs, Pa., Arlene came to Evansville in 1946. Following graduation from the York Springs High School, she attended the Carlisle, Pa., Commercial College for a year. She also was a student for a year at Rider College in Trenton, N. J. Before coming to Evansville, she worked for four years in the Trenton OPA district office.

Prior to her enrollment here, Arlene worked as secretary to the director of public relations of the college.

Arlene is now a senior and expects to complete her work for graduation next month. When speaking of her experiences here she said, "I have had a very interesting and educational three years at Evansville Colleg — and I fail to see why so many people in the mid-west have not heard of Gettyshurg, Pa!" York Springs, her home town, she explains, is close to Gettyshurg.

After graduation Arlene is planning to work and hopes to go to graduate school.

Women Air Dislikes About Men; Conceit First on Hate Parade

This week the Inquiring Reporter's question is one that was answered quite vehemently by several young ladies on the campus. The question was, "What traits do you dislike most in men?"

First person asked was Molly Marlatt, freshman and Sig pledge. Her answer was the word "hoastfulness." To this she added that another type she disliked was the ones who think they are doing you a big favor by going out with you.

Sarah Kessler, junior, then added that the things she dislikes in men are bad manners, conceit, and the "lover" type. Doris Donovan, sophomore, said that conceitedness, smart aleckness, and men that think they are god's gift to women are what make her unhappy about men.

Pat Lynch, special student answered in two words. She said conceit and possessiveness are the two traits that she dislikes most. Mary Winnehald, Casty pledge, just said conceit is the trait she dislikes most.

Dislikes Cigar Smoke

Marilyn Mooney, freshman and Casty pledge, said that her pet hates were men that smoked cigars and watching men eat watermelon. She said that she just couldn't stand cigar smoke, but gave no reason for the watermelon eating.

Another Castalian, Jerri Steinmetz, said that she dislikes conceit in men. She added that "just the fact that they are men" is another trait she dislikes. Marcine Johnson, freshman Sig pledge, said that conceit and hatefulness are the two things that she dislikes most.

No Personality Kids

Kathryn Krueger, freshman Sig pledge, said that her pet hates are "Personality Kids" and men that show indifference. Nina St. Clair, also a freshman Sig pledge, said that the indifferent type and type that thinks he is doing you a big favor by dating you are the two that get her down.

"The fact that they wait till the last minute to call you for a date," is the pet hate of Joan Henn, senior. Joyce Robinson, Sig, says that conceit and the type that think they are God's gift to the women are the traits that she dislikes most.

Pat Rampy, Sig, says that men that tell you things they don't mean are the ones that she can't stand. Diane Hadley, Casty, says that lack of consideration is her pet hate and that she dislikes conceited men and the type that think they are God's gift to women.

Dorothy Surbeck, TUB secretary, says that she dislikes conceit, lack of consideration, and insincerity.

Commuter. Defined by Webster as "one who travels back and forth between a city and an outside residence."

This definition was tailored to fit a cummutor to Evansville College. Max Crawford cummutes between Vinvennes, Ind., and Evansiville College each day to attend his classes.

As Max describes it, it is 51 miles from city limits to city limits. Between Vincennes and Evansville he passes Decker, through Hazelton, Patoka, and Princeton, and by Ft. Branch, all on or near highway 41.

On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday Max leaves Vincennes at 6:30 a.m. to make his 8 o'clock class. On these three days he usually gets home about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. On Tuesday and Thursday he leaves Vincennes at 7:30 to make his 9 o'clock class and gets home about 5 o'clock.

"The six miles of curves from Patoka to Hazelton are the most dangerous part of the trip," Max said. "Driving conditions have been good except during the flood periods around Hazelton and the recent icy roads."

Max is married and has a daughter named Patricia who is five and one half months old. He graduated from Vincennes High School in 1942. He entered the navy in 1943, served as a boatswain's mate second class aboard various minesweepers, and was discharged in 1943. He belongs to the Lion's Club and Navy Club at Vincennes and joined the Phi Zeta fraternity this quarter.

For the next two years after his discharge, Max attended Vincennes University. He graduated from there in 1948 with an Associate of Science degree. He entered Evansville College at the beginning of the fall quarter of 1948. Max is a junior majoring in marketing and minoring in social science.

"I like Evansville College. I am more pleased with it now than when I first came," Max stated.

Max's case of commuting is rather extraordinary but there are several other cases where students drive several miles every day to attend classes.

Each day there are commuters from Mt. Carmel, Ill., and from Owensboro and Henderson, Ky. There are many small towns in southern Indiana which are represented. Students commute from Boonville, Cannelton, Chrisney, Cynthiana, Chandler, Dale Elberfeld, Ft. Branch, Francisco, Haubstadt, Lynville, McCutchanville, Mt. Vernon, Newburgh, New Harmony, Newtonville, Oakland City, Poseyville, Princeton, Richland, Rockport, and Wadesville.

The attendance and punctuality records of these students in many cases are far superior to the records of many students who live within the city, and even some who live within a few blocks of the college. Whether these students receive more from their time spent on the campus might be questionable, but it is something to think about.

Fine Arts Committee Strives To Interest All in Culture

Juna Howard, left, still dreaming about the last number, lets Dr. F. W. Werking act as disc jockey, while Karleen Yeager holds a new Showboat album. All are members of theFine Arts Committee.

To stimulate general campus interest in the fine arts in general, music, painting, sculpture and drama is the function of the Fine Arts Committee of the Student-Faculty Federation.

The committee has been active this year in the fields of music and art and they hope to do something in the field of drama before the year is over.

Members of the committee are Miss Florence Keve, Mrs. Mildred Taylor, and Dr. F. W. Werking, faculty; and Betty Wood. Juna Howard, Carlton Long, Karleen Yeager, E. L. Whitmer, and Sue Dannettell, students.

Something new has been added to the campus this year by the group in the form of a Music Listening Hour. These programs of classical and semi-classical music are heard every Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a. m. and 1:45 p.m. Different members of the committee take turns in acting as disc jockeys and in planning the programs.

Purchase Phonograph

Over 200 records, valued at nearly $150, have been purchased this year, ranging all the way from Schumann, Stravinsky, and Tschackowsky to Gershwin, Kern, and Romberg! An RCA Golden Throat Demonstrator Phonograph and a metal cabinet for the machine and records also was purchased by the committee.

This record collection will become the nucleus for the music room in the new student union.

The committee operates on money obtained from the student activity fee, as set up by the Student-Faculty Federation. Fifteen cents is taken from each ticket and it totaled over $600 this year. Approximately $365 was left over from last year.

Art has also come in for a big share of the committee's attention. Several new pieces of art have been purchased. The plan of the group has been to make a collection of works by local artists.

Local Art Featured

In carrying this out they have obtained pieces by Virgil Espenlaub, former student at Evansville College, who is now teaching painting at the University of Kentucky; Merrill Snethen, Bosse High School art teacher; Fred Eilers, industrial designer at Servel, Inc.; Charles Boggs, museum director, Miss Florence Keve, assistant professor of art; Miss Emily Wilson, former art instructor here; and Paul Ashby, who was graduate from Evansville College in 1931.

Other purchases include works by Curry Bohm, famous Brown County, Ind., artist; Ulfert Wilke, recent visitor to the campus and Kunivoshi, nationally known artist; and reproductions of eight famous paintings.

These paintings have been placed in various places around campus, including the TUB, Cafeteria, Women's Lounge and Reserve Library, and when the new student union is completed they will be placed in a corridor of orifiinal art.

Aces Play at Louisville Tonight; Play Morehead At Armory Tomorrow

Evansville's Aces will take the floor in the next to last game tonight at Louisville when they play their return engagement with the Cardinals of Louisville University. The game was originally scheduled for Wednesday night, but was postponed due to a conflict at the Armory there.

In their first encounter the Aces trounced the Cardinals, 68 to 60, in a hard fought ball game at the Armory there.

Tomorrow night the charges of Coach McCutchan return home for their final regular season contest against Morehead Teachers. In the first game between these two the Aces won by a 71 to 61 margin, on the Morehead floor.

OVC Tournament Next

Following the games tonight and tomorrow night the next event on the hooks for Evansville is the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament, to be held at the Louisville Armory, next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Evansville is idle until Friday night at 9:15 when they play Morehead again, this time in their first tournament encounter.

Should the OVC tournament run according to the form sheet. Eastern and Western will meet in one semi-final, and Louisville and Evansville will tangle in the other.

First round games in the tournament include, Eastern and Murray, Western and Tennessee Tech, Louisville and Marshall, and the Evansville-Morehead encounter.

Cardinals Out For Revenge

Louisville figures to be out for revenge tonight, as the Aces win in the first game was regarded as a definite upset. Louisville is a consistent winner on the home floor, having defeated Western Kentucky there, along with several other top-notch teams.

Intramural Games To Start Feb. 28

Intramural basketball firing is slated to begin at the Armory Feb. 28, according to Jim Barnett, sponsor of the tournament.

Fourteen teams comprise the league, split into two divisions of seven squads each. A round robin schedule of six games per squad has been planned.

94 Games To Be Played

Each team is composed of seven members or more. In event any team fails to have the required number of players present at game time, a forfeit will be declared.

There will be approximately 94 games, which will constitute about 25 days of play. Three to five games will be played each afternoon.

Buzz Kids Back

The two leading teams in each division will meet in a playoff in which the first team in the first division will play the second team in the second division; the second team in the first division will play the first team in the second division. The two winning teams, which may be in the same division, will participate in the final game for the championship.

Teams competing in the tournament are: Phi Zetas, Philos I, Philos II, Pi Kappa I, Pi Kappa II, Hurricanes, Oilers, Wildcats, Buzz Kids (last year's champions), Big Shots, Panthers, Tiny Tigers, Terrible Terrors and an unnamed team captained by Donald Carter.

Yesterday's Match Decides Keg Title

The first half championship of the Women's Bowling League was decided last night at Franklin Lanes. The Castalians and Women's Athletic Association, who have been battling each other all year for the top spot, were matched against each other last night. The Castys, who forged out in front by one game several weeks ago needed only one game to win the championship. However, the WAA, with a 22-4 record could win by taking both games from the Castys.

Evansville College women participated in the Tenth Annual Intercollegiate Bowling Meet, which is a telegraphic meet, last night at Franklin Lanes.

Vets Continue To Set Pace In Bowling League; Huber Rolls 243 in One Game

The Vets continued to set the pace in the college bowling league with fourteen wins and four losses. They registered three wins during the past week, the sixth week of play.

The Vets set a new high score for a single game, posting a 777 mark. They also introduced a new team high for three games 2028.

Jack Huber of the Vets set a new record for an individual in a single game, 243. Huber's three game total of 565 was high for last week.

The standings of the teams at the end of sixth week are:

Future Aces Make Good as 'Deuces'

'Deuces' Average More Than Fifty Points For Each Game

By GENE MARKET

For the third successive season, the Evansville College reserve cage squad has rolled up an outstanding record winning eleven games against a single setback. The "Deuces," as they are more familiarly known, have dropped only three decisions in the last three years and are undefeated on their home floor during the corresponding time.

In a dozen engagements to date, the Deuces fire-department style of basketball has averaged 52.9 points per tilt against the oppositions' 38.4. The locals have dunked in 257 baskets to the oponents' 180. From the gratis-bar, the Deuces have pushed 121 through the hoop and the foes have made 101.

The reserves hold victories over Oakland City twice, Stendal Independents, Princeton Independents, Briggs Indiana, CY O Newman Club, VFW, Post No. 1114, Buzz Kids, Indiana State twice, and Louisville. The loss was to Oakland City on the latter's floor.

Canterbury Heads Attack

Topping Evansville' attack is little Jerry Canterbury from Reitz high, who has contributed 150 points to pace the squad in the scoring department. Besides scoring the most haskets, 54, and the most free throws, 42, he tops the "Little Aces" in points-per-game average with a 12.5.

Ray Bawel, ex-Boonville wizzard, has also tallied over the century mark with 106 digets scored on 44 field goals and 18 free tosses for an 8.8 scoring average. Jim DeCroote of Bosse has chalked up 86 markers. Bob Northerner, a team mate of Bob Kohlmeyer's on Central's great team, has accounted for 81 points. Willie Sakel, cousin of the Aces' Bob Sakel and from Huntingburg, has found the iron ring for 76.

Korff, No. 6 Man

Number six man on the squad, Louis, Korff, from Jasper, has tallied 20 two-pointers and converted on eight charity flips. Big had-boy Ed Wessel, foothaller from Reitz, has made 13 buckets and five foul shots. He leads the team in personals with 31 charged against him.

Gene Logel, better known for his football talents, has sunk 12 goals plus five free-throws, for 29 points. Thornton Patburg, former Stendal performer, has connected for nine ringers. Lemois Wires, a Boonville graduate, rounds out the top ten with five points.

Tomorrow night, the Deuces will ring down the curtain on a most successful season entertaining V.F.W. Post No. 1114.

Basketball is coming to an end for the 25 Evansville College basketball players, but for some 100 other participants it is just beginning. Intramural basketball is now just a week off.

With the squads already picked, Feb. 28 already set aside as tip-off day, and the Armory floor named as the site of the games, all the would-be players can do now is patiently sit around and discuss tthe potentialities of the different teams.

This pre-season "Hot Stove League" is as natural in basketball circles as pumping up the ball before the game starts, but in February the dopesters usually start analyzing the old season and make predictions for the new.

In nearly all colleges students look forward to the intra-mural basketball season in its regular place immediately following the football season. It seems a shame that Evansville College's facilities for basketball are so poor that students, during the regular season, have to form their own teams, schedule their own games, and make provisions for the gymnasiums and referees, and wait until March before they can play in regular league at school.

The Ohio Valley Tourney in Louisville next week is attracting many local students. When a student follows his favorite basketball team, he usually goes for one of two reasons or both. It is either a good trip and everybody else is going, or it is going to be a good basketball game. In this particular case it is a good trip, a weekend in Louisville, and also it is going to be a very good tournament.

In our opinion the Ohio Valley Conference is as good as any in the country when it comes to basketball. Western Kentucky, for example, is ranked sixth in the nation, according to the latest Associated Press poll, and would be ranked even higher if it were not for two heatings it has taken from other members of the Conference Louisville and Eastern, both conquerers of Western, rank right along with the best teams of the country in the won and lost columns, and Marshall College has improved so much in the last month that they are considered a real dark horse threat in the tourney. If the hot and cold Aces should win this tourney, their season would be a complete success, and they will have achieved their ultimate goal of national recognition.

New Department Head Aided In Army Pre-Flight Training

Miss Agnes L. Tompkins, assistant professor of secretarial science, is preparing a report on a new electric typewriter.

Miss Agnes L. Tompkins is the new head of the Secretarial Science department.

She comes to Evansville College from Western Reserve University where she was on the faculty for one year.

Miss Tompkins completed her college undergraduate work at Indiana State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa. She received her Master's degree from the University of Pittsburg. She has also attended New York University.

Shortly after graduation from Indiana State, she accepted a position supervising student-teachers for that college. She remained there for eleven years, before joining the staff of Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va. She taught accounting and secretarial science in the Liberal Arts department there for three years. While there, she assisted in the Army Air Corps pre-flight program, teaching a course in Meterology.

Miss Tompkins then went to New York where she taught at the Berkeley School for girls.

Miss Tompkins reports that she likes to read a great deal and says that TIME is her favorite magazine. She enjoys bridge, likes to dance, and collects record albums. In Evansville, she resides at 20 Walnut Street.

McKown Is Co-Author Of Book

A book entitled "Understanding Christianity," by Dr. Edgar M. McKown, dean of the college, and the Rev. Carl J. Scherzer, chaplain of Deaconess Hospital, was recently published by The Ronald Press of New York.

The 162 page book, which is subtitled "A Study of Our Christian Heritage," was written primarily for use in college or nursing classes in religion, the preface states.

One of Series

It is to be one volume in a series on religion edited by Luther A. Weigle, dean of the Yale University Divinity School.

Both authors of the book are teachers of religion. In addition to his duties as dean, Dr. McKown is head of the department of philosophy and religion at the college. The Rev. Mr. Scherzer is an instructor in psychology and religion in the Deaconess Hospital school of nursing.

Ordained Minister

Dr. McKown is a graduate of Evansville College and received his Ph.D. from Boston University. He is an ordained minister of the Methodist Church and served pastorates for about 10 years before joining the college faculty.

The Rev. Mr. Scherzer, an ordained Evangelical and Reformed minister, is a graduate of Elmhurst College in Elmhurst, Ill., and Eden Theological Seminary in Webster Groves, Mo. Since coming to Evansville in 1944, he has served on the college faculty as a part-time instructor in philosophy and religion.

YWCA To Offer Sewing Classes

Mrs. Arad McCutchan, wife of Evansville College's basketball coach, will instruct a series of sewing classes at the YWCA.

The classes will begin Tuesday and be held for from eight to 10 weeks. Classes will be from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. Those interested may enter at any time during this period.

The classes are for beginners or for those who wish instructions in altering readymade clothes. Individual attention will be given, allowing each person to progress at her own rate.

The registration fee will be $1 and the members will furnish their own materials.

Occupational Honeymoon Over, Buffaloean Says

"The occupational honeymoon for college graduates is almost over."

This statement by Dr. Edward S. Jones, dean of students and director of personnel research at the University of Buffalo, indicates that it will be more difficult to place graduates in good jobs in the future. For a number of years moderately good graduates have had little difficulty in obtaining jobs. However, Dr. Jones says that there are a number of signs appearing that employers are becoming more select in their choices.

Dr. Jones says that there is no doubt that graduates will be expected to start on lower salary scales in the future and that they will have to prove their ability before receiving promotions.

Dr. Jones is of the opinion that there is such a thing as getting students ready through insights, habits, and attitudes for their big opportunity. He is convinced, though, that many high school and college students develop illusions about occupations and think that good jobs are to he had for the asking.

Kappa Chi Names Guest Speakers

Kappa Chi, national ministerial fellowship, has scheduled guest speakers for several future meetings, Charles Ballard, program chairman, announced yesterday.

The Rev. Alfred F. Winters, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, will speak to the group today at 11 o'clock in O108.

On Feb. 25, the organization will hear the Rev. John D. Wolf, pastor of Old North Methodist Church. He will give his views on a current problem in Protestantism as he speaks about "Race Segregation in Protestant Churches."

The following Friday, March 4, the Rev. Charles Zapp of Jefferson Avenue Cumberland Presbyterian Church will meet with the society and speak on "Pastoral Visitation."

Psychology Department Has Machine To Test Eye Skills in Reading

The opthalmograph, a machine used for testing eye movement while reading, is being used in the psychology department, according to A. B. Cope, professor of psychology.

This machine films pauses of the eyes as the person read a card within the machine.

The handicaps which are demonstrated by the use of the opthalmograph are: length of the eye space of ercognition, duration of the eye fixation, the slow speed of reading rate, and regressions and skill in comprehension.

Students who are shown to have difficulties in the use of their eyes by this machine, are given corrective drill work for a period of six weeks. This work is composed of the rate of reading and comprehension.

Mr. Cope has charge of the work with the opthalmograph and urges students to have their ey skill examined. There is no charge for this service.

Civil Service Positions Open in Science Fields

The U. S. Civil Service Commission recently announced that positions are now open in Physical Science Aid and Biological Aid in federal agencies in and around Washington, D. C.

To qualify, applicants must pass a written examination and have had sufficient practical experience in the fields. College work may he substituted for the actual experience.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 62 are eligible.

Additional information may be obtained from the local post office, or by writing the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

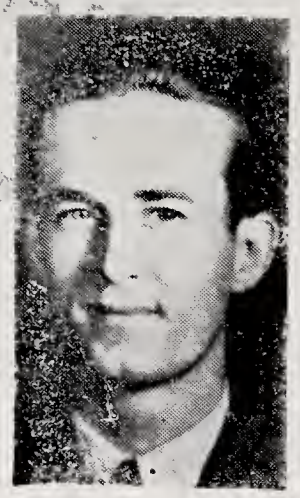
William Nation, College Violin Teacher, To Give Faculty Recital Next Week

William Nation, violin instructor, will give his faculty recital in the auditorium Tuesday, Feb. 22, at 8:30 p.m.

This recital is another in the series of faculty recitals presented by the music department this year. Mr. Nation is the concert master of the Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra.

Evansville Graduate

A graduate of Evansville College, Mr. Nation received his master's degree from Northwestern University. He has studied violin under Dr. J. M. Humphreys of Evansville, Robert Perutz of Cincinnati, Robert Quick at Northwestern, and Dr. George Dasch, director of the Evansville Philharmonic, and member of the college staff. This is his third year as a member of the college faculty.



William Nation

For the first part of the program, Mr. Nation has chosen to play "Concerto, Opus 31 — Andante, Moderato, Adagio, and Allegro," Vieuxtemps; and "Sonata, Opus 24 — Allegro, Adagio, Scherzo, and Allegro," by Beethoven.

Open to Public

The last half of the program will consist of the "Two Slavonic Dances — No. 1 in G minor and No. 2 in E minor," Dvorak-Kreisler; "Liebesleid," Kreisler; "La Gitana," Kreisler; "Captice Viennois," Kreisler; and "Perpetual Motion," by Paganini-Kreisler.

Miss Allene Herron, assistant professor of piano, will accompany Mr. Nation. The recital is open to the public.

Articles Left in TUB Numerous and Varied

Dorothy Surbeck, TUB secretary, has announced that a number of articles, some valuable and some unusual, are now in the lost and found department of the TUB.

Miss Surbeck said that the commonest articles left are glasses and fountain pens. Coats, hats, and keys are frequently left also. Many textbooks are found and never claimed, she reported a yellow, toy bear cat even turned up one day.

Statisticians - -

New Data Compiled By Green Pledges

Some interesting statistics were gathered on the college campus during the recent Hell Week activities.

From the voice of the experienced comes word that it is exactly 889 weiner lengths from the TUB to the corner of President L. S. Hale's home. This startling data was complied by two pledges, better known as the hunchbacks of E.C., with the aid of a raw weiner, picking it up and placing it down again 889 times.

Cokes have been taken by the bottle, through straws, by the glass and in various other fashions, but by the spoon was the device used last week. In case the Coca Cola bottling company would be interested, a pledge reported that there are 42 spoonfuls of coke in one bottle.

Several girls, who will see cars in their sleep for the next few weeks discovered that there are 290 1-2 autos driven to college every day. The Willys, they said, counted only one-half.

Anthony's Band Booked for Spring Formal Next Thursday in Armory

Band Returned by Popular Request; Played for Same Event Last Year

Ray Anthony and his orchestra have been booked for the annual all-campus spring dance at the Armory next Thursday night from 8 o'clock until midnight. Mr. Anthony played for a dance here last year and is being returned by student request.

Paul Carnes, chairman of the TUB dance committee, has announced that tickets for the dance will be $2.40 per couple and will go on sale in the main hall Monday. The dance is to be formal for the women and optional dress for their escorts.

Henn Handles Decorations

Decorations will be handled by Joan Henn, chairman, and members of the TUB decoration committee. The theme of the decorations is not to be known until the night of the dance. Special dance chairmen Jim Browne, Kurt Kluger, and Jim Niehaus will assist with arrangements for the all-campus affair.

Mr. Anthony's band, which is brought here under the managership of the General Artists Corporation, has been on an extensive tour of the nation during the past few months.

Served In Navy

Starting out as a swing band leader in junior high school, Mr. Anthony started his professional career with Al Donahue and his band. After that he played with Glenn Miller and Jimmy Dorsey before entering the navy in 1942. While in service he organized a band that toured the Pacific and was on Okinawa at the time the war ended.

After his return from military service he reorganized the band, many of whom were with him in the navy. Recently the band completed a lengthy engagement at the Chase Club in St. Louis.

The annual all-campus spring dance is another college function that is being handled by members of the TUB board and committees. In the past the all-campus dances were handled by members of the Social Life Committee.

By ARLENE STARRY

● There seems to be some sort of trend developing in the national scene — prices up, prices down, prices up; wages up, employment down. The experts aren't quite in agreement about the cause; some say a recession is in the making; others favor the depression theory, and a few suggest that the regular adjustment between post-war boom and normal production and demand is beginning.

Miss Arlene Starry

Whatever the cause, two effects are apparent. One, supply has finally caught up with demand in most of the commodity products. Not only are store shelves taking on that per-war filled look, but also advertising is on the up swing.

Manufacturers, who for almost a decade sat back and let the customers come begging, are getting back into circulation — local printing firms report a high increase in advertising, in everything from furniture to baby chicks. The amount of direct mail advertising crossing our desk also indicates an increase in personal contact between the producer and consumer. All of which implies that there should be a gradual decrease in overall prices during 1949.

Effect number two: The unemployment reservoir is expanding. Statistics covering the national picture show a small percentage decrease at regular employment levels; that is, those areas not including seasonal Christmas and mid-winter jobs.

While the percentage of decrease is still below 5 per cent, the drop in employment is the first regular one since the early 40's. According to the Indiana Employment Security Division, manufacturing employment placements for January were 3.9 percent below the January level. Total employment for Indiana is down 0.2. The trend also has been evident in local industries.

Multiplied nation wide, the employment view has a definite effect on students looking forward to graduation. They can look forward to this picture: jobs are getting scarce; employment is on the downward curve; and salaries are due to take a cut. Future college graduates will be called upon to prove their abilities before stepping into the choice positions.

Good luck: to Wilma Pierce on the Horace Heidt Show tonight. Friends who plan to help Wilma's rating on the applause meter, best remember she is appearing on the early show.

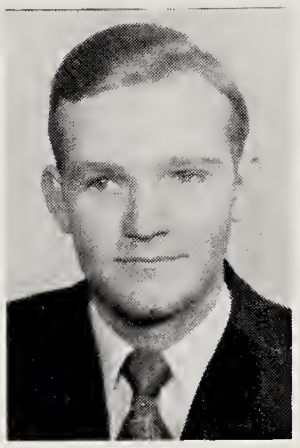
Department Store Scholarship Annual Award Made To Junior

Jack Berning, junior, has been awarded a $100 a year scholarship by F. S. Lazarus & Co., a department store firm in Columbus, Ohio, according to Harold VanWinkle, director of Public Relations.

This scholarship is awarded each year to a junior in various colleges throughout the country. The scholarship is valid for two years and is therefore utilized during the junior and senior years by the individual to whom it is awarded.



Jack Berning

Charles Hudson, a senior now at Evansville College, received the scholarship last year, and has spent eleven weeks in the Lazarus Co., store, working in all the different departments. Mr. Hudson received $50 per week while working. He said he had learned a great deal from the experience and had enjoyed it very much.

The scholarship is awarded to students who are majoring in Business Administration, and its purpose is to interest students in the field of retail selling.

Mr. Berning went to Columbus, Ohio, two weeks ago to be interviewed by the firm.

Mr. Berning is a member of the Phi Zeta fraternity, and co-chairman of the fraternities social committee. He is a member of the Business Administration Club; the TUB Evening Program Committee; and the SGA Public Speech Committee.

Church College Campus Dinner Planned Tonight

The Church College Campus Committee, which meets every six-months will have a dinner this evening at 5:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Elton Barnum, director of religious activities, is to be the speaker.

Mr. Barnum will give an outline of activities which have developed in the organization since the July 1948 meeting.

There are 17 members in the club over which Dr. Hale will preside.

Wilma Pierce on Heidt Talent Show Tonight

Wilma Pierce, senior, will sing tonight on the Horace Heidt Talent Show at 7 o'clock. Her selection is to be "With A Song In My Heart" by Rodgers and Hart.

Miss Pierce is a member of the college choir, and was recently in Ace Capades.

Roll on River

Flash Flood Brings Joy to Debaters

The outcome of contests between Murray State College and Evansville has for some time caused considerable speculation among the involved schools for various reasons.

Last week the peace loving debate team of the college was scheduled to participate in a contest before the aforementioned college's assembly of some 1500 students. Recalling some of the stories they had heard, the group was somewhat worried about their plight against such odds.

However, the worried debate team did not know that a small stream would help to decide the results of the debate. When they reached a small town called Cadez, they were informed that a flash flood had caused the "Little River" to overflow its banks.

It was then the debaters learned that all roads to Murray had been closed. While returning to Evansville without debating, one of the members remarked, "Well, it was a non-decision bout anyway!"

Air Force Officials To Interview Men

A special Air Force Aviation Cadet team will address college men on campus, next Thursday and Friday, March 3 and 4, to explain career advantages open to them under the Air Force's Aviation Cadet-Pilot training program. They will be prepared at that time to administer all preliminary examinations to flight-training applicants.

The two-man team, composed of Lt. Col. R. D. Grandmontagne and Major Ralph Monroe, of the Air Force, will interview all interested applicants and accept them provisionally for the 12-month flight training course which leads to a pilot's rating and commission.

Married or unmarried men, 20 to 26½ years old, and physically fit, with two or more years of college, will have the opportunity to provisionally qualify for the flight training immediately when the traveling team meets here, Lt. Col. Grandmontagne said.

Camera Club Chooses Judges For Salon; Elects Officers

The Camera Club has selected the judges for the annual photo salon and the officers for the remainder of the year.

Judges chosen for the salon, which opened yesterday in the Reserve Library, include Miss Dorothy Surbeck, secretary of the Temporary Union Building; Dr. Franklin MacKnight, head of the department of geology; and Miss Florence Keve, head of the department of art.

The hanging of the pictures started yesterday. Entries will continue to be accepted until March 21 and the judging will not take place until March 24.

Glenn Elder, senior, was re-elected president of the club for the coming year at a recent meeting. Dick Newman, sophomore, was chosen vice president, and Wilma Pierce, senior, was again elected as treasurer. Dr. Martin Chanin is the faculty adviser for the club.

A field trip has been planned by the club for this weekend. Details will be completed at today's meeting in A304. Students interested in the trip may visit the meeting or contact an active member of the club.

Education Department To Attend Meetings

Miss Lucile Jones, education department head, accompanied by Dr. Leland W. Moon, professor of education, and Dr. Robert R. Buell, associate professor of education, will attend a joint meeting of the American Council on Education, the American Association of School Administrators, and the National Association of Student Teaching in St. Louis February 27—March 1.

Among topics to be discussed at the meeting are overcrowded conditions existing in many schools over the nation today, and giving practice teachers increased experiences in coming in contact with children at various age levels.

Noted Pianist Here Monday

Lionel Nowak

Lionel Nowak, pianist and interpreter of modern music, will present piano selections in the student assemblies next Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. He also will give a concert at 8:30 Monday evening in the auditorium.

Mr. Nowak, now a member of the faculty of Syracuse University, is brought here through the auspices of the American College Association.

Born in Cleveland in 1911, he began making appearances at the age of six. At eleven he was soloist with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra. His compositions which include chamber music works, several large ballets, songs, piano pieces, and concertos, establish him as a reputed composer and conductor.

In 1942 he became conductor of the Spartanburg Symphony Orchestra and a member of the faculty of Converse College School of Music.

Mr. Nowak is scheduled for several conferences with music, bible, and philosophy students during his stay on campus.

Late News Breaks

There will be a senior class meeting Monday at 11 a.m. in the auditorium. Class rings are to be discussed at that time according to Norman Kniese, class president.

Judge Wendel F. Lensing, county probate judge, will speak to the members of the Newman Club, Sunday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 2:30 p.m., according to Dick Alexander, club publicity director. Judge Lensing's topic will be "The Cases in My Court."

The Kappa Chi, ministerial organization will hear the Rev. John Wolf, pastor of Old North Methodist Church, during their regular meeting at 11 a.m. today in 0108.

Art Students Display Projects Next Week

An art exhibit will be held the week of Feb. 28 in the three art rooms, Miss Florence Keve, professor of art, has announced.

All of the work which the art students have done this quarter will be shown at this time.

This includes oil paintings, still life paintings, figure sketches, pen and ink drawings, linoleum cuts, watercolor paintings, crayon drawings, and many other types of art work.

Classes To End March 8 - Then Comes the Three Day Grind

The hours and room of final examinations for the winter quarter are being posted today. All regular class work will end Tuesday, March 8, and exams will be given Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, March 9-10-11.

Those students having conflicts between a single section examination and a group examination — two or more sections meeting at the same time — should see the instructor of the group examination. Those having work conflicts should see the instructor of the course. If there are other conflicts, report them to the Dean's office for adjustment.

Caught in the Act

Miss Wahnita DeLong, professor of English, unlike most faculty members seems to enjoy grading papers like the one she is shown marking.

DeLong Possesses Rich Background in English

This is the first in a series of features on faculty members who have been associated with the college for twenty years or more.

By BILL DUFFY

Miss Wahnita DeLong, professor of English, has a rich background in literary work, which consists of 35 years of teaching English and contribution of literary material to various sources.

Miss DeLong was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1912. She received her M.A. degree in English from Ohio State University in 1914.

Dean of Women

She taught English at Ohio State University in 1914. Before coming to Evansville College in 1920, she was head of the English department at Circleville High School, Circleville, Ohio.

Miss DeLong is now teaching her 29th year at Evansville College. She was Dean of Women from 1924 to 1947, and also adviser to the YWCA during this period.

Native of Ohio

Being a native of Ohio, she received her early education in Corning, Ohio.

Considering her college teaching and association with students, Miss DeLong stated, "Occasionally I've heard academic freedom at Evansville College questioned. The freedom which I have found here in working with students, both in and outside the classroom and according to my own methods and beliefs, has been one of my chief reasons for teaching here permanently. Sharing ideas intimately with students as individuals, as it can he done on this campus, makes life rich and meaningful."

Wins Contest

In 1943 Miss DeLong placed first in a national essay contest which was sponsored by The National Council of Women and The Atlantic Monthly. Her subject was "What Kind of Postwar World Will Women Demand."

Two of Miss DeLong's more recent poems are "To Make A World," which was published in the September issue of the Christian Advocate, and "Veteran at School," which was published in the Ohio Wesleyan Monthly and was later published in the New York Herald Tribune. This poem also appeared in THE CRESCENT two years ago.

Editor of Poetry

Miss DeLong was the editor of Hoosier College Verse, Vols. I, 1939 and II, 1940.

In addition to her teaching, Miss DeLong is active in various community activities. She is a member of the Official Board and Chairman of The Board of Education of Trinity Methodist Church; she is Chairman of the Committee on Schools and Education of the Mayor's Commission on Human Relations. Miss DeLong is very much interested in the field of race relations.

Talkative Women Pet Male Dislike

Last week the inquiring reporter asked the campus females what they disliked most in men. Many interesting "pet peeves" were uncovered, some of which have caused quite a bit of debate.

Today the men get a chance to let off a little of that steam built up by the women's answers of last week. The inquiring reporter asked several men, whom he thought were qualified to give intelligent answers, what traits they disliked most in women.

Here are some of the answers:

Charlie Lindaur, sophomore, I dislike girls that think men are conceited. Most of the time men don't even know the names of the girls.

Jim Tieb, freshman. It's not that I dislike women, it's that women dislike me.

Louis Holtman, senior. Women that overdress and are gabby, but you can't get along without them.

Bill Woods, junior. I dislike conceited women and women that aren't satisfied unless they go to some ritzy place.

Lemois Wires, freshman. It's not what I dislike most in women, it is that I dislike most women.

Adrian Baize, junior. Having had no previous experience with women, I know nothing whatsoever about them.

Clem Jarhoe, junior. I dislike the popular type. That is why I go with Lois.

Don Watson, sophomore. I dislike these girls that are always smoking cigars, drinking corn liquor, and goingaround barefooted.

Boh Hevron, senior. I dislike women with the gift of gab. I particularly don't like those women that overdress, and the affected women.

Roger Shanner, freshman. You can't get along with them, and you can't get along without them.

Denzil Reed, senior. The greatest dislike I have is that the women don't like me. I prefer blackheads hecause I like to squeeze them.

ROUNDABOUT

Are Any Of These Yours?

To anyone who has lost anything around campus, your best bet is to go into the TUB office and inquire about your valuables. There are quite a few articles over there just lying around taking up space and they're not really doing anyone any good. Included among the lost are three dissecting kits, such as are used in botany and zoo labs, seven pairs of glasses — the dust really must be gathering on certain textbooks, a silver necklace and a Catholic prayerbook. Then there is the heart charm that was turned in on Valentine Day, car keys, compact, a pair of mittens with money in them, two pairs of wool gloves, a topcoat, sport jackets, scarves and numerous pens and pencils.

Why Don't They

book a band for those tea dances in the TUB — break or put a ban on all Sarah Vaughn records (one-half of this outfit is only kidding but the other half is "Square") — send Mary Bollinger some "get well quick" pills — prescribe Arizona sunshine for professors ailing with sinus trouble — feed Johnny Hurst some "glop", maybe then he won't use that term as a nick name for his friends — transport Marilyn Marshall's home closer to Evansville — make bigger and better aspirin?

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Dandelion Department

Our spray of posies goes to the Thespians who celebrated their 25th anniversary last week. The play "The Linden Tree" was the highlight of the celebration and was a production worthy of praise. Congratulations to the cast, crews and director.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

"Whot Hoppened"

ot the business enterprise of Fran and Dan . . . to school spirit at the Morehead game . . . to "Papa" Fisher down town last Friday afternoon . . . to all those "telltale" pictures Kurt Kluger snapped at the party . . . to the MSHC and the NATAK organizations . . . to Evans Avenue to give it that canned look . . . to the short cut between Norman Avenue and Washington (take it from us you can get trapped like a trap in a trap in that small jungle).

And will never see the bright light
You can call us fuddy duddies
Who stay home in study studies.

Reforms and Apologies

Jo Ann James

With the new quarter right around the corner, now is a good time to institute some personal reform measures.

In fact, it might not be a bad idea to find out now the name of the prof who is teaching that 11:45, since that's the individual who will be handing out your destiny in the form of a final grade one of these days soon.

Some people may be surprised to find that text books are good for something besides pressing old corsages, and buy a few of the required books for the next quarter. Course, getting around to reading those texts may be a different matter.

Take That "T" Test

Now that smoking is prohibited on the city buses, people who use this means of transportation find that they have to get up and get to school a little earlier in order to get that drag in before the 8 o'clock.

As long as we're reforming, we may as well take the puffs where they are permitted according to student handbook rules. Dr. Chanin of the chemistry department, states (with the aid of a book) that it takes just 60 milligrams of nicotine to kill a human. If some of the inhalors are caught indulging while in halls or buildings where said same is prohibited, they may find themselves human guinea pigs in an experiment to prove that theory.

Tide Takes Time

Honest, those bells are more than reverbrations of the morning alarm clock! They probably mean you're late for class again. Why not surprise the gent who lectures to the class an hour a day by showing up on time. Granted, it is a long hike from the Armory to the E Building, but think of the exercise!

Those chow lines at the cafeteria can look mighty long when you know you have only 15 minutes to swallow and run, but eating regularily is a habit students should acquire at an early age — (end of the freshman year, at least). It's fine — try it!

See What a Difference a C Makes

They say you can never believe a thing until you see it in print. This famous quote, however, we wish made plain does not apply to a news story published recently in the CRESCENT.

The story concerned a recital to he presented hy a member of the music department faculty. Through one of those printer's slips that occasionally find their way into issued matter, the program was called "another in a series of faulty programs scheduled this year by the music department." We most humbly apologize for loss of a letter in the word faculty, and state boldly we think the scheduled programs are fine. In fact, what other department of the college presents its faculty members publicly to the student body where they may be appraised as to qualifications for teaching courses, and examined on whether they practice what they preach in the classroom? We think the whole thing's a pretty good idea.

Pic of the Week

Beginning with this issue the Pic of the Week will be chosen among seniors outstanding in the various departments of the college.

The girl in the spotlight this week is Joan Henn, senior. Joan is a member of the Gamma Epsilon Sigma social sorority.

"Joanie," as her friends call her, is a Home Economics major and belongs to the Home Economics club. She is also a member of the Temporary Union Building Management Board and the Student-Faculty Federation. Being a member of the Public Occasions committee, she spends much of her time at those meetings.

In her junior year Joan was elected critic of the Gamma Epsilon Sigma sorority. She was also elected secretary of the Student Government Association. In this capacity she acted as secretary of both the Administrative Board and the Student Council.

During her second year of school Joanie was elected vice president of her sorority. "That was my first year in the Sigs," she added.

As a freshman Joan certainly wasn't left out of things. At the Phi Zeta Sweetheart Dance she was chosen as an attendant to the sweetheart.

She joined the Gamma Delta freshman sorority and the Alpha Phi Delta, service fraternity. While in the Alpha Phi Delta she led the TUB committee. She explained that four years ago the service organizations were in charge of TUB management.

She attends college in the morning and works in the pharmacy at St. Mary's hospital in the afternoon and evening. When asked about her future plans Joan replied, "I am undecided so I won't commit myself."

Win a POSTGRADUATE COURSE IN AVIATION

PLUS AN IMPORTANT $4000-A-YEAR ASSIGNMENT

INTERVIEWING TEAM COMING SOON!

Few opportunities open to college upperclassmen can match this one! Here's a chance to get both flying and executive experience with the world's leader in Aviation —the U. S. Air Force.

If you can qualify, you join a select group of college men for 52 weeks Aviation Cadet-Pilot Training—with pay.

When you complete the course, you get your wings and a commission in the Air Force Reserve . . . up to $336 a month pay . . . a vitally important 3-year assignment as pilot with a crack Air Force squadron.

A special interviewing team will be on campus to tell you more about it and to give preliminary qualifying examinations. Stop in after class and talk it over with the pilots themselves.

If you wish, you may sign up now and finish your schooling before starting your training.

HERE ARE THE REQUIREMENTS:
You may be single or married, between 20 and 26½ years old, physically sound, and have at least two years of college (or be able to pass the equivalent examination administered by the interviewing team).

Evansville Plays Morehead Tonight in OVC Tourney

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Basketball is a peculiar sport. At one time a team may be so hot that nothing ean stop them and then turn around the next night and not be able to hit the side of the bankboard. Evansville's Aces eertainly didn't look like the same team that has played this year in their game at the Louisville last Friday night.

On top of the Aces having a bad night, Louisville was just abont as hot as a team ean get, rolling up 49 points in the first half. The team funetioned very smoothly and had Evansville baffled from the starting whistle.

Evansville's Sectional Tourney rolls into its second day when Griffin and Wadesville tangle at Central Gym this afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. New Harmony and Mt. Vernon clash in the second game and tonight Central plays Memorial, winner over Cynthiana last night.

General opinion seems to be with the Tigers from Memorial to win the loeal sectional but this eolumn wil stiek out the neck and piek Central to win the loeal tourney for the fourth straight year.

To get back to college basketball . . . Evansville, seeded fourth in the Ohio Valley Tournament, play their first game tonight against Morehead, the team they beat 76-52 in the regular season finale last Saturday night. The Aces will be favored to cop this one, but will meet the winner of last night's Murray-Louisville tilt on Saturday afternoon.

Two of the offieials who are working the OVC tournament have not worked much around here, but the other two ar equite familiar to loeal fans. They are Elburn "Ox" Hartley and Hiekman Duncan, the "eolorful" Nashville whistletooter.

Hartley has worked several games for the Aces and Duncan works here every time Ed Diddle and his Hilltoppers come to town.

The Louisville Armory is really quite a layout. The seating capaeity is around 7800 and looks like it could be more. The drink stands are under the seats and the service is rapid and adequate. One thing that Evansville fans will find that they are not accntomed to is the sale of beer at basketball games.

The Armory is certainly loeated and easy to reach from the Brown, headquarters for the team while they are in Louisville. Evansville should have a fairly good representation tonight at Louisville, with at least 100 fans from here expected to attend.

Everybody sems to be out on a limb as far as picking the winner of the state high school net tourney is concerned. Not going out too far on a limb in this case . . . it looks like the Anderson Indians in '49.

Observation . . . Bob Hamilton is our nomination for Mr. Hard Luck of February. Anyone that shoots nine under par aud then has the round thrown out has an exeuse for doing anything. The next round Bob blew up and shot a 76.

Aces Finish Scheduled Cage Season; B. Barnett, Hafele Lead in Scoring

Coach Arad McCutchan's netmen closed their regular scheduled 1948-49 season last Saturday night by defeating Morehead Kentucky State in the local armory by a score of 76 to 52.

This game gave the Aces a season record of fourteen wins against ten losses. Only three of the ten games were lost on their home floor. They lost the ten games by a total of 130 points or an average of thirteen points per game and won the fourteen games by 224 points which averaged 17 points per game.

Joe Hafele, guard, and Bob Barnett, forward, lead the way for the team in scoring during the 24 games. Hafele made a total of 127 field goals and 73 free pitches for 327 points, an average of 13.6 per game. Bob Barnett connected 114 shots from the floor and 45 gratis shots for a total of 273 points.

Aces Hold Two League Victories Over Eagles

By JEFF HAYS

While the local high schools are engaged in the cut throat business of eliminating each other in the Sectional tournament here, the Evansville College Aces will be trying to do a little tournament winning of their own in the Ohio Valley Conference Tourney at Louisville tonight and tomorrow.

First seeded Western Kentueky, seventh best liked team in the nation aeeording to the sports writers, played Tennessee Tech last night. Western entered the tournament with an outstanding record of 22 wins and 3 losses. Tennessee Tech had a pre-tourney record of ten and eight.

Louisville Plays Marshall

In the other game last night, second seeded Eastern Kentucky met Murray's Thoroughbreds. Eastern carried a 15 and 3 reeord into the tilt while Murray had a not so impressive 13 and 11.

In tonights game Louisville, 21 and 9, meets Marshall, 16 and 11, and Evansville, 14 and 10, meets Morehead, 13 and 8. The Aces hold two victories over Morehead in pre-tourney firings, and a victory over Louisville, their probable opponent in the semi-finals.

Tieket Sales Large

Tonight's games will start at 7:45 and 9:15. Games tomorrow afternoon will start at 12:30 and 2 p.m. The Consolation game tomorrow night will start at 7:45 and the championship game will begin at approximately 9:15.

According to Kelly Thompson, The Ohio Valley Conference Tournament Manager, the advance ticket sales have been large, and a near capacity crowd is expected at each session.

Hickman Duncan, Nashville, Tennessee; Herman Jackson, Murfreesboro, Tennessee; Ox Hartley, Evansville, Indiana; and Kenny Jordan, Cincinnati, Ohio have been selected as the officials for the tourney.

Joe Hafele is still leading the scoring parade for the Aces with 325 points. Bob Barnett has 273, Harry Axford, 214; Bob Kohlmeyer, 172; Bob Sakel, 153; and Jim Barnett with 133 are the other leaders.

Barnett Announces Revised Intramural Tournament Rules

Several changes have been made necessary in the playing of the intramural tournament, aceording to Jim Barnett, sponsor.

The time of playing rests on whether or not the Aces receive a bid to play in the Kansas City invitational tournament. If Evansville College does get a bid to participate in the tourney at Kansas City, intramural play will begin March 21. If the college does not get a bid, play will start on Feb. 28.

A round robin schedule with six games per squad was originally planned by Mr. Barnett, but a double elimination tournament was made necessary due to the lack of facilities and the time left to play. The Aces will need the Armory to practice in if they receive the bid to the Kansas City tourney.

Under the rules of a double elimination tourney, when a team loses two games it is automatically out of the running. Three or four games will be played eaeh day according to the amount of time available. Daily schedules will be posted on the bulletin board in the Administration building with times of games and names of officials.

WAA Wins First Half Bowling Championship

The Women's Athletic Association took two games from the Castalian Sorority last week to win the first half championship in the Women's Bowling League by one game. Before last week the Castys had lead the league.

Louise Kiely, Casty, topped all bowlers in the first half with an average of 137. Rovella Hinton, WAA, followed closely behind with a 136 average and Louise Griffith, Sig, came in third with an average of 130.

Vets Stretch Lead In Bowling League

A powerful Vets team remained on top of the bowling league as they swept three games from the Pi Kappas. The Vets had the high team series of 712 pins with Ramsey Bristow rolling the high individual series of 544.

Dave Steele of the Philo 1 team bowled the high single game when he totaled 224. Other high men were Bristow with a 213 and Reninga of the Faculty marking with 215 pins.

Ready To Haug That Shingle

Bob Hahn, Bab Arhens, Jack Humphrey, Jack Weidenbener, and Bill Miller, all pre-law students, are discussing curriculum prablems and what courses ta enroll in next quarter.

Future Lawyers Prepare For Life's Work Here

Evansville College provides the preparatory work for many professional fields. One of these fields is law. At the present time there are approximately 27 students enrolled in the pre-law field.

Most of Evansville College's pre-law students major in history or political science. Some, however, major in economics, particularly those who intend to follow business law.

Pre-law Club Organized

A pre-law club has been organized to advance the knowledge of the pre-law students in legal and judicial ethics and procedures. All students specializing in the pre-law field are eligible for membership in this club.

The club has not been active this quarter, but plans are being made by Bob Hahn, president, to bring in city officials to speak to the club mebers.

After a student finishes his work in the pre-law course here, he tries to get accepted in one of the larger universities. At Indiana University a student must have at least three years of pre-law work before he is admitted. It is far easier, and in some cases advisable, for a student to get his A.B. degree before seeking acceptance in the larger institutions. Mr. Hahn added.

Number Varies

"The number of students actually enrolled in the field fluctuates because students are constantly changing majors and dropping out of school," said Ann Sinnet, secretary of the club.

The seven students who completed the pre-law study at Evansville College last year are; Bob Baumgart, Jr., now at Michigan; Richard McWilliams, Southern California; Raymond Gray, Paul Niehaus, Harold Selzer, and John Burner, all at Indiana; and Henry Hardin, studying at Louisville.

Valparaiso Drama Group Sponsoring Nationwide Playwriting Contest

Dramatic students at Valparaiso University are sponsoring a nationwide playwriting contest, according to a recent announcement.

The plays should be limited to a simple act, but greater length plays will be accepted. There are no restrictions as to theme or form. However, all plays must be original, unpublished, and unproduced.

The author of the play judged the best will receive $200. Second prize is $100 and third prize $50. There is a special award of $300 for a full-length play, if one of sufficient merit is received.

The Valparaiso University Players will have production rights to the winning plays. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, June 30, 1949. Winners will be announced on September 30, 1949.

All plays submitted must be typed on only one side of the paper, and the lines must be double-spaced. The pages must be arranged in book form. The author should print his name and address and place it in a sealed envelope. The envelope should be attached to the manuscript.

Entries should be addressed to the Valparaiso University Players, Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind.

Home Economics Foods Class Makes Plans for Trustee's Dinner Tuesday

The college trustees will be the guests of the students in the experimental foods class of the home economic department, next Tuesday evening at the trustee's periodic meeting.

This class, composed of Joan Henn, senior, Marilyn Marshall, junior, Betty Marshall, junior, and Geno Burns, junior, have undertaken the dinner as a quarterly class project. The class is under the supervision of Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the home economics department. It is an advanced class and helps in the preparation of the student for independent research in food study.

The class will be assisted by the home management class which will be in charge of the room arrangement, and the foods preparation class ill assist in the preparation of the dinner.

Invitations and place cards for the event are being made by members of the art department under the guidance of Miss Florence Keve, department head.

This will he the first time that the college trustees have been entertained in the newly decorated home economics department's new dining room, which was completed last spring.

Pribble Recital Set for Sunday; Woodwind Program Tuesday

Thirteen college music majors will be heard in two coming recitals scheduled by the music department. Donald Pribble will offer his junior recital and twelve other students will take part in a woodwind decital.

Mr. Pribble will give an organ recital Snnday, Feb. 27, at 3:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, Second and Mulberry streets. The program will feature one of his own compositions, "Legend," which he wrote in his sophomore year.

Air Corps Veteran

He was graduated from Rockport High School in 1941 and then went into the Army Air Corps where he served three years. At present he is studying organ under Ralph Waterman. He plays the tuba in the college band.

In his freshman year Mr. Pribble became assistant organist at First Presbyterian Church and has held the position for the past three years.

In the first part of his program Sunday, Mr. Pribble will play "Crand Jeu" by Du Mage, choral preludes, "In Thee Is Gladness" and "Sleepers, Wake" by Johann Sebastian Bach.

In the second part he will play "Carillon" by Leo Sowerby; "Pastorals" from Symphony II by Charles Marie Widor; "The French Clock" by Franz Bornschein; "Legend" by Don Pribble; and "Carillon de Westminister" by Louis Vierne.

On Tuesday evening, March 1, at 8:30 p.m., a group of woodwind students will present a woodwind recital in the auditorium.

Flute Solo

The first part of the program will be a two B flat clarinet quartet numbers, "Andante" by Scharwenka, and "Sherzo Quartet in A Minor" by Schumann. Members of the quartet are Mr. Heim, Mr. Long, Miss Kiely, and Mr. Padgett.

The third number on the program will be a flute solo, "Finale" from Third Sonata by Gaubert, by Miss Sansom.

Next on the program will be a clarinet solo by Mr. Heim, "Piece in G Minor" by Barat.

Following this selection will be three numbers by a mixed clarinet quartet. They are "Fugarest" by Frangkiser and "Andante Cantabile" and "Allegro" from Quartet by Powell. Members of this quartet are Mr. Meier, and Mr. Witherspoon, clarinetists, Mr. Hormuth, also clarinetist, and Mr. Nauert, bass clarinetist.

Quintet Number

The next number will be a bassoon solo, "Allegro" from Concerto in B by Mozart, by Mr. Lively.

The concluding portion of the program will be selections by a woodwind quintet. These selections are "Jolly," "Waltz," "With Quiet Simplicity," "In Rapid Quarters," and "Very Lively," from Quintet for Wood Instruments, Op. 24, No. 2 by Hindemith, and "Scherzo, Op. 38" by Bozza. Making up the quintet are Miss Sansom, flute; Miss Robinson, ohoe; Mr. Heim, clarinet, Miss Harris, French horn, and Mr. Lively, bassoon.

Poor Piggy

Zoology Students Dissect Annimals

"Will yau please shaw me haw ta cut this pig's brain apen?" . . . "This eyball is sure hard to get aut!"

These are familiar saunds in the Engineering Sscience Building during the lab periad of Dr. D. W. Dunham's Zaalagy 102 classes.

The graups have been studying the digestive, circulatary, skeletal, repraductive and nervaus systems af mammals. Part af their knawledge is derived fram the dissecting af preserved specimens which are given them in the twa haur labaratary periad.

Far the last twa weeks the eager anatamical students have been carefully slicing aff skin, remaving eyeballs, and revealing brains af baby pigs. Then, amid fumes af farmaldehyde and alcahol, they bravely explared the interiar af the preserved specimens.

All af which shaws ta what extremes a persan will ga in arder ta receive an educatian. Seriausly thaugh, what is learned in callege, hawever useless it may seem at the time, will be af same use in the future. It says here.

By ARLENE STARRY

●This is it — the end of the line again. Those unawakened students who are still unaware that finals begin Wednesday . . . it's probably too late anyway, so we refer them to the latest methods for getting F's (see feature this page).

●Coming up: For campus events during the next three weeks see The Calendar this page. Next issue of THE CRESCENT is March 25.

●Memo to the gourmets: The Cafeteria began a new schedule of hours this week. Object: better and longer mealtime service. For details see page 4.

Miss Arlene Starry

●We have news for those students who think a professors life is all give and no take — see page 2.

●For three years we struggled with the myriad of paper work that goes into registration. First, there was the catalogue. Check requirements, check classes already taken, and check what courses are given when. Then make out a tentative schedule. Obviously, it's tentative because we haven't seen the semester class schedule; it probably isn't out yet.

Then we go to our advisor; that's quite a step. Usually it takes several hours of research —in the catalogue again, on the telephone to Mr. McCoy, and probably a trip to several department heads. The requirement situation being completely confused and confusing, we finally reach a compromise and get our advisor's reluctant okay.

Finally, oh joy, the official semester class schedule comes out. A last check, just to be sure the catalogue was correct. We signed up for four courses; we can't find three of them; we check the catalogue again; it assures us those courses are being offered this semester; but the class schedule is official; we need those courses. We have a delimma. We sypathize with Mr. Christopher (see letter to the editor, page 2.)

●But we finally made it. In spite of catalogues, class schedules, and general confusion, we made the requirements; took a major and minor; sat in on a great many classes; participated in a few more; and we have been advised that, come the last day of finals, we are eligible to receive our B.A.

We've had quite a lively three years. Most of that time has been fun; some of it has been disillusioning; all of it has been interesting. Human nature being what it is, we've met some fine people; we've also run across some otherwise.

Also we reached this conclusion: The more we learn, the more we realize how little we can ever know.

●We'd like to offer this last reminder: There is a bill (number 242) before the Indiana legislature that is the vital concern of every student on this campus —as members of society, as potential citizens, as future leaders, as part of a community college. Powerful interests are cooperating against it; only an intelligent and vocal interest can help effect principles incorporated in the Constitution. The bill outlaws segregation.

●Musical Brainteaser number 10: What famous composer's name means "sour cream?" His most popular composition has immortalized a tributary of the Elbe.

Vera Espenlaub and Mary Hormuth will manage refreshments. Several other committee members will work with them.

Fred Creech and Herman Litschgi, co-ehairmen of the entertainment committee have chosen Jim Wilson and Boh Patry to work with them. Most of the entertainment will be furnished by college students.

Chaperones ehosen thus far are Bosse; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd; Memorial, Miss Gertrude Leieh and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelly.

Choir Leaves On Road Trip March 13

The A Capella choir will leave on the first part of a musical tour Sunday morning, March 13.

The sixty-one students who comprise the choir will travel by chartered bus. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-heads of the music department, will accompany them on the trip.

Indianapolis Scheduled

They will go to Indianapolis on Sunday. At 7:30 p.m. that evening they will sing at the Robert's Park Methodist Church. The Rev. Amos L. Boren, a graduate of Evansville College, is pastor there. The choir will present an all sacred number program, and spend the night at the Severn Hotel.

Monday morning they will leave Indianapolis. They will pass through Mitchell, Ind., where they will present a program of secular and sacred songs. Monday night they will be at Spring Mill State Park.

Sing at High Schools

On Tuesday the choir will give a performance at Cannelton High School in the morning. In the afternoon they will give a similar performance at the high school in Tell City. They will remain there and give a sacred-number program at the Tell City Methodist Church in the evening.

On Wednesday the Kiwanis Club at Princeton will be entertained.

This is the choir's twenty-first season.

Committee To Examine Excess Assembly Cuts

Students who have missed more than two assemblies during the winter quarter are expected to meet with the Assembly Over-cut Comittee March 7 and 8 in Dean McKown's office.

The committee is meeting to review excessive assembly absences, according to Everette Walker, director of student personnel services.

Credit of students having more than two unexcused absences will be reduced one-half for the first such absence, one hour for the first such absence, one hour for two, and one and oneone-half hours for three, according to the rules in the Student Handbook.

Dr. Harold R. Bottrell Resigns Staff Post

Dr. Harold R. Bottrell, associate professor of sociology, has resigned to accept a position as director of the School and Community Workshop in the College of Education, University of Texas, according to Lincoln B. Hale, president.

His resignation becomes effective at the end of the spring quarter.

Nicholas Cannici To Present Next Faculty Music Recital

Nicholas Cannici, instructor in clarinet, will be presented in a faculty music recital March 8, at 8:30 p.m., in the college auditorium.

Mr. Cannici as soloist, will be assisted by Allene Herron, pianist, and a string quartet.

Program Listed

The program will consist of three works: The first, Sonate by Saint-Saens, in four parts; Allegretto, Allegro Animato, Lento, and Molto Allegro. The second will be Premiere Rhapsodie, by Debussy. The final number will be Quintet in A Major, by Mozart, in four parts; Allegro, Larghetto, Menuetto, and Allegretto con variationi.

The quartet, which will accompany Mr. Cannici, will be composed of the following: William Nation, violin; Dorothy Walker, violin; George Dasch, viola; and Mae Ruth Pietila, cello.

Attended I.U.

Mr. Cannici has a wide background in musical education and experience. He received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Indiana University, and did graduate teaching work there in clarinet. He is a member of the Evansville Philhormonic Orchestra, and Phi Mu Alpha, national music fraternity. He also spent some time teaching and directing the Spencer High School band.

During the war years, Mr. Cannici was a member of the U.S. Army Air Force, and directed some of the musical activities of that group.

Seeger Makes Gift Of $10,000 to Fund

A gift of $10,000 from the Seeger Refrigerator Company to the union building fund was announced recently by Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president.

This gift makes a total of $70,572.40 received for this building fund since the campaign was started last December. The goal set is $100,000.

When making the gift the Seeger management stated it was very favorably impressed by the college and its program of education. It was stated they considered the college among the foremost of those agencies working for community betterment and a vital and living force in this area.

This is the second gift the Seeger Refrigerator Company has made to the college. Shortly after the company took over Evansville facilities in the summer of 1945, it gave $20,000 to the college development fund.

Part Time Work?

Be a Nightwatcher; Everything Free

Were you ever a night watchman? Does the thought sound bad to you? Well, picture yourself accepting the job as the employer says:

"Now soa this job isn't bad at all. Come let me show you these pool tables. You can play on them as much as you like. The icebox is all yours, too, eat what you want. Play this radio when things get a little lonely."

Well the job sounded good but it wasn't all honey and cream. Sure, you could play pool, but did you ever play pool by yourself at midnight in a place that had been robbed recently? The collisions of the balls sound like gun shots, and the echo reverbrating off the walls sends chills down your spine.

Yeah, you can eat all you want, but did you ever try to eat when you could swear there was someone walking around on the second floor. The radio was swell for awhile, but leave the room for a minute, and the music sounds like someone opening a window, and the announcer is someone ready to cut your throat.

But the job pays 75c an hour and you can't go to college on your looks.

Here you are upon final exams again and the ink hardly dry on your crib notes from the fall finals.

Let's see, what method of getting by will you use this time? Studying is positively out of the question. Most of these instructors are wising up to the old devises, though. Last final you attended, there were so many ponies going into the room that the prof blew a bugle instead of waiting for the bell to ring!

You can always put your notes on your hankie, sleeves, cuffs, or other items of clothing. That way you run up two bills, through — one for having your clothes cleaned, and the other to pay next quarter's tuition because you passed the final you were using the notes for. It might be cheaper to flunk. But then you'd have to go to work, and that's as bad as studying.

Shoes Talk

Saddle oxfords are good for something besides walking. Ink washes off too. Course, it isn't too graceful for a girl to hike her foot up to her desk to see the answers, but it works neatly for the boys! Boys can use the scroll of answers method, too. You tape the sheet around your leg and hike the trousers leg at convenient intervals.

Of course, if you and your neighbor both know Morse code, and have 10 hours to finish the test — you're set.

If you're going to put your crib notes in the book you take to class, don't for goodness sakes, slam the book shut with a victorious bang when you're all through. It's rather embarrassing to have your note flutter down past the prof's eyes. And it might be a good idea to hand in your exam paper and not those typed crib notes!

Glasses Help

Then there's the old orange-juice-glasses trick. You write the answers on your specs in orange juice, and when you get stuck in the test, slap on the eye wear. After straining to see two inches in front of your eyes when you don't wear glasses anyway, you're so cross-eyed you can't see the exam paper, but that's beside the point — you know the answers now.

Say, why not try something different? Studying may not be so terribly bad after all! These four hours you spent trying to devise a method of slipping through could have been used on the subject in question. Anyway, why not take a gamble? It may work — who knows?

Tests Planned For Students March 24, 25

Tests will be administered to sophomores March 24 and 25 by the Testing and Counseling Service, according to Everette Walker, director of student personnel services.

All sophomores who are to receive an A.B. degree are required to take the test. These tests may be taken by students working for a B.S. degree. The students should make arrangements with Mr. Walker to be permitted to take the test. The test is optional for them.

Two sections will take the test, and each student will be tested six hours. A list of all those to take the test, to be given in the auditorium and E-233, will be posted in the administration building.

The test results give the students evidence of their strength and weaknesses in basic subject matter areas. The tests are not limited to narrow subject matter content, but are intended to cut across course lines and to measure the results of different types of learning.

The test, in three divisions, will cover phases of cooperative English, general culture, and contemporary affairs.

Seniors To Recruit Teacher Prospects

Five education majors and members of the college education department will participate in a nationwide drive to help secure high school seniors to train for teaching positions in the elementary schools throughout the nation.

Educators are planning for a 45 per cent increase in elementary school enrollment by 1957, and to meet this increase some 100,000 new teachers are needed within the next ten years.

Students assisting in the recruiting drive will include Harriet Buthod, Mary Francis Clouse, Evelyn Cameron, Suzanne Goeke, and Emily Combs.

During the month the instructors and students will visit high schools in Evansville and neighboring communities and will speak to seniors interested in elementary education.

Debate Team Lists Heavy Schedule

The debate team will visit Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, March 22, for a two round debate session. The university will return the match in April at the college.

Other debates scheduled for future dates include Murray State College at Kentucky, DePauw University at Greencastle, and Indiana State Teachers College in Terre Haute.

The college group will also participate in the annual Tau Kappa Alpha Forensic tournament at Purdue University, the later part of March. This tournament is the largest of the year and is participated in by colleges throughout the United States.

During the past two weeks debate team members and Prof. A. C. Spence, debate coach, have been serving as judges for high school speech contests.

Two weeks ago the group helped in the judging of the district high school debate tournament held at Reitz High School, and last Monday served as judges for the annual Eighth District American Legion contest at Roekport High School.

Late News Breaks

Grades for the winter quarter will be mailed sometime during the week of March 21, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar.

The Student Christian Association will have nomination of officers for the spring and next fall quarters at their regular meeting on March 24. Election will be deferred until May 5.

There will be a freshman class meeting, Wednesday, March 23 in A303, at 11 a.m. Purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for a class function, according to Dave Millen, class president.

Donald Grant, traveller and lecturer, is to be the assembly speaker Tuesday and Wednesday, March 22 and 23. He will speak on same phase of international affairs.

He Copes With It

Professor A. B. Cope has made many Evansville College reports. He is shown completing an attendance report he is making out for the dean office.

Cope Enjoys Gardening, Talking With Students

By Mary Lou Wolfe

A familiar figure on the campus is Alfred B. Cope, professor of psychology. Professor Cope has been teaching on the Evansville college staff for twenty-eight years.

A native of Kansas, he received his bachelor of arts degree at Campbell college in 1904 and was graduated from Kansas University with his master of arts degree in 1906.

He then taught in the Kansas public school system until 1910 when he was honored with a two year fellowship in the University of Chicago. "I'm rather proud of that fellowship," Professor Cope said.

Went To Emporia

Before coming to Evansville in 1921, he taught education and psychology in Missouri Wesleyan college from 1912 to 1914. After that he was a member of the Emporia college faculty for three years, and taught at Ottawa university for two years.

He explained that in most schools at that time the education department was combined with the psychology department. Until a few years ago these two departments were combined here, too.

During the first world war Professor Cope was with the Army Educational corps in France in 1918 and 1919.

While in college he was active in sports, playing on the baseball and tennis teams. He added that he was also a member of the Evansville college faculty baseball team which played the students once a year.

Aside from sports Professor Cope enjoys gardening and, of course, teaching. He organized the Indiana Alpha chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science fraternity.

Likes To Travel

Professor Cope is married and has three children; two boys, Dana and Everette, and one girl, Lela. They reside at 525 S. Rotherwood.

Each year Professor Cope attends the national convention of the American Psychological Association. He has made several automobile trips to Canada, the Pacific coast, and the South.

When asked what part of teaching he enjoys most Professor Cope replied that he liked classroom work and the fellowship with his students.

"I have a lot of pleasure talking to them," he said. "The students here can be compared with students in most any university."

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Dandelion Department

This week's buds go to Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities. Her virtues are many and varied with patience heading the list. She not only balances the dates of all the social functions months ahead, but also is the chief supply clerk for a lending shop of paints, scissors, paste, etc. and in addition to all this she collects your forgotten articles left in the TUB daily. We thank you, our versatile Miss Kirk.

Have You Noticed?

Marty Wessner's friendliness . . . Bob Vallier's flashy ties . . . the crocuses that are blooming (must be spring) . . . the new pictures on display in the TUB . . . that Lois Huck is back in school after an appendectomy . . . Vera Espenlaub's third finger left hand . . . Ramsey Bristow's crooning ability (the grapevine tells us he's great) . . . how tired everyone looks today, is it due to late studying or late hours at the Ray Anthony dance last night?

sjsjsjsjsjsj

We Should Live So Long?

Our contribution to college knowledge, meaning this column, is off for a vacation with this issue. Next week our minds will be thick with facts, we hope, in preparation for those ugly necessities, finals. More hooks are being opened now than ever before. The path between EC and the public libraries is heavily laden with traffic as Jane and Joe College finish reports, term papers, book reviews and other educational studies that were assigned some time before Christmas. Turning to brighter thoughts, though there's a vacation after all tests are taken, that is, if you live through them. Good luck, let's all make the dean's list and have a rip roaring vacation.

sjsjsjsjsjsj

Knew about finals from the start
Had our crib notes for every part
Ill luck came—the prof was smart
And left us with a broken heart

That's the Way It Goes - - a Beautiful Life - -

College Professor Lives Life of Uncertainity

If he's brand new at teaching, he lacks experience.

If he's been teaching all his life, he's in a rut.

If he dresses decently, he's trying to be a fashion plate.

If he thinks about something besides clothes, he's a bum.

If he seldom admits a mistake, he's arrogant.

If he admits a mistake, he ought to be back to bricklaying.

If he plants an occasional joke in his lectures, he's a comedian.

If he never condescends to an academic nifty, he's duty dull.

If he goes to chapel with regularity, he's a hypocrite.

If he shies at sermons, he's a heathen.

If he writes books, he's neglecting his teaching.

If he never publishes, he never had a thought worth printing.

If he hands out plenty of high grades, he has no standards.

If he hands out plenty of low grades, he's a butcher.

If he uses notes, he's unoriginal.

If he gets along without notes, he's an ad-libber.

If he sticks to his specialty, he's got a one-track mind.

If he tours the encyclopedia, he's a chow-off.

If he can't identify Fritzie Zivic and Jack Kramer, he isn't human.

If he listens to sports broadcasts, he's illiterate.

If he gets paid for outside work, he's greedy.

If he does outside work for nothing, he's a sucker.

If he stands up while teaching, he's oratorical.

If he sits down while teaching, his feet hurt.

If he's young, he needs more seasoning.

If he's old, he's seen better days.

If he gives a lot of quizzes, he's a slave-driver.

If he seldom gives a test, he's too lazy to read papers.

If he gets his name in the newspapers, he's publicity mad.

If he never appears in the public prints, he's so much deadwood.

If he takes an active part in faculty business, he's a politician.

If he never serves on a committee, he's a work-dodger.

If he's on good terms with the president, he's a sycophant.

If he doesn't wear out the stairway from the Ad building, he's disloyal.

Letter to the Editor

To The Editor:

Today I walked into the dean's office and obtained a registration booklet for the Spring Quarter of 1949. I was feeling pretty happy — and why not? I had my schedule all worked out for this coming quarter and, in fact, for all of next year. It had been a long tedious job for me since I transfered to E.C. with quarter hours while it was on semester system. Last year when E.C. switched to the quarter system I had to convert my once converted hours back to quarter hours. Then is when I decided, to try at least, to work out my remaining schedule for my college day, and I did it after a few long fag and java sessions with my college catalogue.

So, perhaps with a bit of pride, I opened the registration booklet to put down my course for the coming quarter — it should just be a matter of minutes. But wait — where are the subjects the catalogue assured me would be offered this quarter?

There surely must be a mistake. So I anxiously ran to my adviser, who is also in this department where the course isn't being offered. Do I get a reasonable explanation? No — he just reports he doesn't know, and it is not his fault! When will the course be offered? He doesn't know that either. But I have to have this course now — I'm not supposed to take any more in this field until I have had it! My G.I. Bill runs out in June, 1950 — my schedule is full clear up to there! I don't think I'm so happy anymore. No, in fact I'm seriously considering leaving E.C. campus. This isn't the first time I've run up a snag and instead of getting an explanation I get the "run around." Nobody knows anything — it's nobody's fault.

I don't believe I'm alone in having experienced this from what I hear in the TUB bull sessions — I think a radical change is due of some sort — or all these pretty new building are going to be mightly lonely one of these days.

Pic of the Week

Russel Day, an outstanding student and personality in the chemistry department, has been chosen for the pic of this week.

Russ, as he is better known to his friends, started at Evansville College in the fall of 1946. He hails from Huntingburg, Ind., where he was graduated from high school in 1944. While in high school he played on the varsity basketball team.

The navy took up two years of his time after he left high school. He served in the quartermaster corps and spent eight months on a mine sweeper duty in the North China Sea.

He is a former member of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, and is a student affiliate of the American Chemical Society. For two years he played on the college football, basketball, and baseball teams, and is a member of the "E" Club.

Most of his spare time on the campus is spent in the chemistry laboratory, where he has been a student assistant for the past three years. After graduation he plans to attend graduate school, although the exact school is not definite to date. He is not positive about his after graduation plans.

In December of last year, Russ married the former Ruth Hartig, a nurse at the Deaconess Hospital. They reside at 314 S. Barker Avenue.

The common cry is — Let's get away from this place. This cry is — Let's get away from the common place.

First, let's get into this thing called fashion. In the winter it's clothes, and in the summer it's expose. Some of the spies say the gals will soon be in bell-heeled, bottom shoes and spats yet. That'll take care of the legs. The skirt will come below the boot-top shoe. It is rumored that some calendar artists are daring to show a little pink-like skin above the shoe for next year's winter months. Although this will not be considered proper, some of the fluffy petticoats will feature a small front slit.

In planning for next year, the neck line has been argued at length. And some will say that the length of the line some fellows use in this activitiy is open for argument. But to the point, trends seem to indicate that the strapless gowns are on the way out. The turtle-neck, backless creation is on its way for the evening wear. What with the problem this season of tell whether that little dearm is leaving or coming toward you, the fashion creators are going to clear up the matter without question.

There's news about the unmentionables, too, but how can they be mentioned? They are in the ads, though — and with pictures, too. Some sort of record of something or other was reached when a manufacturer of a Lux delight monogramed each brief item with a day of the week. It wasn't so long ago that they put "His" and "Hers" on towels. Then along with these unmentionables should be a mention of the Stieler gals and their floor show of fashions — and with gymnastics.

Men haven't had open toed shoes yet, but the feminine influence is creeping in — or at least, it's getting in. For years women bought men ties for Christmas. They always hought something that would hurt the eyes or match her dress. These ties were always put away for future — way in the future — use or for a bolder moment. Along came the war and tie manufacturers had to make string service ties and all the available goods were used for the great effort.

Then it was over and the only ties around were those things hidden away in the bottom of that drawer. Being bolder, and in need of something other than those drab service jobs, the boys blossomed out in full color and gaudy design. They got caught and now the feminine touch encircles their necks.

There's a womanish — or maybe girlish — atmosphere about the new sweaters these days, too. 'Course they have more manish lines, but it's the pictures that make them that way. There was a time when men wore V-neck or crew neck sweaters. And they were tan or blue or some nice color. Now there are so many things to consider. Could this lead to the feminine method of shopping? Men may be in for an all-day tour of stores just to pick out the suitable sweater.

Yes, and that old question about "who wears the pants in your family, anyway" may not in the future need an answer. How about this one: "What's the matter; are you a man or a — say, do you have a mouse in your house?"

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

Everyone can breathe a lot easier now that the net season has finally come to a close. There is no more of the worrying about how the team will do at home or on the road, no more tourney jitters, just a period of comparative peace and quiet between now and the time the spring sports actually get underway.

The Aces ran into more than they could handle when they met Morehead last Friday night at Louisville, and that is one of the mysteries of basketball. A team is beaten by 10 points on their home floor, by 24 points on their opponent's floor, but when they play on a nentral court, they upset the dope bag and win by three.

Coach Arad McCutchan certainly deserves a lot of credit for bringing this year's edition of the Ace net machine out of the doldrums. After a rather dismal record last year, the team came back and beat several teams that were definite favorites, even though they played an eight game suicide schedule near the end of the season.

All of the Aces with the exception of Harold Stubbs will be back next year. Stubbs is graduating after playing four years of varsity ball for Evansville College.

Coach McCutchan said earlier in the week after a meeting with the team that they would not take the Kansas City bid even if it was offered. The team is down and Mr. McCutchan believed it would be better and wait until next year to try and go to the big invitational tournament.

With the same starting five back next year, plus many experienced reserves, it looks like the '49-'50 season should be one that will be long remembered at Evansville College.

Spring football seems to be going along quite well after the first week. There were 41 grid aspirants out for the first practice last Monday and several more reported out before the end of the week.

Three new faces were added to the roster this spring. They are, Morris Angermeier, former Memorial gridder; Ray Bawel, who played at Boonville and Dave Bernhardt, ex-Central halfback.

For the first drills last week there were 26 linemen out and 15 backfield men.

Vets Continue To Hold Lead In Keg Play

The Vets continued to hold their lead in the college bowling league at the end of the eighth week by a slight margin of only three games, according to an announcement made by Jack Huber, co-secretary of the league.

Following close behind the Vets, who have eighteen wins and six losses, are the Philo I, Philo II, and Faculty Business Administration teams with fifteen wins and nine losses each.

Last week Lester Folz of the Newman Club rolled 186 for the high individual score, and Professor Warren Reininga of the Faculty Bnsiness Administration had the high three game series with 523. The Newman Club held the week's record for both the high team single and three game series with a 647 and 1837 respectively.

A complet list of the standing of the teams is listed below.

Krueger Wins College Ping Pong Tourney

James Krueger, senior, is the new Evansville College table tennis champion.

He defeated Durward Stranberry, sophomore, for the championship last week. The scores in the four out of seven series were 21-18, 21-18, 12-21, 19-21, 21-12, and 21-10.

Mr. Krueger played an exhibition with Lou Pagliaro when the former national champion appeard at the Armory, Feb. 23.

Aces Getting Ready for Murray

Some of the '49 edition of the Aces running plays.

Fans Witness Good Brand Of Net Play at Tourney

Fans who attended the Ohio Valley Conference tournament last weekend in Louisville witnessed basketball played to the extremes . . . good and bad. The tournament went according to the books with the exception of the Evansville-Morehead game. Pre-game odds in Louisville had the Aces an 11.5 point favorite.

It begins to look as though the Jefferson County Armory is a jinx floor for the Aces. A week ago last Friday they lost to University of Louisville and then last week they were upset by Morehead.

Quite a few people from Evansville were present for the games at Louisville. The representation would have been better if all of the Evansville seats had been in one section, though. That makes the backing of the team a lot better.

Most of the local delegation stayed at the Brown Hotel, with a few of them down at the Kentucky.

Louisville, from the point of view of the weekend guest, is very hospitable. The natives of the place were very friendly and a good time seemed to be had by all.

Western Kentucky definitely established itself as the top team in the OVC when it defeated Louisville last Saturday night for the title. Not only did Coach Ed Diddle's Hilltopners cop the tourney, they also lead the league in regular season play.

At the end of the game the Western aggregation was presented the winners trophy and had two men named on the first five of the all-tourney team.

Western now has a record of 25 and three for the season and tournament. Their three losses were to Eastern, Louisville, and Bowling Green of Ohio.

Clenn "Ish" Combs, was undoubtedly the hottest player on the floor in the two Saturday sessions of the tourney. The little (5'10") Cardinal split the nets for 22 points in the afternoon game and came back with 24 in the finale. He scored 18 points in the first half of both games.

Football Clinic Planned; Spring Drills Underway

Although the basketball season is history, the Evansville college sports program continues into the spring. This time it is football that has the commanding role in the school's athletic activities.

Spring foothall drills started last Monday, and the workout will continue until Saturday, April 2, according to Don Ping, football coach. A football and physieal education clinie, drawing coaches from the tri-state area, will conclude this year's spring football plans.

Two Teams Picked

Next year's team, which lost only two men hy graduation, is about four deep in every position, and all of them were required to take part in the drills. The squad has been divided into two teams. One of them uses the preshift lineup—Popularized by Coach Ping at Memorial High School—and the other runs its plays from the "T' formation. The shifting team must shift into either the Notre Dame box or the Short Punt formations. Both teams are limited to the particular offenses assigned to them.

Evansville College's grid elinie will be a two-day affair heginning April 1, with ahout forty or fifty high school eoaches from tthe area around the tri-state expected to attend, Mr. Ping added.

Millenhrand To Lecture

At the opening session of the clinic, Coaches Ivan Hollen, Tell City; Herman Byers, Reitz; and Merle Crosby, Robinson, Ill., will lecture on the different formations used at their high schools. They will he fellowed in the afternoon session April 1 by Bill Hillenbrand, ex-Indiana and Baltimore Colt football luminary, who will talk on defensive and offensive forward passing in professional foothall.

Jay Berwanger, noted official and ex-All American, will lead a round-tahle discussion that night at a fish fry for the team and visiting coaches.

Intramural Drawing Results Announced

Evansville College did not receive a bid to the Kansas City Invitational tournament leaving the Armory open to the intramural tourney, which began last Monday.

The intramural champion will be chosen hy means of a douhle elimination tournament which was made necessary due to lack of facilities and time left to play.

The results of the drawing with teams and games they play are:

Independents Meet Castys for Title

The Castalian Sorority and the Independent basketball teams met Wednesday to decide the Intra-Society basketball title.

In the first round of the four-team tourney played last week, the Castys defeated the Theta Sigma Sorority 33-13 and the Independents won by forfeit from tthe Gamma Epsilon Sigma Sorority, who failed to enter a team.

In the second half of the Women's Bowling League which began last week four very close games saw the Sigs take two games from the Castys and the Womens' Athletic Association split two games with the Thetas.

Gypsy Love Song
(A CAPITOL RECORDING)
. . . and you'll know!

Sam Donahue's new waxing is a real something. Yes! It's smooth, it's swingy, it's something terrific for a fast Lindy—or what-do-you-do? In music, Sam knows that whether you dance it fast or slow—you'll want it smooth. And when it comes to cigarettes, Sam himself wants a cool, smooth-smoking cigarette. That's why Sam says, "Camels suit my 'T-Zone' to a 'T'. Camels are the mildest cigarette I've ever smoked—and they taste great, too!"

How MILD can a cigarette be?
Smoke CAMELS for 30 DAYS
—and you'll know!

In a recent coast-to-coast test of hundreds of men and women who smoked only Camels for 30 days—an average of one to two packs a day—noted throat specialists, after making weekly examinations, reported

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

IF PEOPLE are whiskering about you, better check up on your hair. Before J.P. switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic, he was wide open for all kinds of catty remarks about his ratty appearance. Not so today! Now that he's using Wildroot Cream-Oil regularly, annoying dryness and loose, ugly dandruff are gone. His hair stays put all day. He can pass the Wildroot Finger-Nail Test without batting an eye.

J.P.'s experience leads us to suggest that you try non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin, too. Get yourself a bottle or tube today at your drug or toilet goods counter. And, have your barber give you professional applications. You'll agree that for well-groomed hair Wildroot Cream-Oil is purr-fect!

Telephone in Automobile Newest Campus Gadget

By Mary Lou Wolfe

Probably the newest gadget around Evansville College is the addition to Alexander Graham Bell's original invention of the telepbone, the traveling telephone. Bob Hudson, a former student of the college has one installed in his yellow Buick convertible.

The telephone has a receiver right on the dashboard of his car. This enables Bob to make a call anywhere in Evansville or vicinity for twenty-five cents a call.

To make a call the owner picks up the receiver and asks for the operator. He gives the number which he wishes to call and she connects him with the party.

Originally these telephones were used only in police cars or taxi cabs and were connected to the station phone. Now, however, these traveling conversation pieces are available to the public.

Because of the operating cost most of these new gadgets are used for business purposes. Bob works for the Lynch Oil Company and probably finds the gadget very usful. In cases of emergency this invention saves gas, tires, and time.

Perhaps in the near future there will even be dials on the dashboard which will save still more time and before long wives can call their hubbies en route and tell them to bring home a loaf of bread for supper. Then the only thing that will be missing will be a beautiful operator to sit on the dashboard and say "Number Please."

Fraternity Brothers Elect Marvin Brown President

Marvin Brown, junior, is the newly elected president of the Fraternity Brothers. He replaces Claude Bates, who recently resigned to accept a state position.

Other new officers include Randall Williams, junior, secretary; and James Wallis, junior, treasurer.

William Parsley, senior, retains the office of vice president.

Hallmark Contest Open to Students

Art instructors in American colleges, universities and high schools, and college art students have been invited to enter paintings in a new art competition which will offer $30,000 in cash prizes for the best paintings of Christmas themes submitted by American and French artists.

The project, largest of its kind in art history, is sponsored by Hall Brothers, Inc., greeting-card publishing firm, and is known as the 1949 Hallmark Award.

The objective of the Hallmark award is to encourage today's painters and bring recognition to the best in contemporary art by building a mass audience for meritorious works.

The grand international prize will be $3,500, with a number of prizes in each of the two national divisions running up to a $2,000 top in each, according to Vladimir Vission, director of the exhibitions. Royalties will be paid on those paintings selected for Christmas card use.

A prospectus of rules and entry blanks may be obtained by writing to: Director, Hallmark Art Award, Wildenstein and Company, 19 East 64th Street, New York 21, New York.

Hurry! Hurry!

Registration Finds Students in Rush

Most students have been in somewhat of a dither the past two weeks, trying to arrange their schedules and see their advisers or counselors to prepare class work for the spring quarter.

Several eager-beaver students crammed the registrar's office early last week to complete their registering. Similar to an Army sweating line, the registration line moved slowly but surely; the latter part of the week found more thaa half of the students registered. Some of the students who are not too well acquainted with the registering process, wandered about this week questioning faculty and upperclassmen for iaformation concerniag the registratioa routine.

Thea there are the "I'll do it tomorrow" type who delay registering until the last minute, and wonder why their well-prepared schedule canaot be fully considered because classes have been closed.

Today is the last day for students to register, and they have nothing to worry about except cramming for the finals which begin aext week. Maybe the nine-day vacation after the finals will be appreciated.

Cafeteria Adopts New Mealtime Schedule

Effective this week the college cafeteria has started a new schedule of hours.

Students now may eat breakfast and lunch from 6 a.m. until 2 p.m. and dinner from 5 until 8 p.m. Between 2 and 5 p.m. the cafeteria will remain closed.

Physical Education Curriculum Prepares Future Teachers With Theory and Practice Courses

For students who are preparing to teach physical education or to coach, Evansville College offers a complete curriculum with Professor Don Ping and Associate Professors Ida Stieler, Paul Beck, and Arad McCutchan as departmental instructors.

Courses Needed

To major in physical education in preparation for teaching, a student must, besides meeting his or her own department's qualifications, take the special courses needed in the education field and he or she must take introductory zoology, human anatomy and physiology, and community hygiene.

After the student passes courses on kinesiology, a study of the muscles; health and school health problems; first aid; and courses on the theory of baseball, football, and basketball, he or she is required to practice teaching hy supervising a physical education class.

Class Divided

An example of this is the 10 o'clock physical education class in the Armory each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Physical education majors who have charge of the various squads which the class of 44 men have been divided into are Bill Phillips, Joe Moremy, Morris Riley, Fred Ayer, T. H. Metcalfe, and Thomas Turner. Robert Fortune has charge of the complete class this quarter. He is responsible to the professors of the physical education department but he is allowed to use his own grading system.

Under Mr. Fortune's system of grading the student receives 25 points for attendance, 25 points for sportsmanship, 15 points for value to the team, 25 points for habits in exercise, 10 points for health habits, and 10 points for care and return of equipment.

Attendance Good

Four points are deducted from the student's grade for unexcused absence, one-fourth of a point is deducted for excused absence, unless hurt, and five points are deducted for each absence over 25 points. In case of unbecoming sportsmanship, five points are deducted and up to 10 points are deducted for loss or misuse of equipment.

"Three men are the most we have had absent at one time. Attendance is good because they know it counts something," Mr. Fortune stated.

Two Music Majors Featured In Combined Recital Sunday

Cantrell Craddock and William Scott, seniors, will give a combined music recital, Sunday, at 3:30 p.m. in the college auditorium.

The program was originally planned for last Tuesday afternoon, but was postponed because of an injury suffered by Mr. Craddock.

Central Graduate

Mr. Craddock, a Central High School graduate, is a former student of Harry Hart. A music major, he teaches brass instruments at Indiana State Teachers College every Monday. He is a member of the college band, and served as president of that organization last year. Mr. Craddock is a veteran of World War II.

He will give three numbers in the program. His first selection will be "Concerto," by Ferdinand David. He has chosen for his second number "Legend," by Charles Tournemier. Mr. Craddock will conclude with the first movement from "Conecrto Trombone" by Garoslav Cimera.

From Henderson

Mr. Scott, originally from Henderson, Ky., is a graduate of Corpus Christi High School, Corpus Christi, Texas. He is a member of the Pi Epsilon social fraternity. He belongs to the Music Education National Conference and the college band.

He will render as his first number "Concerto" Opus 107, for B-Flat clarinet, by Franz Mozart. This number, twenty-five minutes in length, will be followed by "Nightwind" by Fred Kay. This selection will be played on a bass clarinet and is approximately five minutes in length.

Campus Notables of 1948-49 Named Under New Plan

THE EVANSVILLE Crescent

Vol. XXX | Evansville College, Evansville, Indiana | March 25, 1949, No. 19

Stuff from the Ballot Box

This column is the first in a series to be written by elected SGA officers and class presidents.

By JIM BARNETT

If you consider the work of an amateur worthless, don't read any further, as this is my first attempt at column writing since my high school days which were so long ago that I hate to admit it.

However, to make a long story short, I was shanghaied to initiate this new series of columns by various students around the campus. The general idea is to write briefly about numerous subjects of campus interest, but I think the following subject is of enough importance to use an entire column.

It was brought to my attention by Cene Cebula that a new type of scholarship was being offered at the University of Southern California, and he is very interested in seeing if it would be possible for us to adopt this same plan.

The California plan is completely a student activity to help the children of veterans killed in action in World War II.

The scholarship would be administered by the scholarship committee of the college with strict accordance to the qualifications set up by the plan. The money for this fund would be donated by you, the students of Evansville College, at the time of the drive which would be some time next month. This plan can never be successfully completed without 100 per cent cooperation of the student body. Five thousand dollars would be the ultimate goal, which in all probability could never be accomplished in one year, but with luck and a generous student body, could be reached within two years.

After reading the literature secured by Cene, I sincerely believe that this scholarship would be one of the finest and most practical war memorials any student body could claim as an accomplishment.

As I stated before, this can't be accomplished by any one or fifty students, but only by the entire student body. If you don't feel that this is a worthy cause, then there is no need in attempting to carry out the plan. But if you do, let Cene or me know, either personally or by dropping a note in the S.C.A. office. If you care to know more about the plan, I will have all of the data in the S.C.A. office.

A plan such as this deserves all possible publicity, and Gene Cebula is very deserving of the proverbial orchid for his gathering of data and bringing this plan to the attention of the student body.

I sincerely hope that enough of you have read this far so as to spread the word to the rest of the students. If the plan is popularly received, then get your dollars ready, because the drive is on its way.

Assembly Schedule For Quarter Set

The assembly schedule for the spring quarter was announced recently by the president's office. Underclassmen are expected to attend assemblies on Tuesday's at 11 a.m., and upperclassmen on Wednesday's at the same hour.

Names of students expected to attend assemblies are posted on the bulletin board in the Administration Building. Any changes in class standing should be checked with the Student Personnel office.

March 29, 30 — Haru Matsui from Japan
April 5, 6 — Religious Emphasis Week Services
April 12, 13 — Holy Week Services
April 19, 20 — Professor Sarkar of India
April 26 — Everette Walker, director of student personnel
April 27 — Joe O'Daniel, local businessman
May 3, 4 — Physics Department
May 10, 11 — Student Government Association
May 17, 18 — College Band

Haru Matsui To Speak On Japanese Problems

Miss Haru Matsui, traveler and lecturer, will speak during student assemblies March 29 and 30. Her topic for both the freshman and upperclassmen assemblies will be "What Hope for a Democratic Japan?"

Miss Matsui was born in Tokyo where she received a university education. Although her father, a university professor, objected, she visited Tokyo slums, Farmer-Labor meetings, and took an editorial position with a Tokyo magazine. Later she studied at George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

Miss Haru Matsui

Wrote Autobiography

She has written for various Japanese newspapers. Her autobiography, "Restless Wave," was a best-seller. In this autobiography she explains how she lived in two worlds; the world of Japan's ancient feudal aristocracy and the world of the professional worker in modern America.

Miss Matsui so thoroughly disapproved of Japan's war in China that she lectured many times at functions to aid in raising funds for the Chinese. For years before Pearl Harbor she opposed Japan's militarism.

Made Translations

During World War II, she served as Head of the Japanese Desk for the OWI and War Department translating and writing propaganda and making Japanese-English dictionaries for Chinese - English dictionaries for American soldiers.

Miss Matsui now lives in New York City's Greenwich Village with her husband, Eitaro Ishigaki, who is a Japanese artist.

Senior Committees Plan Gift, Rings

Senior committees have been working on the selection of a class ring, the ordering of announcements, and the choosing of a suitable gift to present the college upon graduation, according to Norman Kniese, senior class president.

The announcements are being printed, and soon will go on sale in the main hall. Mr. Kniese also stated that he expected a representative from Lonisville in about two weeks with the class rings.

Plans are being made by George Campbell, chairman of the gift committee, to purchase a backdrop for the stage. The gift has not been decided on because of the cost of the backdrop, Mr. Campbell added.

Morlock To Address Club Members Today

Dr. James Morlock, head of the department of sociology, will speak to the members of the Kappa Chi fraternity this morning at 11 o'clock, according to Buell Dalton, president of the fraternity.

Mr. Dalton assumed active charge of the fraternity last quarter. Injuries from an automobile accident have kept him out of school since last summer. John Schoefield, vice president, took over the duties of the president during that period.

Jim Heady is the treasurer of Kappa Chi and Peggy Nicholson is the secretary.

Tryouts for Play Set Monday and Tuesday

Tryouts for "Peg O' My Heart," the next Thespian production, will be held in the auditorium Monday and Tuesday afternoons at 4 o'clock, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, has announced.

Mrs. Taylor emphasized that all regularly enrolled students of the college are eligible to be members either of the cast or stage crew. Participation is not restricted to Thespian members, she stated.

Mrs. Erickson Receives National Music Award

Mrs. Genevieve Erickson, assistant professor of voice and spousor of the local chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, was recently presented the Sword of Honor by the national organization.

The award was presented for exceptional leadership and noteworthy contribution to the progress of the local Beta Epsilon chapter.

Facalty Leaves Are Approved For Summer

Fourteen members of the college faculty and administration have been granted leaves for this summer by the faculty committee on leaves and loans, according to an announcement made by Ralph Olmsted, college business manager and treasurer.

Plan Graduate

The majority of the members plan to do graduate work at various universities. Among these are Harold See, director of the Evening College, who will spend this summer and the next school year completing his work for a doctor's degree at Northwestern University.

Myron Bishop of the engineering department plans to spend the summer at Indiana University working on his doctorate degree. Another professor who will be at IU is Cyrus L. Cunn of the history department. John F. Loos of the same department will complete his dissertation for a doctor's degree at Washington University in St. Louis.

Hartsaw at Purdue

Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, is not definite about his plans but will possibly attend a university workshop at the University of Minnesota. Walter A. Treece, assistant professor of geography, will do graduate work at Wisconsin University, and William O. Hartsaw of the engineering department will be at Purdue University.

Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, will be working on his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. Oliver Loer, counselor to veterans, hopes to attend IU for advanced

Improvements Needed in Parking Lot; Olmsted Considers New Proposals

It's a fine, shiny model, but it's parked in one of those no parking areas right in front of the Administration Building.

Sidney Kitchel, head custodian, displays one of the "no parking" tags which he places on windshields of offenders' cars.

The parking situation at Evansville College needs improvement according to Mr. Ralph Olmsted, business manager and treasurer of the college.

Proposals have been made which might improve the congestion in the parking lot but as yet nothing definite has been decided.

It was suggested that each student who drove a car to school would receive a sticker for his car. Then if a car was parked in a "no parking" zone that person would be required to pay a fine of probably 50 cents. The money might be used in the student health center to help pay for accidents on campus, operations and other illnesses acquired by students of the college.

Mr. Olmsted also suggested that the no parking zones should be studied so as to allow more space for students to park. Only where it is absolutely necessary should there be yellow lines and no parking signs, he stated. Space could be provided for visitors cars it was suggested.

Course of Journey For European Trip Is Announced

Itinerary for the European trip, planned as part of this summer's college tour program, has been announced by James E. Morlock, dean of men.

Reservations have been made for 28 persons on the SS Washington which sails from New York on June 15th. Dr. and Mrs. Morlock, who will conduct the tour through the European countries, will land with the group in Southhampton, England, June 21. They are to arrive in London the following day.

To View Scenic Spots

From London the group will go to five other countries, where they will visit several places of interest and some of the most beautiful scenic spots in the world, according to Dr. Morlock.

Some of the famous places to be visited in England are St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Parliament, The Tower, National Gallery, British Museum, Oxford University and the Warwick Palace, he said.

To See Patton's Tomb

Continuing by motor coach, the group will travel through rural Holland to The Hague, and then to the Queen's Palace. After sightseeing in Amsterdam, they will move on to Brussel's and Luxemburg in Belgium. Here they will see the Military Cemetery and General George S. Patton's tomb.

After leaving Belgium, the tour will proceed up the Rhine

William Bell Is Selected Notable for Second Year

Committee Appointed by Student Council Submits Candidate List for Faculty Vote in New System

Seventeen seniors and two juniors were named Campus Notables for 1948-1949 under a new nominating system, it was announced today.

William Bell, senior, was named for the second consecutive year. Others listed are: James Barbee, senior; James L. Barnett, senior; Cene Cebula, senior; Emily Combs, senior; Jon Gundling, senior; Mary Doris Hayes, senior; Joan Henn, senior.

Seven Virtues Listed

These students were chosen as having exemplified in their lives and conducts the seven virtues indicated in the college seal. These virtues are: adequate vocational skills, execellent health habits, worthy recreational faculties, grace in social fellowship, love of beauty, attainment of wisdom, and spiritual aspiration.

Each year no more than seven per cent of the graduating calss is honored as Campus Notables, two of which may be juniors. The social intelligence and graces, and the financial responsibility of the student also are taken into consideration when naming him as a candidate. To be eligible he must have been in attendance for the preceding two years, and must have passed all of his academic subjects for the preceding three quarters with a grade of C or better.

New System Explained

A new system of selecting candidates for the title of Campus Notahle was adopted with this nomination and election. Students formerly receiving the title were entirely faculty selected. Under the new plan a list of candidates was compiled by a student council committee composed of one representative from each social sorority, one representative from each social fraternity, two representatives from the Independent Student Association, and four representatives from the unaffiliated group.

Home Ec Day Planned Here

A Home Economics Career Day for high school girls will be in the Temporary Union Building Saturday, March 26 from 2 to 4 p.m.

This is sponsored by a division of the American Home Economics Association and is for all high school students and instructors in Evansville and vicinity who are interested in any phase of Home Economics.

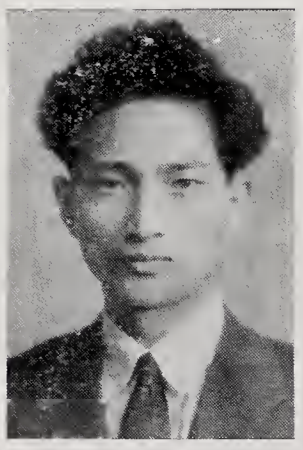
A program is planned which will cover all the various fields in Home Economics. Miss Mary E. Holtman, International Harvester Home Economist and chairman of the Evansville Home Economics in Business group, will welcome the visitors.

Talks will be given on teaching, dietetics, and business. Ceno Burns, junior, is to be one of the student speakers. Representatives from various Home Economics positions will be present during a refreshment hour to talk with the students about the particular fields in which they are most interested.

A tour of the Home Economics laboratories and other departments of the college has been arranged by the group. This will take place before the program.

College students interested are invited to attend.

Ho Kee Min, Korean, Enrolls Here; To Major in Physics



Ho Kee Min

Ho Kee Min, of Seoul, Korea, arrived in San Francisco March 16, and enrolled at Evansville College for the spring quarter, Saturday, March 19. He will major in physics.

Mr. Min has been teaching physics and algebra in a boys' secondary school in Korea. He also has taught scientific German. Mr. Min is single and is of the Christian faith. His father, now deceased, was a professor at a Korean university.

His schooling includes six years of elementary study, five years of secondary study, one year at a preparatory college, three years of college and university work, and two years of other schooling.

Mr. Min is one of 35 students selected by the Joint Scholarship Committee of the Ministry of Education, Republic of Korea, and the Department of Education, Civil Affairs Section, United States Army of Korea, for study in the United States.

The Korean Government is sponsoring Mr. Min by paying his living expenses while he studies at the college. Evansville College is furnishing a scohlarship that will cover tuition expenses.

Late News Breaks

The college choir is presenting a program of sacred and secular music in assemblies at Bosse High School this morning at 9:30.

Students planning to enter Indiana University School of Law in June or September of this year should file on application for admission before April 1, if possible, according to E. M. McKown, dean of the college.

Application blanks and instruction sheets may be obtained by calling at the Registrar's office or by writing Indiana University School of Law, room 21, Maxwell Hall, Bloomington, Indiana.

The Listening Hour schedule for next week has been announced by Dr. F. Woody Werking, associate professor of modern language. Tuesday, Mozart's Jupiter Symphony; Thursday, Schumann's Frouenliebe und Leben. The programs are presented at 10 a.m. on the T-Hut sun parch.

Musical brainteaser number 11 is: What popular American folk song was occasioned by the sale of a slave girl? Correct answer to last week's brainteaser, answered by John Wendling, sophomore, was: Smetana, which means sour cream.

The college bulletin for the summer session, listing courses and hours, is being distributed this week. Copies may be secured from the Registrar's Office.

Dr. Alvin Strickler, head of the department of chemistry, left this week to attend the American Chemical Society meeting in San Francisco, California.

A social-discussion meeting concerning the economic and social status of Japanese women will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Women's Lounge. Miss Haru Matsui, traveler and lecturer, is to be the speaker.

There will be an auction of lost and found articles in the TUB Friday, April 1, at 11 a.m.

Thomas W. Doherty Resigns Staff Post

Thomas Doherty, assistant professor of modern language, has resigned his position effective June 6, President Lincoln B. Hale has announced. Mr. Doherty plans to continue studies in graduate school toward a Ph. D. degree.

He will spend the summer studying at the French school of Middlebury, Vermont, and the following school year he will attend the University of Paris where he studied French while in the army.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!

Sooner or later every column has to have one. That's it. You've guessed it — a contest. We have been blowing off about individuals and personalities all year. Now it's your turn to have something to say about who's what.

The idea is to select a Roundabout man and woman. So take a look around and decide your choice for the fellow or gal with the prettiest eyes, hair, smile, clothes, best personality, most popular, friendliest, most sincere, best figure or physique, most intelligent and wittiest.

Make your selections now and give them to Sue or Jerri or send them to the Crescent office.

Man! It's Great

Vacation! What is that? We get off from school after finals dreaming of a week's peace and quiet. Now we're back in school trying to recuperate after the wear and tear during our time of rest. Several groups of coeds turned to the wide open spaces and had overnite parties at Camps Koch and Pohoka. At Pohoka it was really wide open — snow poured thru' cracks in the walls and a general freeze brought about a new fashion in wearing apparel — those good old covers and blankets wrapped around tightly and pinned with large safety pins to combat cold air. Reports from the parties at Camp Koch also mentioned the freezing weather. Then at home, many mothers found numerous jobs to be done. Floors were scrubbed, walls were scraped in preparation for the paper hanger, rooms were painted and many tired worn out students wondered where that promised rest has disappeared. Of course, some lucky jerks took off for a traveling vacation, but we peasants kept the home fires burning and the home, itself, clean.

Pic of the Week

HAROLD STUBBS

In continuation of its policy of presenting a senior who is outstanding in his or her field, The Crescent has chosen as the Pic of the Week for the first issue of the spring quarter Harold Stubbs, who will be graduated from Evansville College in June.

Harold is in the field of secondary education with physical education and business as his majors. His major interest is coaching and he has a long athletic career behind him.

A 1945 graduate of Central High School, Harold was an all around athlete while he was in high school. He went out for baseball, basketball, football, and track. When the Kiwanis Club presented its first award to a basketball player at each of the city high schools in 1945, Harold was the recipient at Central.

Harold entered Evansville College in September of 1945. He was elected president of his freshman class. He has played the outfield on the college baseball squad during each of the four seasons he has attended college and has played guard on the Deuces and the Aces, second team and varsity basketball squads respectively.

Eight Have Responsibility For College Assemblies

John Schneider, left, chairman of the Assembly committee of the Student-Faculty Federation, and Ninabelle Hurt, holding the door open, are going to get things quiet in the front hall of the Administration Building in preparation for an assembly program.

By CHARLES GREER

The Assembly Committee, which has the responsibility for planning and carrying out pep and victory assemblies and other similar programs, is one of the least publicized organizations on the campus.

The committee, like all other Student Government committees, is composed of five students and three faculty members. John Schneider, senior, is the committee chairman. Other student members are Ninabelle Hurt, junior; Lois Hack, senior; Earl Harp, junior; and Ramsey Bristow, freshman. The faculty members are Cyrus L. Gunn, assistant professor of history; Harold See, director of the evening college; and Miss Mary Wolfe, assistant professor of English.

Meets Every Two Weeks

The group meets every other Monday in A212 at 11 a.m. It is the committee's job to plan and arrange all special assemblies, such as pep assemblies, victory assemblies, assemblies to bring special speakers to the campus (as Rep. Winfield Denton and former congressman Edward Mitchell who spoke just before election), and other programs of the same sort.

Volunteer Services

Mr. Schneider stated that since the committee is not allowed any money to secure off-campus talent in pep assemblies, such performers have volunteered their services. He cited as one example of this Tommy Wood, who recently appeared in an assembly sponsored by Phi Zeta fraternity.

Mr. Schneider also said that since the basketball season is over no organization seems to want to put on an assembly. He said if any person or group interested has any ideas for an assembly, the committee would like to know about it.

Society Notes

With the coming of spring, weddings and engagements are numerous everywhere and are not to be slighted on this campus.

Among the newly-married are Doris O'Loughlin and Bob Kohlmeyer, junior, member of the varsity basketball squad. They exchanged vows on Saturday, March 3, in St. Lucas Evangelical and Reformed Church. Mrs. Kohlmeyer is employed by Servel, Inc. They are making their home at 1305 W. Missouri St.

Engaged are Joyce Grabert, formerly of Evansville College, and Jack Hauke, senior. Miss Grabert was a member of the Castalian sorority and Mr. Hauke is a Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity member. They will be married May 28.

Mary Ann Hahs, senior, and Joe Williams, junior, both music students, announced their engagement March 6.

Announcement was made last Sunday of the engagement of Dorothy Surbeck, secretary to Miss Doris Kirk in the Temporary Union Building, and Kenneth Leimgruber, senior. The couple will be wed in June.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Cantrell Craddock Feb. 15. Her name is Paula Jean. Mr. Craddock is a senior and a music major.

Coeds Have Adventure During Vacation

By SUE DANNETTELL

"Rest is sweet after strife," according to a quotation placed on the bulletin board in the front hall of the Ad Building at the end of winter finals.

With this thought in mind a group of EC coeds threw books, notebooks, and assignments in a far corner and left Evansville for a well-earned rest at Boy Scout Camp Pohoka between Mt. Vernon and New Harmony.

Chores Were Done

Our peace was interrupted when the word spread around that a few chores must be done. Only a few they said; we soon were setting up cots, carrying mattresses, sweeping out our new quarters, unpacking dishes, carrying water and chopping wood.

Suffering from severe weak spells after playing pioneer, we attempted to fix lunch. The person in charge of food had underestimated our appetites and we choked down cheese sandwiches on dry bread. The cokes had failed to arrive from Mt. Vernon and nobody could stand the water that tasted like iron pipes had been ground up in it.

The afternoon was spent in trying to keep warm, and we soon learned that would be our chief recreation until we left, for it had turned cold. COLD — that was our byword, our password, our nightmares, our chief topic of conversation and all our thoughts.

"It can't be," a haggard looking creature yelled.

"I think it is raining through the roof," another victim screamed.

Snow Falls Thru

Closer investigation revealed that the mess hall, built for summer use, had two open cold air ducts in the ceiling that could not be closed and it was snowing through them. Our peaceful little group huddled closer to the fire as snowflakes floated down on us, leaving our hair and beds white.

"Ye gods," someone moaned, "It's only Monday and we can't go home until Wednesday."

"We awoke Tuesday morning, as someone ran through our dormitory pulling covers off and shouting, "The caretaker built a fire for us a pot-bellied stove in a smaller cabin. Come on, I think we can can get warm down there." From then on we affectionately referred to our new headquarters, a small rough log cabin about 15 by 20 feet, as the "Hothouse" and the mess hall as the "Icebox."

Then the day was spent, working at one task or another. Work, work, work, hungry, cold tired and dirty — we were having a beautiful vacation.

Tuesday night proved to be no warmer, but we did have a little more to eat. We were up early Wednesday to get everything cleaned up so we would be ready to leave when the bus came at 10 a.m.

Plans Are Made

The trip back was a quiet one as nobody had the strength left to be funny. As I got up from my "too-comfortable" seat and walked to the rear of the bus the group of girls who had worked ever since they left on their vacation, who had left the table hungry several times, who had to fight to brush their teeth or wash their hands in the rationed water, and who hadn't taken their jeans and sweaters off for three days were making some plans.

"Well, I think we should go right after finals are over in June," one camper commented.

"I hope we can go swimming," another added.

"What's this?" I asked.

"Oh, we are planning another camping trip. Don't you want to go?"

Fraternity Relations Need Improvement

Jeff Hayes

Why do some schools forbid fraternities? Is not this social function considered to be a character builder? These schools that outlaw fraternities weigh the advantages against the disadvantages of fraternity life, and have considered the disadvantages greater.

For some time now, the fraternities on our campus have engaged in an unhealthy clannish quarrel that is not doing them any good nor does it cast a very favorable impression on its members. When fraternity life becomes so narrow that it determines the men that can be associated with and the ones that are taboo, then the fraternity life is detrimental to a complete college education.

At present there are three fraternities at Evansville College, Pi Epsilon Phi, Phi Zeta, and the Pi Kappa fraternity. The latter is a new fraternity compared to the other two, but it has made great gains in its membership largely because of the juvenile battle that is being waged between its two older brothers.

The purpose of this writing is not to say that fraternities are wrong, or that fraternity men here at Evansville College are not trying to do the best things for their school. The real purpose here is to encourage better intra-fraternity relations, and to try to cast a guiding light on our aimlessly wandering frats.

In my opinion, fraternities were originated to give students organized social activity, things which could not be had individually. They provide an opportunity for men to associate with classmates with mutual likes and dislikes, and they are supposed to provide spirited, but friendly, competition in contests, with the school the ultimate winner in all instances. When competition becomes so fierce between fraternities, and as a result good friends are separated, then the fraternity has defeated its purpose.

To remedy this situation here at the college, the fraternities must strive to work together on many important school functions, and possibly have an annual fraternity ball or some similar social event to provide a healthier spirit among our chosen men.

23 Game Diamond Schedule for Aces

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Thirty-nine Indiana High School basketball tournaments have been played, and in those years a lot of great teams have won the coveted title. However, it seems very doubtful if a team ever won before that had to show so much pure fighting heart to do it.

Jasper's Wildcats, under the very fine leadership of Cabby O'Neill, were not even considered in the pre-tournament forecasts. They had a mediocre record of 10 wins and nine losses, a total that is definitely on the unimpressive side.

Even when they came through the sectional unscathed not much hope was seen for the Wildcat chances of ultimate victory. After they pulled the regional victory out of the fire and then went on to their amazing one point win over Bloomington everyone seemed sure that they had reached the end of the road for 1949.

In the Butler Fieldhouse, where the chips were really down, the Southern Indiana representative gave one of the finest exhibitions of team spirit and sheer guts that has ever been seen in an Indiana tournament.

The Jasper quintet reflected high praise onto the shoulders of Coach O'Neill, who always greeted his boys with a big smile when they came off the floor, ahead or trailing. The fact that they knew, throughout the tournament grind, that the coach had a lot of faith in them undoubtedly did a lot to spur them on.

Bob White, brother of Louis White, an Evansville student, led the Jasper team in scoring, racking up 17 points in the afternoon game and 20 in the finale.

If Evansville can entice any and all of the Jasper seniors to come down here to school it will be a very good insurance policy for the future of Evansville College basketball.

Wilson Captures Indiana Scoring Title; Hits for 458 Points in Third Win

Anderson College's Johnny Wilson annexed the state intercollegiate scoring title for the third straight season, winding up with 458 points. Although winning easily he failed to break the all-time record he set last year of 565 markers for the regular season.

Wilson was handicapped late in the year by a chipped elbow and missed several of the Anderson games. However, his 18 game total was 25 more than that of Duane Klueh, Indiana State, who had 433 for 27 regular season games. Klueh passed Wilsons mark in the Invitational tournament at Kansas City but these scores are not counted in the state race. He also passed Wilson's mark last year on the basis of his Kansas City performances.

Nobody in the state came near Wilson's season average of 25.4 points per game.

Joe Hafele and Bob Barnett, Evansville sharpshooters, finished tenth and nineteenth respectively, Hafele getting 328 points for a 13.1 average, and Barnett's 280 letting him wind up the season at 11.2.

Indiana Tech's Doehrman annexed the third spot with 411 points and two Indiana Central players, Swails and McBride, finished fourth and fifth. Swails finished the season with 406 points and McBride had 397.

Play Resumes In Intramural Loop Monday

Play as suspended last week in the intramural basketball league due to the fact that a federal inspection was being held at the National Guard Armory, site of all the games.

Cames will resume Monday afternoon with the loser of game 1 playing the loser of game 2.

The intramural champion will be chosen by means of the double elimination tournament. This was made necessary due to the lack of facilities and time remaining.

Remaining games are:

Tennis Team Has Four Matches on Schedule

Tennis competition gets underway for the Aces April 4, when they run into the Maroons from Southern Illinois, here. The results of this opening meet should give some clue as to whether the netmen will fare better than last year's winless squad.

Two road matches are scheduled following the opener. April 21 the team will play Western Kentucky on the Bowling Green courts and May 2 they are matched at Southern Illinois.

Veteran Rightfielder

Richie Bauer, returning right fielder of the Purple Ace nine, is playing his third season with the Evansville team. "Bear" had a little trouble finding the ball at times last year but wound up the season hitting 280. He also sees a lot of action in the backfield for the Purple grid machine. A native of New Albany, Bauer was active in high school athletics for the up-state bulldog teams.

Grid Clinic To Be Given For Tri-State Coaches

Evansville College athletic department will sponsor a football and physical education clinic for tri-state coaches Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2.

According to Coach Don Ping, athletic director, "We feel that such a venture would prove profitable to coaches and instructors in the Tri-State area who might not be able to attend clinics further removed."

Friday's schedule will get off to an early start at 9 a.m., with Ivan Hollen, Tell City High School coach, lecturing on eight-man football problems. Featuring the day's activities will be speeches by Bill Hillenbrand of the Baltimore Colts, and Herman Byers of Reitz High School. From 1 p.m. to 2:45 p.m., Friday afternoon, demonstrations of various physical education activities will be presented at Central Gym, featuring athletic directors from each of the local high schools. A fish-fry and round table discussion at 6:30 p.m. will top the program for Friday.

Saturday's program will start at 9 a.m., with a lecture on "T" formation defense, by Coach Si Prewitt of Barret High School in Henderson. At 10 a.m. a lecture on the shifting offense will be presented by Coach Don Ping. At 11 a.m. a football game is scheduled between two picked teams of the Evansville College football squad. Saturday's activities will be climaxed at 2 p.m. by an intercollegiate baseball game between Illinois State Normal and Evansville College.

Aces Win Opener, Beat Chicago 6-4

The Evansville College baseball team defeated Chicago University Monday, 6-4, in the opening game of the season for both clubs.

Joe Unfried and Roger Shanner collected two hits apiece for the Aces while Chicago's catcher, Pete Gray, slugged out three hits. The big senator, Andy Collins, pitched three innings, and was credited with the victory. Andy was a big winner last year, and allowed only one hit during his stay on the hill.

Lamont Stieler started on the mound for the Aces, and allowed five hits before being removed in the fifth inning. Berger pitched the last two innings for Evansville and shut out the Maroons with two hits.

Several hundred students and fans watched the Aces win their ninth baseball game in a row — eight of them coming at the end of last season.

Don Ping's team will entertain Illinois Normal next Friday afternoon on the college diamond. The game will precede an intrasquad football game as a part of the physical education clinic to be held here next Thursday and Friday.

Pingman To Meet I U, Purdue, and Vanderbilt

By BILL WOODS

After getting the diamond season off to a successful start last Monday at the expense of the University of Chicago, Coach Don Ping's nine seems destined for a fine season.

This year the baseball team is playing a record 23 games, meeting two teams from the Big Ten and playing eight Ohio Valley Conference foes. The next game on the Aces' schedule is with Illinois Normal, here, on April 2.

April 4 they will play their third home game of the season, encountering the Maroons from Southern Illinois University.

Purdue Here

Purdue's Boilermakers will invade Evansville for a game with the diamondmen at 8 o'clock the night of April 11. This game has been scheduled for Bosse Field. Purdue is here for a single game and it will be the only time the two teams meet this year.

Wheaton College will he here the next day for a 2 o'clock game at Bosse Field. After a one day lay-off the team will again take the field, this time against the Indiana University nine. This tilt is scheduled for Bosse Field with game time at 8 o'clock.

Play Indiana Again

The Hoosiers will remain here and play the Aces again April 15, with the second game also scheduled for 8 o'clock at Bosse Field.

April 18 the opponent is Eastern Illinois State, the team that makes trouble for the Ace netters. This game is slated for the home of the Evansville Braves with the "play ball" signal at 8 o'clock.

James Millikin University will provide the opposition in the last home game before a road trip that will include three games with conference foes. This one will he played at 1:30 o'clock, April 19.

Battle Hilltopper's There

Western Kentucky State's Hilltoppers are the first opponents of the season on the road. This will be an afternoon encounter, April 21.

Following the Western game, Evansville returns here for a four day layoff before going to Louisville for a tilt with the Cardinals on April 26. April 27 the team will meet the Eastern Kentucky Maroons on their home diamond.

Indiana State will provide the opposition in the last game for April, playing at College Field the afternoon of the 29.

Commodores Scheduled

Two more games on the road open firing in May, with a return engagement with Southern Illinois University first on the schedule. Evansville will be there May 2, for an afternoon game.

May 4 the Aces will be at Vanderbilt for a game with the Commodores. This will be the first meeting of Evansville and Vanderbilt in any sport.

Eastern and Murray are the next games carded for the Pingmen, both of them to be played at 3 o'clock on College Field. Eastern will be here May 6 and Murray, May 10.

Two More With Indiana

May 17 and 18 the Aces will play Indiana University in two return games, both of them at Bloomington. The return game with Murray, at Murray, is slated for May 24. All three of these will be afternoon games.

Western Kentucky and University of Louisville will be the last home opponents of the year for Evansville. Western will be here for a 3 o'clock game at College Field, May 25, and Louisville will play at 1:30 o'clock at Bosse Field, May 28.

A trip to Terre Haute for a game with the Sycamores will lower the curtain on the Evansville College baseball season. This game will be played May 31.

Linksmen Scheduled For Ten Matches

Coach Paul Beck has announced a 10-match golf schedule for the Evansville College linksmen, opening April 4, with Southern Illinois here.

Several returning lettermen should bolster the team this year and give them a good chance at a successful season. Jack Matthews, Bill Trafton, Mike Loeffler, Charley Taylor, Don Howard and Paul Irey are possible returnees for this year's competition.

Westenr Second Opponent

April 21 the team will journey to Bowling Green for a match with Western Kentucky and will follow that with a session at Louisville on April 26.

Southern Illinois will be met on their home course, May 2. After the Southern match the linksmen will have an 11 day layoff before they play again.

Helfrich Hills will be the site of the encounter with the shooters from Terre Haute, scheduled for May 13.

State Tourney at Purdue

Coach Beck will take the team to Lafayette for the State Intercollegiate tournament, May 20 and 21, and they will return home to play Western on May 25.

The first annual Ohio Valley Conference tournament will be held at Bowling Green, May 27, and the next day Louisville is here for a match.

Indiana State will be the opponent in the season finale, with the play to take place at Terre Haute.

Cinderman Facing Light Season

Four track meets have been scheduled for the 1949 season, according to cinder mentor Arad McCutchan. Indiana State will provide the opposition in the curtain raiser at Terre Haute, April 12.

The cindermen will have time then to practice until May 4, when they tangle with the Hilltoppers from Western Kentucky in a dual meet there.

Another layoff is in store before a triangular meet with Western Kentucky and the University of Louisville comes up. This one is scheduled for May 21, at Enlow Field.

The first annual Ohio Valley Conference Track Meet will be held at Enlow Field, May 28, and will be the final appearance for the local team.

Students Eligible For Commissions In Marines

Students who are taking courses leading to a baccalaureate degree may apply for a commission in the Marine Corps, it was recently announced.

Eligible students are required to attend two six weeks summer periods of active duty. They receive $90.00 per month and have the rating of corporal during the initial training period. In the second training period they serve as sergeants and earn $100.00 per month.

Upon completion of the two summer training periods and after graduation, they will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Regular Service or in the Reserve, depending upon the needs of the service and the desire of the individual.

Applicants must be over seventeen years of age and have consent of parents if under twenty-one years of age. They must sign an agreement to attend two summer periods and they must be unmarried and agree to remain so until after completion of the summer training.

Additional information may be obtained by writing to Captain W. E. Haverty, Room 404, Post Office Building, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Classrooms, Library Get Face-Lifting, New Look

Hallie Moore is removing the window shades in the Women's Lounge, third floor in the Administration Building, in preparation for painting the window panes.

Things have been looking a little brighter around the school lately. Several classrooms and the library particularly have taken on the new look in recent weeks.

Hallie Moore is the man pushing the paint brush in most cases, and his face has been seen more frequently than most students lately. Mr. Moore puts in eight hours a day trying to make the classrooms a little more appealing to the students.

Uses Bright Colors

During February and March, Mr. Moore and his assistant, Hap Hollander, senior, painted three classrooms, the women's lounge, and the library. Brightening colors of green, white, and ivory were used in most cases.

In between these jobs Mr. Moors has kept busy painting the stock room in back of the girls' gym, and frosting the windows in the athletic building. He also painted the refrigerator in the Engineering building, and put some traffic lines on the machine shop floor.

Gets Ready for Spring

At the present time, Mr. Moore is varnishing the porch furniture that is used outside of the TUB.

He also has been sandpapering and varnishing some of the mutilated tables that have been taken from the TUB and tea hut.

Service Group Lists Summer Projects

Various service opportunities will be offered to college students this summer by the American Friends Service Committee, according to Stephen G. Gary, director of the organization.

Students participating in these service projects will help build recreational and community facilities in such parts of the country as the slum area of North Richmond, California; the cotton lands of Southeast Missouri; among the Indian tribes of Wisconsin; or in an interracial area of Corpus Christi, Texas.

The Service Committee also will send 60 students to participate in work camps in eleven European countries. These students will help people in war-torn villages and cities rebuild homes, schools, community centers, and playgrounds.

A few students will work in mental hospitals, homes for juvenile delinquents, and county jails.

Further details about these projects may be obtained from the American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

Music Students to Present Brass Recital Thursday

The music department of the college will present a brass recital in the auditorium Thursday evening at 8:30.

Included in the 10-number presentation are four solos.

Kenneth Bonger, sophomore, will open the program with a cornet solo, "Fascination," by Williams. Following this will be a trombone quartet, "Nocturne," by Clapp; brass sextet, "Dramatic Prelude," by F. McKay; a trombone solo by Gene Pegler, senior, the number to be selected; a cornet solo by Durward Stansberry; trombone solo by Cantrell Craddock, senior, "Legende," by C. Lournemire; brass sextet, "Allegro from Sixth Symphony," by Beethoven; trombone quartet, "Allegro Con Brio," by Colby; a cornet trio, "Orion," by Williams; and the final number, the brass sextet in "Suite Minature," by R. D. Miller.

The members of the trombone quartet are Mr. Craddock, Mr. Pegler, Fred Webb, junior, and Joseph Johnson, freshman.

Recent Survey Shows That Average Graduate Leads Quiet Family Life

AUSTIN, TEXAS — (ACP) — A feature writer for the "Daily Texan," University of Texas school paper, recently summarized a survey made by a national magazine among college graduates. If you get a degree and go to work, according to the survey, here is what you can expect:

You will become a professional man or an executive with a salary of about $4,500 a year.

You will own your own house which will have six rooms and a monthly rental value of $84. You will marry only once and will not become divorced. You will plan to have three children but will probably have only two.

You will read most of the best sellers. You will read from one to four magazines, concentrating on the "Readers Digest," "Life," "Time," and the "Saturday Evening Post."

You will attend church fairly regularly and belong to about three other organizations. But the other organizations will have to do without you at about half of their meetings.

You will have less than four hours a day to spend in spare time activities. Most of that time will be taken up by reading or visiting friends. You will rarely ever go to a night club for entertainment.

Entries Now Accepted For Camera Contest

College students interested in photography are invited to enter the fourth annual collegiate photography exhibition contest, according to the chairman of the advisory council of Kappa Alpha Mu, contest sponsor.

To be eligible for the grand prize, a picture assignment on Science Illustrated, the photographer must enter six to ten prints, in at least three of the five fields of news, pictorial, feature, sports, and industrial.

Deadline is April 30, and entry blanks may be obtained from Kappa Alpha Mu, 18 Walter Williams Hall, Columbia, Missouri.

Dr. Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English, plans to finish a book entitled, "History of the Theatre," and Miss Mary Wolfe of the same department will either travel or attend graduate school. Dr. Francis P. Buller, director of testing and counseling, plans to travel and study in the area of personnel work and counseling.

V. C. Bailey, associate professor of mathematics, and Paul Busey, associate professor of economics, are undecided about their plans for the summer.

Members of the committee on leaves and loans include Paul Busey, chairman, Dr. Martin S. Shockley, Dr. Donald Dunham, Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, and Ralph Olmsted.

The summer sabbatical leave program and faculty loan program for graduate study were approved by the trustees of the college in 1947.

Second Annual Science Day On Campus Tomorrow

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By EMILY COMBS

On a recent trip to Carbondale, Illinois, and Southern Illinois University, a chance remark appeared among the debate teams about what school system they were using. They said they had just changed from the quarter to the semester plan. And loved it. We, from Evansville, looked at each other and choked. We had just changed from the semester plan to the quarter. And disliked it.

Actually what has the quarter system done except concentrate more work into a shorter space of time? I realize it is still in its nucleus stage, and perhaps eventually the professors will budget their time to the quarter scale instead of following a semester schedule.

But in the January 16th issue of THE CRESCENT, there appeared some reasons brought out in the faculty meeting for accepting the plan. Three of these reasons or goals have never been reached. One was that : "Students can carry fewer courses and can concentrate on a limited number of subjects." Then why is everyone carrying 17 to 20 hours and straining under the load of increased study? Another reason was that: "Professors will have a smaller number of students per term, and student-instructor relationships will be improved." I must have signed up for all the popular, easy courses but the enrollment in my classes certainly has not been any less than before, and how can the relationships be improved with just as many stuedents as before and a quarter of the time to learn the professor and discuss any problems? The goals were fine. The results haven fallen short of the goal.

Where Do You Park It?

There must be between 400 and 500 cars parked around here each day. And finding a place to park no longer provides humor. Many times the driver is forced to park in one of the yellow-striped, plainly marked "no parking" zones out of pure defense. The trucks with soft drinks, milk, etc., cannot find parking space so they must double park, and it is a neat trick to pass one of these obese vehicles.

The college realizes it is a problem, but as with many problems is not sure of the solution. The parking tickets which they place on the offenders do nothing. Some suggestions (some brilliant, some otherwise) were to have parking meters. No comment. Another idea was to haul in the guilty cars in no parking zones, provided those zones are clearly marked. And yet another was to have stickers . . . large ones with much glue . . . to stick on the driver's window telling him "No Parking. Next time your ear will be hauled in." They do this in downtown private parking places and it takes quite a while to get that sticker off. And vision is nil with it there.

One solution that would be easily managed is for each student to park carefully with no excessive space between cars. Sometimes many cars could be parked in the wasted space between cars.

It definitely is a problem to be aired and corrected.

BRAINTEASER No. 12: What composer expressed with an appropriate composition his gratitude to a university for an honorary doctor's degree?

Seniors Finish On March 12

Thirty seniors completed their requirements for graduation March 12. This group has not been officially cleared by the registrar's office, however, because some of them may have a point average insufficient for graduation, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar.

Candidates for degrees are:

Adam Paul Banner, Helena F. Barhon, Harry William Damm, Howard Damm, Kingston G. Ely, Robert C. Fortune, John George Freeman, Harry C. Friley, Walter A. Gooch Jr., Minnie Morris Gray, John Turner Haddan, William Elbert Lively, John Frederick Loose, Edward Daniel Market, Mary Margaret Martino.

Don E. Miller, Baxter Shelby Musgrave, Helen Marie Nunn, Bernice Mae O'Neil, Michael L. Parkinson, Marvin Edward Peyton, Gerald Kelly Powers, E. DeFay Roos, William Anthony Scott, Robert Keith Shelton, William Walden Simmons, Woodrow Simpson, Arlene Elizabeth Starry, William Gilbert Trafton, and Dorris Lee Witt.

Newman Members To Attend Services

The Newman Club of Evansville has scheduled a pre-Cana Conference for Passion Sunday, April 3, with the Rev. Thomas J. Clark, J. C. D., Chancellor of the diocese of Evansville and Chaplain of St. Mary's hospital as Conference Retreat Master.

The Conference will begin at 1:30 p.m. with registration in the vestibule of Holy Trinity Church and will continue throughout the day until the final 7:30 p.m. conference, which includes Stations and Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament.

Chemistry Volumes Given To Science Department

The Chemistry department has just received a complete set of Beilstein's "Handbuch der Organischen Chemie," Thomas S. Harding, librarian, announced

The purchase of this 53-volume set of books, considered the most complete reference ever written on organic chemistry, was made possible by a gift of the Blackfoot Coal and Land Corporation of Evansville.

Shelved in Laboratory

The "Handbuch" will be shelved in the organic chemistry laboratory in the Engineering-Science Building for use there and will he on display during Science Day tomorrow, according to Dr. Martin Chanin. assistant professor of chemistry.

Beilstein's volumes have an interesting history. Although he originated the idea and began the work on the references, the volume of work required was so great that Beilstein enlisted the aid of a large group of fellow scientists.

Technical Terms Included

Although Beilstein's "Handbuch" is in German, it consists largely of technical terms and chemical formulae which are international.

The "Handbuch" contains the physical and chemical properties of all known organic compounds up to 1937. Also included are the methods of preparation for most of them and references to the place in the chemical literature where the compound was first prepared.

The set obtained by Evansville College is a reproduction of the fourth edition, and is complete with supplements to date.

Enrollment Shows Slight Decrease

There are 1,365 students enrolled for the spring quarter at Evansville College, which began March 21. This number is a slight drop from the winter quarter enrollment figure of 1,400.

In addition to this number there are 54 nurses enrolled at the college. These nurses are from St. Mary's and Welborn hospitals. The number of student nurses has dropped approximately 50 per cent from last quarter according to G. R. McCoy, registrar and director of admissions.

Included in the enrollment are 28 transfer students from colleges all over the country. Among them are students from University of Kentucky, Western Kentucky, and Purdue.

There are 49 new freshmen, students who have never attended college before. Also included in the above figure are 735 veterans. There were 786 veterans attending Evansville College during the winter quarter. The drop is not appreciable although their number is expected to decrease gradually, it was stated.

Dr. Alexander Leeds Speaker At Goethe Bicentennial Event

Plans for the Goethe Bicentennial celebration was the topic of this discussion involving Dr. F. Woody Werking, associat professor of modern language, Anna Lee Schmidt, junior, and Lamont Stieler, sophomore. The two students will be presented on radio programs in connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the German writer Goethe.

In commemoration of the two hundredth anniversary of the German writer Goethe, the modern language and the college will present an adress by Dr. Alexander Gillies of Leeds University in England, Thursday, April 7, at 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium.

Students on Programs

Miss Anna Lee Schmidt, Mr. Lamont Stieler, and Dr. Woody Werking associate professor of the modern language department will publicize the lecture on four Evansville radio stations.

Miss Schmidt will sing two songs titled "Heidenroeslein," (Heatherrose) and "Gretchen Am Spinnrade," (Marguerite At the Spinning Wheel). Mr. Stieler will accompany Miss Schmidt at the piano and also read the text of the songs in German.

Werking To Speak

Doctor Werking will make a few remarks concerning the purpose and scope of the Goethe bicentennial.

The public is invited to listen to the program on WIKY at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5, or to similar programs to be broadcast the same day on WGBF at 5:15 p.m. and WJPS at 8:45 p.m. On Thursday, April 7, WEOA will present the program at 9 a.m.

The lecture by the prominent Doctor Gillies will be titled, "The English View of Goethe," and will enlarge upon the great German genius who is to Germany what Shakespeare is to England. The speaker has lectured in many American, Canadian, and German universities and has authored many books on modern languages.

WSSF Drive Opens Monday

Starting Monday, April 4, and continuing throughout the week, a drive will be conducted to solicit donations for the World Student Service Fund, James Barbee, committee chairman, announced.

The WSSF is a world-wide organization, set up to provide aid to students and professors of colleges and universities in devastated countries.

During the week, two assemblies, a movie, and a faculty auction will be presented, in an endeavor to arouse the interest of students in this campaign. The faculty auctioneer will be A. C. Spence of the department of English, and entertainment will he furnished by a faculty quartet. Pamphlets and posters, announcing the schedule of the week's activities will be posted on bulletin boards throughout the school.

Last year, the WSSF campaign netted $269 which is more than previous campaign's have netted. In this drive, the local committee hopes to surpass last year's mark.

The local committee, representing the WSSF is made up of the following persons: Prof. E. L. Barnum, faculty adviser; seniors, James Barhee, and Sarah M. Toyen; juniors. Bill Schulte, Margaret Miki, and Martha Eskridge.

X-Ray Unit To Visit College on April 6

Miss Louise Rumer, norse of the health center, stated that all students should be advised to take advantage of the X-ray unit which will be on campus all day April 6.

All students who entered as freshmen in the winter and spring quarters will be x-rayed free. All other students and faculty members will pay $1.50 for X-rays. The unit is sponsored by the Vanderburgh County Tuberculosis Association.

Mary Doris Hayes, senior, examines one of the eggs to be used in a Science Day display which will show phases of the development and growth of the chicken. The eggs are in an incubator in the bacteriology laboratory.

Religious Emphasis Programs To Feature Victor Obenhaus

Religious Emphasis Week will he observed on campus with three programs on April 3, 5 and 6, featuring Victor Obenhaus, associate professor of Church in Agricultural and Industrial Life at Chicago Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago.

To Speak Sunday

On Sunday, April 3, he will speak at a vesper service at 4 p.m. in the auditorium. He will speak about "New Frontiers of Religion." The service will be followed by a coffee hour in the TUB with Dr. Harris Erickson, professor of philosophy and religion, in charge.

In an assembly at 11 a.m. Tuesday Mr. Obenhaus will speak to the freshmen concerning "Christians and the American Dream." Following the assembly he will have luncheon in the cafeteria with a selected group of students. At 3:30 in the afternoon he will be present at a tea in the TUB to which all students and faculty of the college are invited.

In the sophomore assembly at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Mr. Obenhaus will discuss "Truth, Facts and Education." On both Tuesday and Wednesday he will meet with various religion and philosophy classes.

Ordained To Ministry

Mr. Obenhaus was born at a Congregational parsonage in Superior, Wisconsin. He was graduated from Oberlin College in 1925. He received his M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from Columbia University and was ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1929.

He has held varied positions in his field. Recently he served as chairman of the Council for Social Action of Congregational Christian Churches. He has written several books and articles. His latest book is titled "Hebrew Prophets and America's Conscience."

Buthod Is Elected New Castalian President

Officers of the Castalian sorority were elected at a business meeting last week. They will serve for the spring quarter.

Officers elected were: president, Sissy Buthod; vice president, Sue Goeke; Secretary, Joyce Halbig; treasurer, Juna Howard; Sergeant-at-Arms, Karleen Yeager; Chaplain, Shirley Paul; Publicity, Jo Ann James; Critic, Louise Kiely; and Librarian, Marilyn Marshall.

Late News Breaks

Several students of the college are attending a meeting of the Indiana Christian Student Association in Indianapolis today. The conference, which will last through Sunday, is on the topic "Campus Problems."

Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department of home economics is in Indianapolis today attending the spring meeting of the Indiana State American Home Economics. She will make a report on the national convention which she attended last summer as a state delegate.

Dean Long, head of the department of business and economics, and Lincoln B. Hale, president of the college are in Chicago today attending a meeting of the North Central Association of colleges and Secondary Schools.

Seven Departments To Exhibit 100 Attractions in Feature Event

More than 100 exhibits, demonstrations and experiments will be on display tomorrow during Evansville College's second annual Science Day.

The exhibits plus continuous motion pictures on science may be seen in the Engineering-Science Building which will be open to the public from noon until 10 p.m.

Departments cooperating in the event include the biology, chemistry, physics, engineering, geology, mathematics and psychology departments. Faculty members on the committee responsible for Science Day include Harold See, chairman; Harold Van Winkle, publicity; Mrs. Dorothy Tapp; Dr. Martin Chanin; Dr. Franklin MacKnight; Myron Bishop; Harold Willis; and V. C. Bailey.

To Display Photographs

One of the many displays is a series of photographs showing college students in the various phases of the Industrial Technology course. This display will be in the lobby of the building and is sponsored by the geology department.

The physics department will conduct an experiment revealing the tracks of Alpha particles and also Bernoulli's principle using a ping-pong ball. The latter experiment was originated by Professor Willis. In addition to this they are displaying a electrical discharge through gas. Numerous other attractions will be featured by this department.

Problems To Be Solved

Proving that any two numbers are equal is one of the projects of the mathematics department. They are also giving several algebraic and graphical solutions for a number of interesting problems. They are also demonstrating the use of the quadratic slide rule for solving second-degree equations, chesshoard oddities, tricks with figures, and a score of puzzles, models and gadgets.

Visual Aids To Be Used

The biology department is having a display of vertebrate skulls from the fish to man, and a series of chick embryos. In addition to this they are revealing the five pairs of hearts in the earthworm and also the circulation of blood in the web of a frog's foot. Motion pictures of "The Amoeba," "The Trout," "The Growth of Flowers," "Plant Traps," and others will be projected continuously in various classrooms.

A demonstration by the psychology and counseling center will show how to determine and chart profiles of an individual's intelligent quotient, several personality traits, speed of reaction, and motor and mechanical ability through the use of such tests as the crisscross, motor, mechanical, form boards, designs and time reaction.

To Have Classes

The chemistry department will have laboratory classes in physical, organic, analytical, and general chemistry throughout the day. Other exhibits in chemistry include a potentiometer, thermostat, bomb calorimeter, and a spectroscope.

A mock-up cold storage room, machine shop, molecule sorter, and several laboratories will be opened to the public by the engineering department.

The college cafeteria will be open until 8 p.m. and the Temporary Union Building will remain open until 10 p.m. for the benefit of the visitors.

Debate Teams Attend Forensic Convention

Professor A. C. Spence and his two debate teams are at Purdue University attending the annual Tau Kappa Alpha convention which started yesterday and will continue through tomorrow.

Clarence Clayton and John Schrodt, both seniors, are members of the affirmative team. Emily Combs, senior, and Hobart Lutz, sophomore, comprise the negative team.

The topic for debate and discussion this year is Federal Aid to Education, and the group will participate in ten debates during the convention.

Tomorrow morning a congress will convene as the climax of the convention. Some fifty colleges throughout the nation will participate in the congress.

Athletic Committee Gets And Spends No Money

By JEFF HAYS

One of the Student-Faculty Federation committees that receives no money from the student activity fund is the athletic committee. This committee spends no money, it acts only in an advisory capacity for the department of physical education.

Bill Russler, the chairman of the committee on athletics, stated that the committee has been reasonably active this year, in carrying out its goal of promoting the interest of intercollegiate athletics, and encouraging and fostering a general program of athletic recreation in which the general student body may take part.

Promotes Attendance

Mr. Russler added that this committee, in cooperation with the business office of the college, has full charge of publicity and promotion with reference to all home games of every type and encourages the attendance of students and musical organizations at out of town games.

One of the important functions of this committee, according to Mr. Russler is the recommendation of awards to athletes. This committee does not determine who gets the awards (that is left to the coaches), but if it thinks a boy has been slighted by the coaches, a formal protest can he made through the committee.

Aids Athletes

Some of the recent decisions made by the committee include the athletic award option. The committee made it possible for an athlete, after he had earned a major award, to select a jacket in preference to a sweater if he desired. The committee is now trying to get the tennis courts repaired. Mr. Russler stated that the courts were in had shape and were in definite need of repair.

Committee members besides Mr. Russler are John McDougal, Angelo Howard, Paul Schmidt, Joanne Englebert, and Louise Kiely, students, and Ida Stieler, Ralph Coleman and Paul Beck, faculty.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Who's Roundabout?

Entries have started coming in for your choice of the Roundabout Man and Woman, so make a quick check and send in yours too. The deadline is next Friday.

Last week we didn't make ourselves entirely clear, so we'll try again. Pick some guy or gal whom you think has the prettiest eyes, dresses the nicest, has the best wit, etc. No one person has to fill the whole bill, but the sum total of all these assets will be the Roundabout Man and the Roundabout Woman.

Take It From Two Brains!

Let's have some more Sophomore Tests! Big Joke. We struggled thrn masses 'n masses of questions last week — it was a struggle just to read 'em and when it came to giving an answer we were really up the well known tree. We finally gave up giving conscientions answers and with the aid of the coin flip and with our own original eyes for design we managed to fill the blanks. Many normally intelligent students who took the test will be classified as stark raving idiots when the results are announced and we'll be among 'em.

TUB Needs Cleanser

Bill Duffy

Article III, Section 1, of the Temporary TUB Constitution reads: "The duties of the Union Management Board shall be to: (b) establish and enforce standards of conduct in the nse of all standard facilities in the TUB, in accordance with the TUB and College regulations."

I would like to ask any student, including those on the Union Management Board, or any other person on the campus, if this phase of the TUB Constitution is enforced. The next time you go into the TUB, if you can get through the trash, look for yourself.

Ash trays are scattered on the floor along with several cigarette stubs, eandy bar wrappers, straws, card game score sheets, ice cream cones, bottles and other things. There are 31 ash trays and 29 waste cans in the TUB, and yet this mess continues. This same situation also exists outside the TUB.

Why can't students respect the TUB as they do or should do their own home? Do they have the "I don't care" feeling or are they just plain stupid of the fact that the TUB is in this condition? Why can't they respect the TUB as they do the T-Hut? Nobody seems to know.

It looks as if the school will certainly have the new look in two or three weeks. The warm weather, along with an occasional rain, has caused the grass to grow to about lawn mower size, and the custodians are ready to limber up. They also have the tractor in full swing. It was being used last week to haul the stray dead leaves from the campus.

Also Hallie Moore has definitely improved many things on the campus with his painting. The library had its face lifted between quarters, and Mr. Moore has given several class rooms and other things on the campus the new look. Good work, Mr. Moore, and let's hope those paint jobs remain as appealing as they are now.

It looks as if spring has sprung. Guys and gals may be seen on the campus in short sleeve garments, and touring the campus in convertibles with tops down.

Some of the bushes around the Administrative Building are providing beautiful colors for the spring opening too. Incidentally fellows, the fishing is not so bad either, according to some of the fishermen on the campus.

Pic of the Week

BERNARD STOCK

This week's Pic is Bernard Stock, senior and physics major. He is also secretary-treasurer of the Physics Club.

A veteran of five year's service in the Air Force, Mr. Stock is married and resides with his wife at 702 E. Michigan Street. She is also associated with Evansville College, working in the Business Office.

Born in Boonville, Indiana, 27 years ago, he was graduated from high school there in 1940 and began his career in the service, most of which was spent in England.

Mr. Stock enrolled at EC in June, 1946, and will be graduated this Spring.

When asked about the use of his spare moments, Mr. Stock replied, "A physics major has very little spare time for outside activity, but I try to go rabbit hunting whenever possible." He carries a 20-hour class schedule.

Berwanger, Hillenbrand In Clinic

An initial football and physical education clinic composed of tri-state coaches and officials including such well known sports figures as Jay Berwanger and Bill Hillenbrand will meet at Evansville College today to start a two-day program of discussion and demonstration.

Coach Don Ping has attended clinics of this type at Purdue University, where it was originated some twelve years ago and he is of the opinion a concentrated clinical analysis of football techniques and an over-all refresher course of physical activities will be of value to coaches in the tri-state area.

Ivan Hollen, will lead off at 9 a.m. with a talk about eight man football problems, followed at 10 a.m. by Merle Crosby, who will lecture on Illinois' "T" formation.

Byers To Speak

The morning session will be concluded with a talk on single wing back offense with flanker variations, by Herman Byers, coach of Reitz High School.

Physical education demonstrations will be given at Central High School starting at 1 p.m. as follows: Trampolin, Lou Eckerman, Central; Marching, James Graham, Bosse; Tumbling, Phil Bevarly, Bosse; boxing, Ned Niles, Lincoln; mass calisthenics, Walter Riggs, Central; square dancing, Miss Gladys Weinscheimer and Miss Mildred Thompson, Central; and wrestling, Herman Byers, Reitz.

Bill Hillenbrand, former Indiana University football star and current All-America conference back for the Baltimore Colts, will speak on forward pass offense and defense as the professionals use them.

Fish Fry at West Haven

A fish fry at the Westhaven gun club at 6:30 p.m. and round-table discussion in charge of Arad McCutchan of the college staff and Jay Berwanger, former Chicago University football star and current Big Ten official, will complete the day's activities.

Saturday's session will start 9 a.m., with Coach Si Prewwitt, coach of Henderson, Kentucky, who will speak on "Defenses against the "T," followed by Coach Ping at 10 a.m. who will lecture on the shifting offense.

Behind-the-Scenes Worker

Bob DeBard, above, just completed his second season of working as basketball esuipment manager for the Purple Aces. In addition to his duties with the basketball squad he is also serving as track manager thi pring. Frank Schwitz, who assisted DeBard this season, was not present when the picture was made.

DeBard and Schwitz Pull Net Equipment Detail

By BOB BAMMER

Hail the conquering heroes! Laud the champs and winners! But by the same token, bless the unheralded boys of any team, of any sport: the team managers. They are the boys who act as nurses, conciliators, and mothers to the team members; they are the team off the floor.

The recently ended basketball season saw in operation two of the best team managers any team could have: Robert DeBard, and Franklin Schwitz.

Bob DeBard, a junior, is the head team manager. Bob played basketball and football at Crawfordsville High School, in Crawfordsville, Ind., but transferred to Bosse High School in his senior year. Foot injuries, sustained during football season at Crawfordsville made it impossible for him to continue playing any kind of ball, and because he liked sports so much, he simply did the next best thing; he became team manager.

Frank Schwitz, a sophomore, really needs no build-up here. He is well remembered by almost everyone in Evansville as a long-shot artist on the 1944-46 Central High School basketball teams (one of which represented Evansville in the state finals). He was also a member of the baseball team at Central. Frank played basketball for the Aces last year, but tough luck caught up with him last spring and a kidney infection kept him from playing this season. Like DeBard, Frank did the next thing. Frank says he is in pretty good shape now, and intends to play next year.

Southern Illinois Here Monday To Play Aces

The Evansville College baseball team will entertain Illinois Normal on the college diamond tomorrow afternoon and Southern Illinois Monday as the baseball season gets into full swing after a two week lapse.

Coach Ping has a large squad of athletes from which to choose a starting nine with most of them holdovers from last year's team. In last week's opener with Chicago, Coach Ping used 17 players before finally turning back the northerners, 6-4.

Have Catcher Strength

Coach Ping can select his starting hurler from veterans Andy Collins and Joe Hafele, or from rookies Lamont Stieler, last week's starter, and Tom Berger, a Jasper boy. Behind the plate the Aces are fortified with veteran Hargis Hafele and rookies Harold Bell and Jerry Feller, both freshmen.

Marvin Stoft is back at first base with his big bat, and veteran Paul Schmidt will complete his fourth year at the keystone.

Fight for Third Base

Roger Shanner started last week's game with Chicago at shortstop. Bob Gerhart and Carl Kleinknecht are again battling with freshman Bill Henning for the third base spot.

In the outfield coach Ping has four able flychasers in Richie Baur, Harold Stubbs, Bob Kohlmeyer, and Joe Unfried. The entire team has been handicapped because of lack of organized practice.

Hafele Receives Fifth Annual Kiwanis Award

Leo Warren, president of the Evansville Kiwanis Club, presented the fifth annual basketball award to Joe Hafele, guard, in an assembly last week.

The assembly was opened by Jim Barnett, SGA president and winner of the 1947 Kiwanis Award, who introduced James Barker, one of the Evansville College sponsors in the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Barker said that the 1948-49 team was a "good bunch of clean cut fellows" and that they had good leadership in Coaches McCutchan and Beck. Mr. Barker also introduced Earl Barth, the other sponsor of the college.

Meyer Siegel, chairman of the sportsmanship committee, explained who is eligible to receive the award and what points it is based upon.

College Plans To Form Fencing Squad Here

A fencing team may be organized on the campus next year, according to Dr. Franklin C. MacKnight, head of the department of geology and geography. He is working in conjunction with the athletic department in planning a program.

It is proposed that a group be organized this spring which would form the nucleus of the team to participate in intercollegiate competition.

Dr. MacKnight is interested in any students who have had fenc-

With the definite arrival of spring weather most of the local golf addicts are again taking to the hills . . . Helfrich, that is . . . for their week end recreation. Helfrich, which serves as the only Municipal golf course for the city of Evansville, is an 18 hole, par 71 layout.

For the average golfer it is a pretty tough nut to crack, especially if he is not familiar with the course. According to Jeff Hays, assistant sports editor, the tonghest hole for him on the local course is the par four number six. It is a double lake hole and can give a lot of trouhle.

Number 13 is the longest hole on the local course, covering 540 yards for a par five. However, it is not considered to be a very rough hole to shoot in par.

At present the course is not in top shape, as is to be expected this early in the year. However, it shows signs of being in very good condition by the time summer rolls around and the fair weather golfers come out in their usual numbers.

Dutch Rittenhouse, pro at the course, is mainly responsible for the good work that has been done on the course in the past two years. Although there is still quite a bit to be desired, there has been tremendous improvement over the condition of two seasons ago.

Vets Lead Keg Loop

Vets continued to lead the Evansville College bowling league with a 21 and 9 record, following last week's session. Ed Parsonage, Philo II, had the high single game with a 202.

The Accounting Club had the high team single and series with 635 and 1757; while Rice, of the same team, had the top individual series with 486.

Philo I, Philo II, Faculty Business Administration, and Phi Zeta I rounded out the first five in the league standings.

Administration Approves New Proposed Field House

Semester System To Return in Fall

With the opening of school next fall, Evansville College will resume the semester plan of class work, after a year's trial of the quarter system, Lincoln B. Hale, president, announced yesterday in a statement to The Crescent.

"We have found several good points to the quarter plan of work," he stated, "but we feel the disadvantages outweigh the advantages from the student angle."

This decision was reached at Monday's faculty meeting and approved by the Board of Trustees Wednesday.

Used from 1919-1928

The college adopted the quarter system last January and it has been in effect since September. This system was in effect once before at Evansville College, in 1919, when the college moved from Moore's Hill, until 1928.

The quarter plan, as designed last year, divided the school year into four quarters of 12 weeks each. Two quarters have been completed and the third one is in its second week. The fourth quarter will be completed during the summer session, beginning June 13.

Tuition Lowered

The quarter system was adopted by the administration primarily to accommodate students in the new Industrial Technology co-op Course, who alternate going to school one quarter and working in Evansville industries the next.

Next year's plans have not been fully developed but there will be two semesters of 18 weeks each and a summer session of probably nine weeks, President Hale said.

One thing that has been definitely agreed upon is that tuition will be considerably lower next year," he added.

Under the quarter system 186 hours were needed for graduation; this figure will be reduced to 124 semester hours needed for a degree.

Stuff from the Balmy Box

By CRESCENT SPOOK

News seems to he out doing itself this week. One of the biggest things, of course, is the fieldhouse. But I needn't dwell on that. Along similar lines, however, there is some news that was missed by hopeful journalists — or is it journalists hopeful, or are they hopeful, or journalists maybe? Anyway, here's the latest on the Union Building:

All the go signs were on, then some little rascal tested the earth for the foundation. To stay away from the technical, it seems there is some sort of formation under the surface that is something like quick sand.

That's what's holding things now. Some think it could be constructed without a basement, but it is feared the building might become a subterranean shelter instead of a building for unions — or union, that is.

It Pays in the End

There have been various rumors about gambling on campus, and just to be on the safe side someone or someones made a ruling about gambling on campus. The ruling is in the handbook, in fact. But look as you will, you won't find any ruling or . ulation on a "sure thing." That's what made W. X. (Bob) Roberts so happy last week. Here's the story:

Bob put a quarter in the coin changer coke vending machine and got back three quarters, the original coin included, and a refresher fluid. He worked his quarter again, and again the same results. He won't say how long he worked his sure thing, but it is said a group of his friends had a coke party that evening with his surplus.

The next day Bob was willing to sell his quarter. And he probably did — several times. As a matter of fact, he lost it in the machine. You see a man came around and did a little adjusting. A thing like that can go on just so long.

And that's what I'd better do — so long. But first let me predict: This page will be great for April, Fool.

Production Postponed; Only Seven Try Out

The Thespian production, "Peg O' My Heart," has been postponed until this summer, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, has announced.

Tryouts for the production were held last Monday and Tuesday in the auditorium and only seven students were present. The production has been cancelled this quarter due to the lack of interest on the part of the drama students.

Mrs. Taylor stated that the drama students will meet next week to select a new name for the production also. She said that "Peg O' My Heart" is a title for a high school play, and it is not sufficient for a college production.

Paul Beck Accepts New Post Offer

Paul Beck

Paul Beck, assistant professor of physical education, has accepted a new post, Dr. Lincoln B. Hale, president, announced recently.

Mr. Beck, who has been at the college for two years, has known that he was going to accept the new post for quite some time. However, he wanted to wait until the conditions were right before digging into the work.

Apparently Mr. Beck's wife was happy when she learned that he was going to accept, and said that it would be a good thing for the children.

Dr. Hale stated the new post that Mr. Beck had accepted was a corner post that is to be used to reinforce a fence for the children at the Beck home. Mr. Beck has accepted the new post, and will soon start working on the new project.

DeLong Writes Science Article for Magazine

Wahnita DeLong, professor of English, has an article appearing in the current issue of "Pictorial Science," national science magazine.

Miss DeLong's article, "Scientific Approach," deals with the problems one meets in trying to solve a scientific equation.

Palter Pinehell, the noted news announcer, says of the article: "It is very enlightening and reflects the dynamic personality of the author."

Construction Scheduled To Begin Early in July

Cost Estimated at $850,000, To Seat 18,000 College Field Chosen as Construction Site;

Construction of a new Evansville College field house will begin early in July, according to an official who is recognized as being a reliable source of information.

Cost of $850,000

This official, who refused to be quoted and wished to remain anonymous, stated that the stadium would cost an estimated $850,000.

"There will be no trouble in raising this amount of money due to the expectation of generous and wholehearted contributions from the citizens and industries in and around the city of Evansville," he said.

The building will be erected on the plot of ground which is used as a baseball field, between Rotherwood and Weinbach Avenues and Lincoln and Division Streets. It will cover ten acres and will take an estimated two years for completion. It is intended for college, professional, and high school indoor sports of all types. Plans are being drawn up for the allotment of 22 acres of space for parking.

On the sides and ends of the field house eight towers, 98 feet high, will be constructed. Each tower will have 25 lights of from 1000 to 15000 watts to floodlight the inside of the building with from 200,000 to 250,000 wattage, turning the building into a stage for night sports events.

Seat 18,000

Each of the two stands of the fieldhouse will be 87 feet wide, 555 feet long, and 48 feet high. The distance between stands will be 411 feet leaving a playing space 600 feet long and 375 wide. Each stand will have 25 rows of seats, 44 seats to a row, 19 inches in width, with numbers burned into the seats. Approximately 18,535 fans can he accommodated.

A scoreboard 40 feet long and 32 feet high will be placed over the ticket office entrance which will be located at the south end of the building. It will be illuminated by spotlights at night and will be manipulated by an operator who will use letters 20 inches wide and 36 inches tall.

Television Facilities

A public address system will be installed which can he operated from six different places. There will also be telephone, telepraph, radio, and television facilities.

Players of Hearts Form Organization

Realizing the need for providing some form of companionship for people of like interests, some 30 students gathered in the committee room of the Temporary Union Building Tuesday to draw up a charter and form a Hearts Club.

A Hearts Club was also felt necessary due to the feeling on the part of some students that Rum is replaeing Hearts as a pastime.

Charter members to the organization must pass the following requirements: (1) Applicant must spend at least four hours in the TUB or Cafeteria each day; (2) Applicant must prove that he has and will carry a deck of cards with him at all times so as to begin a game when a table is open; (3) Applicant must be able to pass a written test which will consist of definitions of "Oily," "Smoke it," "Let the high man off," etc.; (4) Applicant will pass an oral examination testing his temper, shrewdness, and attitude.

Crescent Written Without Command

It is still "published every Friday during the school year, except during school holidays, at Evansville College, Evansville 4, Indiana, under the auspices of the Student-Faculty Federation and entered as second-class matter, November 8, 1919, at the postoffice at Evansville, Indiana, under the act of March 3, 1879," but it had neither an editor or a faculty adviser to guide it along this week.

Adviser John A. Boyd dropped dead last Friday from shock while reading the Crescent and Arlene Starry, this year's editor finished her requirements for a degree several weeks ago and left Evansville for her home in Pennsylvania.

The staff, however, lived up to the old adage "the show must go on" and with the exception of a few crises here and there prepared this twentieth issue of the thirtieth volume of the Evansville Crescent for the printers.

Freshman Students To Give Combined Recital Tuesday

A freshman recital will be given for the first time in the history of the college Tuesday evening at 8:30 in the auditorium, Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, has announced.

The recital will be in five parts, with four selections in each part. Twelve freshman students, accompanied by the Little Symphony and the orchestra, will participate in the program.

To Choose Own Selections

All of the numbers to be played have been chosen by each individual. The selections will not be as complicated as those of the junior and senior recitals, since the freshman students feel that they are not qualified to present the works of Beethoven, Mozart, Bach, Schubert and others in a sufficient manner.

The program will open with a trumpet solo by Don Besing. He will play "London Bridge." Harold Melton will play "April Rain" on the piano in the next number, which will be followed by James Ream's own saxophone version of "Row Your Boat." Carl Peterson will conclude the first part of the program with a clarinet solo, "The Candy Shop."

"Chop Sticks" Featured

Mr. Melton will present his second selection in the opening of the second part by playing "Ten Little Indians" followed by George Snyder playing "Old Pompey" on his saxophone. David Griggs and Robert Armstrong will finish the first half of the program with their rendition of "Chop Sticks" in a piano duet.

After a brief intermission, Joe Hammond will start the last half of the recital with "My Gingerbread Man" on the trombone. This number will be followed by "The Mulberry Bush" on the drums by Robert Maffey. Mr. Besing will play "The More We Get Together" for his second selection of the evening, and Dorothy Moore will close the third part with "Two Little Blackbirds" on the clarinet.

Violin Solo

The final part of the recital will open with Charles Martin playing "In My Motor Car" and "I'm A Little Teapot" on the piano. Helen Dail will then play "Here We Go Lobby Lou" on her violin. Mr. Besing will complete the recital with his third selection, "Lullaby."

Accounting Club Plans To Separate Groups

Forty members of the Accounting Club met in the Men's Lounge at 7:30 last evening and discussed the need for a course to separate the bookkeepers from the accountants.

"I would like to know what my abilities are, and I suppose each of us would," one studious member remarked.

It was decided to refer the matter to Arthur J. Wardelman, instructor in accounting.

Special Assembly Today For Baseball Team

There will be a special pep assembly for the baseball team today at 11 a.m. in the auditorium, according to Jim Barnett, Student Government Association president.

The program is designed to inject spirit and pep into the players before tomorrow's game with Illinois Normal University.

Bananas will he given each player, through the courtesy of the cafeteria staff. Members of the squad will be introduced by Coach Ping.

Faculty Sponsor of Crescent Dies of Shock in His Office

John A. Boyd, 33, assistant professor of journalism, died last Friday morning in his office of a heart attack. He was buried in the Memorial Cemetery Monday afternoon.

Death, attributed to coronary thrombosis due to mental shock, occurred just after he had begun reading THE CRESCENT, his usual Friday morning activity. He had not been missed until that afternoon when some journalism students entered his office to find out about their final examination grades.

Advised Publications

Mr. Boyd is survived by his wife, Frances, two children, Robert, 5, and Katherine Elizabeth, 2, his father, John B. Boyd, and two brothers.

Mr. Boyd was the adviser to THE CRESCENT and LinC publications. He also met journalism classes. He was an elected co-sponsor of the freshman class.

Enjoyed Books

He joined the college faculty in the summer of 1947. This same summer he was given a leave of absence to read some books and do some planning for teaching courses in the fall. Later, in a report to the faculty, he explained he had found it difficult to plan on teaching but had discovered many of the pocket-size books are entertaining.

John A. Boyd

Before coming to the college he had had some experience in writing. He had taken several correspondence courses that had necessitated a great amount of writing. He became interested in writing while still in elementary school. He had become rather well known at that time for his note writing.

Mr. Boyd, who lived at 645 Villa Drive, was a native.

Calendar

Today—Pep assembly for baseball team in the auditorium at 11 a.m. Freshman students meet in auditorium at 2 p.m. for orgonizotional meeting.

Saturday—Baseboll gome at College Field between Evansville ond Illinois Normal University at 2 p.m.

Tuesday—Freshman recital in auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Sociological Tests For All Students Set Next Week

A battery of examinations to test the social aptitudes of all Evansville College students will be given in the Temporary Union Building Wednesday and Thursday of next week, from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

These tests have been worked out by Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, Dr. James Morloek, head of the department of sociology, and Dr. Francis P. Buller, director of testing and counseling.

Since all students should have social poise and grace as well as intellectual backgrounds, Miss Kirk explains, there is a need to find what social experiences need to be emphasized and what ones do not need further development.

There are three divisions of the tests: Life with the same sex, life with the opposite sex, and life in social groups. In the first division there will be tests on card playing, fellowship, and fashions. The second will deal with falling, love making, and making up. The third will be in the form of a party-dance with refreshments.

The results of these tests will show up in later years, it was explained.

Late News Breaks

All freshmon students are to be in the auditorium ot 2 p.m. today for an orgonizotionol meeting.

Free pop corn ond soft drinks will be distributed omong students ot the Evansville-Illinois Normol game tomorrow. Students will be required to produce student octivity cords to receive the refreshments.

Campus Courts, the veterans project on campus, hos been purchased by o Louisville, Ky., real estote company. The oppartment units will be torn dawn and the property sold to home builders.

All students who received one or more "F's" ore told to repart to Mr. McCoy, registror, ot once.

F. Woody Werking, ossociote professor of foreign languoge ond originotor of the "Listening Hour," populor musical program, will speok before the student body at Purdue University Tuesday. He will exploin his "Listening Hour" progrom methods.

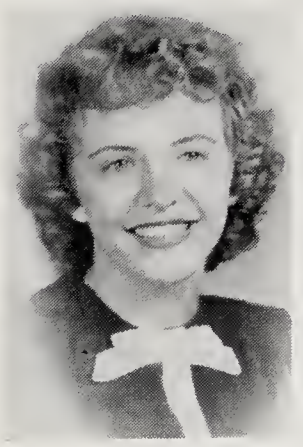
Director Names Characters For Next Thespian Play

Robert Hevron



Jerri Steinmetz

Steinmetz Has Leading Role

The cast for the Thespian production "Peg O' My Heart" has been chosen, Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, announced to THE CRESCENT yesterday.

Jerri Steinmetz will play the role of "Peg," the same role which made Laurette Taylor, actress, famous. Miss Taylor played this role 1,099 times in two years. Robert Hevron, junior, will have the male lead opposite Miss Steinmetz. He will play the part of Jerry.

Others Listed

Other characters in the play are Mary Lou Muth, junior, who will play the role of Mrs. Chichester. Pat Starry, sophomore, will act as Ethel, the daughter of Mrs. Chichester. Alaric, Mrs. Chichester's son, will be played by James Cochran, freshman.

Norman Stewart, junior, will play the part of the footman, and Doris Donovan, sophomore, will act as the maid. Dick Christopher, junior, will play the role of Christian Brent.

Play Is Comedy

"Peg O' My Heart," a three act comedy, is the story of the trials, tribulations, and adventures of Peg O'Connell, the charming American-Irish poor girl, on her first meeting with her high born English relatives. Peg has come to England at the request of a wealthy, eccentric bachelor uncle who dies while Peg is on the high seas. Peg's adventures start when she is met by an executor of her uncle's will.

Peg's American ingenuity and independence and her Irish wit keep every minute alive for her and the household of conventional English relatives into whose midst she is suddenly dropped.

"Peg" is a combination of Irish sentimentality, American democracy and 1912 British snobbery, in which the simple soul and true heart triumphs, it was stated.

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By SARAH KESSLER

Everywhere on campus can be seen sun-bathers, strollers, lovers, and an over-supply of food wrappers and soft-drink bottles. We have heard some students call the latter "necessary evils." But, they aren't! There is no reason why anyone having some dirty paper, can't walk a few feet to a trash container and deposit it.

One spot that is particularly disagreeable is by the south side of the TUB. We like to lounge there, too, but who likes to step on empty bottles and sit with dirty paper all around? We are sure that people are more thoughtful of their homes, so why not consider the college a second home and take a little pride in its' appearance?

We have visited several large campuses with much larger enrollments, but have yet to find the conditions which exist here. So why not put forth a little effort and make our campus as pleasant and beautiful as possible.

COMING UP

In another month or so, one of the hottest annual elections of the school will take place — the election of the Student Association officer. To you who are new on the campus, this is commonly called the S. G. A. election.

Any person who is or will be a junior next fall is eligible to run for one of the four offices. As in any political set-up, however, the candidates are usually nominated behind the scenes so as to have unity the day of the election. The sororities and fraternities put up their slates and the independents usually add another. This is done over a month before the election and from that time until the dawn (literally) of election day, committees and sub-committees plan and scheme in an effort to present the most original and most convincing campaign.

Tuesday and Wednesday before E-Day (Election Day), the candidates for president will present their platforms and introduce their slates at the assemblies. Everyone should feel obligated to hear these confessions of party policy, not just those for whom the assemblies is compulsory. The rivalry shown in the S. G. A. elections is an indication of the imporance of the offices. The officers, particularly the president, work with Student Association committees and serve as a link between the students and faculty.

Let's hope that with all the rivalry and competition, all will be forgotten and forgiven as soon as the results are announced, for good government cannot be achieved at the college so long as there is no cooperation.

Brainteaser No. 13. What composer of German birth is buried in Westminster Abbey?

John Wendling, sophomore, answered last week's question, stating that Brahms dedicated his Academic Festival Overture to Breslau University.

New Science Requirement Announced by Committee

The college science requirement for graduation has been changed, effective with the beginning of the fall quarter, according to a release from the committee on Science in General Education.

Under the new plan students will be required to take a broadened science program, which includes one quarter each of biology, chemistry, earth science, astronomy and physics.

Each course will warrant five credit hours. There will be four hours of lectures and discussions and one two-hour laboratory session each week.

Club To Hear Former Embassy Secretary

Members of the Secretarial Science Club will hear Miss Mary O. Brown, former secretary at the London Embassy and now employed at the Seeger refrigerator company, Monday, April 11, at 7 p.m. A business meeting will precede the talk.

Observance of Holy Week To Include Four Special Assembly Programs

Elton Lee Barnum, director of religious life at Evansville College, has announced that four Holy Week services will take place in the auditorium at 11 a.m. on April 11, 12, 13, and 14.

The Rev. Stephen Thius, Benedictine monk of the St. Meinrad abbey, will speak at the Monday service, on "The Ancient Liturgy of Holy Week: Its Rites and Chants." John Herman, Newman Club president, will preside.

Tuesday the Rev. Roland B. Mernitz, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, will speak on "The Meaning of the Cross." He will be introduced by John Schofield, Kappa Chi president.

Wednesday's service will feature Rev. Frances Johnson, minister at the First Presbyterian Church of Mt. Vernon, Indiana. He will be presented by the Rev. Howard Jacquess, senior and pastor of the Methodist Church at Cynthiana.

The Rev. A. C. Smith of the East Side Baptist Church in Evansville will discuss "The Finished Work of Christ" Thursday. Martha Eskridge, president of the Student Christian Association, will act as chairman.

Annual Vocational Conference Set

Wednesday afternoon and evening, April 27, has been set as the date for the annual Conference on Christian Vocations for high school students.

The program will include lectures by men and women experienced in the various Christian occupations, group discussions, and personal counseling.

Speakers included on the program are the Rev. Elton Lee Barnum, director of religious life on campus, Dr. Harris D. Erickson, Dr. Francis P. Buller, Dr. Robert Buell, and Mrs. Margaret Taylor Shepard, all of the college.

The Rev. Barnum will present the opening invocation and prayer at 3:45 p.m. Following the afternoon session, dinner will be served in the cafeteria.

WSSF Campaign Ends Here Today

Today is the last day of the World Student Service Fund drive on campus.

The WSSF is an international organization, designed to provide aid to students and professors in colleges and universities in war-torn countries.

The drive started at the college last Monday. Assemblies, movies, and a faculty auction were presented to arouse student interest.

The campus committee representing the WSSF includes Prof. Elton Lee Barnum, faculty advisor; James Barbee and Sarah Toyen, seniors; Bill Schulte, Margaret Miki, and Martha Eskridge, juniors.

Band Students Plan Concert

The college Symphonic Band will present a concert at the Oakland City High School auditorium, this afternoon, and a second program in the evening at Washington, Indiana.

The band will render the Don Gillis Suite, "Frontier Town," "Where The West Begins," "Ranch House Party," "Prarie Sunset," and "Main Street Saturday Night."

Several Oakland City students will take part in the program, and the high school band will join the college band in "The Traveller" overture and "The Instrumentalist" march.

Results of Proficiency Test Released by Shockley Today

Eleven juniors and seniors passed the English proficiency examination given Friday, March 12, with distinction, and 81 others passed satisfactorily, it was announced today by Dr. Martin S. Shockley, head of the department of English.

The examination is given at the end of each quarter, and the student must pass the test before he is entered as a candidate for a degree. A student must have junior standing to take the examination.

The purpose of the examination is to be certain that any graduate of the college will be able to use English in such a way that it will be helpful to him and creditable to the college, according to Dr. Shockley.

Dr. Shockley stated, "Copies of the examination have been placed on file in the library, and students are urged to look at them. Approximately the same examination is given each year. There is always a business letter and a report, a question on reading comprehension, a paragraph copied from a college textbook on history, economics, sociology, biology — material that a college student should be able to read."

Received Distinction

Students who passed with distinction are: Evelyne Ayers, William Crowell, Arthur Dwyer, Vera Farley, Bob Hormuth, Margaret Miki, Beeman Phillips, Gail Reed, John Schofield, Harry Treber and James Wese.

Students who passed satisfactorily are: Mark Allinger, Kenney Ayer, Harry Baker, James Barnett, Adam Barum, William Bell, William Bennett, Carl Bingle, Harry Bischoff, Carl Bradshaw, Alfred Buck, Harold Buck, James Burns, August Burgdor, Thomas Byrd, John Caldwell, George Campbell, Paul Carnes, Anthony Cox, Cantrell Craddock, William Cummings.

Wanda Dampier, Charles Dewig, Martha Eskridge, Robert Fleming, Richard Gerhardt, Elmer Graham, William Graves, William Harp, Vaughn Harshfield, Robert Hartman, Jack Hauke, Bob Hevron, Gervase Hollander, Virl Holtsclaw, Sam Humphrey, Ninabelle Hurt,

Honorary Group Gets Five New Members

Five girls have fulfilled the requirements for membership in Alpha Phi Mu, scholastic honorary society for freshman women.

These students are: Patricia Bates, Jo Anne Freshley, Frances Huff, Mary Kathryn Weber, and Barbara Lois Winkler.

To belong to this society it is necessary for a girl to have maintained a 2.5 scholastic average for the first two quarters of her freshman year or the entire year.

McKean, Pegler Plan Recital for Sunday

The music department has announced that Gene Pegler, trombonist, will present a senior recital, and Sam McKean, baritone, will present his junior recital, Sunday, April 10, at 3:30 p.m., in the college auditorium.

Mr. Pegler's recital will consist of the following four numbers: "Concerto," by G. Magnan; "Romanza Appassionata," by von Weber; "Phantasy Piece," Op. 10, No. 2, by Tuthill; and "Morceau Symphonique," Op. 68, by Guilmont. He will be accompanied by Miss Ruth Peters, pianist.

Mr. McKean will sing the following numbers: "Tu 19 sai," by Torelli; "Pur dicesti, o hocca bella," by Lotti; "Danza, danza fanciulla," by Durante; "With Joy the Impatient Husbandman," from "The Seasons," by Haydn; "Chanson du Toreador," from Bizet's "Carmen," "Wayfarer's Night Song," by Martin; "Sea Fever," by Ireland; "Blue Are Her Eyes," by Watts, and "Over the Mountains," arranged by Quilter. He will be accompanied by Miss Virginia Rice, pianist.

Mr. Pegler, a senior, resides in Evansville at 3014 Mt. Vernon Ave. He has been a member of the college band for three years, brass sextet four years, Men's Quartet three years, and has sung in the choir for two years. He also has participated in intra-mural sports the past two years. Mr. Pegler is a member of the Phi-Zeta Fraternity.

He is majoring in instrumental music teaching, and minoring in social science. He has performed three months practice teaching at Centennial Grade School, and three months at Bosse High School.

Mr. McKean is a junior. His home is in Ft. Branch, Ind., and he graduated from the Ft. Branch High School in 1944. He is majoring in musical education and intends to teach in secondary schools. This is Mr. McKean's third year as a member of the college A Cappella Choir. In addition to this, he sings in various church choirs, and frequently does solo work. He works part-time in the library here at school. He is a student of Cecil B. Selfridge, associate professor of voice. He served in the U.S. Navy for 27 months during the war.

College Plans Tour To Mexico City

Plans for a three-week trip to Mexico in August, under the sponsorship of the sociology department, has been announced by Dr. James E. Morlock, head of the department.

The group, to be limited to 35, will leave Evansville by bus on Aug. 7, bound for Mexico City via Nashville, Birmingham, New Orleans, Houston, Brownsville, Victoria and Tamazunchale.

A day will be spent in New Orleans on the way and nine days will be spent in and around Mexico City.

Side trips from Mexico City will include visits to the pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan and the resort city of Cuernavaca. The old colonial town of Taxco and the floating gardens of Xochimilco will also be visited.

The return trip will be by way of Monterey, Laredo, San Antonio, Little Rock and Memphis. The group will return to Evansville on Aug. 27.

Adviser Lists CRESCENT Staff Changes

A number of changes have been made on THE CRESCENT staff this quarter, according to John A. Boyd, faculty adviser to THE CRESCENT. Most of the staff members have been switched to different jobs, and eight new members have joined the staff this quarter.

James Is Acting Editor

Jo Ann James, sophomore and former news editor, has been appointed Acting Editor for this quarter. Miss James replaces Arlene Starry, who served as Editor last year. Sue Dannettell, sophomore, has been changed from Editorial Page Editor to Acting Managing Editor.

Bill Cobb, junior, who was recently Feature Editor, is now serving as News Editor, and John Schrodt, senior, now has charge of the editorial page. Bill Woods, sophomore, will remain Sports Editor, and Margaret Mary Schenk, freshman, will continue to do the art work for THE CRESCENT.

Bill Collins, junior, former staff writer and assistant News Editor, has been appointed Feature Editor. Sam Wherry, junior, will be the new photographer for THE CRESCENT this quarter. He replaces Bill Nicholson, sophomore.

Bob Young, junior, and Bud Wilder, senior, will remain as Business Manager and Circulation Manager, respectively. The new addition made to the business staff is Charles Van Winkle, sophomore, who will serve as Assistant Business Manager.

Assistants Named

One change has been made concerning Assistant Page Editors. Bill Duffy, sophomore, replaces Bill Collins as Assistant News Editor. Jeff Hays, sophomore, will remain Assistant Sports Editor, and Charles Greer, junior, will continue his job as Assistant Feature Editor.

Six new members have been added to THE CRESCENT staff as staff writers for this quarter. They are Bob Bammer, freshman, Clarence Clayton, senior, Jo Anne Freshley, freshman, Kurt Kluger, sophomore, Ray Lasher, freshman, and Paul Peterson, freshman.

Dr. Kinneman To Speak At A.A.U.P. Banquet

The Evansville College chapter of the Association of American University Professors will have a banquet at 7 p.m. Monday in the Empire Room of the Vendome Hotel.

The speaker will be Dr. John A. Kinneman of Illinois State Normal University, first vice president of the association. His topic will be "Academic Freedom of the College Professor."

Dr. Leland Moon, professor of education and president of the local chapter, announced that all faculty members and their families are invited to the banquet.

Dr. Wade David, head of the history department, will be in charge of the program.

Late News Breaks

Theta Sorority alumnae are planning their annual bridge and style show April 20 in the Armory. Active members will be models. Tickets may be secured from active members.

The YWCA is offering eight dancing lessons for students. The fee is $4. Registration should be completed by April 19. For further details call 2-1191.

Copies of all textbooks used in the city high schools are being collected by the education department. The collections are used in connection with teaching methods courses and other education subjects.

The third annual spring band concert will be held at Bosse High School, Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m. Students will be admitted upon presentation of activity tickets.

There will be a party for Central High School seniors, Thursday, April 21, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., in the TUB.

Dandelion Department

This week we're sending a great big boquet to E'ville's football fan casualty, Mr. G. Malcolm Baird, who received a fractured leg on a squeeze play. Mr. Baird has followed the Aces for some time and came out for the exhibition game last Saturday to see what our fellows had on the ball. He said later that if everyone hit as hard as Mason Working we'd have nothing to worry about. To Mr. Baird we extend our best flowers and wish him a speedy recovery.

Pic of the Week

Each week THE CRESCENT chooses a senior who is outstanding in his or her field as the Pic of the Week. The person chosen for this issue is Kenneth Leimgruber, who will be graduated from Evansville College in June.

Mr. Leimgruber is in the field of secondary education and is concentrating in chemistry and mathematics. He has been on the Dean's List four consecutive times. His ambition is to teach in one of the city schools next year.

In his freshman and sophomore years he was a member of the Newman Club, and in his sophomore and junior years a member of the Phi Zeta Fraternity. Also, in his junior year he joined the American Chemical Society. As a senior, he was elected president of the Math Club.

After being graduated from Memorial High School in 1937, Mr Leimgruber entered the Army in 1941, and served for four years in that capacity. He served in the South Pacific for two years. After his discharge, he enrolled at Evansville College in June of 1946.

In his spare time, which is nearly always on week-ends, he plays a saxaphone in a hand at the Owls and other places in the city.

Mr. Leimgruber is to be married to Miss Dorothy Surbeck, secretaryof the Temporary Union Building, June 18. They plan to remain in Evansville after their marriage. He now resides at 1324 N. Fulton Avenue.

Religious Life Committee Provides Wide Program

Ervin Kelley, left, is receiving a program from Elton Barnum, director of religious life, as he prepares to attend a meeting of the Student Christian Association. Martha Eskridge, right, chairman of the religious life committee is a casual observer.

By JOHN SCHRODT

One of the most progressive committees of the Student-Faculty Federation this year is the religious life committee, which is composed of six students and those faculty members representing the three major religious faiths.

This group tries in every way to promote vital discussion and the study of religion on the campus. It cooperates with the administration in an attempt to maintain the highest possible standards of Christian idealism and conduct on the campus.

It also has general supervision of all organizations and activities of the college religious program and helps in securing leadership for religious chapel services throughout the year.

Sponsors Organizations

The Student Christian Association is one of the religious organizations sponsored by this committee. The SCA was established in 1945. It is a continuation of previous separate YMCA and YWCA groups on the campus. The organization offers opportunity for worship and service on an inter-racial and inter-denominational basis. The chapter holds regular meetings, conducts special activities, and cooperates in sponsoring religious activities on the campus.

Another of the organizations is the Kappa Chi fellowship, an organization for all students who are planning for the ministry or for other church work. Last spring the local chapter was host to the national Kappa Chi convention.

Sponsors Denominational Groups

At present there are several denominational groups on the campus with which the committee cooperates, and plans are being made for several more. These are the Baptist Student Club, the Newman Club, and the Methodist Student Movement, all of which meet regularly on the campus.

The group has also helped on the series of vesper services conducted this year. These services are held at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the auditorium. Three have already been held and one more is planned.

Working on Chapel

Their biggest job has been planning the worship center for the campus. Their center will be housed in one wing of the Reserve Library Building. The estimated cost of the center is above $10,000 and will include an organ, split chancel, and a seating capacity for about 75 persons. The center is planned for the use of small groups, principally for worship, meditation, and prayers.

The membership of this group includes students Martha Eskridge chairman, Ann Wilson, Charles Ballard, Jack Pasternak, Nathan Lieberman, and Tommy Walker; Faculty members, Elton Barnum, director of religious life, Miss Wahnita DeLong, and Dr. Harris Erickson.

Inquiring Reporter Attempts in Vain To Find Students' Ideal Professor

The inquiring reporter tripped around the Temporary Union Building this week, interrupting the juke box territory in a wild effort to discover what the student's opinion of a perfect professor was. Here goes!

Diane Hadley—Dr. Shockley because of his dry humor and good grades.

Monna Lo Dugan—Mrs. Hess because she gives a thorough lecture. She gives you a lead on what to study for a test, but the rest is up to you.

Jerri Steinmetz—Dr. Morlock who is human. He grades you on your work instead of your brown nose ability.

Jim Sterret—Any prof. who is 15 minutes late for a class.

Juna Howard — One who makes you work without realizing it.

Bob Hevron—Dr. Shockley can't do anything wrong — besides he doesn't give tests.

Karleen Yeager—Dr. Buell because he's so nice.

Salli Henn—Mr. Boyd, because he dropped dead.

Allan Brown—Dr. David is clear and concise. He lectures 1-2-3. Also Dr. Dunham and Dr. Morlock.

Lemois Wires—Dr. Morlock because he understands his students.

Colleen Cain — Mrs. Taylor (anything for an A) who is informal and when she criticizes the student she also criticizes herself.

Jerry David—I wouldn't know because I haven't had one yet.

Marilyn Marshall—Dr. Dunham because he knows his subject, is neat, and has a pleasant voice.

Elwood Hurt—Is there one at E.C.?

Jeff Hayes—Haven't had one yet!

Mason Working—Dr. Dunham —knows what he is talking about.

Bud Dile—Brother Fuson because I think he'll give me an A.

Frances Jones—One who gives a straight lecture with a slight review over the previous day's lecture and also inserts a little wit here and there.

Time Is Tangible

Time is the most precious thing in the world. Time is our prime standard of measurement. We can hardly state a thought or a conclusion without bringing in the element of time.

We eat by time, sleep by time, we record our accomplishments, not in terms of pleasure or of the performance, or of satisfaction, but in terms of time. Time is money, as our forebears were fond of saying. But money is a tangible thing. The more you save, the more you have. Time is far more subtle stuff . . .

You wake up in the morning, and lo, your purse iis magically filled with twenty-four hours of the tissue of the universe of your life. It is yours. It is the most precious of possessions, a highly singular commodity, showered upon you in a manner as singular as the commodity itself. No one can take it from you. And no one receives either more or less than you receive.

Student Advocates More Queens

John Schrodt

An editorial entitled "To Be or Not To Be a Queen—A Question?" appeared recently in one of the exchange college papers THE CRESCENT receives from the various schools throughout the states.

The editorial of this paper stated that their campus was having too many queens and that it seems as if they couldn't have an event without a queen. The editorial went on to tell about the mild case of "Queen-itis" which was sweeping the campus. They thought it should be curbed, or soon campus queens would be merely a passing fad.

For a time the editorial seemed to fit our campus, but after considering it from several angles it seemed as if it didn't apply in any way. In fact, there are many advantages Evansville College might have if we coudd do the opposite of the aforementioned editorial and make every girl on the campus a queen.

First: It would help the campus morale. Morale is important to college students, especially the girls. Some people claim that the morale of the G.I. helped win the war, so perhaps this applies also to college. If we can keep the girls' morale high it might help her make the Dean's List, or at least keep her from leaving school.

Second: It would be good for business. No person could be crowned a queen without a new formal and all the new accessories. Evansville College is here to help the city and certainly all these new formals would increase business for the downtown merchants.

Third: It could be made to help the enrollment. Every co-ed undoubtedly has the secret ambition to become a queen. Therefore, a promise to every girl that she would someday be a queen, would be a definite incentive for girls to attend EC.

Fourth: The administration might use the queen idea to complete the new Union Building Fund. If the finance committee would promise to make every papa's daughter a queen that made, say a $1,000 contribution to the fund, the response should be tremendous.

Becoming a queen is perhaps a lot like making the Dean's List. It doesn't mean much except to the person making the honor. We might also treat the girls like one professor does his students. He gives everyone a B- because it makes them happy and, with this idea in mind, we might make every girl a queen.

THE PESSIMIST°

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food;
Nothing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air,
Quick as a flash 'tis gone;
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to comb but hair,
Nowhere to sleep but in bed;
Nothing to weep but tears,
Nothing to hury but dead.

Nothing to sing but songs;
Ah, well, alas! alack!
Nowhere to go but out,
Nowhere to come but back.

Nothing to see but sights,
Nothing to quench but thirst;
Nothing to have but what we've got;
Thus thro' life we are cursed.

Nothing to strike but a gait;
Everything moves that goes.
Nothing at all but common sense
Can ever withstand these woes.

From the Press Box

by Jeff Hays

Spring football practice started this year with the theme of "Beat Murray." Fans who witnessed the spring grid review last Saturday must have seen some of this "Beat Murray" spirit in the players as they made their vicious blocks and tackles. The thoroughbreds will have to run awfully fast next year to elude Don Ping's vengeful defensive men.

The most improved ball player during the spring season, according to the coaches, was Lemois Wires, a freshman from Boonville. "Crazylegs" as he is called by his teammates, showed terrific drive and deceptive running ability in the scrimmages, and will be heard from next year at left halfback.

Mason Working, hard running halfback, was presented the best tackling award by the coaches. Mason has always been noted for his defensive work, but showed tremendous promise as a real running threat in last Saturday's game. Mason ripped off several nice gains on quick thrusts from the "T" formation.

"Dike Eddleman" MacDougal won the best attitude award, and was a deserving recipient. Johnny never missed a day's practice, and he was usually one of the first players on the field. One day early in the spring, Johnny reported for practice two hours before it was scheduled. He went through the regular callisthenics, ran some sprints and took a couple of laps around the track. He then rushed over to the Armory and played in an intra-mural basketball game. It is this kind of added effort that may make "Dike" the scatback that the Aces have been looking for.

Pat Fitzgerald, a center from Casey, Illinois, was awarded the best blocking trophy. Pat is an offensive specialist. Besides his deadly blocking ability, he is a very accurate ball snapper.

An odd thing about next year's team is that captain Gene Logel will have two former captains playing under him. Bob Cerhardt, last year's leader, is back again at guard, and so is big Bill Russler, who captained the Aces two years ago.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR old Sheedy had a hang dog look before he tried the Finger-Nail Test and switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil. Today—he's a blue ribbon winner. Regular use of Wildroot Cream-Oil now gives him a snappy, well-groomed look. No longer is he bothered by dryness and loose, ugly dandruff. He's out of the dog house for good with his girl friends. Why not dog trot down to your nearest drug store for a bottle or tube of non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil right now! And ask your barber for professional applications. You'll find that once you start using Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin, you're a gay dog in even the best society.

Golds Defeat Purples, 7-0, in Final Game of Spring Drills; 2000 Fans Flock Out To See Preview of Ping's Squad

The Colds defeated the Purples 7-0 Saturday in the final session of spring football practice. After a scoreless first half, junior Dick Conterman flipped an eiight yard pass to Johnny MacDougal for the winning touchdown early in the final period.

More than 2000 fans flocked out to see the intra-squad game, and one of them, C. Malcolm Baird, was seriously injured when Mason Working was thrown into the crowd by several Purple defenders.

The Golds outdowned the Purples, 7-6, although Purples had built up a 5-3 edge at halftime. The winners gained 103 yards by rushing and lost 23. The Purples moved 95 yards on the ground and lost 11 yards by rushing. Each team was penalized 10 yards, and their were two interceptions, both made by Purple quarterback Joe Unfried.

Two ten yard sprints by Captain Cene Logel and fullback Morris Riley, and a 17 yard aerial from Unfried to David put the Purples on the Gold 24 yard line, but here the drive fizzled out as Riley was stopped at no gain. This was the nearest the Purples were to scoring during the game.

Aces Meet Purdue Next Monday at Bosse Field

By BILL WOODS

Coach Don Ping's Evansville College baseball team came out even in a pair of games over the past week and will have a week of rest behind them when they encounter the Purdue Boilermakers, Monday night at Bosse Field. Game time is 8 o'clock.

After opening the season with a 6-4 win over the University of Chicago, the Aces dropped a 5-3 decision to the Cardinals from Illinois Normal Saturday afternoon at the College Field. Art Goreham, big Illinois righthander, held the Aces to six hits while Andy Collins, Rags Berger and Lamont Stieler were touched for 10 safeties by the invaders.

In the Monday game, the Maroons from Southern Illinois got to Stiedler for three runs in the first inning and he was removed in favor of Jim Vogel in the third. Vogel pitched no hit ball for the remainder of the game, allowing only three Southern runners to reach base. All of these were on walks. He faced just 22 men in the seven innings that he worked.

Evansville got four runs in the fourth inning and were never in danger after that. Southern Illinois had three runs, two hits and five errors with the Aces tallying five runs, three hits and one error. Marvin stofft's home run to right field was the fifth Ace marker.

Wheaton Follows Purdue

Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the Aces will play their second opponent in as many days when they battle Wheaton College. Wheaton is known as one of the few schools that has made baseball a paying proposition in the collegiate athletic set-up.

Wednesday Evansville will have a gameless day but Thursday night at 8 o'clock they will again take the field under the lights at Bosse for the first of a two game series with the Indiana University nine from Bloomington. The second game of this series will be played Friday night at the same time.

Monday night, April 15, the Aces will again be at Bosse Field, this time for a game with the Eastern Illinois State team. Came time for this encounter will also be at 8 o'clock.

James Millikin Here

Tuesday afternoon Evansville will provide the opposition for the Bib Blue from James Millikin of Decatur on the last game of their eight day road trip. This game will also be played at Bosse Field, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

James Millikin is the last home game for the Aces before taking off for a three game road session. They will play Western Kentucky, University of Louisville and Eastern Kentucky State before returning to College Field for a game with Indiana State on April 29.

Golfers Beat Illinois Team; Netmen Lose

Evansville's golf team came out of their match with Southern Illinois, Monday, on the long end of a 16½ to 10½ score, while the tennis aggregation was dropping a 4 to 2 decision to the racqueteers from Carbondale.

In the golf match, Walter Zubrosky of Southern was low shooter for the day with a 79 and Don Howard was low for Evansville with an 80. Jack Matthews was next with an 81 and Charley Taylor, Dick Conterman and Paul Irey were next with 82's. Mike Loeffler fired an 83 for the Evansville team.

Maroons Closely Bunched

Jack Mitchell, John Bonnevir, Ralph Parrish, Bill Freitag and Bill Harsha fired 82, 83, 84, 87 and 89 respectively.

Dick Unverzagt and Bob Sakel were the winners for the Aces' tennis match. Unverzagt scored a hard fought victory over Jack Mawdsley of Southern to the tune of 8-6, 4-6, 8-6. Sakel defeated Tom Reissana 6-1, 2-6, 6-4.

Southern Wins Doubles

Southern's winners were Jack Armstrong, Bill Vorewald and two doubles match teams. Armstrong beat Bill Hopkins 6-4, 4-6, 6-0 and Vorwald knocked off Rueben Boswell 6-1, 11-9.

In the doubles competition Mawdsley and Armstrong beat Unverzagt and Hopkins 6-8, 6-4, 7-5 and Vorewald-Reissans trimmed Charley Van Winkle and Don Brannon 6-3, 6-3.

Hinton, Schymik Gain Badminton Triumph

In the finals of the women's doubles badminton tourney Rovella Hinton and Pat Schymik defeated Wanda Dampier and Mary Coleman two straight games 15-5 and 15-8 for the championship.

The Women's Athletic Association leads the Women's Bowling League with a 6-2 record. Following them is the Gamma Epsilon Sigma Sorority with 5 games won and 3 lost. The Castalian Sorority is in third place with 4 games won and four lost. The Theta Sigma Sorority is in last place, with one win and seven losses.

Intramural Meet In Semi-Finals

The Big Shots and the Wildcats advanced to the semi-finals of the double elimination intramural basketball round. To get to the semi-finals the Big Shots beat the Pi Kappa I five and also conquered the Alpha Pi Omegas and the Phi Zetas. The Wildcats beat the Philo II team and the Buzz Kids who eliminated the Philo 1 five.

All of the losers of the first games were then paired off to combat each other. The winner of this bracket will play the champion of the winner circuit for the final championship. The teams still in the running in this bracket are the Hurricanes, Phi Zetas, Alpha Pi Omegas, Buzz Kids, Philo I. Carter team, and the loser of the Big Shot-Wildcat game.

The winner of the tourney should be crowned by next week if all the games are played as scheduled, stated Jim Barrett, sponsor of the league.

'Dawn on the Pacific' Rated Best in Camera Club Salon

Donald W. Hendershot's "Dawn on the Pacific," above, took first place in the picture salon sponsored by the Camera Club.

Results of the recent Camera Club Picture Salon were announced last week by Glenn Elder, club president.

Donald W. Hendershot took first place with his "Dawn on the Pacific." Rated second was a still life, "Water Lilies," by Ralph E. Balyeat, director of industrial technology. Paul Hartung's "Florida Everglades" was judged third best in the salon.

Several other pictures were given honorable mention rating, Mr. Elder stated.

Freshmen To Have Picnic; Plans Set Event for May 4

Plans are being made for a freshman class picnic at Mesker Park in the Old Heidelberg shelter house May 4. David Milla, class president, appointed five committees to formulate the plans during a class meeting on March 23.

Committees Listed

A finance committee has Bob Colvin, Bob Doughty, John Schultz, and Art Weber as members, with Ann Bledsoe as chairman.

Al Barthlow is the chairman of the program committee. Other members are Herb Whitelock, Fleta Benedict, Phil Barning and Sue Zopf.

The arrangements committee, headed by Jack Headlee, is made up of Walter Prickett, Nina St. Clair, Bonnie Graulich, and Bob Ossenberg.

For publicity, Curt Scheible is the chairman of a committee composed of Mary Lou Wolfe, George Feldman, Margaret Mary Schenk, and Marcine Johnson.

Program Planned

On the refreshment committee are Katherine Krueger, chairman, Mickey Humphrey, Salli Henn, and Marilyn Molly Marlott.

Beginning at 5 p.m. and lasting until 6 p.m. games, including baseball, softball, volleyball, and cards, will be played, according to Mr. Barthlow. Lunch will be served at 6 p.m.

After lunch entertainment will be furnished by a floor show featuring freshman talent.

Drama Professor Resigns Position

Mrs. Mildred Taylor, assistant professor of speech and drama, has announced her resignation from the faculty to be effective at the end of the spring quarter. She is resigning in order to work on her doctors degree.

Mrs. Taylor came to Evansville College from Reitz High School where she was the dramatics director. She has had a broad background in radio as a writer, actor, and announcer. She has had her own radio program, has worked in the Summer Theater, and was director of the open air theater at Mesker Park. While she was in California, Mrs. Taylor operated her own studio of dramatics in Hollywood.

Mrs. Taylor is the faculty sponsor of the Thespians, and is on the Fine Arts and May Day Committees.

Canadian Minister To Speak Today

The Rev. Walter Hughes of Toronto, Canada, will address members of Kappa Chi at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Rev. Mr. Hughes is the guest of the Rev. Albert C. Smith, pastor of the East Side Baptist Church and one of the speakers for the Holy Week Program next week.

As an evangelist in the Canadian Baptist Association, Rev. Hughes travels over a large section of Canada and the United States. His remarks will express some of the attitudes and conditions he has met with in these travels.

He is a veteran of the last two wars, in which he served as an overseas chaplain. He was wounded in action in World War II.

Contest for Students To Begin Next Week

A new Chesterfield Cigarette contest has been announced by Bill Stephens and Mary Lou Angel, Chesterfield campus representatives.

Beginning April 11, once a week for the next few weeks one of the representatives will telephone a student during the Supper Club broadcast over WGBF at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. A carton of cigarettes will be given to the student who correctly identifies the name of the singer and the song being sung at the time of the call.

Many Skills Taught In Art Department

Painting is only part of the art class curriculum, Miss Florence Keve, head of the art department, explains.

Included are such subjects as Fundamentals of Art, Art Appreciation, Clay Modeling, Painting, History of Art, Crafts, Ceramics, (pottery), and Pictorial Composition.

Courses Offered

The subjects being taught this quarter only are Crafts, Painting, Art Methods for Teachers, and Art and Civilization, which is actually the history of art.

Besides this regular curriculum, the art department maintains evening classes, teaching Painting, Pictorial Composition, Figure Drawing, Metalcraft, and Ceramics. In the past, the evening classes were meeting in the Evansville Museum of Fine Arts building downtown because of the convenience of the equipment there. However, the art department recently received some wonderful, new equipment," as Miss Keve put it, and it is no longer necessary to meet in the museum building.

Sketching Campus

This new equipment consists of 15 easels and 15 tables. Miss Keve stated that this equipment has made a big improvement in the department.

Currently, the art class students have been spending their time outside, taking advantage of the weather, and sketching scenes on the campus. In the event that April showers catch up with them, the students can bring these sketches into the art room where they may be properly finished.

Sponsors Display

Since Miss Keve has been here, the department has sponsored an art display at the end of each quarter. At the end of this quarter there will be a large exhibit in the art department rooms in the Library building.

Senior Recitals by Pianists, Violinist, Soprano Scheduled

Four senior music majors are scheduled to give their recitals next week in the auditorium. Mary Ann Hahs, pianist, and Marilyn Ramsey, violinist, will present a combined recital Monday at 8:30 p.m. On Wednesday, April 13, at 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Joyce Cox Gardner, pianist, and Miriam Curtis, soprano, will give their recitals.

Miss Hahs will open her recital with Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien, Op. 26" in the three movements entitled "Scherzino," "Romanze," and "Intermezzo." She will be followed by Miss Ramsey who will play "Concerto No. 4," in two movements, by Mozart.

Miss Hahs will return to play "Notturno," by Respight; "Etude, Op. 25, No. 3, by Chopin; and "Melody in E Minor," by Cabrilovitsch. Miss Hahs and Miss Ramsey will then conclude the program with "Sonata for Violin and Piano," by Grieg. They will be accompanied by William Bell, senior, pianist.

Curtis Sings

On Wednesday, Mrs. Gardner will play "Intermezza, Op. 117, No. 2," by Brahms; "Prelude, Op. 28," by Chopin; "Concerto, Op. 11," Chopin; first movement; and "Sonatine," in three movements, "Modere," "Menuet," and "Anime," by Ravel.

Miss Curtis will sing "Batti, Batti, O Bel Masetto (Don Civoanni) by Mozart; "Wohin," by Schubert; "An Die Nachtigall," by Brahms; "Ergebliches Standchen," by Brahms; "Mandoline," by Debussy; "J'Ai Dit Aux Etailes," by Paladilhe; and "Les Fille De Cadix" by Delihes.

Women's Council and Queen Elections Set for Monday

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By JIM FOWLER

Every student on campus is extremely interested in some data being compiled and collected this week. The annual budget requests were prepared and are being reviewed by the appropriate agencies prior to adoption for next year's program.

Each of us thinks the Student Activities Fee is too great, but do you know the agencies it supplies and services it buys? For instance, the S G.A. general fund pays for the telephone in the main hall; is applied on some costs of assembly programs; defrays miscellaneous homecoming expenses; and covers decorating costs for pep rallies and athletic events. Still another portion goes for dramatic productions; some toward expenses of printing the Student Directory; a portion for your copy of the LinC; and still some more goes to publish THE CRESCENT. Not mentioned so far have been services of the college nurse, entrance to athletic events, and sponsored social events.

The Administrative Board of the Student-Faculty Federation has reviewed requests over which it has control, and in each case the amount requested by its committee and dependent agencies was approved. Its total budget is the same per student as was paid this year.

Careful consideration was given each request, and the Administrative Board feels the combined budget request to be adequate and just. A complete breakdown of the Student Activities Fee showing the final allocation will be published in THE CRESCENT upon release by Mr. Olmsted, college treasurer.

Where's the Equipment?

This week saw the beginning of the intra-mural soft-ball program on campus. Seems mighty funny, hut someone forgot to check equipment — and the first game was played without masks and the usual catcher's gear. Great incentive for student participation, isn't it? Jim Barnett says he isn't "placing the blame" on any one certain person because there's no one person responsible for the program.

We all realize the importance of intra-mural sports, and knowing this, it is all the more our obligation to see than an effective program is adopted and carried out. We, as students, have in our grasp this power —what are we going to do about it?

More Food for Thought

Are you, as a student of Evansville College, aware you are paying $5.35 per quarter toward the building of a new Student Union? Do you have any idea of the place it will "fill" in your college training? Have you been asked for a casual, or official, opinion as to what you'd like to have included in "your building"? Do you know what will become of the TUB (which was built with student funds) after completion of the new Union Building? Do these questions interest you? Well, why not inquire and see how, why, and what you and other donors are paying.

Brainteaser No. 14: What historical character is said to have been located in prison by the singing of a song?

Gordon Klahn, sophomore, answered last week's question, stating that the German born Handel is buried in Westminster Abbey.

Senior Men To Elect May Queen; Six Women Nominated by Student Council

The first of the annual spring elections gets underway Monday when students go to the polls to elect a May Queen and officers for the Women's Council.

This year's May Queen will be selected in a different manner at the suggestion of the Dean of Women, Esther Brown, to eliminate any party politics, announced Jim Barnett, Student Government Association president.

Emily Combs, Suzanne Goeke, and Bonnie Gruebel Stephens, Castalians; Lois Huck and Doris Witt, members of Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Marilyn Ramsey, Independent, were nominated by the Student Council and will be voted upon by the senior men under the new plan. The woman with the highest number of votes will be queen, and the woman with the next highest number will be the maid-of-honor.

Polls Open 9-4

The election will be in the SGA office in the TUB Monday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The queen will be crowned during the annual May Day festivities May 17.

In the past a list of all senior women was passed out at the polls at the time of the Women's Council election and the voters checked two senior women. Then the six women with the highest vote were sent to a tea of distinguished women off campus and they chose a May Queen and a maid-of-honor.

Three Nominated

During a meeting of the women students last Monday Evelyn Ayers, Martha Wessner and Gail Reid, all juniors, were nominated for the presidency of the Women's Council.

Dorothy Dailey and Marylu Plane, juniors, were nominated for the office of secretary, and Jerri Steinmetz and Phyllis Tirmenstein, sophomores, were nominated for the office of treasurer.

They will be elected Monday at the same time as the May Queen in the TUB Committee Room.

Supervision of the Women's Lounge and its equipment and providing assistance to the freshman sorority, Gamma Delta, are two of the functions of the Women's Council.

BULLETIN

Today is the deadline for filing of any students expecting to run for an SGA office. Official slate of candidates will be run in the next issue of THE CRESCENT.

Brown To Review Books on Borneo

Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, will be the principal speaker at a guest tea of the Alpha Gamma Delta, national women's social sorority, Thursday, April 28, from 2 to 4 p.m., in the YWCA.

The topic of her speech will be "Borneo in Transition," based on books and magazine articles of Mrs. Agnes Newton Keith. Mrs. Keith has spent many years in Borneo, and is the author of two books concerning that isle; "Land Below the Wind" and "Three Came Home."

Miss Brown will attempt, in discussing these books, to describe the transition of Borneo before, during, and after the second world war.

Music will be furnished by a string trio, composed of students of the college music department.

TUB Board Plans Trip to Colorado

Four Temporay Union Board members will attend the twenty-sixth annual convention of student union directors and assistants April 27-30, in the Broadmoor Hotel at Colorado Springs, Colorado. The purpose of the convention is to secure information on the organization and programs of various student union buildings, Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, has announced.

Miss Kirk stated that the convention will be of special importance to Bill Woods, chairman of the management board; Jim Cooper and Sarah Kessler, student assistants to the director, and herself, since they hope to move into a new student union building soon to organize new equipment and a new program.

Lester Morton, senior, will speak on "High Vacuum Techniques," at the Physics Club meeting today, in E-201 at 11 a.m., according to Ralph Yates, president.

All persons interested in physics are invited to attend.

Service Committee Elects Officers

William Schulte, junior, was recently elected chairman of the 1949-50 World Student Service Fund committee on campus.

Others elected were: Martha Eskridge, junior, co-chairman; Virginia Eades, junior, secretary; and June Tremor, sophomore, treasurer.

The function of this committee is to conduct the WSSF campus campaign next year.

Pledges are now being accepted into the group by student canvassers.

Students Make Scout Layout

Gerald Fitzgerald, senior, and Paul Irey, junior, are displaying the layout which they prepared for the local Girl Scout office, in the Grien Building. The work was done in conjunction with Secretarial Science Course 252.

The purpose of the project was to give the students practical experience in solving ollice management problems.

Why Not Ask the Students?

It seems to be a paradox of human nature that we are more concerned about what strangers or mere acquaintances think of us as individuals than we are of what our own families may have to say on the same issues. We may even tend to treat lightly, or with real disdain, the opinions of relation, even though they may be in a better position to judge the same factors than the outsider to whom we have taken our problem, or about whose opinions we are concerned.

This same principle may apply to student-college relations. Administrative officers may often become too concerned over what the public, industry or education leaders have to say about personnel, policies and practices of the school, and neglect the factor of student opinion or morale on those same issues.

Leading institutions, in recent years, have been more and more realizing the existence and importance of this situation to a successfully managed school system, and have been employing corrective methods. The attitude survey was brought into play for just such a purpose. By this method of anonymously drawing out student comment on various phases of school activities, it is possible to get a clear view of the inside, student, picture of policies and practices.

Just such a sampling of student opinion was taken here at the end of the winter quarter. The survey, presented in classes to a number of business and co-op training students, polled about 12 per cent of the student body.

Results compiled showed this group of the student body to be generally well satisfied with existing conditions. On a question concerning school spirit, for example, spirit here was felt to be just about the same as at most schools.

Most of the students polled stated that they were attending this college because it is an average school and usually meets their needs, while they felt facilities such as classrooms, labs, library, etc., were average or a little better than many schools of comparable size. Grading methods they felt were usually good, with some exceptions, and teaching and administrative personnel they said were some good, some bad. It is interesting to note here that none of the 168 students polled felt that the personnel was poor. Lastly, social activities on the campus were said to be about the same as, or a little better than those in most similar schools.

Although this particular survey failed to show any drastic feeling in any one direction, it may be said to be fairly representative of a student group at one time.

Results of such a survey as this one, if taken of an entire student body, may be very helpful in building better student-college relations and finding any possible flaws existing under a present set up.

Colleges today should realize that what the students think of the college is what the community at large will think of the college. Students are walking advertisements for the institution as well as sample illustrations of the product turned out by the school. Good will begins within, then the outside relations will take care of themselves.

A student body that knows its opinions and desires are asked and taken into consideration by the ones who make the rules governing them is a satisfied student body. And a satisfied student body means cooperation among student, faculty and administration, which in turn should lead to raised morale and progressive action.

Drama Teacher Has Wide Training and Experience

Miss Pearle Le Compte, assistant professor of speech, has been a member of the Evansville College faculty for the past 23 years, joining it in 1926.

Until two years ago she directed all the college plays and productions and is also the past sponsor of the Thespian Literary Society. For several years she was sponsor of the Theta Sigma social sorority.

Miss Le Compte is one of the charter members of the Evansville Community Players, active civic dramatic group, and is also a communicant of the local St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Has Masters Degree

She received her professional training from the University of Missouri, and was graduated from the University of Chicago with the degree of bachelor of philosophy. She also has a master of arts degree from the School of Speech at Northwestern University.

In addition to this she has done post-graduate work at the University of Chicago, University of Wisconsin, University of Michigan, and Cornell University. She has been a pupil of Dr. Robert McLean Cunnock, Professor S. H. Clark, Dr. S. S. Curry, and Miss Marjorie Gullan of London, England, all notable teachers of speech.

Wide Teaching Experience

Before coming to Evansville College she taught at Morrisville College, Stephens College, Southwestern Missouri State Teachers College, Stevens Point, Wisconsin; Brackenridge High School, San Antonio, Texas; University of Oklahoma, and Western Illinois State Teachers College. She has also done three years of social service work in Chicago.

Author of a Book

Miss Le Compte is the author of a book entitled "Dramatics," published in 1923 and has written for magazines and newspapers.

Last year she had a leave of absence from the college and spent the year traveling and doing research in England. Besides England, her travels have taken her to France, Germany, Poland, and Russia.

Member of Tau Kappa Alpha

Her professional societies are the American Association of University Women, American Association of University Professors, National Association of Teachers of Speech, and Tau Kappa Alpha. She is also included in the "First Families of America," and "American Women."

Miss Le Compte is a native of the Ozarks of Southwest Missouri and maintains her ancestral home at Pierce City, Missouri.

In Evansville she resides at 1905 East Gum Street.

Society — Notes

A son, James Michael, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Funkhouser March 28. Mr. Funkhouser is a junior.

Bonnie Greubel, December graduate, became the bride of Bill Stephens, senior, in a ceremony at 6:45 p.m. on April 14 at Bethel Church. Mabel Ruth Knester, student at Indiana University, was her maid of honor. Sissy Buthod, senior, and Joyce Grabert were bridesmaids. Bob Hanselman, junior, was Mr. Stephens' best man. James Niehaus, senior, and Robert Schears were ushers.

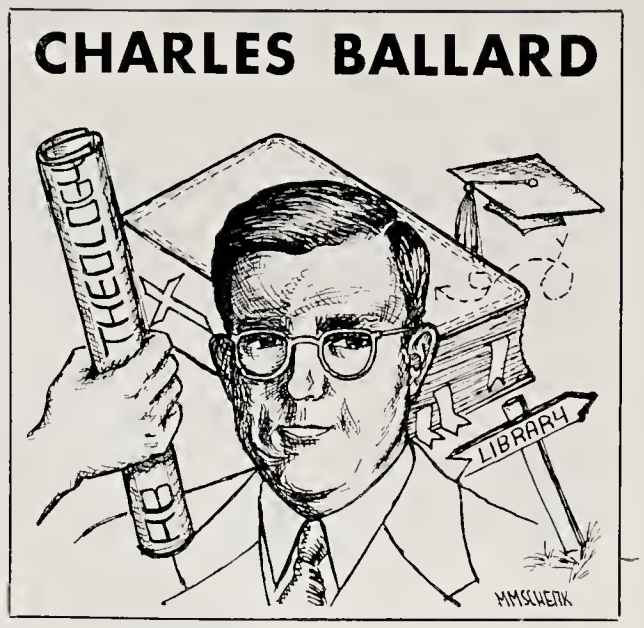
Mrs. Stephens was a member of the Castalian sorority and Mr. Stephens belongs to the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity.

Sara Toyen, senior, was wed to Gilbert Magazine at 1:30 p.m., April 10 in the study of Rabbi Mazuer of St. Louis. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was held in the Fiesta Room of the Chase Hotel in St. Louis.

Mrs. Magazine attended Indiana University for three years before coming to Evansville College. Mr. Magazine was graduated from Evansville College in 1942. While here he played varsity football for four years, and served as president of Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity.

The bride and groom are living at 818 South Riverside Drive.

Pic of the Week



THE CRESCENT'S parade of illustrious seniors continues with Charles Ballard chosen for this week's Pic of the Week.

Mr. Ballard is a pre-theological student with a major in sociology and a minor in history. He is married to the former Karleen Stephans and they reside in Newburgh. Mrs. Ballard is on the library staff of the college and works in the Reserve Library.

Last year Mr. Ballard was chairman of the Religious Life Committee of the Student Government Association, and was also a member of the Student Christian Association in his sophomore year. He is a member of the Phi Zeta social fraternity and serves in the capacity of chaplain. He is also a member of the Kappa Chi Fellowship and Student-Faculty Federation.

This year he was chosen to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Besides leading a busy life on the campus, Mr. Ballard has served as pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church near Newburgh for the past two years.

Mr. Ballard was graduated from Central High School in 1942. After graduation this year, he plans to enter a theological seminary. He has been accepted for admission by both Drew University in Madison, New Jersey and Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston, Illinois.

The Negro Renaissance Is at Hand

Clarence Clayton

A bird's eye view of the American Negro situation during the past few months reveals that a social revolution has been precipitated by the liberal thinking leaders of America. Although the trend toward social equality in America is still handicapped by racial prejudice, this year is proving to be the greatest year for the liberation of the American Negro since 1865.

Yale University gained wide publicity over its first Negro member of the 1949 football team. The Negro was elected captain of the team. A few weeks ago the University of Southern Illinois sent a Negro debater to Murray College at Murray, Ky. This Negro and several other college students acquainted with the spectacle explained to me that he was the first Negro to visit the campus. It was necessary for the debate coach at urray to get the president's consent befor the debate could proceed. he coach from the University of Southern Illinois had politely explained that all his debaters would return to Illinois immediately if the Negro should not he permitted to participate.

Several Evansville College students have participated in discussion and speech contests on the subject of civil rights. A few southern college students still oppose anti-lynching legislation, hut a Negro Renaissance has started. Evansville College is not far hehind in the drive for Negro freedom. One of its local fraternities, Pi Kappa, initiates Negro members. The faculty members of its department of English frequently sermonize on the subject.

Nation-Wide Revolution

Nation-wide changes have precipitated this democratic movement. Not long ago, in Alabama, two white men were senteuced to forty-five years imprisonment by an all-white jury, for their alternate raping of a Negro woman. The Phi Kappa Psi chapter at Amherst made history and the headlines recently, when it initiated a Negro into the fraternity. Unlike what it would have perhaps done a few years ago, it gave up its national charter rather than rescind the act. Since then several fraternal groups including one national fraternity, the Delta Epsilon Fraternity, have demanded credit for having Negro membership. The ironical thing about this is that honorary fraternities have for years initiated Negroes.

Republican Tactics Fail

The Republican party could not rise to power hy appealing to the "Uncle-Tom" Negro leaders. In spite of the southern filibusters we may expect the 81st Congress to pass fair employment practice legislation giving the Negro an even break on job opportunities, to extend the franchize, and to enact anti-lynching legislation

Home Economics Fraternity Believes Cheerful Moods To Be Contagious

"Moods are contagious, and although you may not think so you can keep the morale of your friends up by being happy and cheerful yourself," says Phi Upsilon Omicron (home economics fraternity) in The Daily Lass-o.

Despite the fact that you have three exams coming up, you just broke your favorite bottle of perfume, or your best boy friend has failed to write you for the past week, keep your good disposition.

The quickest lift comes from making yourself prettier and a logical beginning is to get a good night's sleep . . .

To feel light and slender, concentrate on simple but nutritious foods for the major part of your week. Rich, heavy foods take longer to digest and often leave you feeling sluggish.

Finally, personal cleanliness is one of the most important prerequisites to a good disposition and to good looks. Take some extra time once a week to experiment with your hair, care for your nails and skin.

This all seems like good common sense and that's exactly what it is. But sometimes we get too busy to observe these little things which are so important.

Keep these suggestions in mind and remember that nobody likes to have a chronic grouch around. Be cheerful and congenial, not only for your own sake but for the sake of others because remember — "it's contagious!" Denton Texas—(ACP)

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

IF PEOPLE are whiskering about you, better check up on your hair. Before J.P. switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic, he was wide open for all kinds of catty remarks about his ratty appearance. Not so today! Now that he's using Wildroot Cream-Oil regularly, annoying dryness and loose, ugly dandruff are gone. His hair stays put all day. He can pass the Wildroot Finger-Nail Test without batting an eye.

J.P.'s experience leads us to suggest that you try non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin, too. Get yourself a bottle or tube today at your drug or toilet goods counter. And, have your barber give you professional applications. You'll agree that for well-groomed hair Wildroot Cream-Oil is purr-fect!

Eight teams have filed entries in the loop. In the first division are Phi Zeta I, Newman Club, Buzz Kids, and Philos. In the second division are Phi Zeta II, Wildcats, Nats, Fraternity Brothers and Pi Kappa.

Phi Zeta vs. Philo

The schedule for next Monday calls for Phi Zeta I to play Philo and Newman Club will battle the Buzz Kids. Tuesday Wildcats and Nats will tangle on one diamond while Phi Zeta II and Fraternity Brothers are playing on the other.

Wednesday Phi Zeta I plays the Newman Club and the Buzz Kids battle the Philos. Final Final games for the week will bring Fraternity Brothers against Pi Kappa and Phi Zeta II against the Nats.

Third Week Schedule

Monday, May 2, Phi Zeta I will play the Buzz Kids and the Philos take on the Newman Club. The next day Phi Zeta II battles the Wildcats and the Nats and Pi Kappas are also scheduled to play.

Phi Zeta I and Philos and Newman Club against the Buzz Kids are the encounters scheduled for Wednesday, May 4. Thursday will have the Nats and the Fraternity Brothers battling on one diamond while Pi Kappa and Wildcats will be playing on the other field.

Van Winkle Writes About Track, Net Conditions Here

To The Sports Editor:

I think it is a popular belief of the citizens of Evansville that Evansville College is a growing concern. It is also generally conceived that a college receives recognition for having a well rounded program of sports as well as studies. The efficiency of both programs depends greatly on what the athlete or student himself puts into it, and also on the facilities.

For every subject offered here at Evansville, we have teachers, books and classrooms; the rest depends on the student. For football, basketball and baseball, the money sports of Evansville College, we have good coaches and pretty fair facilities.

At this point, students, Evansville's well-rounded athletic program comes to a screeching halt.

Although Evansville has a capable cinder coach, horses have been known to break legs on smoother tracks than the college has to offer its potential track team. As for tennis, how low can you go? We have one readied tennis court, two masses of torn rope that are called nets, one warped board to suffice for the broken fin on the net regulator, no tennis coach and three girls gym classes that must use the court along with the unpotential tennis team.

Then you hear the comment, "Evansville College certainly has a lousy track and tennis team."

Charles Van Winkle

Howard and Galey Again Helping Cinder Squad

Don Galey and Angelo Howard

Track squads have distance runners, dashmen, and relay teams, but an integral part of any team is the high-jumper, broad-jumper, and discus thrower. Two mainstays of Evansville's cinder squad, Don Galey and Angelo Howard, belong to this group, the field participants.

Don Caley, who shines on the football field, specializes in the discus and also competes in the shot-put. In the Aces' first meet against Indiana State, Caley pulled down first place in the discus, with a heave of 120 feet two inches. He also placed in the shot-put.

Placed Fourth

Last year, Galey placed fourth in the Little State Meet.

Not a yearling in this track business, Caley earned three letters in high school at Casey, Illinois, and placed fifth in the discus at the state meet.

Slowed By Injury

Angelo Howard sparks the Aces in the high-jump and the broad-jump. Although hampered by an injured ankle so far this season, he placed third in the high-jump in the Indiana State meet with a 5 foot eight inch leap, considerably below par for him.

Taking a look at last year's showing, Howard could give the Aces a boost if, and when, his ankle injury vanishes. His '47 accomplishments include a tie for first in the Big State Meet with a jump of five feet 10 inches and a tie for second in the Little State Meet in which he cleared the bar at six feet even.

Howard, a junior, is a two-year letterman in track.

College Trackmen Attempt Comeback In Southern Illinois Meet Tomorrow

The Evansville College track squad will try for its first victory of the season tomorrow afternoon in a meet against Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The tennis team, which failed to win a match last year and lost its first encounter this season, goes back into action May 2.

The cinder Aces were swamped 101½ to 29½ in a meet with Indiana State at Terre Haute, April 12. The Aces took only four first places in the 15 event affair.

Barnett Wins

Bob Barnett, competing in the two-mile run for the first time, won the event, 11:19.5. Other Aces who grabbed first places were Frank Lutz in the shot put with a mark of 42 feet, 8½ inches; Morris Riley, who broad jumped 20 feet, 10½ inches; and Don Galey, who won the discus toss with a 120 foot, 2 inch throw.

Other Aces who scored points were Charles Lindauer, Jay Humphrey, Angelo Howard, and Bob Southwood.

The Aces were scheduled for a meet against Hanover College there last Saturday but it was cancelled because of cold weather.

Four track meets remain on the Aces schedule after tomorrow. May 4 they travel to Bowling Green, Ky., to take on Western Kentucky, and they are scheduled for a meet against Eastern Illinois State at Charleston, May 10. The first home showing will be May 21 at Enlow Field in a triangular meet with Western Kentucky and the University of Louisville. The season closes May 28 with the Ohio Valley Conference meet at Enlow Field.

The tennis squad goes to Carbondale May 4 for a return engagement with the Southern Illinois Maroons. Southern took the first match 4 to 2.

Face Western, Cards; Beat Eastern Monday

By JEFF HAYS

Evansville's Purple Aces won their fourth game of the year Monday as they defeated Eastern Illinois 7-5 at Bosse Field. The Aces play two Ohio Valley Conference foes next week, journeying to Bowling Green for a game with Western Kentucky Tuesday and to Louisville for a game with the Cardinals Wednesday.

In the first encounter with a big nine school in recent years, Evansville met disaster with Indiana's baseballers 11-0 Friday. Don Ping's crew, however, did some fastballing of its own against Wheaton College as they crushed the visiting Illinois team, 13-4.

Eastern Nipped

In the game with Eastern the Aces were onthit 11-8. Evansville made its hits count, however, as four of those eight safeties were for extra bases. Marvin Stoft, the big first baseman, clubbed a three bagger in the second inning, driving in the Aces first run. Joe Unfried the centerfielder, tagged one for three bases in the fifth and forced across another Ace marker. Bob Kohlmeyer and Paul Schmidt got the other extra base blows for the Evansville team.

Big Andy Collins, went all the way for the Aces getting in trouble only in the fourth inning when Eastern pushed across three runs. Bill Crum, Eastern's shortstop, was the big thorn in Andy's side as he punched out three hits in four times to bat.

Indiana Is Rough

It was all Indiana, however, when Ping's crew met the powerful Big Nine team, and came out on the goose egg end of an 11-0 game. Marvin Stoft started his first game for Evansville, and was shelled from the mound in the second frame after walking four straight batters. Joe Hafele relieved Marvin on the hill, but could do little better in trying to stop the booming Indiana bats.

Three Indiana pitchers, Colnitus, Smith, and Lewecky set the Aces down with three hits two of them on the scratch variety. The game was played in threatening forty degree weather, and the Aces never quite got warmed up.

Richie Baur, Roger Shanner, and Pitcher Joe Hafele led the Aces over Wheaton College last week as the Evansville team had little trouble in pounding out a 13-4 victory over the visitors. Don Ping used eighteen players as the Aces scored in every inning except the first and the fourth.

Team To Enter State Archery Tournament

Evansville College will enter a team of four women in the Indiana State Intercollegiate Archery Telegraphic Tourney sometime in May, announced Ida Steiler, Women's Athletic Association sponsor. Any woman, regardless of whether she is a member of WAA, is invited to try out for the team.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning volleyball, basketball, and bowling team for this year at the WAA banquet, tentatively set for May 11, according to Joanne Englebert, president. Officers for the coming year, which will be elected May 9, will be installed at that time.

The WAA still leads the Women's Bowling League with a record of 9 wins and three losses, going into the last round of play. This round, which will be finished during the next three weeks, will complete women's bowling for this year.

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

A letter that was received this week concerning spring sports at Evansville College appears elsewhere on this page. This letter also brought to mind the problem of intramural sports here on the campus. Touch football, basketball, and softball are the three sports that are offered here in the intramural bracket.

Until this school year, when Jim Barnett took over as SCA president, the intramural program has been handled in a rather haphazard manner. However, it must be said for Barnett that he has done quite a bit to bring the program out of its slump. The main limitation on the set-up now is the lack of facilities.

Dr. Franklin MacKnight, head of the Geology department, is interested in forming a fencing team here at Evansville and wants all interested persons to contact him. Dr. MacKnight said that he would like to contact all those who know anything about fencing and also those who are interested in learning to fence.

Many schools over the country offer fencing as part of the intramural program and some eastern schools have an Intercollegiate Fencing Association. If enough persons are interested to make it worthwhile for Dr. MacKnight to handle the program, it would be a definite step forward in the college's athletic program.

Eight games have been carded for next fall's football schedule. They are, Morehead, Butler, Western Kentucky, Missouri Valley, Murray, Chattanooga, Eastern Kentucky and the University of Louisville. Two more games are being negotiated and the athletic department hopes to have five home games and five away.

Students Serve in Libraries; Have Definite Assignments

Many people do not realize how the libraries on the campus are prepared for the student's use. Also, not many students notice any other faces than those of the head librarian and assistant librarians. However, there are student assistants working constantly between classes in both libraries.

There are four students working as library assistants. Each assistant has definite assigned duties for which he or she is resposible. Sam McKean, junior, works at the loan desk in the main library. Norbert Woolley, junior, shares work with Mr. McKean at the loan desk, and also does a considerable amount of work in shifting books in the stacks.

Additional Duties

Dorothy Erk, sophomore, works at the loan desk during the day and also one night a week. Some of Miss Erk's additional duties are pasting, labeling and embossographing. Dorothy Meyer, freshman, works at the loan desk in the reserve library. She is the only reserve library assistant, and is responsible for charging and discharging books.

The present arrangement concerning library work in the college is mutually advantageous. From the librarian's point of view, the student assistant does essential work and saves the time of the professional librarian. From the student's point of view, he not only earns money to help pay the cost of his education, but he also learns functions of the library and how to use libraries successfully, information which will be essential to him the rest of his life.

Become Professional

The students receive no college credit for work in the libraries, but are paid by the college for their services. Much valuable experience is gained by these students. Some of the main objectives in library work are to encourage students to acquire a foundation for knowledge in uses of the library and to help train students for the library profession. Student assistants often become recruits for professional library work.

These student assistants are now working under the supervision of Thomas Harding, librarian; Virginia Haynes and Katherine Long, assistant librarians; and Mrs. Charles Ballard and Mrs. Don Miller, members of the college staff.

Professor Sears Speaks to Radio Club Wednesday

James F. Sears, professor of physics, will speak to the local Amateur Radio Society, Wednesday at7:30 p.m. in E 233. This is an organization which bands together those who are interested in radio as a hobby.

His topic will be "Cosmic Radiation." Cosmic rays, first detected in 1911, are probably protons or other atomic nuclei parts which enter the earth's atmosphere from some, as yet unknown, location in space. Mr. Sears will discuss these, and other data concerning cosmic rays.

Students of the college are welcome to attend this meeting. Mr. Sears will speak on this same subject during the student assemblies May 3-4.

Ministerial Group Names Speakers

The speakers for the meetings of Kappa Chi ministerial fraternity for the remainder of the spring quarter have been announced by John Schofield, program chairman.

Dr. James Morlock, dean of men, will be today's speaker. His topic will be "The Layman and His Minister."

The complete program for the quarter follows:

April 29—Dr. Horace A. Sprague, pastor of Central Methodist Church.

May 6—Dr. Matthew C. Cavell, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

May 13—Election of officers.

May 20—Dr. Armin Haeussler pastor of St. Lucas Evangelical and Reformed Church.

May 27—Installation of officers.

Peacock, Potter Announce Plans Of Resignation

Two members of the college faculty have given notice of their resignation. They are Milton Peacock, assistant professor of mathematics and physics and Edward E. Potter, associate professor of English.

Prof. Peacock's resignation will be effective as of August 31. He plans to transfer to one of three different colleges to teach, but as yet he is not decided which school it will be. Prof. Peacock has taught mathematics, physics, and engineering here for two years. At present he is conducting research work on a Galvanotropism project.

Prof. Potter's resignation will also be effective August 31, this year. He will transfer to the University to teach English.

He came to the college in September last year, and has been teaching courses in literature.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting

Four faculty members attended the American College Personnel conference at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago, Ill., April 18-21.

Dr. F. P. Buller, director of testing and counseling; Everette Walker, director of student personnel services; Harold W. See, director of the Evening College; and Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, met with representatives from various colleges throughout the United States to exchange ideas on how to organize and promote student personnel service. Student counseling, vocational guidance, and the relation of college to student personnel service were discussed.

Placement Bureau Helped By Indiana State Office

The Placement Bureau is now working with the Indiana State Employment Association which has national contacts, Harold W. See, director of the placement bureau, has announced.

A special program is provided for teacher placements and a general program for other placements.

Locates Jobs

Through the efforts of the Indiana State Employment Service last year, more than 9000 Hoosiers were directed to jobs in other parts of the state when no work could be found for them locally.

"This facet of our job finding program is called "clearance," said Everett L. Gardner, director of the Indiana Employment Security Division. "Through this means we locate suitable job openings outside the home areas for applicants who cannot be placed locally but who will move elsewhere. We are able to serve Indiana employers by recruiting their employees from all over the state and nation, if a sufficient supply is not available locally."

Analyze Trends

Out-of-state employers hired 2187 workers referred to them by the Indiana State Employment Service, Mr. Gardner said.

Analysis of the February trends in twenty groups of Indiana manufacturing industries, showed four employment increases and 16 decreases. Only nine reflected a loss of more than one per cent; only one dropped more than five per cent.

VA Releases Summer School Requirements

Veterans planning to go to summer school under the G.I. Bill should begin now to make the necessary arrangements for certificates of eligibility, the veterans administration has announced.

To qualify for schooling the veteran must take nine hours. If he intends to remain in the same institution in which he is now enrolled, he does not need a supplementary certificate, but to enroll in a different school a supplementary certificate of eligibility is necessary.

All veterans under the G.I. Bill will receive a 15 day automatic leave at the end of this school year, June 4. If the veteran does not want the leave he must cancel it before April 29 in 0149, or the automatic leave will be taken from the elgibility time.

Civil Service Field Has Job Openings Available

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has jobs available in the fields of cartography and engineering. Experience in these lines is desired but technical study would be a satisfactory substitute, it was stated. Most of the jobs are to be filled in Washington, D.C. and vincinity.

Entering salaries in the engineering field range from $2974 to $5905 a year. Salaries for cartographers range from $4000 to $7000.

Further information and applications may be obtained from the local post office.

Veteran's Housing Project for Sale

Eight of the nine buildings known as Parkside Hall, used recently to house student veterans, will be sold, Ralph Olmsted, business manager, has announced.

Receive Title

The frame buildings are located near the intersection of St. Joseph Avenue and Buchanan Road, across from Mesker Park and were operated by the college under Federal Projects Housing Administration supervision, until they received the title to the buildings on Jan. 1.

At present only six married couples live at Parkside. At one time 70 single veterans and 10 married couples were housed there.

Used As Dormitories

Of the eight buildings being advertised for sale, four were used as dormitories, one as a recreation hall, one as an administration building, one as an apartment building, and one as a warehouse.

Bids will be accepted by the Business Office until noon on Saturday, April 30, Mr. Olmsted said.

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By NORMAN KNIESE

I'm concerned about the music situation at E.C.!! — very concerned in fact.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not concerned about how it has reached its present stage but rather where it is going. It all boils down to the fact that Evansville College and its students are plenty "hep" about good music and the going on in the field of music. I'm basing my opinion on cold hard facts which are broken down into four points:

(A) Evansville College musically speaking, has by far the best concert band in this part of the country.
(B) The Music Department as a whole is on par, or better than college five to ten times larger.
(C) From an observation of students at Evansville College, they know and like good music.
(D) As a yardstick of the students tastes, the "juke box" in the TUB is crammed with excellent jazz recordings.

This means to me at least, that we have a progressive student body, along with an excelcent teaching staff. But why no emphasis or encouragement at least, on a student dance band? — an organization that is as common-place on other campuses as the fraternity paddle, or school nickname. Why then at EC must we contend with make-shift facilities to encourage the music talent in the dance band field?

In writing this article, I am pressing the opinion and hopes of over 20 musicians on the campus. There is a need for such an organization to be formed to help boost the assembly programs, tea dances, proms, and other social functions.

I'm quite positive that any or all of the Evansville bandleaders would be only too glad to lend a helping hand. We have the musicians, and they in turn, have the spirit and know-how.

I would like to cite for example the organizations that are now functioning on the campuses of the University of Georgia, Northwestern, North Texas State, Indiana and Purdue, to mention only a few. At the University of Oklahoma, jazz concerts are presented several times a year. The response, both in turn out and the financial end has been excellent.

Thus I am asking you, the student body, to help put this project across by your support of any action in this direction.

We have been disappointed too many times on the failure of our social functions, because of the lack of availability of a good student band to perform at these functions.

Brainteaser No. 15: Goethe plus Brahms plus Marian Anderson equals what?

Everett Sketo, freshman, answered last week's brainteaser with the statement that Richard the Lion Hearted (Coeur de Lion) was discovered in a dungeon by means of a song.

'Peg o' My Heart' Production To Show Thursday and Friday

Jerri Steinmetz and Robert Hevron, who have the leads in the Thespian play, "Peg O' My Heart," are running through one of their scenes during a dress rehearsal.

"Peg o' My Heart" will be presented by the Thespians next Thursday and Friday in the auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The play, written by J. Hartley Manners, is a three act comedy, and is composed of three scenes. The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of Regal Villa, Mrs. Chichester's home in England, in the early summer of 1912.

Steinmetz Has Lead

Jerrie Steinmetz, sophomore, will play the role of "Peg," and Robert Hevron, junior, will play the male lead opposite Miss Steinmetz. He will play the part of Jerry.

It is the story of the adventures of Peg O'Connell, a charming American-Irish poor girl, on her first meeting with her high born English relatives. She has come to England at the request of a wealthy bachelor uncle who dies while she is on the high seas. Her adventures start when she is met by an executor of her uncle's will.

Portrays Irish Wit

"Peg's" American ingenuity, independence, and her Irish wit keep every minute alive for her, and the household of her conventional English relatives.

All tickets for the production are reserved. General admission tickets are 72 cents, tax included. An activity ticket, plus 12 cents will also purchase a ticket at the bookstore. Tickets will also be sold downtown at Harding and Miller's.

Doors will be closed at 8:15 p.m., and late-comers will be seated after the first act.

Scholarship Award Eligibles Selected By Committee

Eligibles for the regular academic scholarships awarded annually to high school students in the tri-state have been announced by G. R. McCoy, registrar and director of admissions. These students were accepted on the merits of their class standing and recommendation by their high school principal. They were then decided on by the scholarship committee.

The eligibles are: Fannie June Ashby, Folsomville; Paul William Baer, Dubois; Mina Lee Brack, Newburgh; Ida Ellen Connor, Spurgeon; Jack Leon Duncan, Central; Clara Bell Garris, Albion, Ill.; Marilyn Marie Harper, Central; James Otto Hormuth, Memorial.

Bonnie Kash, Bosse; Barbara Krietemeyer, Reitz; Glenn Byrl LeMasters, Griffin; Ruby Schnelle, Cynthiana; Donald Ray Silke, Elberfeld; Zoetta Williams, Lincoln; Helen Gertrude Wills, Freelandsville; Robert Paul Wooley, Reitz.

Stittler Featured In Vesper Service

The Rev. Joseph Stittler will speak at a Vesper survice in the college auditorium Sunday, May 1, at 4 p.m. His topic will be based on the passage from Romans: VII, titled "No Place To Hide."

Dr. Stittler studied at Whittenberg College, Hamma Divinity School, Wganer College, and has taken his graduate study in theology at the University of Chicago, Oberlin, and Heidelberg in Germany. Since 1943 he has been professor of Systematic Theology at Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, and has been chapel speaker at Grinnell, Northwestern, Universities of Chicago, Iowa, and Oklahoma.

After the service there will be a tea in the Tea Hut followed by a buffet supper by Rev. Elton T. Barnam, director of religious life, for the speaker and 15 to 20 students who desire further discussion.

Annual Choir Concert Is Scheduled May 9

The Evansville College choir will present its annual Spring Concert in the college auditorium Monday, May 9, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Tickets are being sold by choir members and may be picked up at the Music building. Tickets are 60 and 25 cents, but students will be admitted on presentation of their activity tickets.

Freshmen To Have 'Big' Name Band for Party

Highlights of the all-freshman party at Mesker Park next Wednesday, May 4, at 6 p.m. will be a concert by a "big" name band.

This musical group is known as the Unterderlinden Schwchemnhauffenn Municipal Band. Patrick D. O'Flaherty is the conductor. The band will play a varied 20-minute program of German dance tunes. This was the "biggest" name the committee could find.

The committee responsible for the securing of the band includes: Allen Barthlow, Louis White, Paul Welborn, Frank Witherspoon, Willie Sakel, Jim Conway, and Dorothy McNeely.

The concert will follow a picnic lunch to be served at 6:30 p.m. in Old Heidelberg shelter house.

A variety show is also planned for entertainment. Salli Henn will do a vocal number. Miss Mary Gertrude Wolfe and John A. Boyd, freshman class sponsors, will give a musical act, and Fleta Benedict and Barbara Vaughn will sing a duet. These three numbers are to be accompanied by Wayne Alley on the accordian.

Following the variety program there will be group singing and dancing.

Crescent Receives Superior Rating

THE CRESCENT has been rated one of the best college weekly newspapers in the country by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The "All-American" award, the highest granted, was given to THE CRESCENT for the papers printed during the first half of this school year. The papers were judged for their effectiveness of coverage, treatment, writing, editing, and makeup. Professors of journalism at the University of Minnesota acted as judges.

This is the third time the paper has received an "All-American" rating.

Arlene Starry was the editor. Jo Ann James was News Editor and Sue Dannettell was Editorial Page editor. Bill Woods was Sports Editor and Bill Cobb was Feature Editor. Bob Young was the business manager and Professor John A. Boyd the faculty adviser.

Toole Chosen President Of Electronics Club

Earl Toole was recently elected president of the Electronics Club. Bill Bahr was elected vice president and Bill Bales, secretary-treasurer.

Club meetings are held every Thursday at 11 p.m. Upon request members recieve assistance in work projects and instruction in code, radio theory, or any other phase of radio work related to securing an amateur license.

Anyone desiring membership in the club should contact an active member, Mr. Toole said.

Proficiency Examinotion Scheduled for Moy 6

The English Proficiency examination will be given May 6, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar.

The examination is required for graduation, and this will be the last opportunity for seniors who expect to graduate in June or August to take it.

For further information students should contact Dr. Martin S. Schockley, head of the department of English.

Home Economics Students Attend Cincinnati Clinic

Geno Burns and Donna Cyrier, members of the Home Economics club, are attending a home economics workshop at the University of Cincinnati today and tomorrow.

The students are being accompanied by Miss Agnes Bahlert, head of the department of Home Economics.

Barnett Announces SGA Candidates

Russler, Rideout, Sakel Head Slates; To Speak in Assemblies Next Week

Candidates for the Student Government Association election have been announced by Jim Barnett, SCA president. Voting will take place in the Women's Lounge, May 13.

Those nominated for president are Bill Russler, junior, Bob Sakel, junior, and Bob Rideout, sophomore.

Philos Pick Russler

Mr. Russler heads the ticket backed by the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity, the Theta Sigma and Castalian sororities. He has played the position of tackle on the football team the past two years and was captain of the team two seasons ago. Others that will be on the slate with Mr. Russler are Miss Englebert, Miss Plane, and Mr. Hays.

Mr. Sakel, is the candidate of the Phi Zeta fraternity, and the Gamma Epsilon Sigma sorority. He is member of the Fraternity Brothers organization, and has been active in basketball and tennis. Others on this slate with Mr. Sakel are Miss Schmitt, Miss Nendel, and Mr. Singleton.

Pi Kappa-ISA Slate

Mr. Rideout will be backed by the Pi Kappa fraternity, and the Independent Student Association. He is a member of the Pi Kappa fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, Methodist Student Movement, and the Veteran's Political Association. Others on the slate with Mr. Rideout are Mr. Fowler, Miss McCaffrey, and Mr. Kopycki.

Presidential candidates will present their platforms when they appear in person at the student government assembly Tuesday and Wednesday at 11 p.m.

The polls will be open from 9 a.m to 4 p.m. Four poll workers will he furnished by each candidate for president. These workers will be on duty each hour the polls are open.

Rules Set For Posters

In compliance with the rules set by the campus committee, signs, banners, or posters in the Administration Building are to be hung only on wires placed in the hall for that purpose.

Location of outside displays must be approved by Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities, and must be removed after the election.

Project on Display Shows Floor Plan Of New Union

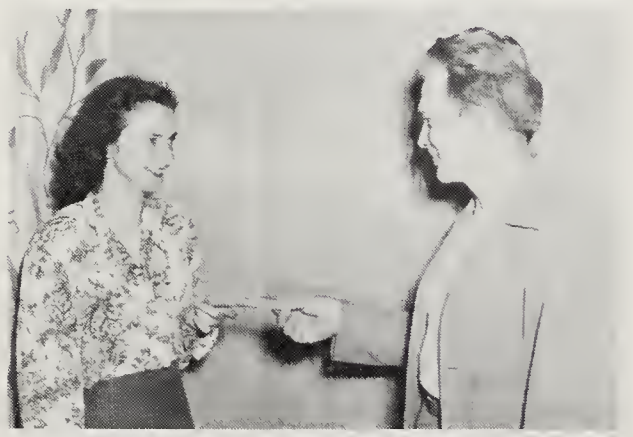
The members of the Student Government Association, feeling that the proposed Union Building will be inadequate (see Letter to the Editor, page 2), have set up a project on the campus to show the students how much floor space the new building will have.

Jim Barnett, S.G.A. president, announced that the lay-out will be on the lawn in front of the Administration building today. Based on work done by surveying classes, it will consist of staked off areas representing the wooden floor of the Armory, the combined ping pong room and lounge in the Temporary Union Building, and the area of the Great Hall in the proposed new building.

Mr. Barnett said these areas will be the actual size of the floor space they represent. Signs will be placed on each of the three areas to show the students what they represent.

The Student Government Association believes that the Great Hall in the new Union Building, to be used for dances and similar occasions, will be smaller than the Armory floor and only slightly larger than the combined ping pong room and lounge in the TUB stated Mr. Barnett.

Drive To Raise Money for Memorial Scholarship Fund To Begin Monday



Sarah Kessler, a member of the Veterans Scholarship Committee, is accepting a donation from Dale Work, an officer in the Veterans Council of Vanderburgh County.

The drive for the War Memorial Fund will open Monday with an assembly in the auditorium, Jim Barnett, publicity chairman for the committee, has announced. The assembly, sponsored by all student organizations on campus, will feature a composite dance band and talent from these various organizations.

This fund is being set up for the children of veterans killed in action in World War II, and will provide a complete scholarship to Evansville College for the one who can qualify. The goal has been set at $5000, with a request that each student donate three dollars.

First Attempt

This drive, according to Mr. Barnett, is entirely a student undertaking, from organization to donation, and is the first of its kind in the mid-west.

Members of the committee which is handling the campaign are the seven presidents of the organizations participating: Bob Rideout, Pi Kappa, Bob Hevron, Pi Epsilon Phi, Gil Korb, Phi Zeta, Harriet Buthod, Castalians, Sarah Kessler, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, Fred Shatara, Independents, and Martha Wessner, Theta Sigma. Gene Cehula is chairman.

Booths To Be Set Up

Solicitation booths will be set up on campus Monday, with one each in the TUB, Administration Building, and the Engineering Building. Mr. Barnett said that outside held will be solicitated to reach the necessary quota.

In an open letter to the students, the publicity committee explained, "We know this has the old familiar tear-jerking ring, but we believe that a living war memorial of this type is justified in all respects, and we don't believe that the students of Evansville College will fail in this undertaking."

Evelyne Ayers Succeeds Emily Combs As President Of Women's Council

Evelyne Ayers, junior, has been elected president of the Women's Council in the election held Monday, according to Miss Esther Brown, dean of women. Miss Ayers replaces Emily Combs, the retiring council president.

Other officers elected are Marylu Plane, sophomore, as the secretary, and Jerri Steinmetz, sophomore, as treasurer. Every woman carrying at least 13 hours was eligible to vote.

Miss Ayers, a member of the Theta Sigma sorority, is majoring in secretarial science with Spanish as her minor. She is also secretary of the Alpha Phi Delta, girl scout sorority, and was a member of the Young Women's Christian Association last year.

Is Secretary of A. C. E.

Miss Plane is a member of the Castalian sorority, and of the Inter-society Council. She is also secretary of the Association of Childhood Education. Miss Plane is majoring in elementary education.

Miss Steinmetz, also a Castalian, is majoring in secondary education with English as her comprehensive area. She is vice president of the Thespians, and has one of the leading roles in their current production, "Peg O' My Heart." Miss Steinmetz is also co-author of a weekly column in THE CRESCENT.

A first and second vice president will be chosen by these three elected officers, Miss Brown added.

Directs May Day

The women's council has complete charge of May Day activities. It supervises the election of the queen, makes the arrangements for her coronation, and underwrites all the expenses.

The council is also responsible for the upkeep of the Women's Lounge. The lounge was recently painted and some of the furniture was recovered.

Federal Aid to Schools Desired

One of the many debatable bills before Congress today is, "Federal Aid to Education," which is scheduled to be brought before the Senate floor this month.

Federal aid to education is an immediate need of states now unable to finance a minimum standard of education for their children and the long-term need of those states able to meet their obligation at the present.

Poor states which are trying to raise the educational level of their people are falling short of the goal and further burdening the states and their people, to the detriment of other state obligations. Unfortunately, wealthier states are inheriting the migrating masses from the poorer states. These migrants, at best, lower the living standards of the wealthier states. At their worst, they cost the states money for relief, crime preventions, and penal systems, which amounts to more than the cost of better educational systems.

Recognizing that the wealth, health, and security of the nation under a democratic form of government necessitates a well-educated and informed public, statesmen, differentiated from politicians, have advocated that the federal government assist in raising the general level of education.

Many people feel that the federal government should have no part in education. However, today the federal government acts as distributor of federal funds to state government for social security highways, land grant colleges, for services, and other purposes. In addition, the states subsidize county educational systems and counties subsidize city systems. The principle would seem to be accepted and applied, that support from outside sources is the only solution to local, county, and state financial problems.

Opposition to further federal aid in local financing would seem to be a case of lack of foresight as well as hindsight. The problem of educational needs is one which everyone deplores; but no one has offered a possible solution, other than federal aid. Meanwhile, teachers leave the field, others fail to enter it, and the demand for both facilities and teachers grows with our greatly increased birth rate.

With federal aid being expended for numerous purposes, what cause could merit financial support for our national government more than funds designated to further the educational systems in the states.

Of course there will be federal control of any funds allotted to the states. No person, business, or government allots money for a specific purpose and then fails to insist that the money be spent for that purpose. But as a partner with the states in the national problem of raising the educational level, the federal government is much more capable of directing and financing the needs of the whole nation than are 48 separate bodies.

This is one of several editorials concerning controversial subjects which will be published in THE CRESCENT. Next week the negative side to the above subject will be presented.

Pic of the Week

In continuation of THE CRESCENT'S series of articles on an outstanding senior, this week's Pic of the Week selection is Gervase "Hap" Hollander.

Hap, as he is called by his friends, is majoring in elementary education, and in connection with this he belongs to the "Association of Childhood Education" organization, ACE.

Hap is married and lives with his wife and two children, Sharron, age 2½ and Shelia, age 4½, in the housing center on the west side of the campus.

Besides his regular school curriculum, Hap works during the week as a maintenance man, taking care of the housing area where he lives. On week-ends, he is employed in the TUB, taking care of week-end parties, teas, etc.

Hap spent five years in the Army Air Force and received an honorable discharge with a rank of staff sargeant.

Publication Group Responsible For Campus Paper, Annual

By JO ANN JAMES

The committee of the Student Faculty Federation known as the Publications Committee, has jurisdiction over all college publications, the campus weekly (THE CRESCENT), the school annual (The LinC), and any other printed matter except that ordered by the president of the college in connection with the administrative program and promotion.

Members of this committee, as members of the other nine Faculty Federation committees, are appointed, for a term of one year, by the Student Government Association president. Chairman of the group is John Schofield, junior, who was appointed to replace Mike Parkinson, a March graduate. Harold Buck, junior, was elected by members as secretary, and John Heldt, senior, George Campbell, senior, Norman Kniese, senior, and James Kennedy, junior, are other student members of the committee. Ralph Olmsted, business manager and treasurer of the college, John A. Boyd, assistant professor of journalism, and Dr. W. D. David, head of the department of history, are faculty members of the committee.

Supervises Policies

Duties of the group include the formulation and recommendation of procedures in the organization and conduct of college publications. It studies the operation of plans of the publication in order to recommend any changes in procedure which it sees fit.

The policies to be followed by those in immediate charge of the publications are also set up by this committee.

Provision for periodical reports from those responsible for financial and editorial management are required by this committee of the two main periodicals, THE CRESCENT and The LinC. All contracts and expenditures of these publications must also have the approval of the business manager of the college.

Select Editors

The Publications Committee, among other duties, sets up procedure for election of editors and business managers of both THE CRESCENT and The LinC.

Other positions, as news editor of THE CRESCENT or art editor of The LinC, are not elective offices, and, hence, come under jurisdiction of the Publications Committee only in so far as journalistic policies which they employ are concerned.

Letter to the Editor

I came to Evansville College in '46. At that time I heard, and observed that the college was rapidly growing and expanding. And I signed a petition to donate $8 a semester to build a Student Union Building. As for up to date facts, the college is still expanding, and I am still donating $16 a year for the establishment of a Union Building.

I do not criticize the building of such an edifice. I realize that there are eating problems, social problems, etc., which a union building can cope with and remedy. But I question the spending of $600,000 to build two eating places in the Union Building, one a snack bar, the other a cafeteria on two different floors. Two separate kitchens cost money, why not have them connected? But that's the plan for the Union Building. I question the spending of $600,000 to build committee rooms. Has any group willing to meet found inadequate facilities in our buildings now? But that's the plan for the union building . . . 10 committee rooms. I question the spending of $600,000 for game rooms.

I realize the need for recreation but can ping pong and billiards be worth the price? I recognize the undesirability of going to the Armory for dances or renting downtown hotel rooms for such social affairs. But I sincerely question the spending of $600,000 for the building of a Great Hall which is less than one-half the area of the basketball floor at the Armory or about the size of the Gold Room at the McCurdy.

The great hall would accommodate 180 couples without tables or chairs for a student body of 1350. The problems are still there, but is the Union Building solving them?

We are cognizant of the needs of the college but are we to spend $600,000 to eat in two cafeterias, to meet in committee rooms, and still continue giving our dances in outside places.

A Little Bit o' Anything

The down-beaters of the TUB are again stamping. This time it's "Hold Me" by Eddie Miller that's making the juke box ring. The fast climbing tune makes one wonder where the beer is.

On the other hand Billy Eckstine's "Everything I Have Is Yours" plays on the tongue like strawberry jam due to the smooth style of Eckstine.

Seems as though Sarah Vaughn needs a hypo. The musicraft disker keeps wandering up and down the scales so off-key that it makes one wonder what good ballad-singing sounds like.

Future-wise musically, it's Kay Starr's "How It Lies, How It Lies, How It Lies." This inimitable thrush is nothing less than great on this fast-coming rhythm record. Also, Crosby's "Riders In the Sky."

I read where the famed bop heaven, "Royal Roost," in Noo Yawk is giving this rhythm the hoot. It won't be long now . . .

The lack of dormitories plus high room rents around the campus and food costs has turned many single out-of-towners apartment wise. It's a real saving and much fun.

Johnny Long opens soon at Houston's new sleek "Shamrock Hotel" for a four week engagement. The guy's sure O.K., and going places.

The baseball season is clicking its way into the third week. Your columnist leaps into listing. It's Cleveland again with the Yanks, Athletics and Boston providing the opposition. The White Sox will again hold the American League up! Nationally it can't be anyone but Brooklyn or the Braves with the Phillies and Pittsburg up there. The Cards will go nowhere. The Reds and the Cubs can fight it out for the cellar if anyone wants to watch. What's the matter Chicago? Again . . . ?

The marriage relation course taught evenings by Dr. Morlock is really picking up interest among "studes." Hopes are high for more and smaller classes next fall.

It's funny about television. A station locallly would be a real pleasure besides creating many jobs. The eastern seaboard tie-up with the mid-west throws top talent to the eyes. Who says television is only sport conscious! Locally many jobs, both on the technical side and for some of the fine talent around these parts would spring up. Some of these guys and gals who can really act should go places . . .

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

STEP RIGHT UP!

The "Biggest Show on Earth" invaded the halls of old EC last Friday in the form of Bob Hevron locked in the phone booth in the Ad Building while Norman Kniese and Corky Long stood by selling tickets for the exhibition.

Our "Suffocating Sam" had to shut the door for privacy in his phone conversation, and a freak snap locked the door. Passersby thought Bob's yelling and pounding on the door was a joke and by the time someone (Emily Combs) took him seriously and called the janitor to rescue him, the victim was quite exhausted.

Making his grand exit from the place of captivity, in his most dramatic voice he exclaimed, "I have been in this school since 1944 and never have I been locked up." "Most embarassing."

Dance With A Dolly!

The highlight and the climax to most fraternity-sorority activities for the year comes with their annual spring formal dinner dances, beginning with the Phi Zeta and Pi Kappa blowouts tomorrow night. For weeks the gals have been haunting the fashion shops, searching for materials, and pumping the old sewing machine in order to have a knock-out dream dress for their gala affairs. On the other side of the picture the fellows are pressing wrinkles out of dinner clothes and most important of all they are saving extra green backs for the price of admission. Have fun kiddies ! ! !

Pingmen Battle Indiana State Today

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

After watching the opening game in the Three I League last Sunday this column will come up with the only prediction that we are going to make this spring. That is, that Bob Coleman and his Evansville Braves are a fine ball club, and should win the pennant in the league by a good margin.

The Braves looked very promising last Sunday in the win over the Waterloo Whitehawks, committing only one error. This was very good, especially, as it was the first game of the season.

Civic backing for any team's success is one of the essentials, not only in the field of amateur athletics, but professional as well. If the baseball fans of Evansville turn out as well for the rest of the Braves' home games as they did for the opener, they can be assured that they have done their part, no matter where the team finishes on September 5.

Jeff Hays, assistant sports editor, had charge of this issue of the page as the writer was out of town. Jeff is a sophomore, member of Pi Epsilon Phi, and a journalism major. He has been a member of the football team for two years.

Jeff is a 1947 graduate of Memorial high school, and played football, basketball, and baseball while he was there.

It would be a good idea for all the football fans on campus to make a note of Saturday, September 24 on the calendar. Hold that date open, and watch for further announcements on this page.

If current plans go according to schedule there will be a "good thing" offered to the fans on that date.

Vets Retain Lead In Bowling Loop; Grimm Rolls 191

The Vets keg team kept their lead in the Evansville College Bowling League last week but the rest of the first division underwent a complete revision in standings.

Faculty Business Administration, the team that had been holding the fourth place slot, took a turn for the worse and skidded down to a tie for ninth place as a result of the last two weeks games. Pi Kappa I moved up to a tie for fourth place in the 10 team loop.

Orville Grimm, who rolls for Pi Kappa I, tossed the high individual game of the last session, hitting the pins for 191. Ramsey Bristow's series total of 533 was also high for the day, Bristow rolls for the Vets.

The Vets also produced the high team total for the afternoon. Their high single was a 698 and they posted a series total of 2007.

A party is planned after the regular season is completed. There are four weeks of bowling remaining on the schedule according to Jack Huber, co-secretary of the league.

Golf and Track Squads To Battle Strong Rivals

Evansville's cinder and links squads will return to action next week, meeting two strong opponents. The golf match will be a non-conference affair with the trackmen engaging in their first conference meet of the year.

The golf team, previous victors over Southern Illinois here April 4 by a score of 5-3, will attempt to outplay them again May 2 at Southern Illinois. The group, composed of Dick Conterman, Don Howard, Paul Irey, Mike Loeffler, Jack Matthews and Charley Taylor, travel to Louisville April 26 to engage the blue-grass golfers.

The Western Kentucky round which was postponed by rain April 21 at Bowling Green, will be played Thursday, May 19, on Western Kentucky's grounds.

The track team, who have lost their two previous meets to Indiana State and Southern Illinois, will try again against Western Kentucky Wednesday, May 4 at Bowling Green. On May 10, they will travel to Charleston, Illinois to compete with Eastern Illinois State. Hobart Lutz and Don Galey will heave the shot and the discus. Angelo Howard and Bob East will run the two mile, and may compete in the one-fourth mile stretch.

Tennis Squad Meets Carbondale Monday

By JEFF HAYS

Coach Dru Ping's Purple Ace baseball squad will meet Indiana State this afternoon at 3 p.m. on the college diamond.

The college tennis team has a match with Southern Illinois Monday at Carbondale. It is the second match of the season for the netmen, who are still seeking their first victory.

Coach Ping still has over two full teams from which to select his starting lineup. His regular starters have been Hargis Hafele or Jerry Feller behind the bat, Marvin Stoft on first base, Paul Schmidt at second.

Shanner Tops Batters

Freshman Roger Shanner, the team's leading hitter, is the regular shortstop, Bob Gerhardt, Carl Kleinknecht, and Bill Henning have been sharing the duty on the hot corner.

In the outer gardens, a crew of five outfielders have been chasing the fly balls for the Pingmen. In left field Richie Bauer and Bob Kohlmeyer have shared the call. Joe Unfried has been in centerfield most of the time with Harold Stubbs or Tom Wooley in right.

Netters Seek Win

Dick Unverzagt and Bob Sakel won their matches in the only net meet held thus far, for the only points won by the local team against Southern Illinois. Other members of the team included Reuben Boswell Don Brannon, and Bill Hopkins.

Here are baseball statistics recently released by the athletic department including games up to April 19.

Intramural League Opens Last Week For Softballers

Play in the intra-mural softball league got under way last week and to date play has continued with on trouble from the weather man.

Monday's play found the Phi Zeta #1 team slapping the Newman Club, 10-5, and the Philos winning a forfeit from the Buzz Kids. On Tuesday four other clubs got into action resulting in a close 10-9 victory for the Wildcats over the Pi Kappas, and another forfeit, this time in favor of the Fraternity Brothers at the expense of the Nats.

Wednesday, the fine pitching of Ray Coombes netted the second victory for the Philos over the Newman Club, their second defeat in as many games. It began to look like double-win, double-loss day as Phi Zeta #1 won its second game and the Buzz Kids lost theirs, 12-9.

On Thursday, the last day of competition for the week, Phi Zeta #2 bested Pi Kappa and the Wildcats squeezed past the Fraternity Brothers in a hard fought game, 31-7!

The standings of both divisions as of Friday, April 22 follows:

Division I

	W	L
Philos	2	0
Phi Zeta #1	2	0
Buzz Kids	0	2
Newman Club	0	2

Division II

	W	L
Wildcats	2	0
Phi Zeta #2	1	0
Nats	1	0
Fraternity Brothers	0	2
Pi Kappa	0	2

May Day Softball Team Practicing

Recruits for a women's softball team are practicing for their annual softball game with a picked faculty men's team. Dorothy Kiefer, senior, is captain of the women's team.

WAA and Castalian bowling teams met yesterday at Franklin Lanes with the league lead at stake. By winning both games the WAA could assure themselves of the title. However, if they lose to the Castys, the two teams will be tied for the top spot.

Course Gives Students Basic Knowledge of Advertising

By CHARLES GREER

The College at the present time offers an introductory course in advertising which gives the student basic information such as the purpose and cost of advertising and its function in relation to economy.

Paul E. Kelly, assistant professor of economics, who teaches the course, stated that the course leads the student into the component parts of advertising in which he learns to write advertising copy, studies the underlying elements of trade marks and slogans and the laws protecting such slogans, and makes analyses of the use of illustrations in advertising.

Study Printing

"In order to offer a well-rounded background, considerable attention is given to the productive processes such as the various kinds of printing and lithography," Mr. Kelly said.

In conjunction with this phase of the course, the class has made tours of local printing establishments in order to acquaint the students with the technical processes involved.

Mr. Kelly remarked that a considerable part of the course involves the study of advertising media, the means the advertisers use to communicate their message to prospective or potential buyers. This study includes the cost and effectiveness of such methods and takes in all the principle methods of advertising — newspapers, magazines, radio, television, and outdoor posters.

Conducts Survey

One of the most interesting parts of the course involves market research, Mr. Kelly said. Sixty students recently conducted a survey in Evansville to determine the popularity of nationally advertised products.

The final part of the course deals with advertising campaigns from the standpoint of both local and national advertising.

Education Majors Serve As Substitute Teachers

Eight seniors who are majoring in elementary education recently substituted at Hebron School while the regular teachers visited classrooms in the Evansville Public School system, Miss Lucille Jones, head of the department of education, has announced.

On Wednesday, April 20, Harriet Buthod, Evelyn Cameron, Mrs. Betty Smead, and Carolyn Allen taught the first and second grades for half a day.

Wednesday morning Barbara McTaggart, Mary Frances Clouse, Gervase Hollander, and Suzanne Goeke were in charge of the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

Plans are being considered for students to teach the seventh and eighth grades at some future date, Miss Jones said.

Sociology Majors Take Indianapolis Field Trip

Five sociology majors, all seniors, took a field trip yesterday to Indianapolis.

Students making the trip were: Gerald Powers, Arthur Ragan, Mary Etta VanHorn, Shirley Olson, and Helen Nunn.

Members of the group were guests of the Indiana School of Social Work. They visited Riley Childrens' Hospital and were also conducted through the Northwestern and Flanner Settlement Houses.

Newspaper Story Brings Requests

When the sociology department announced plans for the trips to Europe and Mexico that the department is sponsoring this summer, the great hope was that enough people would show interest in the trips to make them possible.

Such interest has recently come from an unexpected source. In one of the recent issues of The New York Times was a one-paragraph story on an inside page telling of the trips. Shortly thereafter, Dr. James Morlock, head of the sociology department, who is in charge of the trips, received six letters from persons living in and near New York, asking for details of the tours.

One woman in Williamsport, Pa. inquired about the possibilities of being an interpreter and counselor for the group. She stated that she is a native of Switzerland and that her husband was born in Belgium. She says she can speak all the languages which will be encountered on the trip.

Newman Club Picks Officers for Year

Buddy Dile, sophomore, was elected president of the Newman Club for the coming year during a regular meeting in C101 last Monday. He will replace John Herman, junior.

Other officers elected were Jo Ann Lex, junior, vice president; Doris Donovan, sophomore, historian; Dick Alexander, sophomore, treasurer; and Joanne Stone, junior, recording secretary.

Mr. Herman announced that the club would have a communion breakfast on May 8 at St. Joseph's Church following the 9:30 mass. Deadline for reservations is Thursday.

Julian Places First In Sewing Contest

Miss Dorothy Julian, instructor in chemistry, placed first in the glamour division of The Courier Home Sewing Contest this week.

Her winning entry was a white nylon nightgown and negligee. The garments were made from a parachute that she purchased in New York. The parachute had been utilized to make not only her winning entries, but also two other gowns, lingerie, and blouses.

Paid Tribute

The judges in the contest paid tribute to a prospective spring bride by choosing an item that was made for her trousseau as a first prize winner.

Miss Julian, who will soon marry Edward Emery, of Detroit, is making her entire trousseau, which includes cotton and crepe dresses, lingerie, robes, and even her wedding gown. She also is making the dresses her three bridesmaids will wear.

First Contest

Although she started making her own clothes when she was 12, Miss Julian had never before entered a sewing contest. She has not had any instruction in sewing, except from her mother, so the award came a little as a surprise, she stated.

Miss Julian's gown and negligee were picked over 10 other garments in the glamour group to take first prize. She has no definite plans for the $35 that will be awarded her for the best entry, but she said, "It will come in mighty handy."

Haves Granted Science Fellowship to Tulane

Mary Doris Hayes, senior, has been granted a fellowship and a graduate assistantship at Tulane University, New Orleans, it has been announced.

She will be graduated in June, and will enter Tulane in September as a research assistant in the department of tropical medicine.

During her sophomore and junior years here she was a laboratory assistant and a laboratory instructor this year.

Miss Hayes has been on the dean's list five times, has been chosen as a campus notable, and is listed in Who's Who among American college students. She is a past president of Phi Beta Chi, honorary natural science fraternity and a member of the Theta Sigma sorority.

Freshmen To Be Aided In Selecting Vocations

Philip Sparn, junior, is studying one of the folders from the vocational guidance file located in the study room of the reserve library. The information aids students who want to look into the possibilities of the field which they are studying.

Beginning Monday, May 2, and continuing for two weeks thereafter, a series of pre-sophomore conferences is scheduled, to aid and guide freshmen who are about to enter their sophomore year.

During this time, each freshman will enter into a conference with one of a group of faculty members who have received special training in vocational guidance counseling.

Aids Available

As Everette Walker, director of student personnel services stated, the main idea of the whole plan is that " . . . we want students to know themselves better."

Students will be acquainted with the numerous aids available on the campus. These aids include testing (aptitude, interest, personality), the right to confer with department heads, and a large collection of vocational literature on file in the reserve library. This literature is made up of occupational briefs, career pamphlets, and miscellaneous vocational material.

Evaluate Work

These conferences are not only for those who are undecided about their life work but also for those who are definitely decided as to what they want to do, it was stated. The conference will enable the counselor to evaluate the work and progress of the student up to this time to ascertain whether or not the student actually is in the course of study most suited to him.

Another important aim of these conferences will be to better equip the student to meet the increasing labor market pressure, Mr. Walker said.

Phi Zeta, Pi Kappa Dances Tomorrow

The Phi Zeta and Pi Kappa fraternities will have their spring formal dances in the McCurdy and Vendome Hotels tomorrow from 9 to 12 p.m.

Jim Browne, junior, is the chairman of the Phi Zeta dance. He has announced that dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. in the Gold Room of Hotel McCurdy. George Fountain's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing which will begin at 9 p.m. and last until midnight. Charles Van Winkle, sophomore; Sam Humphrey, senior; Jim Wilson, sophomore; Marty Prince, freshman; and Don Wand, junior, are working with Mr. Browne as the heads of the various committees.

The Pi Kappa spring formal will take place in the Empire Room of the Vendome Hotel, according to Ray Kopycki, junior; who is in charge of this fraternity's affair. Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. followed by dancing from 8 p.m. until midnight. Jack Racine's orchestra will play for the event.

Tomorrow is the deadline for entries for the International Collegiate Photography Contest sponsored by Kappa Alpha Mu, national honorary fraternity in photo journalism.

The contest is open to any regularly enrolled student in an accredited college or university. Entry blanks should be addressed to Kappa Alpha Mu, 18 Walter Williams Hall, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

Heading the list of prizes is a complete picture assignment for the magazine, Science Illustrated. This prize, which will go to the college photographer entering the best group of prints, includes technical advice, expense account, and payment for the completed picture story.

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By DEAN SEEGERT

I wish THE CRESCENT could be published in the form of a wire recording rather than a printed sheet. As all my professors and a good many students know, I much prefer to talk instead of write in giving my opinion. I will hake an honest effort anyway to construct a one sided conversation on a few subjects which I hope will prove interesting.

New Automobiles

There is snfficient evidence at hand now to be certain in the belief that the worm has turned. Last week I attended an annual dealer's banquet at which the speaker's topic was "The Honeymoon Is Over – Now What?" The trend has become unquestionably one of "selling" automobiles. If you have been waiting for the day when you could buy the car you want, just the way you want it, fret no longer. The auto industry has its sights on six million nnits this year which will meet the existing demand with several spares.

Parking

This subject has heen kicked around long enough to be considered a chestnut in anyhody's book and I know as well as the next guy that no complete solution is about to be found on the E. C. campus. I have one request hovever, that I wish I could make personally to every student, faculty member, and college employee who drives a car. It applies particularly to those who arrive early. When there is plenty of parking space before the crowding has started, don't just select a general area and let your car roll until frictional forces overcome its forward motion.

SGA Election

What I have to say here would apply to any and all elections. I have never seen an election tally which did not disappoint me. Elections are held so that the majority will can be effective. How is this possible when many times the majority group is the one which failed to vote. If you don't have a candidate yet, you have one week to shop for one which will meet your approval. Do your shopping early and when May 13 arrives – VOTE.

Freshman Counselors To Meet Thursday

The students who are now serving as student counselors to freshmen are to meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, has announced.

Mr. Walker said that the purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for Freshman Week activities next fall. This week, immediately preceding the opening of the fall quarter, is to orient the incoming freshmen into campus life.

The meeting will determine the part that the counselors should play in the orientation program.

Mothers To Be Guests At Three Teas Sunday

Mothers of the members will be guests at three Mother's Day Teas which will be given Sunday, May 8, by the Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, and Theta Sigma Sororities.

Members of the Gamma Epsilon Sigma Sorority will honor their mothers at a tea at 3 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Schroeder, 507 Roosevelt Drive. Mrs. Edwin Karges, Sr., interior decorator, will be a special guest.

The Castalian Sorority Tea is to be from 2 to 4 p.m. at the home of Marilyn Mooney, 735 Lombard Avenue.

Scholarship Key Given

A scholarship key, in recognition of scholastic achievement, will be given to the member of the sorority whose winter quarter scholastic average showed the most improvement over her average for the fall quarter.

Special Guests

Special guests will be Miss Wahnita Delong and Miss Ida Steiler of the faculty, who are honorary Castalians. Other special guests are to be Miss Esther Brown, dean of women, and Mrs. Marjorie Webster, secretary to the president of the college and sponsor of the group.

The tea, to be given by the Theta Sigma Sorority will be from 2 to 4 p.m. in the lounge of St. John's Evangelical Church, 314 Market Street. Special guests invited are Miss Brown and Miss Pearl LeCompte, faculty sponsor.

Honorary Society To Be Installed

Sigma Pi Sigma, national honorary physics society, will install a chapter on campus May 10, Professor James Sears, head of the physics department, announces.

Dr. Marsh White of Penn State College, who is national secretary of Sigma Pi Sigma, will head a visiting group from Purdue and Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, who will install the local chapter and officers. These are the two nearest chapters to Evansville.

Sigma Pi Sigma will be the fifth national honorary society on campus. The others are in journalism, music, forensics, and social science.

The new chapter here will start with 16 members, 11 of them students and five from the faculty.

The students are Bill Driggers, Ralph Yates, Bernard Stock, Glenn Elder, Lester Morton, James Fowler, Frank Hayes, Robert Joest, Edward Stone, Joseph Hennel, and Bussel Schoene.

Professor Sears is already a member of the society. Dr. John Krosbein, Prof. Robert A. Artman, Prof. Harold Willis, and Prof. Joseph L. Ryerson will be initiated.

Fraternity Elects 26 New Members

Phi Beta Chi, honorary fraternity of the natural sciences, has elected 26 people to membership in the group, Mary Doris Hayes, president, announced.

Those elected are Cletus Kroger, Rober Eissler, Kenneth Leimgruber, Harry G. Williamson, and Russel Day, chemistry majors; Wayne Montgomery, biology; James Fowler, mathematics; Lester Morton, Ralph Yates, Bernard Stock, Glenn Elder, and Bill Wiggers, physics; Joseph Hennel, Robert Joest, and Frank Hayes, industrial technology.

Faculty members elected are Martin Chanin, Andrew Sherockman, and Keith Shillington, from the chemistry department; Harold Willis, physics department; William Hartsaw, engineering; Wiley W. Crawford, biology; V. C. Bailey, Robert W. Emmert, and Charles Colvin, mathematics; Dr. Franklin MacKnight, geology; and Miss Agnes Bahlert, home economics.

Mr. Fowler was elected president of the fraternity for the coming year, Miss Hayes announced.

Mary Lou Muth, junior, was named "Secretary af the Year" In a typing and transcriptlon cantest before businessmen of local firms.

Dr. James E. Morlock, dean af men, and Dr. Edgar McKawn, dean af the college, will attend a Methodist conference at Bedford, Indiana, Tuesday.

Chairman and assistants far the Mather's Day Teas are having the events entered on the calendar with Miss Darothy Surbeck.

Independents Get Charter; Achieve National Status

The independent student's organization on campus is now a member of the National Independent Students' Association.

The new charter arrived last week from the national headquarters at the University of Texas in Austin.

Qualifications for membership status in the NISA were that an organization be an association composed of independent students, and that its constitution be approved by the board of admission. The ISA's application for membership was accompanied by the recommendation of the dean of the college.

The independents organized last December. The aim of the group, according to Fred Shatara, president, is to give students not affiliated with a sorority or fraternity a social outlet and a stronger voice in student government.

Officers of the group are Mr. Shatara; Gail Reed, vice president; Nancy McCaffrey, secretary-treasurer, and Martha Butcher, membership secretary.

Students To Elect TUB Management Board May 13

Candidates for the Temporary Union Building Management Board were announced Tuesday following the board meeting. The new Union Board will be elected at the same time the SGA elections are being held next Friday.

Selma Donglas and Mickey Humphrey are the nominations for the All-Campus Dance Committee; Bob Ossenberg and Marty Prince are running for the TUB Dance Committee and Herman Litschgi and Elizabeth Lockwood have been nominated to head the Special Becreation Committee.

Social Committee Nominees

Social committee nominees are Pat Bates and Jeanne Williams, with Salli Henn and Juna Howard running for the chairmanship of the House Committee. Glenn Bartelt and Jim Wilson were nominated to head the Finance Committee.

The Public Relations Committee chairman will be either Bob Young or Walter Prickett and Games Committee chairman will be either Bob Statham or Wayne Alley.

Nominations Made By Board

Nominations for the new members of the Management Board are made by the retiring members of the board. They are chosen for the ability they have shown throughout the year and are limited to those persons that the board members think will stick to the job.

In each case the person that is defeated in the election will serve as vice-chairman of the committee.

Members of the TUB Management Board said that they have heard some criticism of the system used in picking the candidates and that some persons wondered why they were not allowed to file for the offices as they are in SGA.

Geology Students Take Weekend Field Trip

A group of students left this morning on a geology field trip into Kentucky to study various geographical data, Prof F. C. MacKnight announced.

The trip, which is being sponsored by the University of Kentucky, began at Sebree this morning at eight-thirty. They will return tonight, but will meet at Marion at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning to investigate fluorospar mines in that territory.

Calendar

May 6 to May 12

Tuesday—6 p.m., Castalian alums meet in cafeteria. 8:30 p.m., Herran and Bridges faculty recital, Auditorium. Baseball game with Murray, here, 3 p.m.

Choir To Present Concert Monday

Monday at 8:15 p.m. the A Capella choir will give a concert in the college auditorium.

Mrs. Margaret Shepard, co-head of the music department, will direct the choir.

Tickets for the concert can be obtained from members of the choir. College students may use their activity tickets for admission.

In the first part of the program the choir will sing "Exaltabo Te, Domine" by Giovanni P. da Palestrina; "Presentation of Christ in the Temple" by John Eccard; "Let All the Nations Prise the Lord" by Volckmar Leisring, and "My Shepard Will Supply My Need," a traditional hymn tune arranged by Virgil Thomson.

Following this Jerry West, soloist, will sing "I Wonder as I Wander," an Appalachian carol arranged by John Jacob Niles.

Then the choir will present "Jesus, Tender Saviour," by Edvard Grieg; "The Glad Trumpet" by R. Deane Shure, and Concenrto No. 2, in D minor by Henri Wieniawski.

Marilyn Ramsey, solist, will be accompanied by William Bell, pianist, as she sings "Serenade" by Gabriel Pierne.

After intermission the program is to consist of a number by the choir, "Songs of Escape," by Robin Milford; a solo, "A Lover's Calendar" by Charles W. Lawrence to be sung by Ray O'Neal, and a choral selection from Richard Rodgers' "Carousel."

Play Has Second Showing Tonight

By Bill Duffy

A repeat performance of the Thespian play, "Peg o' My Heart," directed by Mrs Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of drama and speech, will be given tonight in the auditorium at 8:15.

The play concerns the trials and tribulations of Peg O'Connell, a charming American-Irish poor girl, who has difficulties when she meets her high born English relatives. Her ingenuity, independence and Irish wit keep every minute alive for her and the household of her conventional English relatives.

Irish Accent Superb

Jerri Steinmetz, sophomore, does an excellent job of playing the part of Peg. She has a thorough interpretation of her character, and she acts with finish and inspiration. Her Irish accent is superb, due to special tutoring by Father Edward Malachy Fulton, O.S.B. He spent considerable time assisting Miss Steinmetz with the Irish dialect.

Robert Hevron, junior, plays the part of Jerry, opposite Miss Steinmetz. He plays the part with much poise and understanding. James Cochran, fresbman, plays the part of Alaric with youthful abandon of the spoiled scion of an old, wealthy English family.

McGregor Is Footman

Frank Chandler, freshman, is playing in the fourth production of the year, and each time he has had a different type of role. Herman McGregor, freshman, and who replaced Norman Stewart, plays an excellent role as the footman.

The movement of the play is a variation of the early 1900's with variations of smooth, gentle sentiment. This is strengthened by the use of costumes and actions.

Students Completing Two Years, Eligible For Certificates

A new plan to issue certificates to students following certain two-year curricula has been adopted by the faculty, Dean Edgar M. McKown announced.

The plan is designed to serve two groups of students: (1) those who upon entering college plan to complete only two years of college work and (2) those who after beginning college work are unable to complete four years.

Many students have not been able to finish four years of college work because of illness, marriage, unexpected job opportunities, and other reasons. Such students now have an opportunity to complete a curriculum and to secure a certificate as tangible evidence.

Students completing two years of college work will be able to receive certificates for titles of (1) Associate of Arts and (2) Associate of Science, if they have taken the required curricula leading to the titles.

The plan is set up so that all credits counting toward receiving a certificate also count toward receiving a degree. Students may work toward a degree after having received a certificate without making abrupt changes or doing additional work.

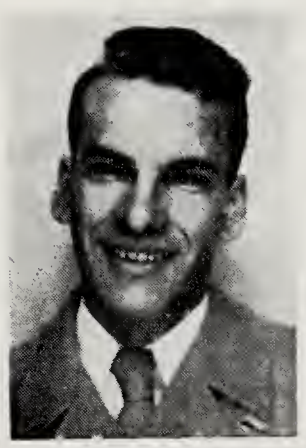
Secretarial Science Tests Scheduled

Evansville College will give the national business entrance tests for the National Office Management Association and the United Business Education Association Saturday, May 7, Miss Agnes L. Tompkins, head of the department of secretarial science, has announced.

A group of 25 high school pupils from Newburgh, Owensville, Rockport, Poseyville, and Owensboro, Ky., plus three Evansville College secretarial science students, will participate.

The tests will cover stenography, typing, and bookkeeping. A Certificate of Proficiency will be awarded to the participant, if the results of his test are acceptable.

Candidates State Platforms as Election Nears

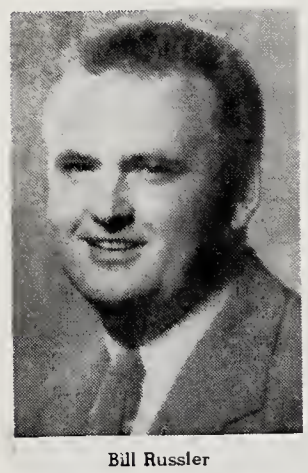


Bob Rideout

By BOB RIDEOUT

The candidates of Pi Kappa fraternity and the Independent Student Association pledge their best efforts to these objectives.

1. Student Government for the entire body. An end to domination by cliques and small groups.
2. An expansion of student government to the fullest possible extent, and to make SGA's function better known.
3. To publicize in THE CRESCENT the action taken by the SGA Administrative Board and its committees.
4. To promote intramural competition in at least three sports and to raise the efficiency of intramural operation.
5. Student Government committee members to be chosen impartially on the basis of ahility and experience with distribution to campus groups on an equitable standard.
6. To assist in improving our present social program.
7. Student activity fee expenditures to be made public knowledge, and economy to be stressed.



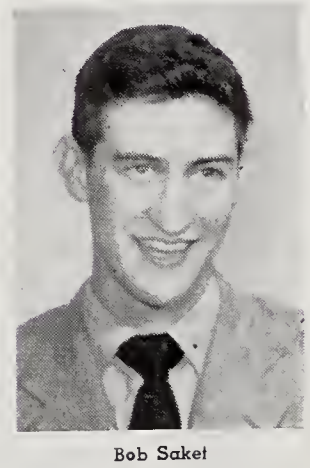
Bill Russler

By BILL RUSSLER

Although I am affiliated with Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity, it is not my intention if elected, to support only programs that are beneficial to organized units on campus. Below, you will find my platform, and it does not show partiality to any one particular group.

First, I plan to carry out a majority of things that Jim Barnett has started, eliminating the bad features and enlarging on the good. I intend to see by personal contact, what you, the student body want, and continue these projects along their way. One of these is the intramural program which is definitely in need of improvement, and I promise you there will be a more varied program with better equipment, better supervision, better facilities, and other improvements deemed necessary.

I intend to see that next year's Homecoming will be bigger and better, and try in every way possible, to build school spirit. This is possible only with first, your vote, and second, your wholehearted support and cooperation.



Bob Sakel

By BOB SAKEL

I would like to thank THE CRESCENT staff for this opportunity to express a few of my convictions, and to lay a basis for my SGA platform. In thanking THE CRESCENT, I would also like to congratulate the staff upon the fair and unbiased manner in which they report campus news.

The basis for my campaign in the coming SGA election is to perpetuate the purpose of the SGA in an effort to give every student an opportunity to participate as freely and as fully as possible in the collective direction and control of the common life and work of Evansville College; to enable the student body to cooperate with the faculty in the Student-Faculty Federation; and to effect fair and equal student representation in the TUB management. Student - Faculty Federation and similar administrative jobs.

It is apparent that this statement of policy is very general, but I shall enumerate the planks in my platform thoroughly in my candidacy speech before the student body, May 10 and 11.

Federal Aid Is Not Needed

Federal aid to education is not necessary or desirable under normal conditions. In the past when local communities and states have felt a real need for additional educational facilities, they have always provided for this need through the use of local resources. Now, more than ever before, the states are increasing their heavy responsibilities for educational needs and are tending to promote state equalization programs.

In federal aid to education there is also the aspect of federal control. Education has been the function of the state and local communities since the beginning of our government, and no power is granted to federal government over education in the Constitution.

Experiences prove that if local communities finance and control education, they will have more interest in seeing that the money is properly spent. The local community can best adapt an educational system to its own needs.

Further consideration will show that the proposed federal aid would not bring about the desired equalization of opportunities. In the south it is evident that the money will be used on white children and not for the improvement of "Jim Crow" schools. Mere distribution of funds on a per capita basis cannot bring about real equalization since $150 expended on schools in a southern state might be as effective as $1500 in New York.

The increased burden to aid education would further demoralize our national budget, which is already too high. Increased spending by the federal government at this time would be both unwise and almost impossible financially.

On the whole, it is safe to say that federal aid to education is not only unsound from the point of view that it will tend toward a centralization of power into the national government, but it gives no real guarantee for equalization of education.

This is what proponents of federal aid to education would have us believe is its purpose.

Spring, it is said, is a time of awakening. How weepably true. It is a time of awakening in the warm, eye-searing sunlight of 6:30 a.m. with that "It's Wednesday and I've got an eight o'clock" feeling.

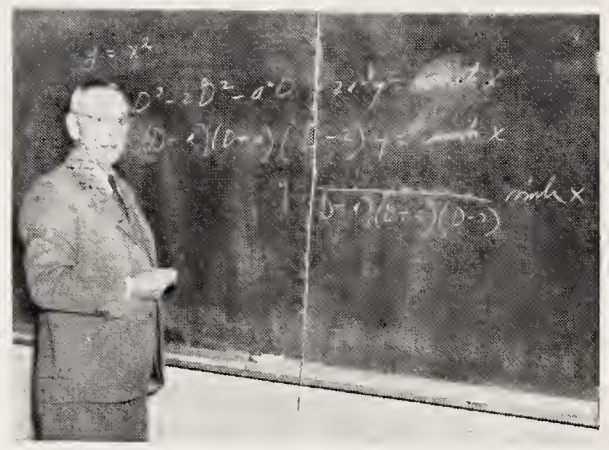
A pretty rough awakening occurred last Friday with the showing of the floor plan of the new Union Building's Great Hall. It fitted neatly around the outlines of the TUB's lounge and ping pong room combined, and was only a nook within the bounds of the armory's basketball floor. A dance in this cubbyhole might culminate with a lady's escort dancing with the trumpet player instead of the chick he brought.

Spring is the time of fingering fishing poles lovingly, and wanting to go barefoot. A zoology student at this stage would immediately start a digression on how spring fever is nothing but an insufficient supply of blood to the brain. Possibly this illustrates how the scientific spirit plays havoc with the romance of living. Zoology students are not as bad though as geology students who go further, and habitually carry little bottles of acid to test the composition of buildings, sidewalks, and sewer pipes.

I heard a good story about a Phi Zeta the other day. It seems he was wearing the badge of his brotherhood, a blazons of red, black and gold across his chest. He was talking to a lady. Now this lady was a college woman. She was graduated from college when coeds wore beaded dresses and sang, "I've got those W-a-n-g Wang Blues." So when she saw this fraternity pin, memories came flooding back. She indicated the symbol of Zeta fellowship and breathed, "Oh, what literatry society do you belong to?" His answer is not recorded.

Speaking of history reminds me of the history student who wrote, " . . . and Nathan Hale said 'I regret I have but one life to Loos for my country.'"

Marchant in 25th Year Of College Teaching



Guy R. Marchant, head of the mathematics department, is explaining the process of solving a differential equation problem involving a hyperbolic function to a class in advanced mathematics.

Inasmuch as he has been teaching here for 25 years, Guy B. Marchant, acting head of the mathematics department, could honestly be called an "old salt" to coin a navy term.

Professor Marchant graduated from South Dakota State College in 1912 with a B.S. in E.E. (Electrical Engineering) degree. While there, he was a member of the varsity football team for two years.

Used Co-op Plan

The South Dakota school was operating under the industrial Co-Operative plan at that time, and consequently, while attending school, as part of his student experience, and after graduation, he worked in one of the industrial plants of the Westinghouse Electric Co. After several years of this, he advanced to the Westinghouse General Service Office, in New York City and remained there for four years.

This brought Professor Marchant up to the year 1923, his first year of teaching. He spent one year at the University of Minnesota, teaching mathematics and electrical engineering.

Taught Engineering

In 1924 he started his long career at Evansville College. Professor Marchant said that when he started teaching here, the school was on an Industrial Technology Co-Operative plan, somewhat similar to the system now in effect. As a result of this, he was teaching both electrical engineering and mathematics. However, in recent years, he has taught only mathematics, leaving the engineering up to other members of the faculty.

Professor Marchant is married, and resides with his wife, Sadie, on Darmstadt Road.

Pic of the Week

MARY DORIS HAYES

Mary Doris Hayes, biology major, has been chosen to represent this week's Pic of the Week.

Miss Hayes came to Evansville College in the fall of 1945 from the Carmi, Illinois High School. For three years she has served as a student assistant in the biology department and this year she has been a laboratory instructor.

She is a member of the Theta Sigma social sorority and served as treasurer for two semesters. At present she is the president of the Phi Beta Chi, natural science fraternity. In her freshman year she was president of the Pre-Med Club and has been on the Dean's List for five semesters.

This year she was chosen to Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities and was also selected as a Campus Notable.

She and Frank Erk, graduate of 1948, are co-authors of a laboratory manual for use in zoology classes. This is the second year the manual has been used at the college.

Miss Hayes has just received a scholarship and assistantship to Tulane University in New Orleans to do graduate work in parasitology. She will begin her work there this fall.

In Evansville she resides at 111 East Iowa Street.

All of Evansville College's intramural athletes can thank Jim Barnett for making this year's intramural athletic program the success it was.

Jim handled the entire setup himself. He mapped out the schedules, arranged for the places to play, and made sure there were referees, umpires, and scorekeepers. We should remember that Jim gets absolutely nothing for all this work, and that everything that he has done has been to improve the intramural conditions that previously have been a real sore spot in Evansville College's extra-curricular activities.

Bill Russler and Bob Rideout have said that the intramural improvement is going to be one of the major issues. One thing they intend to do next year, if elected, is to try to get a faculty advisor for the intramural program. They are convinced that one student will not be able to operate the program like it should function. (See S.G.A. platforms, page 1.)

Coach Paul Beck was hired to be an assistant football coach and the intramural athletic supervisor. Since Mr. Beck reached the campus, he has been given the jobs of assistant basketball coach and head golf coach. We can hardly blame Coach Beck for his lack of interest in the intramural athletes. They hope to get some faculty advisor, however, to look after the program, and make sure that there is a place to play, good referees, good scorekeepers, and adequate publicity so that the leading individualists are given due credit for their performances.

It seems that if we were to have a well balanced intramural program, we should give the students, who have ability in something other than basketball and softball, a chance. This golf tourney (see col. 6, this page) is a good idea, but I think that the members of the team should be barred in order to give the duffers an even break. Instead of having all the strokers perform on an even basis some of them should give strokes to the players who have to scramble to get around the course in a hundred swings.

Someone suggested having an intra-class track meet. This idea seems to be popular with those who have track ability, and also to those who just simply would like to have fun, and at the same time get in shape. This intra-class track meet might materialize with the proper encouragement.

There are a lot of good tennis players on the campus, both men and women. This could be one form of intramural setup where both men and women could participate at the same time. A good mixed doubles tournament of this sort could go a long way in increasing the general school spirit.

Vets Capture Second Half Pin Crown

Evansville's intracollege bowling league has closed its season with the Vets winning the second half title with a 31-11 won and lost record. Philo I came in second with a second half total of 25-17. Phi Zeta was the victor during the first half of the league season.

No roll-off is planned for the title and awards will be made to both the first and second half winners. Teams and individuals having the high game and series for the season will also be awarded prizes.

Jandebeur Rolls High

Fred Jandebeur had the high series for the season with 610, and Jack Huber had the high game, a 243. Both Jandebeur and Huber rolled for the Vets. High team series and game honors were also captured by the Vets team, the first with a score of 2072 and the second with a 777.

Following the Vets and Philo I in the final standings was Philo II with a 24-18 record. Pi Kappa I and Phi Zeta I tied for fourth place with 23-19 records.

Accountants Lead

Accounting Club lead the second division of the league with a season total of 20 wins and 19 losses. Phi Zeta II was next with 19 wins against 23 setbacks, tied with Faculty Business Administration at the same total.

Newman Club had an 18-23 record for the season and Pi Kappa II wound up in the cellar, carding 12 wins against 30 defeats.

Coombes, Hays Each Hit Two Home Runs

Play in the intramural softball league moved into the second round last week with six games being played.

Phi Zeta I and the Philos are tied for first place in the first division with three wins and one loss each. Phi Zeta II is setting the pace in the second division with two wins and no losses.

Tuesday's play found the Phi Zeta I team nipping the Philos 7-6, and the Newman Club bested the Buzz Kids, 12-9.

Wednesday, the Phi Zeta II team squeezed past the Wildcats, 3-2, and Pi Kappa defeated the Nats, 10-8, in the other close tilt of the day.

Thursday, the last day of competition for the week, the Newman Club edged the Phi Zeta I team, 6-5. In the other game, the Philos displayed some powerful hitting ability by pounding out 11 home runs in their 17-6 victory over the Buzz Kids. Ray Coombes, Philo pitcher, and Jeff Hays, sophomore, each collected two of the 11 four-ply blasts.

Next week's schedule for both divisions is:

May 9
Pi Kappa vs. Phi Zeta II
Wildcats vs. Fraternity Bros.

May 10
Phi Zeta I vs. Newman Club
Buzz Kids vs. Philos

Cindermen Journey To Charleston Next

Evansville's track team, under Coach Arad McCutchan, will journey to Charleston, Illinois Tuesday to take on the Panthers of Eastern Illinois State.

The Aces were defeated in their first of two meets this season, Indiana State topped them 101½ to 29½ and Southern Illinois came out victorious, 109½ to 20½.

Frank Lutz and Don Galey in the weights, Bob Barnett, Jerry Canterbury, and Bob East in the distance runs, Angelo Howard in the dashes and high jump, Morris Riley in the broad jump, and Bob Southwood in the pole vault, will probably be relied upon by Coach McCutchan for most of Evansville's points.

Louisville Cards Hand Pingmen Conference Loss; Hafele Loses

Eastern Kentucky State, one of the Aces' Ohio Valley Conference rivals, will meet the Evansville nine at three o'clock this afternoon on the college field.

The Aces, who will be seeking their first victory in conference play, had their first scheduled meeting with the Maroons, at Richmond, rained out on Wednesday of last week. The Aces' only game next week is another conference tilt, with Murray State, Tuesday at three o'clock on the college field.

Schmidt Homers

Evansville lost its only other league game to Louisville at Louisville last week, 8-6. Louisville's big fourth inning, which produced five markers, sent the Cardinals into the lead. The Aces never recovered from the disastrous blow, as they trailed all the way, making meager attempts to overcome Louisville's lead with one run outbursts in the sixth and the eight. Paul Schmidt, Ace second baseman, homered in the first with one man aboard.

Andy Collins started on the mound for the Aces but called it quits in the eighth when he was relieved by Tom Berger. Collins was the loser.

Big Inning Ruins Aces

Another big five run inning spelled defeat for the Aces in the Indiana State tilt, 8-4. State's outburst came in the third inning. Evansville scored single runs in the fourth, fifth, seventh, and eighth. Joe Hafele was the starter and loser for the Aces but was chased in the disastrous third and replaced by Stieler.

College Golfers Start Tourney Wednesday

Evansville College's first annual all campus golf tourney got underway Wednesday and Thursday when the participating golfers shot qualifying rounds of 36 holes, according to Bud Johnson, originator of the tournament.

Several very nice prizes have been donated by local businessmen to attract all the school's best golfers, Mr. Johnson added.

Prizes Offered

The winner, besides getting a trophy, will receive a pair of Etonic Weather Proof golf shoes, donated by Dutch Rittenhouse, Helfrich Hills professional. Hallert's Men's Store will give the winner one pair of golf slacks; Beard's Sporting Goods is donating one dozen Spalding golf balls.

The runner-up will get a dozen McGregor Tourney balls from Mr. Rittenhouse, and a pair of loafer sport shoes from Baynham Shoe Co. The beaten semi-finalists each will receive a half dozen McGregor Par Maker balls from Lomax and Nicholson Sporting Goods Store.

Play 36 Hole Finals

The high medalist will not be forgotten by the prize givers, Mr. Johnson continued. He will receive $5.00 worth of barber shop service from Red Kroeger's Barber Shop.

After the 36 holes of medal qualifying play have been completed by the golfers, the field will be cut to the low eight qualifiers who then will enter match play to determine the champion. The finals will be a 36 hole match affair on Sunday, May 15. All the matches will be played at Helfrich Hills, Mr. Johnson added.

Any student desiring to find fellowship and gossip along his lines of interest has only to run through the list of Evansville's many clubs and associations. There should be at least one particular organization that caters to his hobby or vocational interests.

One of these groups is the Electronics Club, an orginzation composed of amateur radio enthusiasts and electronics majors Membership is not confined to the males. Lois Winkler, a "Dean's List" student, is active in the club and is studying for her license examination.

Officers Elected

Officers recently elected for this quarter are Earl Toole, president; Bill Bahr, vice president; and Bill Bales, secretary-treasurer.

The center of interest and activity for the club is the amateur radio station, W9NVN. Prof. James F. Sears is the trustee of W9NVN and the club's advisor Professor Sears is a "ham" of long standing.

Under favorable conditions, W9NVN is able to establish contact with other amateur stations practically anywhere in the United States. On Science Day, April 2, club members were able to contact among others, a song writer in Hollywood and a well-known technical book author, also in California.

Werking Converses

Recently, Dr F Woody Werking of the foreign language department, visited the club's headquarters in the Engineering Building and conversed in Spanish with a Puerto Rican the members had contacted.

A number of members have completed requirements for their license through club activities. Licensed operators on campus are Professor Sears, Fred Davison, Bill Driggers, Mr. Toole, and Mr. Bahr. All of these students have their own stations in their homes.

Voices Appeal

Other club members, Frank Hayes, Mr. Bales, Robert Joest, and Eugene Bitz, are studying for their license.

The club is at present in quite a predicament, said Mr. Toole. The present membership is composed almost entirely of seniors, which means that upon completion of the spring quarter, the club will be practically extinct. Mr. Toole is voicing an earnest appeal to all underclassmen interested in the club's activities, to join the group. Any student, regardless of his class in school or his curriculum, is eligible to join the Electronics Club if he has a genuine interest in amateur radio or electronics.

Donations Average $120 Per Day

Contributions made to the War Memorial Scholarship Fund drive totaled $241.35 as of Wednesday morning, according to Gene Cebula, originator of the drive.

This seems to be a considerable sum of money, but is is still $4,758.65 short of the $5,000 goal. The contributions Monday were $151.75, and $89.60 was given to the fund Tuesday. Thus far, the drive has averaged $120.67 per day.

At this rate it will take approximately 40 days to reach the goal. If the goal is reached by the deadline, which has been set for May 12, contributions of about $680 per school day must be obtained.

It was asserted that the goal could be easily reached by an average donation of $3 from the students and faculty. Some donations have exceeded $3, and some have been less.

Solicitation booth workers expect an increase in amounts contributed later this week. This is due to: (1) veterans received their checks, (2) those who have not contributed will realize the worthiness of the fund, it was stated.

If Evansville College is going to be the first to create such a scholarship fund in the Midwest, contributions will have to increase more than they were the first two days of the drive.

$100,000 Writing Contest To Last Until July 31

A $100,000 contest is now being sponsored by the National Fine Arts Award, Inc., for collegians who would like to test their ability in various fields of writing.

Competition does not close until July 31. Entries should be mailed to NFAA, Inc., 715 Fifth Avenue, New York, 22, N.Y.

These awards cover six writing fields: the play, short story, short-short story, popular song, radio script, and movie synopsis. Cash awards total $30,000 and fellowships $70,000, plus arrangements for professional publication and production by NFAA. The non-profit nature of the NFAA contest has attracted some of the top names in each field as judges.

The manuscripts to be judged will not carry the author's name, just a number.

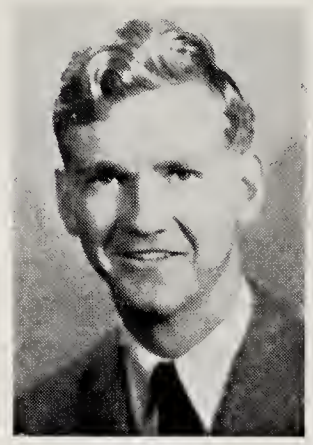
Russ Day Gets Assistantship



Russel M. Day

Russel Day, senior, recently received a graduate assistantship in chemistry at the University of Kansas. Following his graduation from Evansville College in June, Mr. Day will go to Lawrence, Kansas to begin work toward a master's degree. He will major in analytical chemistry.

Mr. Day has been a laboratory assistant in the chemistry department since March 1947. He is a member of Phi Beta Chi, honorary natural science fraternity, and has been on the Dean's List.

He won letters in football, basketball, and baseball during his freshman and sophomore years. He played end on the football squad, center on the basketball team, and was a pitcher in baseball.

A graduate of Huntingburg High School, Mr. Day is married and now makes his home at 314 South Barker Avenue in Evansville. He is a navy veteran, and spent one year in the Pacific area during the last war.

Secretarial Group Elects Officers

Members of the Secretarial Science Club have elected officers for the school year beginning in September.

The officers are Ruth Nendel, president; Phyilis Tirmenstein, vice president; June Suhrheinrich, secretary; Erma Mont-Montgomery, treasurer; and Frieda Montgomery, publicity chairman. They will be installed during a meeting May 9.

Each month the organization elects member as "Girl of the Month." Helen Bollinger, junior, was chosen for April.

Management Board Returns From Trip To Convention

Evansville College's representatives returned this week after attending the annual Association of College Unions convention in Colorado Springs, Colorado, April 27—30. Miss Doris Kirk, social director, Sarah Kessler, Jim Cooper and Bill Woods attended the convention.

There were 97 colleges and universities represented by 287 staff and student delegates at the convention, which is held yearly to trade problems and solutions and to receive new information about union management.

As a result of conferences with delegates from other small colleges over the country, it was found that Evansville College's Union Board is as active as any represented at the convention. Miss Kessler also pointed out that much of the information garnered at the convention will be extremely valuable in the new building, and that when the new union is finished we will have at Evansville one of the finest, small college unions in the United States.

Special sessions and panels were held to cover almost all phases of union management during the four day convention. All three of the Evansville student delegates appeared on panel discussions, and Miss Kirk handled one of the staff discussions dealing with small union problems.

Garment Workers To Meet Here

The International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, in cooperation with the college, is holding a one day institute here tomorrow.

Representatives from all the ladies' garment workers unions within a 100-mile radius of Evansville will attend the institute. It is to be held in the TUB and is to be from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Dr. F. P. Buller, head of the department of psychology, will speak to the delegates. His topic will be "It's How You Take It." This is to be a discussion of the psychology of everyday life.

Keith Slater, instructor in management will discuss "Wages, Production, Prices, and Profits." Dr. Harris D. Erickson, professor of philosophy and religion, will tell about "Contributions of Great Philosophers" as guides to the problems of today.

The last speaker will be Dr. James Morlock, sociology department head. He will discuss "Toward World Citizenship."

Fraternity Brothers Meet With Acacia Counselor

The Fraternity Brothers are now a colony of the Acacia Fraternity, national masonic affiliated fraternity. They soon will become a national organization.

Campus members, college administrators, and Shrine members met with Ray Thomas, national counselor for the club, at the Shrine Mosque to discuss plans Monday, April 25.

Student Body To Elect New SGA Officials Today

THE EVANSVILLE Crescent

Vol. XXX | Evansville College, Evansville, Indiana | May 13, 1949, No. 25

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By RON WATSON

Another spring has come to the Evansville College Campus and with it suntan, swimming at Pfafflin's Lake, and the spring softball tournament.

Eight teams are entered in the tournament which consists of two leagues. Entered in the class A league are Pi Epsilon Phi, Phi Zeta I, Newman Club and the Buzz Kids. In the class B league are Phi Zeta II, Pi Kappas, Wildcats and Fraternity Brothers. At the present time, Pi Epsilon Phi, Newman Club, and Phi Zeta I are tied for the top position in the class A league.

Intramural Playoff

There will be a play off between the two league champions at the end of the intramural season and the winners will be presented with a trophy.

It seems that afternoon classes are going to have to be held at Pfafflin's Lake if the past week is any indication of the future. The highway going east has been busy carrying Evansville College students to their swimming paradise.

The beach has been jammed with beautiful specimens of feminine pulchritude and a handsome collection of manly physiques. After watching some of the swimmers go through their paces it seems a shame that Evansville College doesn't have the facilities to sponsor a swimming team. This should definitely be considered when plans for the fieldhouse are drawn up.

Building Plans

Speaking of future building plans, it seems that a bit of a controversy has arisen over the specifications of the new student union building. It seems a shame that a school the size of Evansville College doesn't have a student union hall. Everyone agrees that we need one, but it seems foolish to erect a building that doesn't even come close to fulfilling the needs of the student body.

You know being president of the sophomore class has been really a great honor to me. But being an officer of a class here at the college seems to be strictly an honorary position.

Social Activities

It seems a shame that there can't be better organization and cooperation among the four classes. Social activities on the campus could be greatly accelerated bu such things as class picnics, dances, sport programs, and interclass competition for such positions as football, basketball and May queens.

Brainteaser No. 17: Name three different types of music referring to a time of the day.

May Festival Here To Bring Series of Diverse Activities

May Festival activities will begin at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday with an honors assembly on the front campus. Other events will be the senior tree planting, a free lunch for all students, two softball games, and a concert.

A senior processional is to precede the assembly. Senior are to meet in the Administration Building and march in a body to chairs reserved for them.

James L. Barnett, SGA president, will crown the May Queen. Six girls, Bonnie Gruebel Stephens, Suzanne Goeke, Emily Combs, Castalians; Doris Witt, Lois Huck, members of Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Marilyn Ramsey, Independent, are candidates.

May Pole Dance Features

Following the coronation, twenty junior girls are to participate in a maypole dance around a 12-foot pole hung with multi-colored ribbons.

Students on the dean's list for the winter quarter, campus notables, and new members of eight honor societies will be recognized. Presentation of the National Office Managers' Association Award and the Clarence H. Edwards Memorial Award will also be made.

Newly elected Student Government Association officers, president of the Women's Council, and TUB Management Board will be introduced.

Traditional planting of a tree by the senior class is to follow the assembly.

Lunch To Be Free

The free lunch served at noon on the TUB veranda is made possible by the Social Life Committee of the college.

The first softball game, at 2:30 p.m., matches the Faculty Varsity B team and the W. A. A. team. The second, at 3:30 p.m., pairs the Faculty Varsity A team and a team of senior men.

A concert by the Little Symphony orchestra at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium will end the day's festivities.

The schedule for morning classes on May 17 is:

7 o'clock classes 7-7:50 a.m.
8 o'clock classes 8-8:40 a.m.
9 o'clock classes 8:50-9:30 a.m.
10 o'clock classes 9:40-10:20 a.m.

Newman Club Members To Attend Convention

The annual Newman Club convention is scheduled for today, tomorrow and Sunday, according to Buddy Dile, newly elected president of the local chapter.

Plans for this convention were made by the local group after the Communion breakfast, last Sunday at St. Joseph's Church. Mr. Dile stated that this breakfast was one of the most successful functions that have been undertaken by the club members this year.

The guest speaker for the program was Mrs. Walter Mooney, of St. Benedict's parish, who spoke on James Keller's book, "You Can Change the World."

Officers and committeemen are scheduled to attend the convention at Purdue, and many of them have made arrangements to be there. Those eligible are: Buddy Dile, Mary Hormuth, Doris Donovan, Dick Alexander, Joe Unfried, Al Daniels, Joann Lex, and Joanne Stone.

Schmidt Heads SCA For Coming Year

Anna Lee Schmidt, junior, is the newly elected president of the Student Christian Association for the coming year.

Other officers elected were Jo Anne Freshley, freshman, vice president; Philip J. Reisinger, junior, treasurer; and Lucy Hass, fresman, secretary.

Retiring officers are Martha Eskridge, junior, president; Gail Reid, junior, vice president; Arthur Adye, junior, treasurer; and Ervin Kelly, junior, secretary.

The meetings, sponsored by The Rev. Elton L. Barnum, director of religious life, are held every Thursday at 11 a.m.

Glee Club To Present Concert This Sunday

The Girl's Glee Club will give its annual Spring Concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium.

The group consists of twenty voices and is under the direction of Msis Pearl Grabowsky, assistant professor of music.

The Glee Club was organized in the fall of 1943 by Mrs. Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, and is primarily for girls who are not music students.

Mrs. Shepard will direct several of the numbers in the concert.

Claude Foronda, junior, will be the accompanist for the program.

Calendar

Wednesday—Baseball team at Indiana University.

Hale and Student Council Discuss Building Plans

President Lincoln B. Hale met with the Student Council and two faculty members to explain plans for the new Student Union Building, last Friday.

President Hale stated that the plans for the new union building began four years ago; hence, many of the students are now unaware of the enthusiasm accompanying the original plans. The blueprints were completed three years ago.

Hale Explains

He explains that the reason the building is not now under construction is that the total amount of money needed is not at hand. Only $20,000 more is needed. Dr. Hale said to complete the recent drive for $100,000.

Ralph Olmsted, Business Manager, stated that a great hall to handle all-college dances would cost too much. A hall that large should not stand 365 days a year to be used only occasionally Mr. Olmsted said.

"Besides, most colleges and universities hold their all-school dances in gymnasiums."

"The building program is rather extensive. After the union building is completed, a new gymnasium is in order, and after that, a new library."

James L. Barnett, president of the Student Government Association, opened the meeting by stating that he wanted to go on record as never having opposed the building of a new union building, but as having questioned the present plans.

Late News Breaks

● Janes to Conduct Meetings

Miss Lucile Jones, head of the department of education, will give a discussion for primary teachers on "Releasing Tensions in the Classroom" when the Association for Childhood Education holds a state meeting in Anderson, Saturday, May 14. Eilzabeth Reeser and Mary Marylu Plane will represent the college at the meeting.

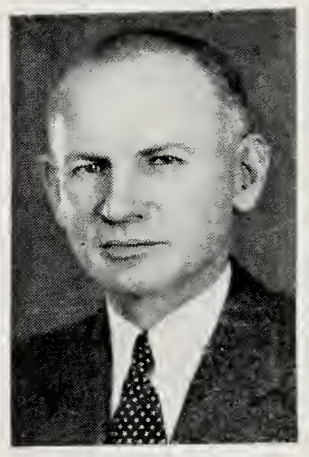
Butler University President To Speak At Commencement Exercises, June 6

Dr. M. O. Ross, president of Butler University, Indianapolis, will be the speaker at commencement exercises Monday night, June 6, in the coliseum, announces President Lincoln B. Hale.

This graduating class will be the largest group in history of the school, almost doubling last year's number, the largest previous class. The graduating seniors number almost 300.



Dr. M. O. Ross

Dr. Ross, a graduate of Kentucky Weslyan College, will speak on "Democracy in Education." In addition to his duties as president of Butler University, Dr. Ross is still serving as acting dean of the college of business administration. He is also the author of numerous books and articles concerning banking and finance. President Ross has a Master of Arts degree and a Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Chicago.

From 1924 to 1931 Dr. Ross served as a professor of economics at Earlham College, becoming dean of the college and serving in that capacity until 1937. Dr. Ross was also an instructor at Ball State Teachers College. He went to Butler in the fall of 1937 and became president in February of 1942.

Ronald Watson Elected New Philo President

Announcement of new officers was made Saturday night at the fraternity's spring formal.

Business Club Members To Hear Robert Million

Robert Million, special agent for Northwestern Mutual insurance company and a graduate of the college, will speak to members of Beta Alpha Kappa, business administration club, Monday at 7:30 p.m., in the cafeteria.

Mr. Million's topic will be, "Insurance as a Vocation." This will be the last regularly scheduled meeting of the organization.

Officers for next year will be elected at the conclusion of Mr. Million's talk.

TUB Board Candidates On Ballot

Publications Committee To Select Yearbook, Paper Executives

Students will vote from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today in the Women's Lounge for new Student Government Association officers and officers for the Temporary Union Building Management Board.

Presidential candidates presented their platforms and explained their aims when they appeared before the student body in special assemblies Tuesday and Wednesday in the auditorium.

Slates Listed

Bob Rideout, sophomore, heads the slate of the Pi Kappa fraternity, and the Independent Student Association. Jim Fowler, junior, is the candidate for vice president; Nancy Lou McCaffrey, sophomore, is running for office of secretary; and Ray Kopycki, junior, is the nominee for treasurer.

Bill Russler, junior, is the presidential candidate of the Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity, and the Theta Sigma and Castalian sororities. Others on this ticket are Joanne Englebert, sophomore, for vice president; Marylu Plane, junior, for secretary; and Jeff Hays, sophomore, for treasurer.

Bob Sakel, junior, is the candidate of the Phi Zeta fraternity and Gamma Epsilon sorority for the office of president. Others on the slate with Mr. Sakel are Lucille Schmitt, junior, for vice president; Ruth Nendel, junior, secretary; and Paul Singleton, junior, for treasurer.

For candidates for TUB management board office see ballot this page.

Each SGA presidential candidate is furnishing four poll workers to hand out ballots and to check the voters' names.

Jim Barnett, current SGA president, will be at the polls all day to guide the program of the election.

New System

There will be no election of editor and business manager of THE CRESCENT and the LinC this year because the ruling was changed by the Administration Board at the suggestion of the Publications Committee.

The new system to eliminate politics and pressures provides that the students make a formal application for the positions and then the Publications Committee will appoint the ones best qualified for the positions.

Choir, Band To Appear At Reitz Next Week

The choir and band will appear in assembly programs at Reitz High School next week.

On Wednesday morning the choir will be presented, and the band concert will be Friday morning.

Candidates Wish Each Other Luck

Bob Rideout, Bill Russler, and Bob Sakel, from left to right, candidates for SGA president, are clasping hands and wishing each other luck, as students go to the polls to vote today.

Wanted: Facts About the Union

In the recent discussion about Evansville College's proposed Union Building, in which certain phases of the plans for construction have been criticized, there seems to be some misunderstanding somwhere along the line as to the ultimate aims of the criticism.

The students of Evansville College are not condemning the building of the union, they merely want to know something about it.

A majority of the students appreciate the time and effort that have gone into the plans and are grateful to the people who have contributed money to it; it is not their intention to tear down all the previous groundwork, but they would like to know exactly what this $600,000 is going to buy.

It has been pointed out by a member of the administration that the letter to the Editor, published two weeks ago in THE CRESCENT, misquoted some facts about the building in connection with the committee rooms. Nevertheless, whether the letter was exactly correct or not, it accomplished its purpose in that the students were given some light on the subject. And if the writer of the letter, a member of the Student Covernment Association, did not know all the facts, then it is certain that the rest of the student body does not know them.

The project on the front campus showing actual sizes of parts of the union drew a variety of comments, the most frequent being, "Why I didn't know the Great Hall was going to be that small." "I'm surely glad someone has finally told me what I'm spending my money for."

Instead of having some speaker stand on the platform in those Tuesday-Wednesday compulsory assemblies and talk about some event which happened three years ago, 10,000 miles from here, why doesn't someone get up and do a little down to earth talking to us about the building that is going to be erected on our campus.

Two Groups Serve as Leaders In Ruling Campus Co-eds

By Sue Dannettell

Inter - society Council and Women's Council, two organizations that are the governing bodies for women on campus are often confused by many students.

Inter-society Council is made up of representatives from the three sororities, Castalian, Camma Epsilon Sigma and Theta Sigma. These representatives, which are the presidents of the three sororities plus another woman appointed by the president, meet every Friday to discuss common problems of the societies and to make rules for them, in order to keep them on as nearly an equal level as possible.

Dean Is Chairman

The Dean of Women, Esther Brown acts as chairman of the Council and serving with her this year have been Eveleyne Ayers, Betty Berges, Emily Combs, Bernice Culley, Sue Dannettell, Pat Kaiser, Sarah Kessler, Marylu Plane, Margaret Scholz, Ann Sinnett, Martha Wessner, Doris Witt and Ann Zimmerman. These people have met with the council for one or more quarters.

On other campuses where the national Creek sororities have chapters, Panhellenic Council is the group which corresponds to Evansville College's Inter-society Council.

Governs Women

Women's Council, the governing body of all women students, and to which all women carrying 12 hours belong, is similar in nature to Associated Women Students, AWS, at other schools.

The council, which supervises the Women's Lounge concentrated on redecorating it this year. They also sponsor Camma Delta, sorority for freshmen women and help with the crowning of the May Queen on May Day.

They furnish flowers for the queen and cover any other expenses in connection with the coronation.

Five cents is allotted to the council from the student activity tickets each quarter.

Miss Brown stated that the Women's Council here was not as broad in function as AWS.

Deserves AWS Title

"I am hopeful that the council will make an effort to extend their function to include some of those of AWS and eventually become a member of AWS, a national organization."

Among the activities of AWS on some campuses is the sponsoring of a Career Day when women from various professions and vocations are brought in to speak to the women students; the governing of women living in dormitories; providing social functions for freshmen during freshman orientation; and the sponsoring of student-faculty social occasions.

As set up here, the executive committee, composed of a president, secretary and treasurer, elected by the women students, and a first and second vice president, appointed by the three officers is the governing force of the council.

Aces Play Indiana Twice Next Week

From the Press Box

by Bill Wood

Next fall's football schedule has been completed and was released early this week by the Athletic Department. Three new teams have been added to the agenda and there are five conference encounters

The first game will be against Morehead, here, Sept. 17. This will be followed by the team being on the road for their next three games. Butler will be the opponent at Indianapolis on September 24; Western Kentucky, there, on Oct. 1, and Missouri Valley, Evansville's opponent in the Refrigerator Bowl last year, there, Oct. 7.

On Oct. 15 one of the new teams on the schedule, St. Norbert College, of Wisconsin, will be here. Murray's Thoroughbreads will be here for a battle on October 20. There has been a lot of speculation about this game since the affair at Murray last year, and the speculation will probably go on until the game is safely on the record books.

Oct. 29 Evansville will journey into rebel country to take on the Chattanooga University team for the second year. In last season's encounter the Aces came out on the short end of a 27-0 score. It was not until the second half that the Pingmen were able to hold the visitors down.

Homecoming will be held Nov. 5, with Eastern Kentucky as the opponent. A week later another newcomer to the Evansville schedule, Kansas State Teachers College, will be in Evansville for a game.

The curtain will come down on the regular season of 1949 at the University of Louisville on Nov. 19. Last year the Aces scored their first win over the Cardinals, dropping them 18-6 here at Evansville.

This looks like it may be a banner year for Evansville football, although how a team will play in October is impossible to predict in May. Nevertheless, the column is going out on the usual limb and predicting at least a nine won and one lost record for Coach Don Ping and his charges next fall.

Last year's starting eleven, with the exception of Bob Kunkel, will all be back in action this year. The tackle spots and backfield are especially deep in experienced men, and the team as a whole should be a tough one to beat.

One of the biggest cinder attractions in the history of the city will be presented at Enlow Field May 28 when the Ohio Valley Conference track meet is run-off.

Entries are expected from all the conference schools in most of the events. This is the first all-conference event for which Evansville has been host in the two years that the OVC has been organized. slated for the 1949 season.

State Golfers Here; Cinder Squad Loses

Linksmen from Indiana State will play the Ace golfers this afternoon on the municipal course at Helfrich. Evansville will be seeking its third links win. They have lost one meet.

There are no track or tennis meets carded for next week. The track and tennis squads lost their contests last week.

Trackmen Lose

Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers took a close 62-60 track and field duel from the Aces last week as they went out ahead of them on the last event of the day.

Going into the last event of the meet, the broad jump, the Aces needed only a first place for a tie, but the broad jump ended with a Western victory.

The Aces garnered seven firsts in the meet with Jerry Canterbury cantering in ahead of the field in the mile run and the 880 yard dash.

Howard Absent

Angelo Howard, Ace high jumper and broad jumper, did not participate in the meet. Howard has done six feet in the high jump. Tom Ward of Western won that event with a leap of five feet, four inches.

Also last week, Southern Illinois' tennis team blanked Evansville's netters by a 7-0 count for their second win from the Aces this year. The college linksmen, who accompanied the tennis team to Southern, fared a little better, as they won their second match in three starts with a 23-4 lop-sided victory.

Action in the intramural softball league is going full blast as Jerry Canterbury is shown pitching for the Phi Zeta I team.

Three Teams Tied For Softball League Lead

Play in the intramural soft ball league moved into the third round last week.

Three teams are tied for first place in the first division. The Newman Club, Philos, and Phi Zeta I each have won four games while losing two. The Phi Zeta II team is setting the pace in the second division with five wins and no losses.

Zeta's Top Buzz Kids

Monday's play found the Phi Zeta I team trouncing the Buzz Kids in a 32-7 massacre. In the other game of the afternoon the Newman Club rallied in the last inning to best the Philos, 7-3.

Tuesday, the Pi Kappa team won a close tilt from the Nats, 9-7.

On Wednesday, four other teams got into action. The Philos smothered the Phi Zeta I team, 17-2. The game was called after five innings because of the five inning, 10 run rule. The Philos collected 20 hits that produced 17 runs. The Newman Club won its second game of the week by squeezing by the Buzz Kids, 7-6.

Thursday, the last day of play for the week, the Phi Zeta I team won a forfeit from the Nats.

Next week's schedule for both divisions is:

May 16
Fraternity Brothers vs. Pi Kappa.
Phi Zeta II vs. Nats.

May 18
Phi Zeta I vs. Philos.
Newman Club vs. Buzz Kids.

May 19
Phi Zeta II vs. Wildcats.
Nats vs. Pi Kappa.

Purples out To Avenge Loss Suffered Earlier in Season

By JEFF HAYS

The Evansville baseball team journeys to Bloomington Tuesday and Wednesday to try to avenge an early season loss to the Indiana Hoosier. In last weeks game, the Aces blasted Eastern Ky. 11-2.

The last time the Aces played Indiana, the Big Nine school walloped the local nine, 11-0. Don Ping's team is handicapped when playing Indiana, however, because his freshmen are not able to play. Roger Shanner, shortstop, Jerry Feller, catcher, and Jim Vogel, pitcher, are the regulars that are affected by this ruling.

Ineligibles Listed

Others ineligible in the game with Indiana are those who played pro ball. In the Ohio Valley loop, they are eligible to play, but against other teams they are not. Big Andy Collins, usually considered the ace of the pitching staff, is affected by this ruling.

There were five home runs in last Friday's tilt with Eastern, three of them were off Evansville bats. Joe Unfried gave the Aces a one run lead when he clubbed his four-master after two were out in the first inning. Roger Shanner and Paul Schmidt added to Evansville's 11 run total with home runs in the third and seventh respectively.

Steiler All The Way

Pitcher Lamont Steiler went all the way for the Aces giving up seven hits, including home runs by Ed Lewicki and Charles Hurtzer. The homers were the only damaging blows off Steiler who had a perfect day at the plate with a single and double in two official trips.

The Aces got to three Eastern pitchers for ten safeties, bunching most of them in the big seventh inning when six Evansville runs crossed the plate.

The remaining schedule:

May 17—Indiana U., there.
May 18—Indiana U., there.
May 24—Murray, there.
May 25—Western, home.
May 28—Louisville, home.
May 31—Indiana State, there.

Irey Wins Medal Honors With 154; Finals Sunday

Paul Irey, captain of the golf team, won medalist honors in the all campus golf tourney that began May 4 at Helfrich Hills. Paul fired a 154 to win honors by four strokes in the 36 hole qualifying play.

Behind Paul was Mike Loeffler who toured the 36 holes in 158 strokes, Don Howard was third with 159, and Dick Unverzagt and Dick Gonterman posted a 165 and 166 respectively to finish out the first five.

Ulsas, Schenk Tie

Charley Taylor finished the 36 hole trial round in 167 swings followed closely by Bill Hartman who carded a 168. Bob Ulsas and Tony Schenk finished in a tie for eighth spot, both posting scores of 169.

Because only eight could advance into match play, Tony and Bob had to play a nine hole playoff to determine the eighth position. In the nine hole match Ulsas fired a 39 to best Schenk by one stroke.

Wins Golf Shoes

In winning the medal honors for the qualifying round, Irey received a pair of golf shoes from Ben Becker Shoe Co.

Last Wednesday the match play began with Irey playing against Conterman, Howard against Hartman, Loeffler against Taylor, and Unverzagt against Ulsas. Sunday the campus champion will be crowned after a 36 hole final duel.

A. C. Spence's Radio Classes Have Interesting Repertoire

By BOB BAMMER

Record albums, wire recordings, and radio station visits make up the main elements in the radio speech class of A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English.

Wire recordings are made of voices of members of the radio speech class, and afterwards the recordings are played back and criticized in an effort to aid the individual in correcting any speech defects he might have.

Visits Stations

During the quarter, the class witnesses an NBC educational movie entitled "Behind Your Radio Dial." They also listen to the famous radio news commentator, Edward R. Murrow, in his much talked about record album "I Can Hear It Now." Besides this, the class makes visits to several of the local AM and FM radio stations to observe in action, the things they have been taught.

Radio speech students participate in panel discussions and in actual "on mike" work, producing simulated broadcasts in the college's own studios in A-301. Near the end of the quarter, the class will cast and produce a simulated broadcast of a radio play called "Socorro."

Follows Procedure

When this type work is not going on, the class follows a regular English class procedure with vocabulary drills, lectures, and textbook discussions.

Speech 204, or radio speech, is a three-quarter hour, one quarter course. Ordinarily it is one of those courses offered only once a year, however, it was offered the past two quarters and will be offered during the summer quarter.

The course has two objectives: (1) To give the student an elementary background in radio speech, and (2) to acquaint the student with the problems in radio speech, both commercial and institutional.

Geology Students Study Western Kentucky Mine

Approximately 15 students left this morning at 7 o'clock on a geology field trip to Kentucky.

The group originally had intended to go to Huntington, Indiana as part of an Indiana University sponsored project, but decided on the closer west central Kentucky region.

They journeyed to Marion, Kentucky last weekend, but were unable to see the fluorospar mine there and decided to return to that vicinity today. Last week the group witnessed the drilling of an oil well and studied layers of earth in a railroad cut near Princeton, Kentucky.

Pre-Med Club Visits Indiana University

Indiana University will be visited Saturday by a group of Pre-Med Club members on a weekend field trip.

Eugene Gore, president of the club, announced that approximately 12 students will take part in the field trip and will leave Evansville about 6 o'clock Saturday morning. The group will also visit the art exhibit now being shown at the university.

Any pre-med student desiring to take part in the excursion, may sign the note on the bulletin board in the Administration Building. A special meeting for all students participating will be held this morning at 11 o'clock in A-215.

Methodist Student Breakfast Set

Dr. James Morlock, dean of men, is accepting reservations for a Methodist Student Movement breakfast which will begin at 7:30 a.m. next Thursday, May 19, in the cafeteria.

The charge for the meal will be 25 cents per person, according to Bob Silber, secretary of the group. He also announced that this will be the last event of the year.

An after breakfast program includes a short skit to be given by several girls who belong to the group, a report on plans for next year by Dr. Morlock, and an election of officers for the coming year.

Buechler Receives Phi Zeta Award

Earl Buechler, senior, has received the Phi Zeta Memorial Award for this year.

The award is presented annually to the member who has contributed most to Phi Zeta fraternity during the year. It was set up in memory of the World War II dead of Phi Zeta.

Last year the award was given to Jim Moss, a 1948 graduate.

Mr. Buechler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Buechler of Huntingburg. In addition to his fraternity affiliation, he is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, the Newman Club, International Relations Club, the TUB management board, and the Welfare Committee.

He will graduate in June with a degree in secondary education.

Gamma Epsilon Sigma Formal Tomorrow

Gamma Epsilon Sigma, social sorority, will have its annual formal dinner dance at 6:30 tomorrow evening in the Empire Room of the Vendome Hotel.

Sarah Kessler, president, will give the welcome address. Robert R. Buell, associate professor of education, is to be the after dinner speaker.

George Fountain's orchestra will play for the dance lasting from 9 to 12 p.m. Breakfast at Pfafflin's Lake is planned following the dance.

This is the fourth spring formal given by social sororities and fraternities of the college.

Dr. Martin Chanin Builds Special Chair For Disabled Child at Wheeler School

Dr. Martin Chanin, extreme right, assistant professor of chemistry, demonstrates the special chair he made for Ann Harrison, a student at Wheeler Grade School, as Fred Kuester, merchant, and Mrs. Evert Hewins, instructor, look on.

Dr. Martin Chanin, assistant professor of chemistry, recently made a special chair for Ann Harrison, a student at Wheeler Grade School. Ann has cerebral palsy, a nervous disorder.

The chair, which Ann will use at her home this summer, was designed so Ann could relax. Dr. Chanin got the idea for the plan of the chair from a picture in a magazine.

Dr. Chanin received a letter from one of the teachers at the school stating that she thinks the chair will assist Ann very much in her rehabilitation, and that Ann is very happy with it.

Others that assisted in building the chair were Chester Kares, who painted it, and Frank Lutz, Sr. who did the upholstering. The lumber was donated by Walter Hillenbrand.

Foreign Students Make Fifty-four Speeches

Foreign students will complete a total of fifty-four speeches to various community groups by the end of the spring quarter, Everette Walker, director of student personnel has announced.

The speeches as given below were made during the fall and winter quarters of 1948 and for those being completed in the spring quarter.

Margaret Miki, who is not a foreign student since she is from Honolulu, Hawaii, was scheduled for 13 speeches; Nilza Santos from Salvadore Bahia, Brazil, 12; Aphrodite Tsatoudi from Saloncia, Greece, 11; Claude Foronda from Laoag, Philipine Islands, nine; Hernando Ospina from Ibaque, Columbia, seven; and Helena Barhon, from Prague, Czechoslovakia, two.

The purpose of these speeches is to inform the community of culture outside the United States and to enlarge the students' educational experience.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

NO cock-of-the-walk was poor, sad, seedy Sheedy when he found loose dandruff on his comb. Now that he's a Wildrooter, he has something to crow about and so will you. Wildroot Cream-Oil gives you neat, well-groomed hair all day long without a trace of oil or grease. Makes it easy to keep that favorite chick in your coupe forever! It relieves annoying dryness and removes so much loose, ugly dandruff that you really have to scratch to find it! Peck on down to your favorite drug counter and bring back a hen full of non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin. Always ask your barber for a professional application! And set on this thought —Wildroot Cream-Oil is again and again the choice of men who put good grooming first.

Stuff from the Ballot Box

By DAVE MILLEN

Now that the Old Professor has carefully polished his steel rimmed glasses and shut his thumb worn lecture notes, it's a sure sign that he's almost finished talking. The time for letting the thoughts wander to times gone by and times to come draws nigh. For to the student, the end of school marks the reign of Janns.

Let's start with the first issue of THE CRESCENT. Jim Barnett said, "We (the SGA cabinet) intend to work hard and long in attempting to build school spirit, not only athletically, but in every phase of campus life." Well Jim, judging from the results, we'd say that your hard work has paid off. Practically everything attempted by the SGA was a success, including Homecoming and the intra-mural sports program. Such a fine job merits praise!

And speaking of Homecoming, can one ever forget the mammoth honfire at the pep rally? Can one fail to remember the happy look on the faces of eight thousand Purple Ace fans at the end of the Refrigerator Bowl game? Will the echoes of cheering thousands ever cease reverberating from the basketball floor at the Armory?

Hell week will be remembered by pledges for the fellowship experienced during the suffering of their miserable lot and by actives for the delight they obtained in inflicting the harmless torture.

Looking forward to next year, we would like to see three quarters jam-packed with record breaking accomplishments. We would like to see bigger Homecomings, greater intramural sports promotions, and above all, the realization of our new Union Building in dimensions large enough for our needs.

We feel sure that we have a capable SGA crew in Bill Russler, Jim Fowler, Marylu Plane and Jeff Hays. May their administration be one which will accept the challenge meted them by the student body at the ballot boxes last Friday. May they follow in the tradition of maintaining a progressive, active and democratic administration.

Rules for Sorority Rushing Activities Now Official

Rules governing sorority rushing activities have been made official by the Inter-society council, Miss Esther Brown, chairman of the council, has announced.

"The rules are similar to those used in the past, they have simply been put down in order in black and white," Miss Brown stated. In the past, rushing activities were governed solely by tradition and verhal rules.

The official rules were worked out through discussion at numerous meetings of sorority officers, alumni group officers and officers of the Inter-society council. At these meetings the group went through past minutes as far back as possible, endeavoring to find an instance of every conceivable controversy that might arise, in order to see how it was handled. This procedure acted as a guide in setting down the official rules.

SGA Officers Installed; Balloting Sets Record

New Student Government Association officers were installed Tuesday, at 11 a.m. during the May Day festivities.

A record-breaking 67 percent of the student body went to the polls last Friday to elect SGA officers and new chairmen of the Temporary Union Building Management Board. The total vote was 905.

Russler Elected

Bill Russler, Pi Epsilon Phi candidate, was elected president of the SGA for the term of 1949-50. Russler tallied 365 votes as compared to 295 for the Phi Zeta candidate, Bob Sakel, and 244 for Bob Rideout, Independent and Pi Kappa candidate.

Jim Fowler, Independent, received 373 votes to defeat Joanne Englebert, Theta Sigma, who polled 273 votes, and Lucille Schmitt, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, who received 255 votes, for the office of vice president.

Plane Wins

Secretary for the coming year will be Marylu Plane, Castalian, who totaled 340 votes against Ruth Nendel, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, who received 301 votes, and Nancy Lou McCaffrey, Independent, who tallied 260 votes.

Treasurer is Pi Epsilon Phi candidate Jeff Hays, who had 414 votes against Phi Zeta's Paul Singleton, who received 309 votes and the Independents Ray Kopycki, who received 179.

Referendum #1, "The election of class officers shall be under supervision of the Student Council," received 570 yes votes and 111 no's. Referendum #2, "Section 1. There shall be an Administrative Board consisting of eight members, four students and four faculty. Section 2. The four faculty members shall consist of the three deans of the college and a member of the faculty elected by the faculty," received 263 yes votes and 390 no's.

Humphrey Heads Committee

In the TUB elections, Mickey Humphrey defeated Selma Douglas to head the All-Campus Dance Department. Bob Ossenberg became chairman of the TUB Dance Department hy defeating Marty Prince at the polls.

The Special Recreation Department will he presided over hy Herman Litschgi, who defeated Elizabeth Lockwood. Bob Young is new chairman of Public Relations by virtue of his victory over Walt Prickett.

The Social Department's new head will be Pat Bates, who won over Jeanne Williams. Salli Henn, who defeated Juna Howard, will be head of the House Committee. Jim Wilson defeated Glen Bartelt for the chairmanship of the Financial Department, and Bob Statham, who will head the Games Committee, won over Wayne Alley.

Barnett Pleased

Each person who lost in the TUB elections will automatically become the vice chairman of the committee, according to Miss Doris Kirk, director of social activities.

Jim Barnett, retiring SGA president, stated that he was pleased with the amount of interest shown in the election by the student body.

Late News Breaks

Several sociology students will visit the federal prison, at Terre Houte, Tuesday.

With this week's contribution, the scholarship funds reached $460, according to Jim L. Bornett, retiring SGA president.

Buell Dalton is the newly elected president of Kappa Chi, honorary ministerial society, according to John Schofield. The annual alumni picnic of this group will be Thursday at 4:30 p.m. at Audubon Park.

Pre-registration for the fall quarter and for summer school will close next Saturday, according to G. R. McCoy, registrar. Students expecting to ottend during these periods are asked to see their advisers as soon as possible.

Home Economics Department Schedules Fashion Program in TUB Tonight

Theme of the combination style show and bridge party to be given by the home economics department tonight at 8 p.m. in the TUB is "Resort to Fashion."

Women from the advanced clothing class, the night school class in tailoring, and the clothing problems class, taught hy Mrs. Dora Louise Hess, will model costumes which they have made. Models will be Mary Bollinger, Joan Hayes, Shirley Olson, Monna Lou Dugan, Frances Jones, Geno Burns, Gail Wright, Sue Zopf, Fleta Benedict, Jackie Schmitt, Marion Harris, Pat Rampy, Donna Cyier, and Mrs. Ruth Perkins.

Males To Model

Male models will be Tom Turner, Harry Axford, Forrest Oliver, Jeff Hays, Mason Working, Jim Theuerkauf, Charlie Ross, and Ramsey Bristow.

Seven children will model juvenile fashions in costumes made by members of the clothing problems class.

The show will be a travelogue displaying clothes proper for wear in varying locales. Sports, afternoon, and evening clothes are to be shown.

Marian Harris, Mary Bollinger, and Betty Marshall, left to right, are checking the clothes they are going to model tonight in the Home Economics Style Show.

Aids Delegates

This is the second annual style show given by the home economics department. Proceeds will help finance sending of delegates to a home economics workshop next spring. The workshop will be at Purdue University, composed of delegates from colleges in this area.

Co-chairmen of the event are Joan Henn and Donna Cyrier.

Members of the Home Economics Club are selling tickets. The public is invited.

SCA Schedules Retreat For Sunday Afternoon

The Student Christian Association will sponsor a retreat Sunday afternoon at Lincoln State Park. The group will leave from the college at 2 p.m.

New officers will he installed at the retreat. They are Anna Lee Schmidt, president; Jo Anne Freshley, vice president; Philip Reisinger, treasurer; and Lucy Hass, secretary.

Activities will consist of swimming and boating, recreation, group singing, and a pot-luck supper.

Plan Workshops This Summer

Five workshops will be conducted at the college during June and July, President Lincoln B. Hale has announced.

Three of these, a Child Behavior Workshop, a Radio Workshop, and a Physical Education Workshop, June 6 to 17, will be given hy the Center for Advanced Study and each will varry two semester hours of graduate credit.

The Center for Advanced Study is sponsored by the college in cooperation with Indiana University, Purdue University and the Evansville Public Schools.

An Air Age Education Workshop, carrying three quarter hours of under-graduate credit, will be offered June 20 to July 1 in cooperation with the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Indiana State Department of Public Instruction.

Ministers and church school workers will be offered a workshop in Improving the Ministry July 11 to 15.

Commencement Dance Scheduled for June 6

Plans for the Commencement Dance have been announced by Norman Kniese, senior class president.

A new feature is being initiated this year, Mr. Kniese stated. Each of the three sororities and the Independent Student Association will nominate a girl who is a junior at present for Commencement Dance Queen. The queen will be chosen at the dance and reign over next year's senior class.

The dance will be held from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m. Monday, June 6 in the Empire Room of the Hotel Vendome. Charlie Kroener's orchestra will play. The dance will be open to the junior class.

Mr. Kniese said that no date for placing tickets on sale has been decided upon yet.

VanWinkle, James Get Positions

Sue Dannentell will be the editor of THE GRESCENT next year and Bill Cobb will edit the LinC of 1950.

This announcement was made by the Publications Committee after studying the applications for these positions.

Business manager positions go to Charles Van Winkle for THE CRESCENT and Jo Ann James for the LinC. These are the only positions selected by the Publications Committee.

Had Experience on Paper

Miss Dannettell will fill the vacancy left by Arlene Starry upon completing her work at the end of the winter quarter. Miss James has been acting editor since that time. Miss Dannettell has been editorial page editor and managing editor of THE CRESGENT. She is a sophomore, secondary education major, and a member of the Castalian sorority. She also is a member of the Women's Athletic Association, Alpha Phi Mu, freshman girls' honorary, and Pi Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary.

Mr. Cobb will take over his duties from Jon Gundling, this year's annual editor. Mr. Cobb has been spending some time this quarter planning next year's book. He is a junior, an English major, a Phi Zeta and has held two page editorships on THE CRESGENT. His activities were increased last night when he was initiated into the journalism fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon.

James Makes Switch

Mr. Van Winkle will receive the books and files from Bob Young, present manager of the paper. Transferring from St. Joseph College, Mr. Van Winkle has spent a year on campus studying toward a marketing major. He is a sophomore, a member of the tennis team and Phi Zeta fraternity.

After being acting editor of the paper this quarter, Miss James will switch over to the business side of the LinC. She will replace Janet Roberts, present business manager. Miss James is a sophomore, marketing major, and a member of the Castalian sorority. She also was initiated into Pi Delta Epsilon last night.

Many Positions Open

Other positions on both publications will be announced later because it is impossible to determine what persons will be available next year. Students interested in doing publications work are contacting John A. Boyd, publications adviser.

At a recent meeting of the Administrative Board, the Publications Committee was given the responsibility of selecting the editor and business manager of the two campus publications. It was pointed out that in the past the whole student body had voted for these positions without knowing of the candidates qualifications or abilities.

Square Dance Set For Wednesday

Square dancing will return to the campus next Wednesday, Jim Cooper, dance chairman, has announced.

This will be good news to square dance lovers inasmuch as it is the first dance planned sence the weekly square dances were discontinued, Mr. Cooper stated.

The dance, named "The Hayseed Hop," will take place in the TUB and on the adjacent veranda at 8 p.m. Ray Baner will call the dance, and phonograph records will provide the music.

Special entertainment is being arranged for the occasion, and the student body is invited. There will be no admittance charge.

Although it is not compulsory, Mr.Coo per urged that everyone attending the dance wear costumes befitting the occasion (overalls, straw hats, etc.), in an effort to present a more colorful affair.

Quarter Plan Aids Too Few

During the past school year it has been proved without a doubt that the quarters system is extremely unpopular with the student body of Evansville College. There are several reasons for this feeling, the first being that the faculty have not geared their courses to the system. Instead of cutting down on the amount of work to be covered they continue to throw a full semester of study at the student, the result being a bitter attitude and lowered grades. This situation is not conductive to high morale, either in the student body or in the faculty.

Another gripe that has been voiced is that of having to work too hard. While this is, and should be, taken lightly in most circles, there are students whose feeling on the matter is legitimate. As an example, take a student that is carrying extra hours to try and finish in as short a time as possible. If this student continues to carry extra hours under the quarter system the load is likely to he more than one can take safely.

The quarter system was initiated originally for the benefit of the industrial technology students, numbering seven at the time of the switch in systems. At present there are comparatively few persons studying under the cooperative plan, a number that does not seem to justify putting the entire school on the quarter system.

One of the other points that is against the system is the decline in attendance at social activities during this past year. When people are loaded to the limit they find it difficult to take time out for dances, parties etc. It has been pointed out during the years that learning the social graces is one of the important phases of college life, and the quarter system now in effect here at Evansville College is certainly not helping this at all.

Why the system should be maintained is not quite understandable when the students are not in favor of it, some of the faculty have hinted that they are also against it, and it is only for the benefit of a few students. It would certainly be beneficial to the school morale, to the caliber of work being turned out, and to the social success of Evansville College if the quarter system would be relegated to the wastebasket, a most fitting resting place.

This is another in a series of THE CRESCENT editorials on controversial subjects on the campus. Next week an editorial will appear in favor of the quarter system.

Fishing Beckons All Classes

Bill Duffy

This is the time of year that one tries to catch the "fish that got away;" a tall story that will be welcomed by straining ears at fireside chats next winter. Now is the time when man feels an urge to experiment matching individual resourcefulness against the cunning of the quarry.

Various assorted lures that have been carefully laid away, rods and recently oiled reels are taken from their storage place in the closet, and are now in action. Old lines have been cast aside, and new ones offer a challenge for all the fish world.

Yes, this is the time of the year that human beings match alertness and patience with the cunning wittiness of the demons of the lakes, rivers, and streams; the time when one will sit in a boat and cast all day just to feel the explosion of a bass striking at the other end of the line, fighting gamely until conquered, and when one is not satisfied until the fighting fish has been safely netted.

Fishing is not done by one particular class or group; everyone from the president of the country down to the little tike, barefoot, with stone bruises, try their skill at fishing. All fishing is not done alike, but the little fellow that comes trodding wearily home from the creek with his small string of fish is just as proud as the president would be after his prize catch of a 420 pound marlin from the ocean.

One may travel throughout the country now and see the banks of lakes, rivers, streams and ponds lined with people fishing. Luck or no luck, anglers of every description may be seen trying their skill at fishing.

This column was written to inspire one that has never fished to try it sometime. Those who have had the experience of fishing know what I mean when I say, "Successful fishing is not only a skilled art of the sports world, but also one of the best ways to test one's ability of endurance, and to spend leisure time."

Messages to New SGA President

To Bill Russler:

My heartiest congratulations, Bill, and most sincere best wishes for a very successful year as Student Government president.

On behalf of Pi Kappa Fraternity and the Independent Student Association and the many other persons who supported me, I wish to say that we are all behind you. The campaign is over but the greatest amount of work is still ahead and we believe the combined efforts of everyone are needed to keep Student Government on the upswing at Evansville College. We shall cooperate with you and the other officers in every possible way and our efforts shall be honest and constructive.

Over 900 persons voted in the election last Friday, and this alone is an indication of the interest in Student Govt. I am confident that you will continue the fine work of Jim Barnett and that your record as S.G.A. president shall be as fine as your record in athletics and other lines.

Sincerely,
BOB RIDEOUT

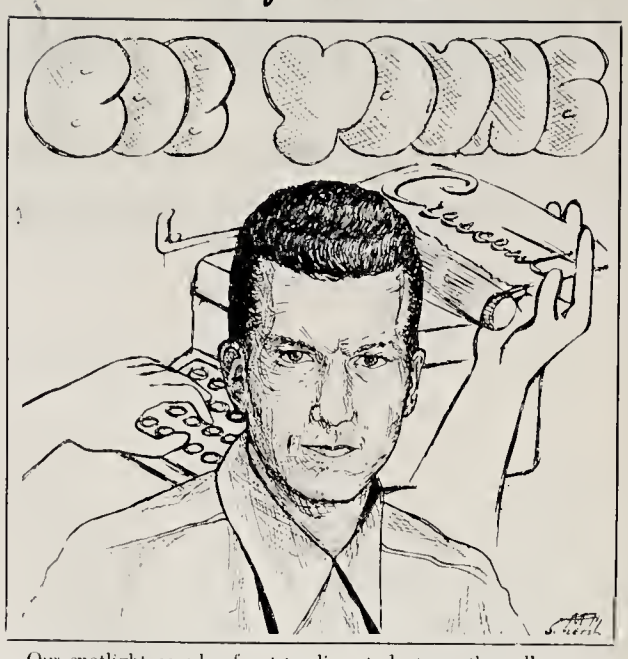
Pic of the Week

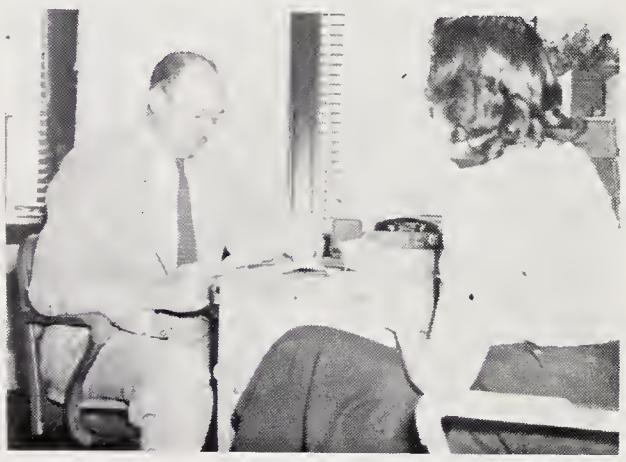


Our spotlight parade of outstanding students on the college campus turns this week to Robert Young, business manager of THE CRESCENT.

Bob, as he is better known to his friends, started to Evansville College after his graduation from Reitz High School. His first assignment with the paper was that of circulation manager. After a tour with Uncle Sam's Army, Bob returned to school and became assistant business manager, and for the last year and a half has served as business manager.

He is a business administration major and plans to graduate next year. Bob is a member of the Philo social fraternity and the Acacia Club. Last Friday he was elected as publicity manager of the Temporary Union Building.

Olmsted in First Freshman Class at Evansville College



Ralph Olmsted, executive secretary of the college for the past 20 years is doing, "What Comes Naturally" as he dictates a letter to his secretary, Miss Louise Bell.

By Ray Lasher

In 1919, Moores Hill College, located in Dearborn County, Indiana, became Evansville College at the corner of Sixth and Vine Streets in this city. Two or three students from Moores Hill, which had disbanded in 1917, followed the president, a few faculty members, the library books, and some odds and ends of scientific apparatus were moved to the new location. There were 93 students enrolled the first year: no seniors, one junior, 20 sophomores, and the other 75 were freshmen.

One of the 75 frosh was Ralph Olmsted. Now, 30 years later, this erstwhile freshman is still with the school, but as Mr. Ralph Olmsted, business manager and treasurer. Another of these entering freshmen, Elizabeth Wright, who had the distiction of being the first graduate of Evansville College, completing her course in three years, later became his wife. Mrs. Olmsted taught English here last year.

First Crescent Editor

Before his graduation in 1923, Mr. Olmsted became the first editor of THE CRESCENT, the LinC's initial editor in 1922, and president of his junior and senior classes. He is a charter member of Pi Epsilon Phil Fraternity. Mr. Olmsted came to Evansville in 1913 from Illinois, and graduated from Evansville Central High School in 1918. He was in the army for a span of three months during the intervening time between high school and college.

He left the college upon graduation and taught high school English first at Cynthiana and later at Central, only to return to the college in 1925 as an instructor in journalism and assistant to the president.

Manages Property

Mr. Olmsted has served under all the presidents. Beginning with the first, President Hughes, and now President Hale. In 1928 Mr. Olmsted was elevated to the post he now holds, but at that time and until last year, the position was known as executive secretary. Serving in this capacity, he is custodian of all funds and securities of the college. Mr. Olmsted is the manager of all property owned by the college and all non-academic personnel come under his jurisdiction.

Mr. Olmsted will soon be relieved of one of his career-long duties, that of secretary of the Alumni Association. After 24 years service in that capacity, the college has decided that the association requires a full-time secretary.

The above feature is another in the series of faculty members who have served on the college faculty for over twenty years.

ROUNDABOUT with Sue and Jerri

Dandelion Department

Our funds being at a rather low ebb, we've neglected passing out flowers in the "kolum" for several weeks. Now, however, we want to extend two bouquets of posies to two very worthy groups. The first clump of roses goes to the outgoing SGA officers, Jim Barnett, Emily Combs, Sarah Kessler, and Jim Fowler in recognition of a job well done. Our second contribution is being extended to the newly elected SGA officers, Bill Russler, Jim Fowler, Marylu Plane, and Jeff Hays. To this group we give an ivy plant in hopes that both the plant and SGA will climb high as the sky in stature and strength.

Give to the War Memorial Scholarship Fund . . . tell Adrian Baize how authentic he looked walking in front of Janis Paige's car cranking that imaginary movie camera . . . send our thanks to the faculty committee for planning a swell May Day for us — and that unbelievable free lunch (burp) . . . tell the women in the T-Hut how pretty the flowers there always look.

There's One In Every Crowd

We mean a professor who delights in alternately sneering and cheering at the "younger generation now in college."

One such professor was leaning over his rostrum delivering a dissertation on the mode of talk sported by the younger among us.

"Now what's that silly saying the girls on the campus are in the habit of saying?" he mused to the discomfiture of the coeds in the class.

"NO!" shouted a male from the recesses of the back row.

Aces Nine To Play Murray, Western

From the Press Box by Bill Woods

Two of the reasons that Evansville figures to have a successful year on the basketball court during 1949-50 season are the Barnett brothers, pictured below. Both Bob and Jim have been with the Aces for the past two seasons and are being counted on for the next two years.

With the Barnetts at the forward slots you can rest assured that things will happen under the basket on every play. Bob and Jim are a few years apart in age but Jim was in the service and they started their collegiate careers at the same time.

In addition to the Barnetts all the starters from last year will be back and things are definitely looking up for the Purple and White basketball record next season.

Phi Zetas Cop Game From Philos, 3-2

The Phi Zeta I team moved into the lead in division I of the intramural softball league by downing the Philos 3-2 in 9 innings Monday.

Prior to Monday's game the Philos and Phi Zetas had beaten each other one time in sharing the division lead. The Zetas moved ahead, however, when Art Fellwock, Philo pitcher, walked in Paul Carnes in the last of the ninth with the deciding tally. Carnes was the winning pitcher for the Phi Zetas.

In setting the stage for Monday's thriller, the Philos and Phi Zetas both had close tilts with the Newman Club and the Buzz Kids respectively.

In a fast 40 minute game the Philos set the Newman club down 1-0. Jim Niehaus, Philo captain, scored the game's only run in the top of the sixth. The Phi Zeta's tilt with the Buzz Kids was a slugfest all the way with the frats coming out on the long end of a 13-9 count.

Games in Division II were washed out last week because of the rains. Phi Zeta II leads this circuit with six wins without a loss.

Next week a four team playoff has been planned with the top two teams from each division playing each other. Phi Zeta I will play Phi Zeta II and the Philos meet the Wildcats with the winners playing for the championship Tuesday.

Wires Clears Low Hurdle

Wires Is Versatile In Sports Field

By BOB BAMMER

Concentrating on spring sports now, Lemois Wires, 20-year old freshman, also plays basketball and specializes in football, all of which helps to catalog him as an all-around athlete.

His home-town is Boonville, Ind., and he graduated from Boonville High School in 1948. While there he played football, basketball, and track. In his freshman and sophomore years, he played right half on the football team; in his junior year he switched to the left end position, and in his senior year, he wound up playing left half.

Gets SIAC Mention

They thought enough of him up there to present him with the Sportsmanship Trophy, a Boonville High School award, in his senior year. In his junior and senior years Lemois received honorable mention on the All Southern Indiana Athletic Conference. In his senior year, he scored 11 touchdowns and six extra points, which is a pretty good record on any man's team.

When asked what his most thrilling game experience was, the five foot, 11 inch, 170 pound Wires replied, "Our game with Bowling Green High School." It seems Boonville was on the short end of the score for most of the game, but in the last two minutes of play, Lemois scored a touchdown-a-minute to save the day for BHS.

As a result of his athletic activities in high school, he received 11 letters.

Wins Award

This year, in connection with his football prowess, he received the Evansville College "most improved player" award.

He is majoring in physical education, and minoring in history. After he graduates in 1952, he intends to coach football and track and teach history.

In Boonville he lives at 614 E. Division St. and his local address is 303 Congress Ave.

Unverzagt Beats Irey; Takes Golf Tourney

Dick Unverzagt won the All-Campus Golf Tournament with a 36-hole 2-up victory over Paul Irey Sunday at Helfrich Hills.

Irey was the medalist and favorite, but had a rough time for the first 18 holes in the finals. He was six down at the time, but settled down during the afternoon and forced the match to go the full 36 holes.

Unverzagt shot a 74-78—152, while Irey carded an 80-74—154.

Unverzagt defeated Charles Taylor to reach the finals, while Irey eliminated Don Howard.

Stubbs Leads Sluggers With .421 Percentage

Double Header at Murray Tuesday; To Play Western Twice on College Field Wednesday

By RAY LASHER

Two conference double headers, one each with Murray and Western Kentucky, fill the baseball bill for the Aces next week.

Tuesday, Coach Ping's nine journeys to Murray, Kentucky, to play the battling Thoroughbreds a twin hill. The clubs are making up a rained out game originally scheduled for May 10 here. Wednesday, Evansville returns home to meet Western on the College Field at 2 p.m. in another economy card.

Close Out Season

The few conference games scheduled for the first part of the season were decreased even more in number by rain and bad weather, hence, the Aces are going into the last two weeks of the season with a conference record of 1-1. But with these four games and a game at Louisville the following Saturday, the Aces close their conference schedule with a rush. A game with Indiana State there May 31, closes out the season.

The Purple Aces' overall record as of May 13 is 7-5 for a percentage of .583. That figure to be a 6-4 won and lost record for non-conference tilts.

Stubbs Leads Hitters

Harold Stubbs, right fielder, leads the club at the plate with a .421 batting mark. Roger Shanner, shortstop, is second in the batting race with a .359 percentage. Shanner is also tied with Paul Schmidt for base stealing honors with eight.

Marvin Stofft, first baseman and third in the batting race with a .318, leads the club in practically every other department but foul balls. He leads in home runs with three, in triples with two, in doubles with three, and with 11 markers pushed across, leads in the important runs batted in column.

Spring Sports Teams Face Busy Week

Evansville is being represented at the State Golf Meet at Purdue today by five players. Charley Taylor, Paul Irey, Don Howard, Dick Gonterman and Mike Loeffler made the jaunt to Lafayette for today's tournament. This is the first event on what looks to be a busy week for the spring sport teams, as they wind up their seasons.

Tomorrow afternoon the Purple Ace cindermen make their first home appearance of the year when they tangle with University of Louisville and Western Kentucky State in a triangular meet at Enlow Field. In meets to date, the trackmen have not been able to cop a victory, dropping their last encounter to Hanover College.

Cindermen Idle

The cindermen will be idle following tomorrow's meet until the Ohio Valley Conference track meet, to be held at Enlow Field next Saturday afternoon.

There will be action on two fronts Wednesday afternoon when the Western Kentucky State golf and tennis teams invade Evansville for matches with the Aces. Reuben Boswell, Don Brannon, Bill Hopkins, Dick Unverzagt and Bob Sakel will probably play for the netters.

Linksmen Named

In the golf match, scheduled for Helfrich Hills, Dick Gonterman, Don Howard, Paul Irey, Charley Taylor, Mike Loeffler and possibly Jack Matthews will take on the invading Hilltoppers. Western has not announced the players that they will send up for either of the matches.

The linksmen will also have a week of rest before resuming action. Their last test will be the Ohio Valley Conference golf tournament, next Friday, at Bowling Green. They will be in competition with golfers from the other schools in the OVC at that time.

Castalians Defeat WAA To Win Bowling Title

In the playoff for the Women's Bowling Championship last Thursday, the Castalian Sorority won two games from the Women's Athletic Association to take the title.

The Theta Sigma Sorority took two games by forfeit from the Gamma Epsilon Sigma Sorority to wind up in third place.

Trophies will be presented to the winning team and to Louise Kiely for the high single game of 191, to Rovella Hinton for the high two game series of 357 and the highest average of 140; and to Pat Winegard who had perfect attendance for the year.

Mrs. Bonnie Greuble Stephens Crowned May Day Queen

With the playing of a musical prelude by the college band under the direction of Wesley Shepard, co-head of the music department, the May Festival of 1949 began at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday on the front lawn of the campus.

During the program which followed, James L. Barnett, retiring Student Government president, crowned Mrs. Bonnie Greubel Stephens as queen of the festival. Emily Combs, Suzanne Goeke, Marilyn Ramsey, and Doris Witt, seniors, were her attendants.

Awards Muth

A Maypole dance was followed by the congratulation of Lester Morton by Dean E. M. McKown in behalf of all students who had made the dean's list during the winter quarter. President Lincoln B. Hale presented the Campus Notables.

Harold Van Winkle, director of public relations, introduced a representative of each of the honor societies on campus. Roger Becker, vice president of the Ohio Valley Hardware and Roofing Company, awarded Mary Lou Muth, junior, with the National Office Management Association Award. A. C. Spence, assistant professor of English, announced the presentation of the Clarence H. Edwards Memorial Award to Clarence Clayton and John Schrodt, seniors.

Choir Sings

Mr. Barnett was next on the program and after a brief speech relinquished the gavel of his office to Bill Russler, newly elected S.G.A. president, who then introduced the other recently elected officers. Emily Combs, senior, presented Evelyne Ayers, junior, who is president of the Women's Council and Bill Woods presented members of the Temporary Union Building Management Board.

The choir then sang "Annie Laurie" which was followed by the singing of the Evansville College Hymn to close the program.

Planting of a tree by the senior class, softball games, and a Little Sympony concert, concluded the day's festivities.

Brass Solo Recital Scheduled Sunday

Mary Martino, senior majoring in piano, will head a group of soloists in a brass recital presented by the music department at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium.

Instructor Nicholas Cannici, in charge of the program, announced that the recital is open to the public. Paul Welborn, freshman, will open the program with a cornet solo, "Napoli" by Bellstedt. Following numbers by a brass sextet and a trombone quartet, Miss Martino will present two piano solos, "Nocturne A Major" and "Etude C # Minor," both by Scriabine.

Cantrell Craddock, senior, will then present a trombone solo, "Legende" by Tournemier. "Spanish Caprice" by L. B. Smith will be presented as a cornet solo by Clayton Brant.

The brass sextet will end the program with "Allegro" by Beethoven.

Changes in Selecting Yell Leaders Being Proposed

Several proposals affecting yell leaders are being studied by Dean Long, administrative assistant to the president, for presentation to the Athletic Board of Control for its approval. Mr. Long is chairman of the board.

These proposals would place the selection of yell leaders in the hands of the Athletic Committee and athletic department. In the past yell leaders have been chosen by the student body.

Yell leaders also would be granted a major letter for one year of service, football and basketball combined, and a white sweater for three years of service.

Eugene Robinson, athletic business manager and yell leader faculty adviser, has appointed Jim Cooper, junior, yell leader captain for the coming year. It is the duty of the faculty adviser and the yell leader captain to decide the work to be done by the yell leaders.

Walker Is Designated Boy Scout Chairman

Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, was elected chairman of the Daniel Boone District of Boy Scouts, May 10, at a meeting in Redeemer Lutheran Church in Evansville.

This district is made up of the eastern part of Vanderburgh county and the western part of Warrick county and includes Evansville and Boonville.

For the last two years Mr. Walker has been chairman of the Leadership Training Committee of the Southern Indiana Council of Boy Scouts. Altogether, he has participated in Boy Scout activities for 20 years, both as a scout and on various leadership committees.

Coeds Swim in YMCA Aqua Maid's Show

Five Evansville College women, Mary Bollinger, Doris Donovan, Joan Hallinan, Pat Schymik, and Ann Whitehead are included in the YWCA's Aquacade, annual swimming show, which began yesterday and will continue through Wednesday.

A circus theme, entitled "Under the Big Top" is carried out in the formations and decorations, in which glo-suits of varied colors are worn. A pony number, a trained seal act, acrobats, and others, including two black light numbers, are on the program.

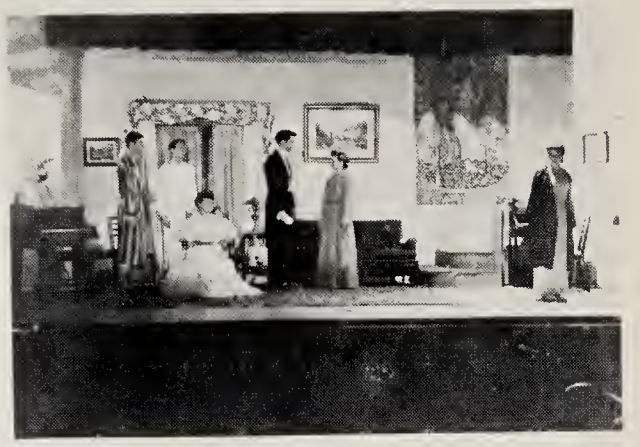
Klahn Wins Record Album As Brainteaser Winner

Gordon Klahn, sophomore, has been named winner of the year's brainteaser contest, it was announced today. He answered correctly the largest number of brainteasers which have been published in THE CRESCENT.

The Fine Arts Committee, sponsor of the contest, will present Mr. Klahn a recording of Beethoven's 9th Symphony in long playing records at its meeting Monday.

Answer to last week's brainteaser was nocturne, serenade, and aubade, three kinds of music named for a time of the day.

144 Students Participate In Taylor's Productions



Above is a scene from "Peg o' My Heart" in which Bob Hevron, junior, and Jerri Steinmetz, sophomore, had the leading roles. Other plays given this year were "Three Men on a Horse," "Eager Heart," and "The Linden Tree." All were directed by Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, assistant professor of speech and drama.

One hundred and forty-four students participated in various phases of the school play productions this year, according to report of Mrs. Kenneth Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor stated that it was through the loyal cooperation of the students who participated in the various phases of production that each play was a success.

Draws Crowds

The plays produced this year under Mrs. Taylor's direction represented four types of drama.

"Three Men on a Horse" by John Cecil Holm and George Abbot, produced Nov. 15-16, 1948, represented modern farce comedy. This play drew the largest crowd of the year. The technical staff included Diane Hadley, assistant director; Ben Bockstege Jr., stage manager; and William Cobb and Robert Hevron, business managers.

"Eager Heart," originally given by permission of the Eager Heart Company of England, has become the traditional Christmas play of the college. One of the stipulations made by the Eager Heart Company to directors was that members of the cast or persons working with the production were to receive no publicity.

Revive Costumes

"Linden Tree" by J. B. Priestley, produced Feb. 17-18, 1949 by permission of Samuel French, received the London Play Award for the best play of the year in England for 1947. The technical staff included Harold Buck, ticket chairman and house manager, and Norman Stewart, stage manager.

"Peg O' My Heart" was a revival of an old costume play which ran 11,000 performances from 1912-18. The technical staff included Elizabeth Grimsley, house manager and Louis A. Ray, stage manager.

The plays were sponsored by the Thespians whose officers are Jim Fowler, president; Jerri Steinmetz, vice president; Mary Lou Muth, secretary; and Jim Wilson, business manager.

Physics Professor To Do Research

Robert A. Artman, associate professor of physics, has been appointed to a research assistantship at the University of Iowa for the next college year.

He will do research on the elastic properties of single metal properties, and will also complete requirements toward a doctor's degree.

Prof. Artman received his bachelor's degree from Illinois College in 1937 and his master's degree from the University of Iowa in 1939. He taught for two years at Alabama Polytechnic Institute and during the war was head of the physics department of the AAF pre-flight school at Maxwell Field.

Prof. Artman has been granted a year's leave of absence from the college.

Education Majors To Be Reassigned

A new system of registration for secondary education students has been announced by Miss Lucile Jones, head of the department of education.

In the past all secondary education students have registered either with Dr. Leland Moon or Dr. Robert Buell. However, because of the increased enrollment, those students will now be assigned to the department for the field in which they intend to teach.

Students registering for Education 267, 266, and 264 must see Dr. Moon or Dr. Buell during the pre-registration period to make plans for placement for student teaching in the city schools, it was stated.

Castalian Spring Formal To Have 'Fiesta' Theme

The Spring Formal of the Castalian sorority will be tomorrow night at 6:30 in the Gold Room of the Hotel McCurdy, according to Harriet Buthod, Castalian president.

Sue Goeke, senior, is in charge of the program, which will have as its theme, "Castalian Fiesta."

Miss Buthod announced the following committee chairmen for the dance: Jo Ann James, publicity; Pat Ott, decorations; Betty Lou Baird, favors; Mona Dugan and June Herzer, co-chairmen of the dinner committee; and Karleen Yeager, band.

Charlie Kroener's orchestra will play for the affair, which is to be a dinner dance, Miss Buthod said.

Winners of Chesterfield Contest

Stuff from the Ballot Box

This is the last in a series of articles written by SGA officers and class presidents. Bill Russler is the newly elected president of SGA.

By BILL RUSSLER

First of all I would like to take this opportunity to thank you who voted for me. I sincerely appreciated it, and I will do my utmost to see that you have not thrown your vote in the wrong direction. In my campaign speech I asked for your wholehearted support and cooperation, and I hope to receive it.

Secondly, there are many things that can't be done in a year, but I intend to see by personal contact what you, the students, have appreciated this past year and continue these projects along their way. One of these projects is the intramural program. In this field we plan to do many things. I said there will be activities for individuals as well as teams. We plan to have wrestling and boxing teams, which is definitely an individualistic sport. We also want to install a class track meet. For the girls, we want to have golf and tennis.

In the other fields, we would like to organize the presidents of the various clubs and fraternities on campus, and have weekly meetings so as to make better school spirit and organization in the future. We would like to see a bigger and better homecoming celebration this year and see it grow each year. We show no partiality to race, creed, or religion, and I promise you if you are qualified, there will be numerous jobs for you in student government work.

I will make mistakes, but they will be honest mistakes, and I promise you that your suggestions will be my command.

Advocates Student Policy

I want you, the student body, to understand that while my fraternity nominated me, it was made with the reservation that I will not be governed by any small group, and what I do will be in the intrests of good student government. I sincerely believe that the policy on the campus should be a student policy.

I don't intend to make promises that are impossible for me to carry out, but I assure you that any statement I've made will be carried out not only by me, but by the entire student government.

Parting Thought

I want to thank Jim Barnett for the fine job he has done this year and I only hope that I can do as well. I want to leave this thought with you: student government is an important phase of college, but remember, your job was not finished when you voted, and when we call on you for help, put all you've got into it for the betterment of good student government. I thank you.

College Sells Parkside Hall Housing Project

Parkside Hall, the veterans housing project, is no longer a part of Evansville College.

Two buildings were sold to the city and the other seven were sold to Mr. Luther Ashby and will be torn down and sold for scrap lumber. Mr. Ralph Olmsted, Business Manager, said the college will maintain possession of the apartment building, the only structure now occupied, until June 15 to allow the inhabitants to finish the spring quarter.

Evansville College secured the buildings three years ago from the government to operate as part of a nationwide veterans housing program. Although capacity for the project was 112 single residents and 10 couples, there were never more than 70 residents at one time.

Late News Breaks

The Fraternity Brothers organization has elected new officers for the coming year. Marvin Brown was reelected president. Others elected include Jim Nichals, vice president; Jim Wallace, secretary; and Cullen Carr, treasurer.

Earl Harp was recently chosen president of the Accounting Club. Elmer Graham was elected vice president and Lawrence Mattingly was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Miss Dorothy Surbeck announces that there are several items in the TUB lost and found department. They include: one cigarette lighter, four automatic pencils, one fountain pen, and one billfold containing some money, and stamped "Freddy."

The annual alumni reunion and program will be on campus next Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This year's graduates, all post graduates, and faculty members are invited.

Today is the last day to register and pre-register.

There will be no classes Monday, Memorial Day.

This is the last issue of THE CRESCENT for this school year.

Fraternities, Sororities Elect Officers for Fall

The fraternities and sororities on campus have recently elected officers.

Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity held its election several weeks ago. New officers elected have previously been recognized in the Pi Kappa fraternity had nominated candidates for their offices, but the election has not yet been held.

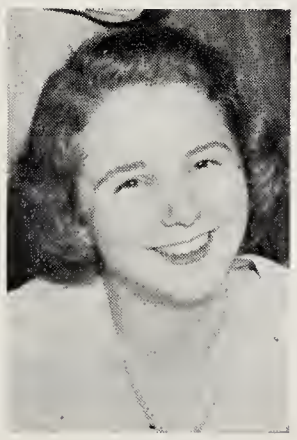
Music Scholarship Goes to Schmidt



Anna Lee Schmidt

Anna Lee Schmidt, junior, received a $500 scholarship in a musical contest sponsored by the Music News Syndicate on Saturday, May 14, in Chicago.

Miss Schmidt is entitled to use the money to enroll in a music school of her own choice. She competed against contestants from ten Mid-western states to win the award.

In order to enter the final contest in Chicago, Miss Schmidt had to pass through regional and state committees.

Scholarship endowments totaling $5000 were awarded to students of voice, piano, and violin in this contest held at the University of Illinois.

Miss Schmidt is a music major who has studied voice under Cecil B. Selfridge, associate professor of voice, for two years. She is president of the Student Christian Association and vice president of Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary music fraternity. She also belongs to the Student Council, the A Capella Choir, and the Madrigal Singers. She is at present a soloist at the First Presbyterian Church.

Director Announces Summer Evening College Courses

The summer evening college courses have been announced by Harold W. See, Director of the Evening College. All evening college courses are of college grade, and most of them will carry credit that is identical with credit earned in the regular college curriculum, and may be applied toward a degree.

Registration will start June 7, 8, and 9, with classes starting June 13 and continuing through August 4. Tuition is seven dollars per credit quarter hour with a registration fee of one dollar.

Refresher Classes Given

There are 17 courses offered with Personal Typing, Solid Geometry, Intermediate Algebra, and Remedial Reading offered as refresher courses for high school students who wish to enroll in regular courses in the fall. Also offered for the first time is an advanced course in radio workshop procedure. This course carries two semester hour credits.

The course will start with the basic assumption that all teachers enrolled have had little or no experience in this area. The course will be June 6 to 17.

A Physical Education Workshop, carrying two semester hours credit will be offered. This course will be presented in such a manner that it will be of value to both elementary and high school teachers and persons in charge of industrial and city recreation.

Persons interested in any summer evening college courses who desire information are requested to phone 3-3437.

McKown Delivers Sermon To Boonville Methodists

Dr. Edgar M. McKown, dean of the college, delivered the sermon at the Main Street Methodist Church in Boonville, May 15.

Dr. McKown is an ordained Methodist minister and served in that capacity for 10 years before joining the Evansville College faculty in 1936.

Senior's Schedule Full Next Week

Commencement Dance, Graduation Highlight Weekend Activities

Senior activities planned for the coming week include a picnic next Friday, baccalaureate services the following Sunday, and commencement exercises and dance Monday, June 6.

The senior picnic will be at Burdette Park at 12 noon next Wednesday. The club house is reserved for seniors and guests. There will be dancing, skating, and baseball for entertainment.

Raines To Speak

The baccalaureate services the following Sunday will be conducted at the Coliseum. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Richard C. Raines, Bishop of Methodist Church, Indianapolis area. Others on the program are Dr. Lincoln B. Hale and Dr. Mari Blackburn.

The services will begin with the prelude recital at 7:15 p.m. with Ralph W. Waterman at the organ.

Commencement exercises will be at the Coliseum June 6 at 8 p.m. Dr. Maurice O. Boss, president of Butler University, will give the commencement address entitled, "Democracy in Education." Seniors are required to present themselves in regulation academic dress. Reception for faculty, students, and friends will be after the commencement exercises.

Pierce Is Soloist

The commencement program will consist of the musical prelude with Ralph W. Waterman at the organ, processional march, choir and congregation singing the national anthem, solo by Wilma Dean Pierce, music by the Evansville band and choir, conferring of degrees, choir and congregation singing the Evansville College hymn, benediction, and recessional.

Senior activities will end with the commencement dance Monday, June 6 at the Empire room of the Vendome Hotel from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m., Norman Kniese, class president, has announced.

Juniors Invited

Juniors, seniors, and their guests are invited. Charlie Kroener's orchestra will feature Martie Blackburn. A queen will be crowned to reign over the senior class next year. The four candidates for queen are Karleen Yeager, Castalian; Ruth Nendel, Gamma Epsilon Sigma; and Shirley Goodfred, Theta Sigma. The Independent Student Association had not chosen a candidate at the time of this writing.

Tickets will be on sale for $1.80 per couple in the front hall of the administration building until late Friday afternoon, June 3.

Jim Barnett said, "Unless as many as 90 persons purchase tickets the dance may be called off. At least 115 ticket sales are needed to cover expenses of the dance. The senior class does not have enough money to subsidize the dance."

The senior social committee in charge of the dance and picnic activities consist of Jim Niehaus and Louis Holtmann, co-chairmen, and Harriet Buthod, Bill Stephens, Bonnie Stephens, Betty Berges, Joan Henn, and Sue Goeke.

Senior Committee Plans Activities

Three members of the social committee of the senior class talk over plans for senior events.

Jim Niehaus, left, and Louis Haltmann, right, are co-chairmen of the committee, and Sissy Buthod, center, was named financial adviser for the events.

Kraft Appointed Field Representative And Permanent Alumni Secretary

Clifford Kraft has been appointed the new permanent Alumni Secretary, and Field Representative for Evansville College, President Lincoln B. Hale has announced.

The appointment will be effective as of June 1. Mr. Kraft is now Field Executive for the Boy Scouts of America.

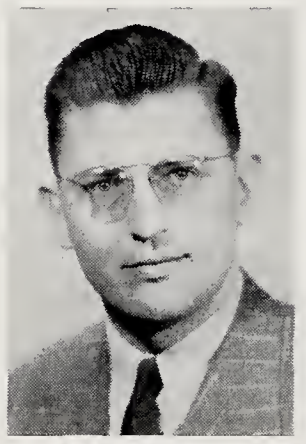
As Alumni Secretary, he will work with the 1500 graduates and 15,000 former students of the college. As Field Representative he will counsel high school seniors and graduates who are planning to enter college.

A graduate of Evansville College in 1947, Mr. Kraft was a member of the Phi Zeta fraternity; president of Alpha Phi Omega, collegiate Boy Scout fraternity, and a member of the Veterans Club and Men's Council.

He earned a letter playing football and was elected campus notable and won the Phi Zeta award during his senior year.

A business administration major, he served in the army medical corps during the recent war.

The Alumni Secretary position has been filled since 1925 by Ralph Olmsted who now gives up these duties to devote all his time to his work as business manager and treasurer of the college.



Cliff Kraft

Mr. Kraft is married and has three children.

Hermann Elected Head Of Engineering Club

John Hermann, junior, was elected president of the Engineering Club for next year, according to Al Jeffers, retiring president. Others elected were Bob Niedermeier, vice president; Don Brannon, secretary; and Ray Kopycki, treasurer.

The newly elected officers were introduced at the Engineering Club's dinner in the Cafeteria, May 18. Guest speaker on this program was Max Lewis, an engineer at Indiana Bell Telephone Co. Jim Love was program chairman.

Officers who have served this year besides Mr. Jeffers are Bill Crowell, vice president, Ken Crook, secretary, and Frank Nelson, treasurer.

The Engineering Club has been active all year in school projects. The Club's latest contribution was $25 to the Memorial Scholarship fund. Mr. Jeffers said that because many of the engineering students are veterans, they felt that this scholarship fund was an exceptionally good project.

Reserves To Sail On Navy's Ships

While many Evansville College students continue their education this summer attending classes, some will be sailing around the world on Naval Reserve summer cruises.

Three ships will set sail on July 24. Two of them, the Des Moines and the Wareester, leave from Newport, Rhode Islands while the Roosevelt sets sail from Norfolk, Virginia.

About 20 per cent of the entire naval reserve personnel at the local base are students at Evansville College. These members attend a meeting once a week, and get a day's wage at what ever rank they hold in the reserve program.

Percy O'Loughlin Elected President of MSM

Percy O'Loughlin was elected president of the Methodist Student Movement at a recent meeting. He will serve next year.

Other officers chosen were: Nancy McCaffrey, vice president; Aileen Hofman, secretary; and Shirley Peters, treasurer.

Dr. E. M. McKown, dean of the college, and Dr. James E. Morlock, dean of men, spoke to the group about next year's plans.

Summer Session Begins June 8

The summer session of courses opens on Wednesday, June 8. Registration is to be completed on that day. Classwork will begin June 9.

Credit for the session is given in quarter hours. A student load is 13 quarter hours. A student must make petition to carry more than this number.

Tuition is $7.50 per quarter hour. The student activity fee will be $5 for students taking more than five hours and $1 for those carrying less.

The session will end August 5. Intersession will last from August 8 to 26. One course can be completed by a student by meeting several hours a day during these three weeks.

Association of Professors To Report on Porker Case

A report by the American Association of University Professors on the dismissal of George F. Parker from the Evansville College faculty nearly a year ago is expected within the next two weeks.

Swimming and Sunning To Suffer During Final Examinations

The final examination schedule for the spring quarter has been announced for Wednesday, June 1, through Friday, June 3, by Dr. Edgar McKown, dean of the college.

Those who have conflicts are to report them to the Dean's Office. All examinations will be written in ink, and paper will be furnished for the examinations. Students must have met all financial obligations due the college before they will be permitted to take the examinations.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thanks to THE CRESCENT for splendid support of campus dramatics.

Still, dramatics does not flourish on the campus. The college has not been a leader in dramatic activity in the city. Why?

Here are some of the answers:

(1) What is called a stage at the college is a combination speaker's and recital platform. There is no overhead, back stage, side stage, or adequate playing space for use is dramatic productions.

(2) Stage over-head light outlets dangle from lightweight drop cords. The switchboard is a panel of noisy toggle switches. There are no light dimmers. There are no usable electrical outlets in the balcony.

(3) There is no direct access from the stage to the balcony working or storage area.

(4) There are no dressing rooms or toilet facilities for actors or crews.

(5) Crew work becomes gruelling drudgery because of the energy and time consumed in overcoming problems due to lack of facilities, poor event scheduling and other lack of administrative coordination and cooperation. Consequently the enthusiasm for dramatic production is stifled.

(6) Courses in acting and play production are in the curriculum. They should not be offered until there is a working area and equipment provided to teach these courses properly.

(7) The College Dean does not understand dramatic production and is reluctant to accept information from qualified sources; therefore, some smothering of dramatics take place there.

(8) Excellent publicity, except for highly subsidized dramatic productions, is a "must." More active support from the College Public Relations Department would help.

Some place else in the college administration dramatics is being smothered. Where? I don't know. Maybe those people who are interested can find out and do something about it.

Evansville College could, and logically should, be the center of dramatics in Evansville and the TriState. It has potential workers and audience. Why doesn't the College accept this challenge, responsibility, and opportunity?

Sincerely,
MRS. KENNETH TAYLOR

Congratulations!

Graduates of the Class of '49 — Our sincere best wishes to each one of you for success in the next phase of your life.

Quarter Plan Benefits, Too

In answer to last week's editorial berating the quarters system, it is true that many students dislike the plan, but these students who say they dislike it so much have overlooked the beneficial aspects of the plan.

We have now had almost a full school year in which to compare the quarter plan to the semester plan, and as long as it is here to stay, the merits of the system warrant investigation. Snap judgements, always made when something new is introduced, deserve reconsideration.

Under the quarter plan the student's program can be accelerated, helping him to get his degree in the shortest possible time. And for the veteran who must contend with the amount of time left on his G.I. Bill, this can mean the difference in obtaining a sheepskin or not.

There are more chances to enter school under the quarter system, when the school year is divided into four parts, and also, there are these same opportunities to leave school without any loss of credit. In the case of the student who must leave school because of illness, family, or work, he can quit in December, March, June, or August, and in the same manner he can re-enter school.

This advantage has also been illustrated in another way during the school year. A number of seniors in the field of education completed their requirements in December and March and were able to get teaching positions immediately.

Admittedly, this was done by former E.C. graduates who went to school under the semester system, but the chances for transition from the classroom as the student to the classroom as the teacher were not as frequent.

If nothing else was accomplished by the quarter system, the very fact that scholastic averages have improved should be enough to substantiate the plan.

There have been more students on the Dean's List this year than last, even though there were more students enrolled last year, and there have been fewer men and women on probation this year.

Even though the majority of the faculty members voted in favor of the quarter system before it was changed, many of them are constantly challenging it openly in their classrooms. They often use it as an excuse for not having time to cover all their classwork. Such excuses are poor and show a weakness in the teacher. These open objections from the teachers constantly keep the students agitated with the quarter system.

It must be admitted that the quarter system causes extra administrative work on the part of all concerned, but considering both sides of the question the quarter system has proved its value over the semester system and should not under any circumstances be changed.

This is the last in the series of editorials published by THE CRESCENT on controversial subjects. THE CRESSCENT has attempted to present both sides of the questions with the hope that intelligent consideration would be given the subject by the reader.

Strickler Has Spent 28 Years In Chemistry Department

Dr. Alvin Strickler, head of the chemistry department, is shown adjusting the balancing scales in his private laboratry adjoining his office in the Engineering-Science Building.

By KURT KLUGER

Evansville College was just a babe in arms when Dr. Alvin Strickler arrived fresh from the University of Wisconsin to head the chemistry department in 1921. Since then he has watched the college grow to the present expansions and through his efforts has seen the chemistry department sprout from a single professor to a skilled staff equipped with the latest modern teaching methods and equipment.

Dr. Strickler is a graduate of Michigan State Normal College where he obtained his A.B. degree in three years and until 1918 was assistant professor of chemistry. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees at the University of Michigan. After World War I Dr. Strickler was assistant chief chemist for the National Biscuit Company in New York. He received his Ph.D. at the University of Wisconsin where he was an instructor until he came to Evansville College.

Taught 21 Years

For 21 straight years Dr. Strickler taught at Evansville College, and in 1942 entered the service. He spent most of his time in San Bernardino as a staff officer detailed for a time to chemical warfare. Dr. Strickler was the only member of the Evansville College faculty who entered the armed forces during the war. He entered on his fifty-second birthday.

In 1946 he was honorably discharged from the air corps and promptly came back to the campus to resume duties as the chemistry department head.

Dr. Strickler has been listed in the American Men of Science since 1922 and in that year was made a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He has been a fellow in the American Institute of Chemists since 1926 and is listed in Who's Who in American Education, and Who's Who in the Central States. Two text books have been authored by him for general and organic chemistry.

Sponsor of Philo Fraternity

Dr. Strickler was a member and sponsor of Pi Epsilon Phi fraternity for 15 years and was one of the initiators of the reorganization of the fraternity from a literary society to a social fraternity.

Does Police Work

His hobby is police work, and from 1930 until 1936 he conducted police training. He does consulting work in analytical chemistry, and has done many years of research of electrodecimals and teaching methods in chemistry. Each time a new cooperative general chemistry test is issued by the American Chemical Society, Dr. Strickler assists in writing the test.

In all, Dr. Strickler has spent some 28 years in definite contact with Evansville College and surely has a record of a superior professor, an excellent organizor, and a pleasing, definite personality that goes well with a man who can call his life a success.

Did You Know - - -

Jo Ann James

Few students realize how little they really know concerning "general knowledge" about the college. They may be asked by an outsider, "How many students are there enrolled at E. C.?" or "Daughter, since I'm letting you go to that college, what're your chances of gettin' a man?"

Not many students can answer the questions with accuracy. The following facts should aid in solution of these and similar queries about some "general things" at E. C.

There are exactly 1444 students enrolled in day college, 752 of whom are veterans. The junior class is the largest, with a figure of 354. There are only two more freshman than sophomores in the college, and seniors number 345.

Businessmen of Evansville might be interested to know that 483 students enrolled are doing full or part time work in addition to their class schedules.

According to latest reports there are 26 couples living in the veteran's housing units on campus, and by actual count, 34 children of vets reside there also. Forty applications for vacant units are still on file with the college.

To the unmarried students who are interested in changing their status here are the latest statistics on male-female ratios in the college. According to enrollment figures, there are 3¼ men to every woman at E.C. However, (and here comes the catch) 393 male and 21 female students are married. The ratio of unmarrieds therefore, comes to about 2⅓ men to every woman. One freshman girl was heard to remark—"I've found my ⅓, now where're the two whole ones?"

Are you one of the persons who has been wondering about the origin of the bleachers used occasionally back on the practice field and out front on May Day? Did you know that they belonged to the college, were purchased two years ago, and have a seating capacity of 1400? Other bleachers used in the Armory for games are borrowed from the public schools.

Did you know that E.C. has 34 office employees? This does not include students working as aids to profs or departments. The school also employs 12 custodians and five maintenance men.

Did you have any idea that the day college will collect approximately $505,000 in tuition this year (not including the $12.50 student activity fee,) or (getting technical) that electricity will cost the college aproximately $6500 a year and water $750?

Perhaps of most interest to all, however, will be the statement: After today, only one more day of classes in addition to the three days of finals, with 107 days of vacation coming up!

Double Sport Attraction Tomorrow

From the Press Box

by Bill Woods

This column received a suggestion the other day that seems like a very good one from the standpoint of adding something to the football season for next fall. The idea was to have a touch football game between the organized and unorganized women on campus, possibly in connection with the Homecoming activities.

There would of course have to be a lot of planning for such a venture, and the cooperation of all the women on campus would be essential. Some of the organizations on campus have complained at times that they do not receive enough publicity, and this would certainly be a golden opportunity for them to acquire a large amount of news space, as well as an afternoon of novel entertainment.

Campus-wide knowledge of intramural athletics is confined almost entirely to those events held for the men of the school, and if the sororities and independent women will cooperate on a plan for a football game it will probably create a lot of interest in their activities.

An ideal time for the game seems to be sometime during the week of Homecoming, and should help with the plan to make this year's event the biggest in the history of the school.

With this issue, the work of editing a sports page comes to a screeching halt. For some, it means a summer job, for others a workout in summer school, and there may be a few fortunate souls that intend to do nothing but loaf until the fall quarter starts. However, there is always something to do around the fair city of Evansville.

For any that might be uninformed, there is a golf course located at Mesker Park, two driving ranges, numerous miniature golf courses, swimming pools, riding stables, and several other places for summer

Ohio Valley Trackmen To Meet at Enlow

Evansville College will be host team for the first Ohio Valley Conference track meet tomorrow. The meet will last all day with the trials in the afternoon and the finals under the lights at Enlow Field.

The Evansville thinclads finished second last Saturday in a triangular meet with Louisville and Western. Louisville won the meet piling up 92½ points on eleven blue ribbons out of fourteen events. The Aces posted an even 36 points while Western was last with 22½.

Barnett Beaten

Don Noel, Louisville's two miler, ran the long race in 9:59, the best time posted this season in that event in the Ohio Valley Conference. Noel beat Evansville's Bob Barnett by half a lap.

The Aces garnered two first places in the meet, one on the track and one on the field. Big Frank Lutz, football tackle, heaved the shot put 43 feet, 7½ inches, and Harlan Brooks, ex Lincoln flash, won the high hurdles in 17 seconds.

All Schools to Enter

All eight conference schools will participate in the meet tomorrow afternoon. Members of the conference include: Louisville, Murray State, Western Kentucky, Tennessee Tech, Morehead, Marshall and Eastern.

Arad McCutchan, track coach, plans to get his points from Lutz and Brooks as usual, with support from Bob Barnett, in the two mile, Jerry Canterbury in the mile run, Charlie Lindam and Lemois Wires in the hurdles, and Hal Southwood in the pole vault.

Aces Meet Louisville In Last Home Game

Louisville University brings its baseball nine here tomorrow for the last home game of the season at 1:30 p.m. at Bosse Field.

The Cards, who beat the Aces at Louisville earlier this year, 8-6, bring Evansville's conference play to an end for this spring. Only one other tilt remains on the schedule, a road game with Indiana State next Tuesday. The Aces also bowed to Indiana State earlier, 8-4.

Hoosiers Squeeze By

Indiana University, 11-0 early season conquerors of Evansville, swept two games from the Aces last week on successive days, 7-6 and 4-3. The Aces, playing at Bloomington, out hit the Hoosiers in both games, but were beaten by the narrowest of margins.

In the opener on Tuesday, May 17, Evansville battered three Indiana pitchers for 11 hits, including home runs by Paul Schmidt, Joe Unfried, and Marv Stofft. Two unearned runs off Joe Hafele in the eighth inning provided the winning runs for the Hoosiers. Harold Stubbs, the Aces leading hitter, continued his hot stick work with three for four including a double.

Led Twice

The Aces led twice during the course of nine innings. Schmidt's homer gave Evansville a 1-0 lead in the first and Stofft's two-run homer forged the Aces ahead in the eighth.

A ninth-inning pinch single with the bases loaded and two out gave the Hoosiers the victory in the second game, on Wednesday. The Aces had knotted the count in the top of the ninth. Marvin Stofft, who relieved Lamont Stieler for Evansville in the ninth, was the losing pitcher.

Hallinan Elected President of WAA; 'Sporty' Coeds Close Big Season

By SUE DANNETTELL

With the election of Joan Hallinan to serve as president of the Women's Athletic Association for next year, another season of sports closes for the athletically interested women of Evansville College.

Highlights of the year's activities were a volleyball tournament, a basketball tourney, and a Women's Bowling League, sponsored by the association.

Competition in these events was furnished by the three sororities, Castalian, Gamma Epsilon Sigma, Theta Sigma; Gamma Delta, freshmen sorority; the Independent students and WAA members.

Captained by Joanne Englebert, a smooth player around the volleyball nets, the Theta floored an unbeatable volleyball team, winning games from the Gamma Delts, Independents and finally the Castys to capture the title.

During the basketball season the Independents won the Inter-society crown by defeating the Sigs and Castys.

Two names, Casty and WAA stood out above all others in the Women's Bowling League. With the exception of one week during the 24 week season, one of the two teams, was on top of the heap or they were tied for the lead.

For ten successive weeks during the first half of play, the Castys and WAA were tied for high honors. Finally, the Castys pulled a game ahead of the WAA, but then lost two games to them in the final round of play, leaving the WAA as sole holders of the crown.

In the second half the Castys came from the bottom of the ladder to tie the WAA for the number one spot and force a playoff which they won, to take the second half title.

Two reasons the Castys and WAA had consistent winners this year were Louise Kiely and Rovella Hinton, two topnotch bowlers. Hinton, WAA captain, had the highest individual average of 140 pins and Kiely, Casty captain was right behind her with a 139 average.

Sponsoring all WAA activities is Miss Ida Steiler, associate professor of Physical Education, and a good "sport" in every sense of the word.

Golf Team Ends Play With Match Tuesday

The Purple Ace golf squad, which has been beaten only once in dual matches this season, will close out play for the year with two meets in the next five days.

1948 Sport Season Favorable to Aces

By BOB BAMMER

Following is a brief summary and some highlights of the past football and basketball seasons.

The 1948 football season was, overall, a good season for the Aces.

Logel Waltzes to Win

They won five and lost three in the regular season and then defeated Missouri Valley in the post season Refrigerator Bowl game. One of the thrilling highlights of the season was in the game with Indiana State when Dick Conterman flipped a pass to Gene Logel in the last few seconds and Logel waltzed into the end-zone to save the game.

And how can we forget the combination slug-fest and football game with Murray State? Things got pretty rough in that one. The Aces beat Western Ky., Ottawa University, Indiana State, University of Louisville, Eastern Ky., State, and Missouri Valley.

Gerhardt Awarded

They lost some heartbreakers, though, to Butler University, by one point and Murray State by two points – we won't mention the Chattanooga game. Bob Gerhardt received the Kiwanis Award for the season.

The Aces basketball squad just about broke even for the season, winning 13 and losing 12. They played 22 games during the regular season, and participated in two tournaments. They played two games in the Jay Cee tourney, and one game in the OVC tourney.

Provision Is Made For Study Abroad

Various scholarships to foreign schools are available to Evansville College students and graduates, E. M. McKown, dean of the college, has announced.

The most highly regarded of these offers are the Rhodes Scholarships. Thirty-two scholarships are awarded annually to students in the U.S. for one or two years study at Oxford University in England.

To be eligible a candidate must be a male citizen, unmarried, between the ages of 19 and 25, and must be a student of at least junior standing. The award is for approximately $1400.

There are also provisions for free study abroad under the Fullbright Act, but these awards are for graduate students only. Full particulars may be obtained from Dean McKown.

Foreign Students Return in Fall

A letter has arrived informing Everett Walker, director of student personnel services, that two foreign students will reenter Evansville College for the fall term.

Akiva and Amelia Goffer, husband and wife, former students here were called back to Tel-Aviv, Israel, their homeland (recently recognized as an independent government), in May, 1948, to assist in the war effort there. They had studied here for several months before going back.

Mr. Walker maintained correspondence with Mr. and Mrs. Goffer while they were away. Mr. Goffer was a member of the Tel-Aviv army and Mrs. Goffer was a secretary for the Ministry of War. They combined their efforts thus in an effort to better aid the Israelie government in the war with the Arabs and Trans-Jordan.

While here Mr. Goffer was following a law course and Mrs. Goffer was studying English. They will presumably follow the same course upon returning in the fall.

Morton Given Fellowship In Physics at Institute

Lester Morton, senior at Evansville College, has been granted a graduate fellowship in physics at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, Prof. James Sears, head of the physics department, announced recently.

Following his graduation from Evansville College in June, Mr. Morton plans to do research work in metals at low temperatures at Rice Institute and to study toward a master's and a doctor's degree.

Mr. Morton has made an unusual scholastic record during his four years at Evansville College. He has never missed being cited on the Dean's List for ontstanding grades during his entire college career.

He is a member of Phi Beta Chi, natural science fraternity, the Physics club, and was recently elected to membership in Sigma Pi Sigma, national honorary physics society.

Sorority Spring Dance To Be in Gold Room

The Theta Sigma Spring Formal will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. tomorrow night in the Gold Room of the Hotel McCurdy.

George Fountain's orchestra will play for the dance, known as the "Rose Lane Frolic."

Evelyn Ayers, junior, is chairman of the dance. Committee chairmen are Carolyn Miller, decorations; Martha Pigman, chaperones; Betty Berges, boutonnieres; Jean Marshall and Dorothy Golightly, place and service; Betty Wood, invitations; and Mickey Manchette, publicity.

New officers of the sorority will be introduced during the intermission.

Alpha Phi Omega Elects Officers

Fred Pearcy, junior, was elected president of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, for the fall quarter when the fraternity met Thursday, May 19. Mr. Pearcy will replace Bob Rideout, sophomore, in the office.

Other officers elected were Tom Boston, sophomore, vice president; Martin Hutchings, freshman, secretary; Jack Humphrey, sophomore, treasurer; Paul Nichols, freshman, historian; and Harold Clark, sophomore, chaplain. Mr. Rideout was elected Sergeant at Arms for the fall quarter.

New pledges were installed Wednesday night in the Administration building. Pledging to Alpha Phi Omega this quarter are Bob Ahrens, Don DeCavitte and Bob Sakel, juniors.

The fraternity is planning a party for departing senior members for Friday, June 3. Mr. Rideout is in charge of arrangements for the party. He will be assisted by Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Boston.

Walker To Head Study Of College Drop-Outs

Everette Walker, director of student personnel services, is chairman of a study committee recently organized to study drop-outs in the 33 colleges of Indiana.

Colleges represented on the committee are Wabash, Purdue, Indiana State, Notre Dame, and Evansville.

First questionnaires will be sent out June 15. The two kinds of drop-outs to be considered are those during a session, semester or quarter, and those at the end of a session. Dismissals from college are not to be included in the study.

Colleges and universities which have conducted studies of their own institutions are being asked to submit the results to the committee.

Welfare Chairman Lists Expenses, Year's Income

Gene Cebula, chairman of the Welfare Committee, has released a report listing the committee's income and expenditures for the past school year.

On Sept. 1 the committee had $4,416.39 on hand, $2,216.39 in unexpended cash, and $2,200 reserve for the tennis courts, the report shows. In addition, student fees for the year brought in $3,729.37, bringing the total income to $8,145.76.

The report broke down the year's expenditures as follows: Student aid, $866.05; freshman X-rays, $42; clerical expense, $20.02; Health Center medication and salary, $1,090.69, for a total expenditure of $2,018.76.

At the present time, the committee treasury shows a balance of $6,127, with $3,927 in unexpended cash and $2,200 from the reserve for the tennis courts.

The committee has set aside the money for the tennis courts with the provision that the college furnish an equal amount by May of 1950.

The report states that the Health Center, inaugurated in September, provided service for 721 students during the year. Eighteen students received student aid from the Welfare Committee.

Students To Present Institute June 13-17

Student Federalist Institute, designed to prepare high school and college students for leadership in the world government movement, will meet June 13-17 at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

The institute is sponsored by the Carleton Student Federalists. Purpose of the meeting, according to Edgar H. Bremer, president of the organization, is to consider the problems of world government and to use understanding of these problems as a basis for effective practical action.

The program will include study of world government, discussion, and informal meetings with leaders of the world government movement.

Doherty, Leich, Werking Teach Students Modern Languages

Dr. F. Woody Werking, head of the department of modern languages, is placing a record on the zenith demonstrator to aid Edwin McClure, sophomore; Pat Wingeard, sophomore; and Ann Zimmerman, sophomore, in their study of German.

By KURT KLUGER

With German, French, and Spanish as core subjects, the modern language department in addition attempts to satisfy specific needs of groups of students as evidenced by Greek and Latin derivities classes, music students, and other students interested in phonetic pronunciation of German, French, and Italian.

The department is composed of three instructors, Gertrude Leich, assistant professor, Thomas Doherty, assistant professor, and F. Woody Werking, associate professor and department head.

Introdnces Courses

Miss Leich instructs students in Spanish. She obtained her M.A. degree in Spanish from the University of Mexico in Mexico City, her A.B. at St. Mary of the Woods College. She came to Evansville College in 1941. She is a native of Colorado, but has lived in Evansville for several years. She is the faculty sponsor of the Newman Club. Miss Leich will introduce two new courses in Spanish in the fall quarter of the next school year. They are Spanish Syntax and Spanish Commercial Correspondence.

Mr. Doherty received his A.B. at Westminster College in Fulton, Missouri, and his M.A. at Middleberry College located in Vermont. He is an instructor of Spanish and French, but has resigned to study for his Ph.D. next year at the Sorbonne in Paris, France.

Dr. Werking did his postgraduate work at the University of Wisconsin, Ohio State, University of Mexico, University of Nancy in France, and the University of Frankfurt am Main in Germany. He instructs students in German, French, Spanish, Italian pronunciation, and Greek and Latin terminology. He recently has been appointed a member of the board of directors of the Evansville Public Museum as the head of the department of archives.

To Buy Recorder

In the coming year, the modern language department will combine with the department of English to buy a disc recorder for students to note their progress.

This department also has acquired Army Student Training Program records in French, Italian, German, and Spanish for the Evening College. This is a no credit course but offers a listening hour of French and German by osmosis.

Berning Elected BAK President

Jack Berning, junior, was elected president of Beta Alpha Kappa, business administration club, at a meeting in the cafeteria May 16, Harry Goldblatt, current president of the club has announced.

Hobert Lutz, sophomore, was elected vice president, and Dorothy Dailey, junior, will be secretary next year. Charles Studer, sophomore, was re-elected treasurer of the club.

The newly elected officers will start their terms in their respective offices this fall.

Robert Million, special agent for the Northwestern Mutual Insurance Company, was speaker at the meeting. Mr. Million's topic was "Insurance as a Vocation."
